

Yeakley Heads Ag Mag

Gary Yeakley, AgJ Jr, (left) was appointed the 1957 Agriculture Magazine editor yesterday in an Agriculture Council meeting.

Yeakley will replace Clayton Herman, AgJ Sr, (right) who is the 1956 editor, and whose magazines won high national ratings in a contest for all agriculture magazines.

The magazine was second in presentation of technical material, second in general excellence, second on its cover, and fourth in the presentation of articles of interest to women.

"I'm sure tickled to get the job, and plan to give it all I've got," Yeakley said.

Yeakley has been layout editor on his high school paper, editor of his fraternity newspaper, has two semesters on the Ag Mag reporting staff, one semester on its business staff, and one semester as assistant editor.

Sale of Magazines Discussed As Possible Student Industry

Student sales of magazines was discussed as a possible student money-maker by the Campus Industrial Development committee yesterday. The committee is exploring the possibility of getting all of some publication's subscriptions in Manhattan.

If this could be done, 10 or 15 salesmen would be hired to sell subscriptions and would work under the campus committee.

The salesmen would carry identification cards to show the backing of the chamber of commerce, campus industries committee, and the College for the door-to-door selling.

The committee plans to survey architects and interior decorators in some of the larger Kansas towns and in Denver to check their feeling toward KS industry. They will try to find out just how interested people are in commercial hand weaving.

The committee decided that the industry will produce linen, cotton and rayon products, and any special orders received.

The industry committee named a fifth subcommittee member yesterday. She is Caroline Harkins, TJ Soph.

New Lift Week Name Is 'Festival of Faiths'

The Religious Coordinating council voted last night to officially change the name of Lift Week, a week of religious emphasis, to "Festival of Faiths." It will be February 17-23.

The council also voted to invite seven clergymen and one layman to participate in the Festival of Faiths activities.

Those to be invited are: Dr. Louis Binstock, Jewish, Chicago; the Rev. Richard Smith, Roman Catholic, St. Marys; Dr. Kenneth I. Brown, Baptist, St. Louis; Dr. Rex Knowles, Presbyterian, Lincoln, Neb.

Dr. William Pollard, Episcopal, Oak Ridge, Tenn.; and Dr. Will Menninger, layman, Topeka. Either Rabbi Wolfgang Hamburger or Rabbi Louis J. Cashdan also will be invited. Both are Jewish and are from Kansas City.

The seventh clergyman will be selected later this week to represent one of the smaller religious groups on campus.

Campus Bright Under Yule Light

Decorating the Union and lighting Christmas trees will highlight campus projects next week.

Union committee and subcommittee chairmen started last night by decorating the windows of the Union at a decorating party.

During a coffee hour next Monday in the Union, free punch and cookies will be served.

The theme of the party will be "Trim a Limb." President and Mrs. McCain will be present, and each sorority and fraternity is donating an original ornament for the tree. They will be used to trim a Christmas tree for Mrs. McCain.

Carols will be sung at the coffee hour with Duncan Erickson, Ar 03, accompanying on the piano.

An all-campus Christmas party will be held Thursday at the Union. It will include readings in the little theater, caroling, and coffee and cookies.

Again this year cheery Christmas lights will be seen blazing across the campus, as the big pine tree located at the southeast corner of Eisenhower hall is trimmed with colored lights.

The tree will be trimmed this week end or the first of next week. The cost of putting up the lights and taking them down will be about $75, according to the physical plant office.

Last year the giant tree was decorated for the first time. Strings of bulbs were purchased with money donated by the sororities, fraternities, and women's dorms.

"DECK THE HALLS"—This time it is the Union front stairwell. These animated silhouettes, actually girls, painted until late last night to complete the Christmasy decorations on the glass enclosure.

MU Student Paper Praises Kansan' Board for Courage

BLOWS WERE struck for and against freedom of the press this week at the University of Kansas. Freedom suffered.

The student governing board of the Daily Kansan voted Tuesday to let it take editorial stands of political issues. The vote was 16-4 to amend a provision of the board's constitution which prohibited discussion in the paper.

BURTON W. MARVIN, dean of journalism and public information at KU, vetoed the policy.

Marvin commented: "The citizens of Kansas would assume immediately that the present rule was being removed for a reason—that those interested in seeing it removed intended to mount some sort of political attack.

"I FEEL there is no such motive, but I am convinced this motive would be read into the action."

There seems to be a fallacy in the dean's reasoning.

Democracy is based on the freedom to hold elected officials and those seeking office accountable to the public. This is a basic responsibility of the newspapers. It cannot be carried out without the power to express opinions—within the limits of libel, slander and good taste.

IN ANSWER to a recent censure resolution passed by the student government council at the University of Michigan against the Michigan Daily, the Daily stated in its November 18 issue:

"The right of the press to comment objectively and editorialize responsibly on the actions, ideas and stands of any individuals public organization or government has always been a tenet of democracy."

IN REGARD to student elections, the paper went on to say:

"The Daily not only has the right, but a responsibility, to express its opinion in student government elections if it is to fulfill its function in the community of commenting about the stimulating thinking on topics of concern to the University."

IF THE motive behind the KU students' action was an intention to launch a political attack, is this reason for fear?

The "citizens of Kansas" and all citizens of a democracy have much greater cause for fear when communications media are not allowed to comment on the actions of those who exercise control over so many facts of their daily life.

CONGRATULATIONS TO the students who realized the unfairness of the policy and attempted to change it. We are sorry to see their efforts rendered ineffective.

Dean Howe Expects Upward Trend To Continue in Grad School Enrollment

By JIM BELL

An upward trend in the enrollment of the graduate school at K-State started about two years ago, according to Harold Howe, graduate school dean.

Dean Howe said that he expected the trend to continue at an accelerated rate because of the greater number of bachelors degrees being granted.

Kansas State has 444 graduate students this fall, compared to the 396 enrolled last fall. This represents an increase of 12 per cent.

A contributing factor in the increase of grad students, Howe pointed out, is the addition of fields in which M.S. and Ph.D. degrees are offered.

Last week the College announced that it was offering work toward the Ph.D. in both mechanical engineering and agricultural economics. This brings the number of fields in which Ph.D. degrees are offered to 15.

Kansas State has conferred more advanced degrees in the last 11 years than in the previous 75. Thirty Ph.D.'s—more than were granted in the first 17 years of the program—were earned in 1956.

Just 29 Ph.D. degrees were conferred before 1950, and there have been 120 since then. Advanced degrees totaled 1,718 since 1945, as compared to 1,667 earned between 1868 and 1945.

Graduate work was first offered at K-State in 1868. The first graduate degree was conferred in 1871, but only 17 master's degrees were conferred before 1886—some of these were honorary.

'Singing the Blues' Again In First on Local Hit List

"SINGING THE BLUES" has picked up in popularity to take the number one position according to record sales in Manhattan. "Love Me Tender" is still selling and is the number two song of the week. Bill Doggett has two singles in the 10 best selling records.

The 10 top records in Manhattan this week are:

1. "Singing the Blues," Guy Mitchell
2. "Love Me Tender," Elvis Presley
3. "Green Door," Jim Lowe
4. "True Love," Jane Powell
5. "Honky Tonk," Bill Doggett
6. "Blueberry Hill," Fats Domino
7. "You'll Never Never Know," The Platters
8. "Slow Walk," Bill Doggett
9. "Baby Doll," Andy Williams
10. "Friendly Persuasion," Pat Boone

NOW THAT the Yule season has arrived, Christmas albums are selling fast. Several years ago not very many recording artists were making Christmas albums but now everyone from Fred Waring to Spike Jones is coming out with Christmas records.

Two unusual Christmas albums are "The Littlest Angel" with Loretta Young and "The Christmas Story" with Jack Webb, star of "Dragnet." Victor Young conducts his orchestra and the Kenneth Darby Choir for "The Littlest Angel," a favorite Christmas story.

"O, TANNENBAUM (Christmas on the Rhine)" was recorded in Germany. The carols are sung by a German mixed chorus and the orchestra is under the direction of Werner Miller.

"Merry Christmas from Jackie Gleason" stays in Gleason tradition with light songs such as "I'll Be Home for Christmas," "Christmas in Paris," "I've Got My Love to Keep Me Warm," "Snowfall," "By the Fireside," "Happy Holiday," and "Story of a Starry Night."

THE FOUR ACES sing "White Christmas," "The Christmas Song," "Silver Bells," "O Little Town of Bethlehem," "Joy to the World," and "Hark! the Herald Angels Sing," in their new album, "A Merry Christmas with the Four Aces."

On the instrumental side Le Roy Anderson has an album out called "Christmas Carols." He conducts his orchestra on such songs as "The Wassail Song," "I Saw Three Ships," "March of the Kings," "From Heaven High I Come to You," and "The Coventry Carol."

"HAVE YOURSELF a Merry Christmas" is one of the songs Joni James sings in her album, "Merry Christmas from Joni." Other songs sung by Joni are "Christmas and You," "The First Noel," "O Holy Night," "Silent Night," "White Christmas," and "I'll Be Home for Christmas."

"Christmas Holiday for Romance" is a new idea carried out by Stanley Black and his orchestra. Some of the "romantic" songs are "I Saw Mommy Kissing Santa Claus," "Cinderella Stay in My Arms," "Christmas Island," "Christmas Alphabet," "Lullaby," and "Dreaming."

FRED WARING and the Pennsylvanians sing the title of their new album, "Twas the Night Before Christmas," while singing gayer Christmas songs such as "Jingle Bells," "Santa Claus Is Comin' to Town," and "Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer." On the flip side, more religious songs are sung such as "Beautiful Saviour," and "Oh, Gathering Clouds."

Other Christmas albums just released headline the Voices of Walter Shumann, the Ray Charles Singers, the Robert Shaw Chorale, Liberace, David Rose and his orchestra, and Spike Jones.

Alum Meetings Are Featured At Cage Battles

Kansas State alumni will meet in Minneapolis, Minn., and Iowa City, Iowa, next week in conjunction with K-State basketball games.

Thursday noon, December 20, the Wildcat basketball squad and coaches will meet at the Nicolett hotel in Minneapolis with alums from that region. The Cats and Minnesota tangle in a basketball game that night.

Friday evening at Iowa City, the squad and coaches will meet with alums at Yocum's restaurant. The Iowa-Kansas State game will be played Saturday.

Ernie Barrett, assistant alumni secretary, will represent the alumni association at the dinners. Players, coaches, and prominent alumni will be introduced.

Cats' Unbeaten Slate on Line Against Hoosiers Tomorrow

The sternest test of the young season faces the K-State Wildcats Saturday night as Indiana invades Ahearn Field House in a battle to remain unbeaten. Tipoff is at 7:30 p.m.

The Wildcats have been nationally ranked by all news services on the strength of their three successive wins. The Cats topped Houston 97-78 in the opener, beat Texas Tech 90-84 on the Texas court, and last Saturday dropped Drake, 90-41.

Indiana is also sporting a perfect record for the season with victories over Valparaiso, Southern Illinois, and Butler. All three of the games have been played in Bloomington. The K-State game will be the first road contest for the Hoosiers.

New Wildcat records have been set in each of the first three games this season. Against Houston, the Cats pushed in 97 points for a new record against a non-conference foe.

The 61-point outburst against Texas Tech in the first half also set a new mark, and in the Drake game, Jack Parr grabbed 26 rebounds for the third record.

The 26 rebounds by Parr broke a record set in 1953 by all-American Dick Knostman against Oklahoma.

The K-State starting unit indicates the 92.3 points per game average the Cats boast this season. All five have averages in the double figures.

Bob Boozer, sophomore forward, leads the team with a 20.3 average. Hayden Abbott, the other forward, is scoring an average of 11 points a game, and Parr has an 18.7 percentage.

The two guards, Eddie Wallace and Roy DeWitz, have 12 and 18.7 average.

The big man in the Indiana watched Indiana drop Butler last Monday and reported, "there is little question but we will get our stiffest test of the season against Indiana. They have a fast running ball club."

Winter said the Cats have shown fair improvement so far and that the game the Cats played against

Wildcat Coach Tex Winter

Drake was by far the best performance of the year.

"We will be able to find out a lot of things about ourselves after we meet Indiana," he said.

Listed among Indiana's top assets this season is speed. Coach McCracken has said that Indiana "has the fastest team since 1951."

This will be the last home game for the Cats until January 14, when Missouri university will battle in Ahearn Field House.

. . . Finals Tuesday

Stadium, Speedsters, Alphas, Delt's Win

West Stadium and the Speedsters advanced to the semi-finals in the independent division and the Sig Alpha's and Delt's moved into the finals in the fraternity division of the intramural basketball tournament Thursday night.

The Delt's advanced to the finals in the Fraternity division, to be played Tuesday night, by dropping the Kappa Sigs, 25-23. The Sig Alpha's topped Sigma Chi, 33-25.

The independent division featured two close games with West Stadium taking a 19-18 thriller from the Rebels while the speedsters topped the Old Timers, 28-26, in a double overtime.

West Stadium meets the YMCA and the Speedsters play the House of Williams tonight in the semi-finals of the independent division with both games starting at 7 p.m. on the east and west courts respectively.

The finals in the independent division will be played Tuesday in the Field House with game time set for 7 p.m. The fraternity finals will follow.

John Solmos got 14 points to lead West Stadium in the scoring column. The Rebels held a 16-14 lead at intermission but could score only two points in the final half.

Robert Springer paced the Speedsters to a two-overtime victory over the Old Timers in the other independent contest.

Springer got 12 points to lead the scoring for the winners while Don Hayes scored 12 points for the Old Timers. The Old Timers held a 12-5 lead at halftime.

Arnold Droge scored 18 points, 12 of them in the first half, to give the Sig Alpha's a 33-25 victory over Sigma Chi in one of the fraternity division semi-final games. The Sig Alpha's held a 21-16 lead at half-time. Jim Shield had eight points to lead Sigma Chi.

Delta Tau Delta led all the way in the other fraternity division game to take a 25-23 decision from the Kappa Sig's.

George Rood was the high point man for the victors with 12 points with Jerry Moore scoring 5 points to top Kappa Sig scoring. The Delt's held a 14-10 lead at intermission.

Intramurals director Frank Myers also reminded both the fraternities and independents of the free throw contest to be held in the field house on Wednesday, December 19.

RIP IT UP—All hooked up fighting for the ball are left, Chuck Downing, Kappa Sigma, and Bill Patton, Delta Tau Delta. Patton finally came up with the ball and the Delt's came up with the win, 25-23. The win put them into the finals Tuesday night against the Sig Alpha's. The Delt's held a 14-10 lead at intermission and came back to score 11 points in the second half but the Kappa Sig's got 13 points to almost pull the game out of the fire. George Rood was the big gun for the Delt's with 12 points.

Hero of Flatbush Gets Bums Rush

By UNITED PRESS

New York—Jackie Robinson, one of the greatest heroes in Brooklyn Dodger history, was traded to the New York Giants today for pitcher Dick Littlefield and an undisclosed sum of cash estimated at $50,000.

Giant Manager Bill Rigney said he was "elated." He announced that the greying 36-year-old Robinson will play first base for the Giants next season.

A Giant spokesman revealed that President Horace Stoneham of the Giants and Walter O'Malley of the Dodgers "closed the deal" at the recent major league meeting in Chicago, but the announcement was withheld because the executives wanted to reveal the news to the players first.

Robinson, first of his race to play major league baseball, thus will bring his fiery talents to the team against which he battled hardest during his spectacular career. A star performer for the Dodgers since 1947, Robinson carried on a constant feud with former Giant Manager Leo Durocher and always seemed to play his best against the Giants.

"We always regarded Robinson as the 'heart' of the Dodgers," the Giant spokesman said. "We're delighted to have him."

Leadership School Set For KS Organizations

A leadership training school has been organized and put into operation by a committee of 11 students from campus organizations, according to Joe Kashner, PrV Soph.

The school is to develop potential campus leaders from among underclass students, to provide training for present leaders, and to work toward the improvement of overall campus activities and government. Present campus leaders are urged to attend.

The school will consist of 10 weekly meetings during the spring semester. The first meeting will be on February 2 in conjunction with a Student Government association-leadership day sponsored by the Student Council.

Enrollment in the school will be limited to 100 students. All campus organizations have been encouraged to send representatives.

Subcommittees appointed to work out the details of the school are Becky Culpepper, EEd Jr, main speakers; Vash Rumph, AH Sr, discussion leaders; Neil Scott, Zoo Jr, administration relations; Joe Kashner, PrV Soph, public relations; Dwight Bennett, Ar 02, membership; and Jim Keating, FT Sr, finance.

Art Club Offering 'Slim-Jim' Cards For Christmas

"Slim-jim" Christmas cards have been added to the types of cards being sold in the main hall of Anderson by the Art club.

A Christmas tree design in green on a white background is featured on one of the new cards, and a snowflake design of turquoise on white is on the other.

The two designs which went on sale earlier are of acrobatic clowns of yellow on a red background and a royal blue Bethlehem scene with the words "Peace on Earth." Members of the art club designed them.

Promenaders

Promenaders, the College square dance club, will have a Christmas party next Monday. Those wishing to attend should contact Hugh Schantz, VM Fr, or Pat Clary, TJ Jr, before Saturday noon.

Integrity Party

The executive council of the Integrity party has named four new officers for the coming year: Jim Shane, His Jr, vice-president; Barbara Ericson, BA Jr, secretary; Kay Eplee, BA Soph, treasurer; and Edward Kocher, AH Sr, publicity director.

Ag Econ Club

Duane Johnson, AE Sr, has been elected president of Agricultural Economics club.

Other officers are Phil Doctor, AA Sr, vice-president; Gerald Karr, AE Jr, recording secretary; Elbert Fultz, AA Jr, corresponding secretary; and Larry Womacks, AA Sr, treasurer.

Yule Assembly Next Thursday

The annual Christmas assembly will be presented by the A Cappella choir, College chorus, and the College women's glee club next Thursday at 9:30 a.m. in the Auditorium.

The Christmas portion of the "Messiah" by George Frederick Handel will be the program. Luther Leavengood, head of the music department, will conduct the "Messiah" orchestra.

College Budget Session

Docking Is Told Salaries Of Teachers 'Too Low'

Topeka (U.P.)—The presidents of Emporia State, Pittsburg State and Fort Hays State colleges yesterday told Gov.-elect George Docking's budget committee that faculty members were being lost because Kansas salaries were "too low."

The school executives presented budgets for the state's three teachers colleges.

University of Kansas and Kansas State college budgets will be presented today.

Dr. Rees Hughes of Pittsburg State said, "Students might not like six-day classes and night sessions, but it might come to that."

Hughes, who said enrollments will double and "might even triple" in the next 15 years, suggested conducting a survey by experts to determine the best way to expand to meet the increasing enrollment.

Dr. M. C. Cunningham of Fort

Hays State said his college is considering starting classes at 7 a.m. and running on through 9 p.m. Dr. John King of Emporia State said summer enrollments there are nearly as great as during regular semesters.

Docking said a two-phase survey of the state's booming school requirements might be required "if political winds aren't allowed to blow away" the proposed survey's recommendations.

Docking said such surveys should cover:

1. Needs for improvement in education itself "without fear or favor."
2. Business management of schools, especially colleges, to see if buildings and other facilities are being fully utilized.

Yule Dance Is Saturday Night

"Christmas Capers" is the theme of a dance Saturday after the K-State-Indiana game in the main ballroom of the Student Union, according to Mike Dole, ChE Soph, publicity chairman of the Union dance committee.

Matt Betton and his orchestra will play from 9 to midnight. Couples only will be admitted, and dress will be casual. Tickets are on sale at the Union information desk.

"Viva Zapata," starring Marlon Brando and Jean Peters, is being shown in the Union little theater today, Saturday, and Sunday at 7:30 p.m. An adaptation of a book by John Steinbeck, the picture is produced by Darryl F. Zanuck and directed by Elia Kazan. "Sunday by the Sea," a special short subject, also is being shown.

Prof Has Unusual Hobby; He Repairs Old Violins

By SANDRA WILSON

The lost art of repairing violins is the hobby of Dr. Hurley Fellows, professor of botany. He first became interested in this art, he said, when he saw a battered instrument and wanted to "hear what it would sound like if it were repaired."

In his collection of approximately 12 violins, there are several that "all the money in Manhattan could not buy." After fixing a broken violin, he feels that the finished product is "just like my own child."

Dr. Fellows, who came to Manhattan in 1925, began his hobby shortly after World War II to fill his spare time.

Although he had no training to prepare him for working with the instruments, he said that his interest enabled him to get the feel of things on his own.

In the library, Dr. Fellows found books and periodicals from the world of music. In "Etude" magazine, he found information about a book on violin-making and repairing that had been published in England in 1884. This book has become his guide for violin work.

However, since the book was out of print at the time, it was a collector's item. Dr. Fellows accidentally ran across a copy of the original edition in the estate of a Rossville fiddle-maker.

Dr. Fellows regrets that there is a lack of interest in the art of violin making and repairing. There are sharp differences between art and mechanics in the construction of a violin, he said.

Unitarians Organize

Whether to organize a Unitarian fellowship in Manhattan will be decided at a public meeting at 8 p.m. Sunday in College Hill school. The Sunday meeting will climax an exploratory series that has been conducted for the past five weeks.

If it is decided to establish a fellowship group, the formal organization meeting will be scheduled after the first of the year. The date and place will be announced later, according to John Mitchell, temporary instructor in the department of technical journalism, who is chairman of the temporary Unitarian steering committee.

Mitchell emphasized that the fellowship group would welcome both interested students and townspeople. More than 30 persons have expressed an interest in this religious group, Mitchell said.

The steering committee was established last month, following a meeting here with Monroe Husbands, fellowship director for the American Unitarian association. The fellowship movement is intended to serve Unitarians and other religious liberals in communities where there is no Unitarian church, Mitchell said.

LDS Hold Bazaar; Manhattan Chapel Is Mormon Goal

A bazaar being held today will move the local Latter Day Saints group closer to their goal of building a chapel here.

Until 4:30 p.m. this afternoon the church members will sell the baked goods and pieces of handi-work that they have contributed. Manhattan stores have also donated items for sale.

The group has already raised $1,090 since last year through individual donations and other money-raising projects, but must provide between four to twelve times that amount before Latter Day Saints headquarters will provide the remainder. However, tithings and student labor during construction of the chapel are expected to cover part of the cost.

USF Meets To Discuss State Plans

Shall there be a State USF? This is the question which was asked at the fall rally of United Student Fellowship groups in Kansas last Saturday and Sunday.

College students from the Congregational and Evangelical and Reformed churches attended the convention, which was in Wichita last Saturday and Sunday.

Vash Rumph, AH Sr, was appointed a member of the committee established to set a date for an organization meeting in Topeka. Representatives from Kansas State, Kansas university, Wichita university, Washburn university, and Emporia State State college will draw up plans for the state organization and submit them at a state rally to be held in February or early March.

Dr. Bryant Drake, a member of the division of higher education of the Congregational Christian churches, was the leader of the discussions on state organization. Rev. Robert Moore, assistant dean of students at Chicago Theological Seminary, led a discussion on the "Purpose of the University."

Christmas Devotions Planned for Monday

Students and faculty members are invited to attend the first in series of three Christmas devotional services Monday from 7:30 a.m. to 7:45 a.m. in Danforth chapel, according to Miss Helen Bocker, YWCA director.

The other two Christmas devotional services will be Tuesday and Thursday mornings, December 18 and 20, from 7:30 a.m. to 7:45 a.m. in Danforth chapel.

The devotional services are sponsored by the Religious Life group of the YWCA, and are held each year just before Christmas vacation.

Alumni Loan Fund Hums with Activity

Increasing numbers of K-Staters are borrowing money, in increasing amounts, to continue their education.

Kenney Ford, secretary of the Alumni association, says that as of December 1 the alumni loan fund had 233 loans, totaling $66,737.75, outstanding.

In a typical loan-fund meeting this week the alumni committee approved 13 students for loans totaling $3,740—or nearly $300 a student. The loans ranged from $100 to $500, and were primarily for second-semester enrollment fees and for living expenses.

K-State's small-loan fund, where students can get $5 or more to tide them over in an emergency, also is much more active these days.

Freedom Fighters Open Fire On Soviets in Industrial Area

Compiled from United Press
By LANCE GILMORE

Vienna, Dec. 14—Communist-controlled Budapest radio today reported new anti-Soviet riots and a major armed clash between Hungarian patriots and Soviet troops in Eastern Hungary.

A broadcast said the battle took place yesterday at Miskolc, capital of the industrial Borsod province.

It erupted when Red army troops moved in to break up anti-Soviet demonstrations and were fired on by the rebels.

It was a rare admission by the Janos Kadar puppet regime of bitter fighting in the provinces.

A later broadcast said anti-Soviet riots flared Monday and Tuesday in the city of Eger, between Miskolc and Budapest. "Counter-revolutionary elements"—Red terminology for the partisans—attacked the provincial government building and caused serious damage with hand grenades, it said.

The Eger rioters distributed anti-Soviet and anti-Communist leaflets, the broadcast said.

Radio Budapest listed a number of persons arrested in various parts of Hungary for distributing anti-Communist leaflets.

Summer Beer-Tasting Job Has Its Scientific Aspects

By DICK BOYD

Have you ever had a job that depended on your liking for beer? Pat Conlon, CE Jr, has had such a job. He was a beer taster for Continental Can company of Chicago the past summer.

Asked if the pay were unusually high, he replied laughingly: "No, but you get all the beer you can drink. However, I took the job purely because of its scientific aspect."

Conlon received the job as one of 25 college students who are picked every summer by the company as a training group.

No previous experience is necessary. He just happened to be assigned to the beer lab, instead of to one of the many other canned-foods departments.

Continental Can company makes cans for all brands of beer, Conlon says. The company sends the cans to beer firms to be filled.

If anything is wrong with a shipment of beer to a consumer, or if the company simply wants a test made on the beer, it is sent back to Continental Can.

"It was the job of several of us to test the beer," he says. "We would test the cans to see if they allowed the beer to retain its original flavor."

The beer was graded according to how it tasted—smooth, flat, etc.

"One day we had 1,000 cans of beer to test, but were only required to test the cans," Conlon said. "All the beer had to be poured down the drain. There were huge, billowy suds all over the place."

U.S. in Weapon Offer

Paris, Dec. 14—The United States offered today to share with its NATO allies dual-purpose weapons which could fire either atomic warheads or conventional missiles.

Although it was the first step in opening the U.S. atomic arsenal to member nations of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, for the moment they were promised no strictly atomic arms.

An American spokesman said U.S. Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson promised the other 14 nations in the alliance the modern

KS Hospital Need Questioned

K-State's need for a new Student Health hospital were challenged Friday at hearings held in Topeka on the proposed 1958 fiscal budget for the College.

K-State presented a budget asking for $7,287,367 for fiscal 1958. This figure was recommended to be cut to $6,347,242.

The $450,000 hospital appropriation was put in question on the basis that some other type plan be put into effect like Blue Cross and Blue Shield or the Riley County hospital could be used.

President McCain declared that a hospital and clinic in the heart of the campus is vital and could not be replaced by health insurance or Blue Cross-Blue Shield plan.

He said that 31,000 clinical calls were made last year at the present hospital, and health insurance would have covered only one-tenth of one per cent of their cost. He said student fees fully cover costs of operating the hospital.

"There have already been 15,000 clinical calls during the first two and a half to three months this year," the President said.

Dr. McCain told the budget division that the present student hospital and clinic was housed in a barracks-type building. (Continued on page 6)

Regents Act

Enrollment Fee Increased Beginning with Fall Term

K-State students who enroll in the fall will be faced with a $14 increase in fees for residents and a $34 increase for out-of-state students.

The increase in fees is a result of action Friday by the Kansas Board of Regents in an effort to bring in an estimated $500,000 a year. The semester fees were raised in all five state institutions of higher learning.

The Board raised the K-State

"incidental" fee from $56 to $70 for residents and from $131 to $165 for non-residents. If all other charges such as student health, student union, and activities remain the same it will cost in-state students $104 and out-of-state students $199 to enroll next fall.

The amount of increase at all five state institutions

Fifty-six to 70 girls were reported sick from food poisoning yesterday at Van Zile residence hall, according to Herbert Wunderlich, dean of students.

"The poisoning was probably caused by something the girls ate yesterday afternoon or evening (Saturday)," Wunderlich said.

He indicated that the poisoning effects would probably last for 48 hours.

Dr. B. W. Lafene, director of Student Health, said that the outbreak is "under investigation now" and that we probably "won't know what the sickness is for three or four days."

At 7 last night, there were six Van Zile girls confined to the hospital. A nurse on duty said that all six had temperatures of not over 101 degrees. The sickest girl had a 101-degree temperature and very severe stomach cramps. The other five seemed to be over the worst part.

One doctor stated that tests were being made to determine the sickness. He said that it was more than likely food poisoning but could not assure the Collegian reporter that the sickness was not contagious. His "second-guess" was that the sickness might be intestinal flu.

The tests were sent to Topeka this afternoon (Sunday) and the results will not be known until sometime tomorrow or the next day, the doctor said.

He also commented that there was no real need to print any story in the Collegian because they were not sure of what it was.

When contacted by Collegian reporters, Dr. Lafene, Miss Charlotte Bartel, food director at Van Zile, Mrs. John Gibson, Van Zile director, and Dean of Women Helen Moore all said they could not comment because Dean Wunderlich left specific instructions that anyone from the Collegian should call him for information.

The menu for Saturday lunch at Van Zile included vegetable soup, grilled cheese sandwiches, cottage cheese salad, and fruit. For dinner there was chop suey, chow mein, fresh green beans, baked apple crust, and cottage cheese salad.

One Van Zile girl commented that the sickness could be caused by four things—one of the kitchen help was sick Saturday afternoon and could have spread it, the disinfectant in the water could have been bad, it could be food poisoning, or a possible virus infection.

McCain Says

$800,000 Salary Raise Needed for Top Staff

K-State needs about $800,000 for faculty salary increases to maintain a first-rate staff, President McCain told a governor's conference in Topeka Friday afternoon.

"The quality of a faculty is the major conditioner of the quality of the educational and research programs of the College," he said.

He furnished the Governor and members of the committee with many studies indicative of the inadequacy of salaries paid at K-State now. One study revealed that the median salaries paid in all ranks of the college were below the average salaries paid in the nation's 70 land-grant colleges and universities.

Although K-State is generally regarded as one of the 12 leading land-grant institutions, salaries were $1,015 below the average salaries paid full professors, from $347 below that paid associate professors, and $515 below for assistant professors.

To bring the level up to average would require about $805,000 instead of the $340,000 provided for in the present budget.

During the past year, the College has lost 99 teachers, most of them because of competitive offers paying larger salaries. He said that during the past 2½ years, 81 outstanding staff members drawing total salaries of $470,300 had been lost to positions paying $664,500.

"We have lost some irreplaceable men," he said, "and we can't go on losing them without ending up with a second-rate staff."

He said that in the next two years we would be behind in salaries to the extent that the quality of our education could "suffer" very much.

At the conference, Governor-elect George Docking asked whether love of teaching would not offset the larger salaries offered in industry.

In reply the President pointed out that many of these teachers had been lost to other higher institutions where the salaries were larger and there were still opportunities to teach. He also said that in many instances it would not have been necessary to match the entire amount of the increase in order to keep the professor.

Many of them would have stayed for only $2,000 more money even though the competitive offer was two or three times this amount of increase, McCain said.

To indicate to the conference how intensified competition for staff members will become, the President stated that with the 210,000 teachers now employed in the nations colleges and universities, 319,000 will be needed by 1956, but no more than 35,000 can be trained between now and then.

ranged from $9.40 to as much as $34.

Hubert Brighton, Board of Regents secretary, said the percentage increase ranged from 21.2 per cent to more than 34 per cent.

The schedule of fees for liberal arts students, which would include all but graduate and medical college students, was listed as follows:

Kansas university—Per semester fee for residents raised from $57.50 to $70. For non-residents raised from $132.50 to $165.

Kansas State—Resident, $56 to $70. Non-resident, $131 to $165.

Emporia State and Fort Hays State—Resident, $38 to $50. Non-resident, $74.50 to $98.

Pittsburg State — Resident, $40.80 to $50. Non-Resident, $77.80 to $98.

Brighton indicated that the increase in student fees had been in the planning stage for several years.

In other Regent action, the Board approved naming the proposed new Home Economics building here "Justin Hall," in honor of Dean Margaret Justin, head of the Home Ec school since 1923. This action came at the recommendation of President McCain.

Council Slate To Include Membership

The Student Council will discuss the constitution revision committee's plan for enlarging the Student Council at its meeting tonight.

The committee will recommend that the Council be increased to 29 members. Of this total, 19 members would be selected from the various schools on the basis of enrollment, with the largest school having the most representatives.

Fee Increase Is an Effort To Keep State Out of Red

THE COST of getting an education is going up . . . up . . . up.

To be exact, the enrollment fee will be raised $14 for resident students and $34 for non-resident students beginning the fall semester 1957.

THIS BRINGS up the question, is the raise necessary?

We don't think so, but the Board of Regents and the state Legislature do. You can guess who will win out.

HUBERT BRIGHTON, secretary of the Board of Regents, said the fees were reviewed at the request of members of the ways and means committee of the Legislature.

He said that although heads of the various schools were reluctant to increase the charges, the Board felt it should be done to help meet rising educational costs.

JUST HOW much will be raised by the increase to help defray the cost of education? Conservative estimates seem to place the figure at $500,000. However, as much as $750,000 could probably be raised.

At today's prices, $500,000 to $750,000 might build and furnish one building a year on one campus. Since the money will have to be spread among five campuses, it will hardly provide a drop in the bucket for any school.

WILL THE FEE increase directly benefit the students? Probably not, because, according to President McCain, it will likely be used to aid in providing money to meet the proposed fiscal 1958 budget.

Brighton indicated that the increase in student fees had been in the planning stage for several years. We know that bills had previously been introduced in the Legislature but no action on a fee increase was taken.

GOV.-ELECT George Docking recently said after the conclusion of budget hearings on Friday that, "No tax is painless. But any new tax should be on the man who can afford it, and not on the little fellow."

The Governor-elect was speaking about a proposed increase in the state sales tax when he mentioned the above, however, it could very well apply to college students.

FOR WHO is harder pressed to keep his head above water than a college student. Some of the students who will be hardest hit by the increase are veterans, some of them out-of-state, who must live on $110, 135, or $160 a month provided by the government at a time when dollar values were a little higher.

We think that the increase is a result of the desperate plight of the Legislature to come up with approximately $35 million in new revenue to keep the state from going in the red.

THOUGH THE increase may well be necessary to help defray the rising cost of education, is the plight of the little man who can least afford the expense of an added "tax" being considered?

THOSE who would challenge K-State's need for a new Student Health hospital should take a tour of Van Zile hall today and it would soon be apparent just how necessary a modern Health service is to a college campus.

About 56 to 70 girls were stricken with "food poisoning" early Sunday morning. A trip through Van Zile Sunday evening by a Collegian reporter revealed that the hall resembled a hospital. No one was in the corridors because most of the girls were in bed complaining of stomach cramps. One nurse was on duty giving the girls hot tea or soup for dinner, whichever they preferred.

COULD THE present Student Health handle the situation if all 56 to 70 girls needed to be confined to the hospital? The answer is obviously no.

Dr. B. W. Lafene, director of Student Health, stated in the Collegian February 9, 1956, that, "Student Health is completely inadequate in its number of beds. Even when enrollment was at a low ebb after World War II we sometimes kept patient in beds in the halls when there was no epidemic."

DESPITE THE lack of beds, we could possibly get along with our present Student Health if the sanitary conditions were such that the hospital could measure up to the standards of other American hospitals.

It is for the sanitary reasons and because the wooden building is a fire trap, that the State Hospital division of the Health department condemned the structure.—George Vohs.

"It's your problem son to figure out how you can budget your money to meet the rising cost of education."

Real Election for President Is Today by Electoral College

By UNITED PRESS

WASHINGTON—The voters may think they elected the President and Vice President on November 6, but the real election was taking place today.

In state capitols across the land, a total of 531 people known as presidential electors gathered to cast ballots which formally elect the nation's two highest officials.

THE ELECTORS will, as custom dictates, vote the way the majority of people in their respective states did in the November general election, so that the Eisenhower-Nixon ticket still will be the winner. The results almost certainly will be:

Eisenhower-Nixon, 457 electoral votes.
Stevenson-Kefauver, 74 electoral votes.

Actually, however, the electors could ignore the general election results and vote any way they please. Under the constitution, they are free agents with full authority to make independent choices.

THE FRAMERS of the Constitution originally intended the electors' vote to be the one that really counted. But, as our political system developed in practice, the popular vote has become the decisive one and the electors merely ratify it.

The election is not official, however, until the electors go through their ritual. After today, the results can't be changed even though the electoral votes won't be counted formally until January 7 when House and Senate meet in joint session.

THE ELECTORS were chosen in the November 6 balloting. The voters didn't really cast their ballots for President and Vice President at all, but chose between rival slates or electors.

In 41 states they picked slates of Republican electors and in the remaining seven states, Democratic electors.

THE ELECTORS were guided in their balloting today by official returns from the November 6 popular voting, the counting of which had been completed by last weekend in all of the states except Rhode Island.

Rhode Island, the smallest state in the Union, still was counting absentee ballots. But since the count was nearly complete and President Eisenhower had an unofficial plurality of 62,000, state officials planned to go ahead and certify the vote to the electors.

THE COMPLETE official returns from 47 states and the complete unofficial returns from Rhode Island showed Mr. Eisenhower received 35,575,421 popular votes, Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democratic candidate, 26,025,527 and candidates for other parties, 507,812.

The total popular vote cast reached 62,108,760, a new record. This compared with the previous record, set in 1952, of 61,551,919.

Soviets Claim Revolt Ended, But Rebs Reported Resisting

Compiled from United Press
By LANCE GILMORE

Vienna, Dec. 17—Russia said today the Hungarian revolution had ended, but reports from Budapest said Russian tanks, troops, and possibly planes were still fighting rebel guerrillas in the wild mountains north of the capital.

The Budapest government was reported sending Hungarian strikers to the coal mines today as forced labor in an effort to avert economic disaster, and a Budapest broadcast today said 654 went to work in the Matra mountain mines today.

Reports from Hungary said a Soviet "mopping up" campaign was in progress in the Beuku mountains near the industrial cities of Eger and Miskolc, scene of large-scale clashes for the first week. It was in this area the Communist government announced the first execution of a party leader this week end.

Moscow radio broadcast reports today life had returned to "normal" in Hungary and reports to the contrary were "slandorous from beginning to end." But Radio Budapest itself admitted Communist police were carrying out a widespread search through the mountain area for rebels.

Moscow Moguls Meet

London, Dec. 17—Russia's Communist party leadership met today in Moscow to take stock of its policies which have produced unrest in Russia and the satellites and open rebellion in Hungary. The Kremlin "collective leadership" was reported badly split on the issues but a United Press Moscow dispatch said no major changes were expected in the party leadership.

Western observers said Soviet Communist party Secretary General Nikita S. Khrushchev, leader of the "de-Stalinization" program and Vyacheslav M. Molotov, former premier and foreign minister, were at odds.

But they said Khrushchev's job appeared safe for the time being since Moscow did not want to admit to the world there was anything but harmony in its upper echelon. Some observers have hinted that Molotov was in the ascendancy again.

Egypt Weekend Violent

Port Said, Egypt, Dec. 17—Britain and France slowed their evacuation of Port Said today to recover from a week end of violence in which a "merciless" attack on Egyptian suicide commandos killed at least 100 persons.

The United Nations emergency forces (UNEF) took over most of Port Said but some 5,000 heavily-armed Britons and 2,000 French troops held strong positions in the debarkation area in fear of new reprisal attacks by the Egyptians.

The British reported a series of 26 raids by Egyptian commandos during the past few days, climaxed by the ambush slaying of a British major. The attack by British tanks and infantrymen Saturday night and early Sunday followed the latest incident.

Japan's Reds Looting?

Tokyo, Dec. 17—National police authorities charged today that Japan's Communist party is systematically looting small capitalists and channeling the funds into the party's coffers.

Police officials estimated one party unit had robbed small businessmen throughout the country of one billion yen ($2,778,000) through a network of dummy companies set up by the party.

They said these companies built up debts with small manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers, shifted assets to other party-controlled firms, then went into bankruptcy.

The scheme was exposed by the national police headquarters, the Tokyo metropolitan police and the public safety investigation commission.

Ike, Nehru Meet Today

Washington, Dec. 17—President Eisenhower, leader of the anti-Russian West, and Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, leader of the neutralist East, begin private talks on world problems today in the quiet of the Pennsylvania countryside.

They left Washington at 9 a.m. EST and drove to Gettysburg, Pa., for 24 hours of seclusion at Mr. Eisenhower's farm.

There, away from the pressures and pomp which customarily surround a visit of the head of a foreign government to Washington, they will exchange views on such subjects as the Hungarian crisis, the Middle East dispute, U.S. recognition of Red China, U.S. military alliances, colonialism, and disarmament.

Food Poisoning Causes Illness

One doctor and nurse are on duty at the residence hall.

Girls say that most are suffering from stomach cramps, chills, headaches, leg aches, and are very weak. They seem to be having trouble keeping food down.

Three cases of girls fainting have been reported. One girl passed out while walking down the corridor and threw her knee out of joint. Another passed out in church while singing in the choir. She commented that she didn't know what was going on around her.

The sickness was reported to have started about 1 a.m. Sunday.

Van Zile hall houses approximately 165 to 170 girls, according to A. Thornton Edwards, director of housing.

Cats Go Gopher-Digging Thursday After Outlasting Indiana's Hoosier's

By ROGER MYERS
Collegian Sports Editor

After getting its first big win of the season by beating the Indiana Hoosiers in a single overtime, 84-77, Saturday night, Wildcat cage coach Tex Winter looks for an even rougher game against Minnesota U. Gophers next Thursday at Minneapolis.

"I anticipate a tougher game at Minnesota than the one against Indiana," he said.

Minnesota has their entire team back from last year and they finished higher in the Big 10 last season than Indiana did.

A cold first half, both from the field and from the free throw line lead to the near-downfall of the Cats.

K-State got only 14 out of 49 field goal attempts in the first half for a miserable 28.6 per cent of its shots. The Wildcats free throw showing was little better as they got only 38 per cent from the charity stripe.

"We won the game on desire and hustle," Winter said. "We certainly didn't win it on offense."

The Wildcats opened scoring in the game when Jack Parr hit a two-hand side shot with only 15 seconds gone. Twenty seconds later Indiana's Archie Dees tied the score, 2-2, and the race was on.

The Cats opened up a four-point gap once in the first half with 16:50 left on a two-hand set shot from the key hole by Eddie Wallace. The Wildcat lead was never more than two points after that. The Hoosiers started pulling away with five minutes left and went to the dressing room with a 36-33 halftime lead.

K-State came back in the second half and narrowed the score to 40-39 with 16:40 left on a pair of free throws by Wallace.

Then K-State went into five and a half minute drouth in which they were able to score only three points while the Hoosiers were dumping in 13.

The outburst gave Indiana a nine-point lead, their biggest of the evening, with 11:08 left in the game.

But Wildcat scoring finally warmed up and K-State went ahead, 70-69, on two free throws by Parr with 2:05 left to be played.

Indiana again went ahead, 73-70, on four straight free throws by Charlie Hodson with only 54 seconds remaining to be played.

But a layup by Hayden Abbott with 50 seconds left and a free throw by Roy DeWitz with 20 seconds remaining tied the score and sent the Wildcats into their first overtime game since Winter took over head basketball reins at K-State.

In the five-minute overtime K-State's offense came to life and the defense jelled as the Wildcats outscored Indiana 11-4 in the extra period.

Jack Parr opened the overtime with a hook good for two points and then DeWitz came back to score two more quick ones on a fast break.

From then on it was K-State all the way, and when Dees fouled out with 1:18, the game was over.

Bears Whip Detroit, Meet NY for Crown

By UNITED PRESS

The Chicago Bears, charged with "deliberate dirty football" by the Detroit Lions, and the New York Giants, often called "too nice" by their coach, will clash for the National League championship December 30 at Yankee Stadium.

New York won the Eastern Division crown Saturday by defeating the Philadelphia Eagles, 21-7. The Bears captured Western honors Sunday by whipping Detroit, 38-21, in a game marred by brawls.

"It was deliberate dirty football," coach Buddy Parker of the Lions said. He (Ed Meadows) was the hatchetman to do the job. He did it to Layne when he was with Pittsburgh last year and Meadows and Halas (Bear owner George Halas) play it that way."

The Lions, who scored a 42-10 victory over the Bears two weeks ago at Detroit, started the game with a half-game lead and needed only a tie to win the Western title.

Frank Gifford passed to Kyle Rote for one touchdown and ran for another while Alex Webster scored the third as the Giants won easily at Philadelphia.

In Sunday's other games, Lamar McHan scored twice to lead the Chicago Cardinals to a 24-7 victory over the Cleveland Browns; Ted Marchibroda threw two touchdown passes as the Pittsburgh Steelers shut out the Washington Redskins, 23-0.

Big 7 Picnic Almost Over As Tourney Time Nears

Kansas City, Mo., (U.P.)—Big Seven teams have just this final week to enjoy beating outsiders without themselves being beaten. After that, it's tournament time—and time to start beating each other.

As of today, the conference can boast 23 wins against only 6 losses and that 4 of the 7 teams have gone undefeated in 17 games mostly against grade A competition.

Iowa State leads the list of winners with five straight Kansas, the nation's top ranked team, Kansas State, no. 9, and Colorado have each won four.

Of the unbeaten, the surprising Colorado Buffaloes and K-State probably will have the hardest time of it this week. Colorado follows in Kansas' footsteps and plays two weekend games against Washington in Seattle. K-State meets Big Ten powerhouse Minnesota at Minneapolis.

Nebraska, which has beaten three straight Big Ten teams, takes on another, Purdue, tonight. Idaho is at Colorado also to open the week's play. Kansas finishes its western trip at California tomorrow night, while Missouri opens a west coast jaunt at Oregon.

Wilt Chamberlain, the national scoring leader, came out of the Washington games with a 39.5 point a game average.

The big stilt didn't wilt under pressure by Washington's 6-7 Doug Smart and 6-8 Bruno Boin, hitting 30 and 37 points respectively in the games.

He grabbed 16 and 28 rebounds, and now averages 24.25 grabs a game. K-State's Jack Parr has averaged 21.75 points in four games and Gary (The Rocket) Thompson in five games. Iowa State has averaged 20.6

Pete Tillman Resigns WU Grid Staff

Wichita, (U.P.)—Head Football Coach Pete Tillman of the University of Wichita resigned today, and university officials indicated that violations of the school's athletic policy were involved.

Robert Kirkpatrick, athletic director, said the university "Will engage in a program of complete investigation of its own athletic program and make a full report to the Missouri Valley conference."

Tillman, who had been head coach here since January, 1955, said his resignation did not result from "any pressure resulting from last season's record," of four games won and six lost, and that it was his "own decision," reached last night.

Kirkpatrick said no administrative pressure was involved, but indicated there were "Some policy factors concerning the football program which could not be overlooked." These factors, he said, came to the attention of the university in the last three days.

Harry F. Corbin, President of Wichita university, said Tillman's resignation was accepted "in the best interest of all concerned."

"As long as we have the rules, we are going to live by them," he said. "All coaches and all athletes will be re-appraised. We want to get our house in order."

The policy violations included outside employment for football players on full scholarships and financial help for some going home for Christmas vacation.

Hank Aaron Takes NL Batting Crown

New York, (U.P.)—Hank Aaron of the Milwaukee Braves was officially crowned as the National League's new batting champion today despite a .328 average that was the lowest to win the title in 37 years.

Stadium, H.O.W. in Finals

West Stadium and House of Williams gained independent division basketball finals, Friday, with wins over YMCA and the Speedsters.

West Stadium won 29-24, and House of Williams whipped the Speeders, 35-26, in the other semifinals playoff.

Tomorrow evening, West Stadium and House of Williams will meet in the independent finals at 7 on the Fieldhouse floor. Delta Tau Delta and Sigma Alpha Epsilon will meet at 8 in the fraternity division finals.

Gary Wing hit 12 points for House of Williams in their win over the Speedsters. Score at intermission was 19-10, House of Williams.

West Stadium led 22-20 at halftime, then outscored YMCA, 7-4, in a low scoring second half. John Solmos had 10 points in guiding his mates to the win.

TOM HAYES OF INDIANA lowers the boom on Jack Kiddoo, Cat guard, in the 84-77 K-State win over the Hoosiers. Kiddoo came up with the ball in the action which occurred in the final minutes of the game as the Cats surged from behind to tie the game. Pete Obrebsky (43) of Indiana comes up to assist Hayes.

Mather Contract Renewed

Topeka, (U.P.)—Kansas university football coach Chuck Mather was given a new one-year contract with a $500 pay raise Friday.

The contract, approved by the Board of Regents, calls for a salary of $11,000 a year for Mather. The contract came on the heels of clamoring on the KU campus at Lawrence. Mather was hung in effigy two days after Kansas lost its final game to Missouri. University officials said the hanging was a prank by only a few students.

KS Hospital Challenged

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN
Monday, December 17, 1956

ing that had been condemned by the hospital division of the State Board of Health, which has threatened not to renew its license if the hospital is not replaced.

He said a new hospital would cost about $550,000. It has been suggested that Riley County hospital might take care of the needs, but officials there say it will not be able to do so because of space limitations.

The President said that this is the first time an Educational Building fund allocation has been challenged in the budget hearings. He also pointed out that every land-grant college and state university has a health service.

In other budget hearing action, $251,000 for Physical plant improvements including new sidewalks and parking improvements was recommended to be cut from the budget.

In defense of this cut, Dr. McCain said the installation of another turbo-generator to use steam power will permit the College to generate electricity at 1.9 mills per kilowatt hour, compared to 11 mills if purchased commercially.

He said the installation would pay for itself in 5.3 years and thereafter would save the state $75,000 a year.

Approximately $15,000 was tentatively cut from the Arts & Sciences proposed budget for instructional equipment. Engineering also lost $45,000.

One of the larger cuts came when $249,000 for research programs was knocked out. This money was to be used for such projects as water research and rural economic development in Kansas.

President McCain also discussed the immediate need for 14½ million dollars in added buildings within 10 years to keep pace with the growth and demands of the College.

The possibility of either raising the statewide property tax levy or holding a referendum on a giant bond issue to finance the new buildings was discussed.

Gov.-Elect George Docking indicated he might favor putting the issue to the people in the form of a referendum on a bond issue of a size sufficient to construct the necessary buildings as quickly as possible.

Queen Shari

"It was a real honor being chosen queen," said Shari Shellenberger, TJ Jr, Chi Omega, after being picked as queen of the military ball. "All the Scabbard and Blade members were so nice to all the candidates."

Shari reigned during the formal ball at the Student Union Friday night, and will be honorary regimental commander at the annual spring ROTC review.

A. L. Pugsley, dean of academic administration, crowned the queen. "I had a lot of fun dancing with Dean Pugsley," Shari said.

Miss Shellenberger was attended by Doris Geis, PE Soph, Van Zile; Donna Sargent, Psy Soph, Waltheim; Marlene Young, EEd Jr, Delta Delta Delta; and Karen Skiver, Soc Jr, Pi Beta Phi.

The queen was escorted by Ron McKinnie, AEd Jr, and was presented a bouquet of red roses by Don Jenkins, AH Sr. president of Scabbard and Blade.

cil each year after consideration of the enrollment.

The remaining members would consist of representatives from Interfraternity council, Panhellenic, IOHC, married students, and the Independent Student's association.

Other reports scheduled to come before the Council include those by the ROTC committee, the leadership workshop committee, the campus industry investigating committee, and the committee on traffic safety around the married students' housing.

The leadership workshop committee will propose that the Council accept the proposed financial report for the workshop. The report has a total cost of $372.50 with an expected registration fee of $125, leaving a total deficit of $247.50.

Jerry Holliday, ArE Soph, is planning to ask the Council to make the campus industries investigating committee a permanent Student Council committee, with the new committee for each year being appointed by the retiring Council one month before the spring elections.

'Miss Wildcat' Calendars Are Now on Sale

The Sigma Delta Chi-Theta Sigma Phi calendars, featuring photographs of "Miss Wildcat" and her 11 runners-up, will be on sale today and tomorrow for 25 cents each at booths set up on the main floor of the Student Union and Anderson hall.

Students who bought calendars in the advance sale can get their calendars only at the booth set up in the Student Union. These students should bring their calendar purchase receipt with them for identification, according to Darrel Miller, TJ Sr, president of Sigma Delta Chi.

Some 1275 calendars have been sold so far, according to Miller. Of this number, approximately 975 were sold in advance sales, and about 300 were sold at the booths Friday. About 800 calendars remain to be sold, Miller said.

Beware Men!

'Man's World' Is Attractive; Coeds Invade Engineering

Engineering is no longer a man's world.

At least this is the case here at K-State, where 18 women are enrolled in engineering curriculums this semester.

Architecture is by far the most popular curriculum, claiming 11 of the 18 coeds. This is understandable, because the work in this area involves artistic interests. Of the other seven coeds, two are in civil engineering, two in nuclear engineering, and one each in industrial, electrical, and architectural engineering.

Sandra Tenorio, Ar 01, explains her choice simply, "I love houses and how they are built. So architecture is my major."

One reason Ruth Collins, Ar 03, was attracted to architecture was "a desire to be able to create something." She also confesses to "a fascination for, and a curiosity about, architecture."

Linnea Brown, Ar 03, "wanted something mechanical." Her parents persuaded her that architecture was more promising for a woman than other engineering fields.

She not only wants to design homes, but this past year was out of school gaining practical experience working for a Hoisington architect and for a Great Bend engineering and architectural firm.

When Florence M. Paris, Ar 03, started to college more than a decade ago, she was persuaded not to take architecture "because it's not for a woman." As a result, she got her degree in biology and became a registered medical technologist.

But Miss Paris' love of architecture was deep seated. She first took advantage of opportunities to take courses in night school, then gave up her career in medical technology to start all over again in architecture here at K-State.

On the other hand, some of the coeds in engineering never expected to be there.

Ardis Ellis, IE Soph, wanted a career where she could combine her interests in science, mathematics, and efficiency.

The K-State student counseling center suggested industrial engineering as a possibility, and she's never regretted her choice. Miss Ellis is combining home economics courses with her engineering major, and eventually will work in research and design of household appliances.

Sometimes a fatherly nudge helps guide a girl into engineering.

Yvonne "Evie" Warner, Ar 03, is in architecture because she had a spare hour as a freshman at Shawnee Mission high school. Her father suggested elementary drafting as "a good basic course for anyone," and to Evie's surprise, she liked it.

She followed with a year of mechanical drawing and two of architectural drawing. When it came time to go to college, she chose architecture over women's physical education because future possibilities seemed more attractive.

For the most part, the coeds do not think it makes any difference that they are females in a "man's world."

"At least I've never run into any professors it made any difference to," said Miss Collins.

Students May Win $12,000 In Contest

Cash prizes totaling $12,000 will be awarded to 10 students in colleges and universities across the country who submit the top 10 essays on satellite vehicles.

The essay competition is open to any senior or graduate student majoring in engineering or the sciences.

First prize will be $5,000 in cash; second prize, $2,500; third prize, $1,000; and seven honorable mention awards of $500 each.

The essay contest is sponsored by the Martin company of Baltimore, Md., builders of the Vanguard earth satellite vehicle and launching systems.

Entry blanks and contest rules are available in the departments of chemical, civil, electrical, and mechanical engineering, and the departments of physics, geology, and mathematics.

The essays must be at the Dean of Engineering or Dean of Art and Sciences offices on or before March 1, 1957.

The essays are to be between 1,500 and 2,500 words in length. Any approach may be taken in writing the essays, so long as the thoughts expressed bear on some problems associated with the design, manufacture, or use of orbital vehicles.

Equally acceptable are highly technical presentations and papers illuminating non-technical aspects of satellite vehicles.

Essay winners will be announced on July 1, 1957.

The essay contest is being held in connection with the International Geophysical year, which begins on July 1, 1957. One of the highlights of the Geophysical year will be the launching of a man-made space satellite by this country.

Scientific Finds Suggest Universe Is Like Heart

By UNITED PRESS

The universe may be pulsing like a gigantic heart, expanding and contracting in periods of many billions of years.

This possibility is posed by scientific findings published today in the annual report of the Carnegie Institution of Washington.

It has long been believed that the universe, with its millions of star systems like the milky way, is blowing up like a huge bomb.

The new findings indicate that the rate of expansion is slowing down and that eventually a period of contraction will ensue.

This suggests an "oscillating" universe, its giant pulses constituting acts of creation followed by constrictive death.

That the universe is expanding was first indicated some three decades ago when examination of their light disclosed that galaxies were receding from one another at speeds up to one-fifth that of light. The speed of light is 186,300 miles a second.

As far as they could see into space through the 100-inch Mount Wilson telescope in California, astronomers found that the speed of recession increased in direct proportion to the galaxies' distance.

This suggested a uniformly expanding universe thinning endlessly in infinite space. But recent observations by Dr. Milton L. Humason with the 200-inch palomar telescope in California seem to indicate that two faint clusters of galaxies about a billion light-years away are moving faster than in direct proportion to their distance. Their indicated speed is greater than one-third that of light.

A light-year is the distance light travels in one year. So anything a billion light-years away is seen on earth as it was one billion years ago. The tentative conclusion, therefore, is that a billion years ago the universe was expanding more rapidly than it is now.

One widely held theory of creation is that everything in the universe was once compressed into an extremely dense mass consisting only of nuclear matter.

Five to six billion years ago this mass exploded. Galaxies, stars, and plants are the fast-flying fragments of that cosmic blast.

If later information confirms that the universe is, indeed, oscillating, the inference will be that it has gone through many births and deaths.

Since its latest re-birth five or six billion years ago, the universe has been steadily evolving. But if its expansion rate is slowing, at some future time the universe will begin to contract again.

And multiplied billions of years hence, all the stars and all the planets—and, of course, all life—will be extinguished in their present form and crushed into the primordial "nuclear fluid" from which they sprang, and will spring again.

Yule Vespers Well Attended

The K-State A Cappella choir sang the annual Christmas Vespers' selections before a large crowd at the Auditorium yesterday afternoon.

Solos were "Jesus, Jesus, Rest Your Head" by Georgia Rundle, mezzo soprano; "Sir Christmas," Robert Sanders, baritone; "That Young Child," Patricia Noll, soprano; "Balulalow," Marjorie Vanderweide, soprano; "In Freezing Winter Night," Georgia Rundle, and Charlene Taylor, sopranos; "Spring Carol," Carol Korinek, soprano, and Janice Casey, mezzo soprano, all from "A Ceremony of Carols"; and "Hear My Prayer, O God" from "Songs of Escape" by Jack Hartle, bass.

Besides the two choral works, "A Ceremony of Carols" and "Songs of Escape," the A Cappella choir sang "Fanfare for Christmas Day," "Hodie, Christus natus est," "Salvation Is Created," "Fum, Fum, Fum," "Matthew, Mark, Luke, and John," and "This have I done for my True Love."

Home Economics Students:

YOU may qualify for a civilian dietetic internship as a fully paid AIR FORCE OFFICER

If you now hold—or will soon—a bachelor's degree in Home Economics, with a major in Foods and Nutrition, or Institution Management, you will be interested in the Air Force Hospital Dietetic Internship Plan. Under this plan, you are, if eligible, commissioned as a second lieutenant and assigned to an approved civilian hospital of your choice to serve a 12-months' internship. During this period, you receive the full pay and allowances of your rank ($338.58 per month).

Upon completion of your training, you will have the chance to practice in military hospitals in both the continental U.S. and overseas. Air Force dietitians supervise all food services, including regular and modified diets. Here is your opportunity to gain valuable experience, travel and greatly further your career. Billiard Shooting Authority To Give Lessons in Union

Charles C. (show-me-a-shot-I-can't-make) Peterson, internationally famous billiards authority and fancy shot champion of the world, will give exhibitions and instructions in the games area of the Student Union December 18, 19, and 20, according to Pat Craven, MGS Jr, publicity chairman of the games committee.

An inter-collegiate billiards tournament, which was originated by Peterson, will be held in the games area during his visit. Interested persons should register at the games desk December 17 through 22. The tournament winner at K-State will be put into competition with winners from other colleges.

This season, more than ever before, Peterson will stress co-ed competition and will give special instructions for co-eds only Tuesday and Wednesday. In addition to special co-ed instruction, there will be a faculty night, and fancy shot exhibitions.

He has a one-word formula for success, practice. During his career, he has diagrammed about 1,000 difficult shots. He proves to his audience that each individual can learn the shot too, and therefore can be better prepared to play better billiards and derive more pleasure from what once was called the "gentleman's game." He presents billiards' fundamentals in a manner in which any novice can understand and later put to his own advantage.

This season's tour, Peterson's twenty-fifth, is under the direct sponsorship of the Association of College Unions. During his visit here, he will be the guest of various sorority and fraternity houses, and women's residence halls for meals.

Students having Hulbert or Harbaugh for biology recitation will take the exam in WA 231. Students having Lockhart will take the exam in E 219, and students having Ameel will take the exam in D 108.

Spanish Club Meeting

Spanish club members will exchange Christmas gifts at the club's meeting today at 7 p.m. in room 206 of the Student Union.

Following a business meeting, members will be entertained by Christmas music, and refreshments will be served, according to Juan Salazar, ME Fr, club publicity chairman.

Applications for Scholarship

Applications are now being taken for the Blue Key scholarship which is awarded annually to a male student entering his junior year. Applications are obtained from C. A. Jacot, secretary of the general scholarship committee. The application must be completed by April 1.

According to Jacot, only four men students applied for the scholarship last year.

The $200 Blue Key scholarship is based on high academic standing in college studies, leadership and service in college activities, and personality. Some consideration is given to financial need. Terry Turner, AH Jr from Waterville, is the current holder of the award.

The applicants who apply now should be of sophomore standing and will be entering their junior year next fall for eligibility.

SC Will Suggest Traffic Re-Routing

The Student Council voted last night to recommend that traffic along Mid-Campus drive, which runs in front of Anderson hall, be routed south instead of north.

The same recommendation proposes that traffic along Oak drive, which runs between President McCain's house and the triangular area in front of Anderson, be routed north instead of south.

The Council, acting on a motion by Jerry Holliday, will recommend these two changes to the traffic control board.

Such a proposal has been under discussion by the Council for several weeks as the group sought a way to move traffic through the campus with less congestion and fewer cross-traffic turns.

If this setup were adopted, traffic coming south past Holton hall could turn down to Aggieville or continue past Anderson, turning west past Kedzie.

Traffic along Vattier drive, which runs east and west, forming the third side of the triangle in front of Anderson, would still be a two-way drive.

The Constitution revisions committee introduced a possible new system of Council representation, but requested that action not be taken until the proposal is put into constitutional form at a later meeting. Some dissatisfaction was expressed about the proposal, which is designed to keep the representation of the six schools at somewhat a constant, but would enlarge the Council to include representatives from such groups as ISA, married students, and IFC.

The Council ROTC committee reported that it will "evaluate the basic ROTC program for a student who does not plan to enroll in advanced ROTC."

The committee plans to run a survey of veterans who have completed basic ROTC and military service, asking them if they thought their basic ROTC training was of any value to them while in the service.

Newton Anderson suggested that the Council try to get student wives admitted to basketball games at reduced prices, as is done for other College athletic events.

Student body president Pat Wilkerson said that technically none of the College's schools are chartered. He pointed out that the Constitution requires that the schools be chartered, and that evidently the requirement was forgotten about soon after it was put in.

"This may be a way out of the present complications of the Arts and Sciences constitution, if the charters are actually illegal," Wilkerson said. A number of campus disputes have arisen in recent years over clauses in the seemingly iron-clad constitution of that school.

The Council discussed whether or not it was fair for the Engineering Open House and Home Economics Hospitality Days to receive money from the apportionment board when the activities of other schools receive no such support.

Dean Wunderlich suggested that K-State offer some actual educational assistance to Hungarian student refugees arriving in the United States. Virtually the entire rebellion against Red oppression was led by students, Dean Wunderlich said.

A motion by Holliday was passed making the Campus Industries Investigating Committee a permanent student government committee, effective for the next school year.

Policy Not Clear

No Tribunal Action Taken Against Beer-Drinking Frat

Tribunal action against a K-State fraternity involved in a beer-drinking incident was stopped last night by a lack of clear College policy regarding drinking and what constitutes an alcoholic beverage, according to Keith Swenson, Tribunal Chancellor.

The action stemmed from evidence gathered by an elder brother of a Sigma Phi Epsilon pledge.

The man went to see his brother at the Sig Ep house during the latter part of October. He found fraternity members openly drinking beer in the fraternity house.

He left for a camera, returned, and took several pictures which he later presented to Dean of Students Herbert J. Wunderlich as evidence.

The Tribunal met once before last night and considered the case, but decided to reconsider since no Sigma Phi Epsilon representatives were present at the previous meeting.

At the first meeting, the Tribunal discussed action to deny the Sig Ep's the right to pledge men during the duration of the school year, to write Sigma Phi Epsilon national offices, and to put the fraternity on probation.

"The Tribunal will not make any recommendations until some further action has been taken by the College," Swenson said. "We can't act until the administration makes some clear statement about liquor and beer and their uses.

Swenson commented that Gary Rumsey, Inter-Fraternity council president, and V. D. (Tiny) Foltz, IFC faculty advisor, attended last night's meeting.

"The IFC has pledged itself to study the matter," Swenson said. "We're going to let the whole thing ride until we have a more firm basis to work on."

He said that the matter had been given to Dean Wunderlich who would give it in turn to a proper college authority for a statement from the College.

Ron Baker, Zoo Sr, Sigma Phi Epsilon president, said, "The Tribunal hasn't reached a decision yet. Not knowing all the facts, I don't want to comment."

"The Tribunal session was a very healthy one," assistant dean of students Charles Jacot said. "Student and faculty leaders attending sat down and dealt with this problem of beer drinking in a fraternity—it's both a college and a fraternity problem."

Only One Van Zile Girl In Student Health Today

Only one Van Zile resident remains hospitalized today as a result of the illnesses which struck the dormitory Sunday. The illnesses, of undetermined cause, appear to be under control.

Fifty-six girls from Van Zile were reported sick from food poisoning or intestinal flu Sunday by Herbert Wunderlich, dean of students.

"One girl from Waltheim hall has been admitted to Student Health today with symptoms similar to those the girls from Van Zile had, but it's hard to say if it's the same thing, Mrs. Andrews said. "All the girls are feeling much better today," she said.

"This illness is possibly not food poisoning but maybe intestinal flu," Dean Wunderlich said. "Mrs. Grace Shugart, Van Zile food service director, also became ill, but she hadn't eaten at the dorm. Other people around town have been having symptoms of a similar illness. With that kind of evidence, food poisoning seems unlikely."

Wunderlich said that it looks like some sort of stomach flu, but the cases are unusual because they have been isolated to Van Zile hall.

Bacteriologists are still checking the cause of illness, and test results should be revealed in a few days.

"Things are pretty much under control now," Dr. Benjamin Lafene, Student Health director, said. "There were only a few more cases today. It will take several days to decide what caused the illness."

Dr. Lafene declined to say what the cause of the illnesses might be because of the variety of possibilities.

"Nobody knows for sure what the cause is," Mrs. John Gibson, director of Van Zile hall, said. "The girls are better today. We haven't had any new cases," she said.

UGB Extends Reduced Fee For Bowling

The Union Governing Board approved a motion that will extend the weekly open bowling hours at 25c a line to Saturday mornings in the only action taken at their meeting last night.

A comparison of the 35 to 25 cents a line decrease during these afternoon hours shows that there has been an increase in the number who bowl during these hours.

During the period of October 1-5, prior to the reduction in price, an average of 64 lines were bowled per day. During a comparable period, December 10-14, an average of 116 lines per day were bowled at the reduced price.

Union Tree Trimming

PRESIDENT MCCAIN, Mrs. McCain, and daughter, Sheila, were among those who participated in the Union tree-trimming party yesterday afternoon.

Placement Schedules Over 400 Interviews

More than 230 senior interviews have been scheduled by the placement bureau by the end of this semester, according to Dr. Chester E. Peters, placement director.

It appears that interviews will not slow down next semester as 200 interviews have already been scheduled, Peters said.

"This number is considerably more than the 1953-54 school year, our first year of operation, when only 201 interviews were scheduled the entire year," he added.

"Some of the things that company representatives want to know about each person they consider for hiring are what he has accomplished, what he knows, what he is, and what he does with what he has," Peters explained.

In addition to his starting salary, an applicant must consider the company's working conditions, opportunities for advancement, job duties, benefits, and over-all reputation, he added.

"Applicants should keep a file of information about each company they are interested in. They should consider all the aspects, weigh advantages and disadvantages, then make their choice, be proud of it, and stick with it," he said.

Ride Service Is In Student Union

The student ride service booth will remain open on the main floor of the Student Union for the rest of the week.

Students needing rides home for Christmas vacation, and students wanting passengers are urged to leave their names and telephone numbers at the booth, according to Wally Brown, BA Jr.

The ride service booth is sponsored by Alpha Phi Omega, national scouting fraternity.

Clear-Cut Rule Is Needed Regarding Drinking at KS

THE TRIBUNAL last night refused to take action against Sigma Phi Epsilon social fraternity because of lack of a clear College policy regarding drinking and what constitutes an alcoholic beverage.

We think this action is justified and highly commend the Tribunal for taking such a stand.

By this action, the Tribunal in effect, is challenging the College's right to enforce the policy they now follow in regard to drinking.

THE COLLEGE bases their policy on G.S. 1949, 41-715, of the Liquor Control act of the State of Kansas which forbids the sale or delivery of alcoholic liquor to minors.

According to K-State's "Policy Concerning Use of Alcoholic Beverages," in the KSC Rules and Regulations:

"The College expects its students to abide by the laws of the state of Kansas and conduct themselves in a manner reflecting credit on themselves and the institution at all times. This is interpreted to mean that Kansas State college does not permit the consumption or possession of alcoholic beverages at any College function of whatever nature, on or off the campus; in or on the premises of any organized house; nor its possession or consumption by students in their rooms in private residences.

"SINCE MINORS are present in all living groups and at all student activities, the College interprets the above stated law to govern all students. Otherwise, Kansas State college would be placed in the position of sponsoring organizations and activities permitting non-compliance of the state law."

Although the Collegian does not condone drinking, we too would like a clear cut stand on the matter.

STATE LAW says that persons 18 years or older can legally purchase, carry, or drink beer. Unless there were persons under 18 involved in the Sig Ep incident, the College has no basis for action against the Sig Ep's and would not be placed "in the position of sponsoring organizations and activities permitting non-compliance of the state law."

If the present College policy is interpreted to mean that beer is an alcoholic liquor, and "minor" means everyone under 21, then every student over 18 years of age is penalized for the sake of a minority who are under 18.

At any rate we need a clear-cut regulation based on and within the scope of state law.—George Vohs.

Agreement Gives Poland Virtual Veto Over Soviet Troop Movements There

Compiled from United Press
By LANCE GILMORE

Warsaw, Dec. 18—The Communist newspaper Trybuna Ludu said today the new Polish-Soviet troop agreement would play a "considerable role in calming down the mood of Poland," where there have been recent anti-Soviet demonstrations.

The agreement signed here last night by Polish and Soviet officials gives Poland a virtual veto over the movement of Soviet troops stationed in Poland and control over Soviet troop movements into and out of Communist East Germany.

Soviet Foreign Minister Dmitri Shepilov and Defense Minister Marshal Georgi Zhukov, who came here from Moscow for the ceremony, were expected to fly back today. That would ensure they would not meet a delegation from Yugoslavia expected here tomorrow.

Alabama Elector Bolts Party

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 18—A presidential elector who signed the Democratic loyalty oath bolted the party yesterday and voted instead for an Alabama circuit judge and Georgia's Sen. elect Herman Talmadge.

W. F. Turner, a 65-year-old Montgomery accountant, refused to cast his electoral vote for the Democratic standard-bearers—Adlai Stevenson and Sen. Estes Kefauver—when the Alabama electorals met to ratify the November 6 election.

According to long-established custom, electors in each state vote for the presidential candidate who carried their respective states.

Therefore, since Stevenson carried Alabama November 11, the total electoral vote yesterday should have been: Eisenhower-Nixon—457; Stevenson-Kefauver—74. But loss of Turner's vote means Stevenson gets only 73.

The decision took the Alabama electors by surprise.

Hungary Reshuffle Rumored

Budapest, Dec. 18—Hungary's Communist government announced today it had arrested nearly 400 "rebels and criminals" in the past 24 hours in a new attempt to stamp out "counter-revolutionaries." Mass trials were expected to follow.

At the same time there were reports in government offices that the government may be reshuffled. Informed sources said talks between Premier Janos Kadar and non-Communist party leaders were expected to be opened before Christmas.

India's Had Many Changes Since End of Foreign Rule

By P. A. YOUNG

"INDIA HAS been under foreign rule for many years but since it has won its freedom many new changes are taking place, Dr. Mahendra Singh Bhangoo, soil researcher for the K-State agronomy department, said.

"The government has made education compulsory up to the grammar school, 8th grade level," Bhangoo said. "The government is encouraging coeducation by encouraging the building of non-separate schools for boys and girls."

BHANGOO CAME to the United States in 1951 and started work on his master's degree which he earned from UCLA in horticulture in 1953. That same year, Bhangoo came to K-State on an assistantship and started work toward his doctor of philosophy degree in soil fertility which he received last May. He is 27 years old and is unmarried.

Bhangoo's home is in the town of Ludhiana in the province of Panjab. His father is a farmer.

"BOYS DON'T talk freely to girls in India, courtship comes after marriage," Bhangoo said. "In India, the parents choose the mates for their children and there is no dating except that a boy can duction in terms of quantity," he added. "Most of the movies in India use folk songs and music that is written in our country," he said.

"Students enjoy most sports that were introduced by the British and they play hockey and cricket in the schools," Bhangoo said. The plays are usually of a historical nature," he added.

"INDIA IS trying to concentrate the holding of farmers and bring them into single blocks of land. Everyone lives in small villages and the land is broken into many small fields and this makes farming and soil fertility difficult.

"The government is trying to make the large land holders who own over 100 acres return it to the government if it is not being cultivated," Bhangoo said.

"MOST PEOPLE never see the real India because they are influenced by a lack of information about the country. We can buy consumer goods of all types but they are out of the economic reach of a majority of the people of India," Bhangoo said.

"The government is taking over the heavy industry. The scientists must work in government service because of the lack of industry in India," Bhangoo said.

"MORE USE of electrical power is being made since the new water power dams have been built. Atomic power is starting to be used in the industries of India because we lack natural the natural resources of coal and oil," Bhangoo said.

The new building program for India calls for the building of 13 major hydro-electric power projects. When these projects are completed in 1960 it will be possible to distribute electricity to 10,000 villages and 5,000 small towns, he explained.

MANY PEOPLE think United States plans will work for India but they do not realize the home problems," Bhangoo said. "Customs do not change quickly but progress is being made. For example, it used to be that all untouchables were discriminated against but now it is being outlawed. The government is also making it easier for untouchables to find work," he said.

When asked about the relations of Red China and India, Bhangoo said, "They are our neighbors and India is trying to maintain its democracy by keeping good relationships with Red China to prevent any uprising."

come to a girl's house if her parents invite him."

India is trying to solve its population problem by birth control education," Bhangoo said. The government has many extension programs that are being used to educate the people he said. "The population problem is best illustrated by the fact that every sixth man in the world lives in India," Bhangoo said.

"THERE IS no open kissing on the stage or movies in India," Bhangoo said. India ranks second to the United States in movie pro-

Cats Move Up 1 Notch; Ranked 8th This Week

Compiled from UNITED PRESS

K-State moved up one notch from last week's United Press basketball poll and is rated eighth in the nation this week. The Wildcats fourth straight win of the season, an 84-78 triumph over presently unranked Indiana, provided the lift.

Three Big Seven teams are in this week's top 20 teams. Along with the Cats' eighth place were Kansas, first, and Iowa State twelfth.

In two other games involving Big Seven teams last night; Nebraska edged Purdue, 65-62, and Colorado beat Idaho, 71-52. Kansas once again was a one-sided choice as the nation's No. 1 college basketball team, while a dog-fight developed for second place among North Carolina, Illinois, San Francisco, and Southern Methodist.

St. Louis and Oklahoma A&M, the perennial powers from the Missouri Valley conference, made big jumps to join this week's top 10 group in the ranking of the United Press board of coaches.

Thirty of the 35 leading coaches, who rate the teams weekly for the United Press, picked Kansas tops in the nation for the second week in a row.

Two coaches made fifth-ranked SMU their top choice, and one voted for runnerup North Carolina, sixth-ranked Louisville, and ninth-ranked St. Louis.

With points distributed on a 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis for votes from first to 10th place, Coach Dick Harp's Jayhawks received 327 out of a possible 350 points. North Carolina, Illinois, and San Francisco trailed with 218, 216 and 214 points, respectively, and SMU had 209. Kansas led North Carolina last week by 98 points.

Louisville, with 141 points, Kentucky (115), Kansas State (92), St. Louis (66), and the Oklahoma Aggies (53) completed the top 10

Team	Record	Points
1. Kansas	(4-0)	327
2. North Carolina	(4-0)	218
3. Illinois	(3-0)	216
4. San Francisco	(5-0)	214
5. Southern Methodist	(4-0)	209
6. Louisville	(5-1)	141
7. Kentucky	(4-1)	115
8. Kansas State	(4-0)	92
9. St. Louis	(3-1)	66
10. Oklahoma A & M	(6-1)	53

Second 10 teams—11. Ohio State; 12. Iowa State; 13. West Virginia; 14. St. John's (N.Y.); 15. Canisius; 16. Duke; 17. Western Kentucky; 18. UCLA; 19 (tie), Rice and Washington.

Cats Second In Gym Meet

The Nebraska Cornhuskers took six of the seven first places for 91½ points to win a quadrangular gymnastics meet in Ahearn Field house Saturday afternoon.

K-State finished second with 43½ points, Northwestern Oklahoma was third with 11 points, and Fort Hays State was fourth with 8.

The Wildcats' Bob Gramzow kept Nebraska from making a clean sweep by taking first place in the free exercise event. Gramzow was second high Cat scorer with 10 points. Richard Rood took top honors for K-State with 11 points.

Wayne Strickler of Nebraska was top scorer in the meet with 29 points.

Wildcat Wrestlers Top Ft. Hays, 16-11

K-State wrestlers decisioned Fort Hays State college grapplers, 16-11, in Ahearn fieldhouse yesterday afternoon.

The Cats claimed four winners, while Fort Hays took three. There was one draw.

James Miller of the Cats pinned Tiger grappler Pickenbaugh in 5:02 in the 137-pound class. Jim Caster, 147-pound Cat, decisioned Carpenter, 9-4. Other K-State firsts went to Dan Noe, 6-5 winner over Fort Hays' Chapman in the 167-pound class, and Jim Dietrich, 177-pounder who won over Jennings, 5-4.

K-State's Carl Schwalbe drew with Tiger Shaw, 3-3, in the 130 weight division. Billy Youngers lost, 10-8, to Fort Hays' Velharticky in the 123 class, and in the 157-pound class, McMillan of the Tigers won 5-0 over Glen Brandon of the Cats.

In the heavyweight division, Mayer of Fort Hays decisioned the Cats' Don Martin, 7-5

NICE WORK if you can get it—Being Santa Claus has its advantages, or at least it did at a Union lounge Christmas party Monday. During festivities Sandra Mueller, Tx C Sr, sat on Santa's (Gary Haynes, TJ Sr) lap as Santa waved to other coeds to see if they would like to do the same.

Old Cafeteria To Become New Home of Geologists

Thompson hall, the old College cafeteria, will be remodeled to house the geology department, according to R. F. Gingrich, director of the physical plant.

Materials are now on order and remodeling will start in two weeks. The work will be completed by June, Gingrich said.

Thompson hall is now being used by the institutional management department and part of the family economics staff. These two departments will remain in Thompson until the new home economics building is constructed. Remodeling won't be completed until then.

Although more than $60,000 was requested for the work, only $26,320 was appropriated at this time. The remainder of the request is expected when remodeling can be completed, according to Gingrich.

"Thompson hall will relieve the geology department's tight classroom situation in Fairchild hall," said Prof. Joseph Chelkowski, head of the department of geology and geography.

In the basement will be located a slide preparation room, drafting room, geochemical laboratory, a dust analysis room, and a mechanical analysis room where rocks and unconsolidated materials will be analyzed.

On the second floor will be a cartography room where geological, student distribution, crop production, and mineral location maps will be made. There will also be two classrooms, a map storage room, a crystal room where the physical aspects of crystals will be determined, a mineralogy and economic geology laboratory, and an optical mineralogy and petrography lab.

Traffic Board Speaks

Cops To Crack Down On Student Violators

The Traffic Control Board passed a motion yesterday to ticket all student cars that are parked in the faculty-staff parking lot north of the engineering building.

Since the parking lot situation leveled off a few weeks ago, tickets have not been issued to students parking in that area. The lot will only be open for faculty-staff cars for a short duration as operations for a new building are scheduled to start January 15.

The board also passed a recommendation to the city of Manhattan that they check into the traffic on problem corners around the K-State campus, and take any possible action.

Possible action suggested by the Board include crosswalks and stoplights for pedestrian crossings.

The campus problem corners named in the recommendation are: Anderson street and Mid Campus Drive, Anderson Street and Denison Street, 16th Street and Anderson Street, Denison Street and College Heights, and the crossing at Wesley Foundation.

Problem corners named on Manhattan Avenue are: Claflin

Road, Vattier Street, and Blue-mont Street.

The board also passed a motion to recommend, to the administration "expansion of traffic enforcement during the peak hours, with the work to be done by part-time student help."

There was also some discussion on using volunteer help for traffic enforcement during busy periods of the day. No action was taken on this since uniforms would be necessary and volunteer help was felt to be undependable.

Chairman of the Traffic Board, Professor Earl Edgar, named a committee to set up the traffic control map and regulations for the fall term. Members: P. A. Young, AgJ Jr; Laura Langford, EEd Jr; and Professor Jacob Smaltz, professor in industrial engineering and industrial arts.

It was decided to have the campus police check the staff parking lots at 3:30 every afternoon next week for a possible revision of the faculty-staff parking regulations.

This revision, "if passed," would allow students to park in the faculty-staff parking areas at 3:30 in the afternoon instead of the usual 5:00 regulations.

Handel's 'Messiah' Will Be Presented At Yule Assembly

A portion of "The Messiah" by George Frederick Handel will be presented at the annual Christmas assembly Thursday, at 9:30 a.m. in the College auditorium.

Accompaniment will be by the Messiah orchestra conducted by Luther Leavengood, head of the department of music.

Soloists for the assembly will be Virginia Roenbaugh, HT Sr, soprano; Elizabeth Hamilton, HT Fr, contralto; John Forsberg, VM Soph, tenor; and Jack Hartle, PsP Soph, bass.

The Messiah is Handel's most successful and best-known oratorio. It was composed in 1741 and was first performed in Dublin, Ireland in 1742 with Handel conducting the performance in person.

Nixon Enroute To Vienna To Aid Refugee Problem

Compiled from United Press
By ORVAL JACKSON and JANE MOORE

Vienna—Vice-President Richard M. Nixon was flying here today from Washington to open American doors for more Hungarian refugees and help the Austrian government take care of more than 60,000 refugees jammed into refugee camps here.

Fog which had shrouded Vienna's Schwechat airport for three days blew away during the night and the government announced Nixon would be able to land here. Earlier Nixon's plans called for him to land at fog-free Salzburg and proceed here by train.

Even before he landed, Moscow radio was denouncing his trip. It broadcast a dispatch in the Soviet Communist newspaper Pravda accusing him of flying to Austria to reorganize Hungary's ebbing fight for freedom and said he was jeopardizing Austria's neutrality.

The good weather at Vienna's airport swiftly changed Nixon's plans for the second time in 24 hours. U. S. Ambassador Llewellyn E. Thompson who was ready to board a train to Salzburg to greet Nixon there remained in Vienna.

Instead of visiting the refugee camps near Salzburg today, Nixon will visit them last as originally planned. Refugees who are to fly to the United States are now stationed at Seizenham camp near Salzburg.

Israel To Maintain Gaza

Jerusalem, Israel, Premier David Ben-Gurion told the Knesset (parliament) today Israel will not return the disputed Gaza strip to Egypt.

The Gaza strip is a finger of land that juts into Israel from Egypt along the Mediterranean coast, and some 200,000 Arab refugees are jammed into the area.

Israel won the Gaza strip in its push into the Sinai desert last month. Since then Israel said it would give up its conquests in Sinai but has been firm in retaining control of Gaza and the refugees who have lived there since they left what is now Israel during the 1948 Palestine war.

Ben-Gurion, in answering opposition questions in Knesset, said he would withhold comment on Eban's reported statement until he had the facts.

Brig. Yigal Alon, the left-wing Socialist deputy who posed the original question of Eban's alleged statement, recently expressed belief Israel should retain control of Gaza and absorb the refugees.

He also said repeatedly Israel should not return the Sinai peninsula until there is a peace agreement with Egypt. He suggested Israel halt its withdrawal about midway of the peninsula.

All-American Chorus Line To Throw Purple Garters

By Mary Beckmeyer

THE OKLAHOMA DAILY of the University of Oklahoma, announces that "The only All-American garter will be thrown by OU's All-American chorus". This announcement described the newly-formed act that will appear in a campus talent show. Since the idea originated two weeks ago, 12 members of OU's No. 1 football team, including two of the nation's outstanding players and six All-Americans, have been rehearsing night and day in preparation for their performance.

Phone Shutdown Rolls Back Years

Portsmouth, Ohio, Dec. 19, (U.P.)—For two months 50,000 residents of this southern Ohio town lived without telephone service.

Social life returned to the 1800's. People dropped in unexpectedly instead of calling. Teenagers made dates at church and had no way to call up and break them. Gas stations were swamped with thousands of cars delivering messages which would have been phoned.

The silence descended October 15 when the General Telephone Co. closed the exchange after a series of strike incidents. Service was restored to half of the town's 7,000 phones last Sunday.

Merchants reported a 10 per cent drop in trade. They sent salesmen out to knock on doors. The overall business loss ranged between $500,000 and $1.5 million. But banks reported increased activity. With no phone bills to pay and trading down, people put the extra cash into savings accounts.

"I've found one thing," said the spokesman for a secretarial service. "Those phones handled a lot of personal calls. The girls got more work done during the shutdown."

Police, fire and medical officials had a first-class problem.

To combat the crime and fire hazard, police set up emergency call boxes on most street corners. Taxicabs maintained radio contact with hospitals and police rushed emergency cases to doctors.

Police asked residents to turn on their porch lights in emergencies. Cruising taxis and police cars could spot the home requiring help.

Assistant fire chief G. E. Lewis reported that fire runs were cut nearly in half with only call box phones to turn in alarms.

Firemen who rushed to one call box found a woman sitting on the curb in pajamas.

When asked where the fire was, she replied, "No fire, I just had trouble breathing and that's the only way I knew to get an ambulance."

Newspaper and radio men had to leg it on their beats, but funeral homes brought in obituaries, and brides willingly delivered news of their weddings.

The strike started last July over a union shop, union jurisdiction, and arbitration of disputes. After what the company said were attacks on its property and personnel, phone service was suspended. The exchange was sandbagged and cut off by police roadblocks.

Governor Frank J. Lausche asked a special session of the legislature to let the state operate strikebound utilities. The proposal was rejected, 110 to 0.

The gridstar-studded chorus line includes Bob Timberlake, Jerry Tubbs, Tommy McDonald, D. Stiller, John Bell and Tom Emerson. Also included among the ballerinas are Ed Gray, Jay O'Neal, Bud Oujesky, and Jim Harris.

Dainty costumes of coral and lilac ruffled tu-tus with peach-colored leotards with adorn the chorus ballerinas. They will throw purple garters to the audience personally inscribed with each dancer's name.

However, the dancers will not wear ballet slippers but will wear their own shoes. The only definite footwear that has been reported are red and white cowboy boots for Jim Harris.

THE FOLLOWING item was included in the Old Main Column of the Gustavian weekly, published at Gustavus Adolphus college in St. Peter, Minn. With reference to this one, "don't let it give you any ideas!"

"The meek and mild pledges of a certain campus sorority should be thoroughly chastised for creating an irreparable scar in fraternity relations. The damage occurred at a meeting of the sorority, its pledges and the brother fraternity."

The pledges served the fraternity members cupcakes which had secretly been covered with a well-known chocolate-flavored cathartic. The catharsis was a bit too complete for some of the boys who had eagerly devoured four of the loaded cupcakes.

Needless to say, this fraternity has more get-up-and-go than any other fraternity on the campus.

This excerpt was taken from the column "The Gay Sophisticate" in Denver Clarion, University of Denver.

"Breathes there a college student with sould so dead

He to himself hath not said,
Why don't I have a rich aunt."
"How true, how true," many a student may murmur.

Sig Alph's Down Delts, 37-33; Stadium Subdues H.O.W., 39-32

Sigma Alpha Epsilon and West Stadium repeated from last year as fraternity and independent basketball champions last night with Delta Tau Delta and House of Williams getting the second spots in each division.

The Sig Alphas won 37-33 over the Delts, with Paul Bader hitting two field goals in the final 54 seconds to break a 33-33 tie.

West Stadium built up a 39-25 edge with 3 minutes left, then coasted in, 39-32, over the House of Williams.

The Delts led through most of the first half, leading 12-5 with 7:45 left. However, the Sig Alphas led the game at 17-17 on two free tosses by Jim Murray with 3:11 remaining.

John Costello hooked in a field-er with 2:39 left to put Sigma Alpha Epsilon ahead, 19-17, and an exchange of baskets gave the Alph's a 21-19 intermission lead.

West Stadium pulled away from House of Williams, 19-13 at halftime then built a 14-point margin before the second half had ended.

John Solmos paced the Stadium with 12 points, although Gary Wing, H.O.W. center, took game honors with 16. Norm Pfeifer had eight for West Stadium to rank behind Solmos and Wing.

KU Edges California; The Stilt Held To 23

Berkeley, Calif., (U.P.)—Kansas university, with its fabulous sophomore star Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain "held" to 23 points, trailed for 30 minutes and then fought from behind in the waning moments of the game to defeat a spirited California team, 66-56.

California opened in front when forward Larry Friend swished a two-handed push shot with 30 seconds gone and then, save for a 2-2 tie a half minute later, they led until 10½ minutes of the second half were gone.

At this point, with California's spark plug guard Earl Robinson, out of the game with five fouls, Kansas moved into the lead when Lewis Johnson scored on a layup to make it 47-45.

Assembly Features Handel's 'Messiah'

Selections from Handel's Messiah were presented at this morning's 9:30 assembly in a nearly-filled Auditorium. The Christmas assembly is presented annually by the music department.

Members of the A Cappella choir, College chorus, Women's Glee club, and the College-Civic orchestra combined to present the performance.

Luther Leavengood, music department head, conducted the program. Soloists were Virginia Roenbaugh, HT Sr, soprano; Elizabeth Hamilton, HT Fr, contralto; John Forsberg, VM Soph, tenor; and Jack Hartle, PsP Soph, bass.

Although the program lasted nearly 10 minutes past its scheduled end, an attentive audience remained for the final strains of the Hallelujah chorus.

The College-Civic orchestra opened the program with the Overture from the Messiah. Forsberg rendered solos "Comfort Ye My People," and "Every Valley Shall Be Exalted."

Hartle sang "Thus Saith the Lord," and "But Who May Abide the Day of His Coming."

Miss Hamilton sang "Behold, a Virgin Shall Conceive," "O

Thou That Tellest Good Tidings of Zion," and "Then Shall the Eyes of the Blind Be Opened."

Miss Roenbaugh sang a four part Recitative including "There Were Shepherds Abiding in the Field," and "And Suddenly There Was with the Angel," as well as "He Shall Feed His Flock Like a Shepherd" just before the finale, "Hallelujah," by the Chorus.

The Chorus' singing included "For Unto Us a Child Is Born," and "Hallelujah" for which the audience traditionally stands.

"The Messiah" was composed by Handel in 1741 and has enjoyed continuous popularity since that time. Today's crowd apparently was as well pleased with this rendition as other crowds have been.

Pre-Enrollment To Reach 4200

Pre-enrollment is expected to reach 4,200 by Friday, according to E. M. Gerritz, director of admissions and registrar.

At the close of the pre-enrollment period yesterday afternoon, 3,924 students had enrolled.

More than 1,100 students were ineligible to pre-enroll because of low grades at the nine weeks period, said Gerritz.

"We are well satisfied with the way pre-enrollment has progressed. Seven-eighths of the students eligible took advantage of the early enrollment," said Gerritz.

Fees must be paid by January 25, 1957, or class cards will be replaced for other students' use. About one-third of the students have already paid.

"Next spring we will work for better communication between advisors and students on the line numbers that are closed, and we'll schedule students to enroll alphabetically to prevent long lines from forming," said Gerritz.

At the end of yesterday's pre-enrollment activities the Arts and Sciences School had the largest number of pre-enrollees with 1,589.

The Engineering school has the second largest number of students pre-enrolled with 1,054, and the School of Agriculture was third with 571.

The Home Economics School and Veterinary Medicine came next with 387 and 198. The Graduate school was last with 125.

K-Staters Will Lead Big Seven Convention

K-Staters will lead the Big Seven Student Governing association conference at Kansas City university, December 27-28.

Pat Wilkerson, BA Sr and SGA president at K-State, was elected chairman of the conference by the SGA representatives of member schools last year.

K-State's representatives are Wilkerson, Ron Bryant, ME Sr; Dick Peterson, ME Sr; Jerry Holliday, ArE Soph; Neil Scott, Zoo Jr; Bill Patton, VM Soph; Elin McCandless, HDA Jr; Marilyn Smith, Soc Sr; Dixie Brown, HDA Jr; and Carolyn Moore, BA Soph.

Wilkerson said that he expected from 35 to 40 delegates from the Big Seven schools. "All the schools will be represented, and all the student body presidents will be there."

Each school is entitled to four votes, although more than four delegates can attend.

The conference will begin at 9:30 a.m. on Thursday, the 27th with an hour long registration period. Between 10 and 10:30, Wilkerson will conduct an all-delegate session, with Bryant providing an opening invocation.

The conference will break up into two groups for discussion until noon after the opening session.

Representatives are assigned to a discussion group by their student governments before coming to the conference so that they may have time to prepare for discussion.

Bryant and Holliday will lead one of the two discussion groups. Scott and Peterson will head the other.

Two hour and a half long discussion periods broken by a 5-minute coffee break are on the agenda for Thursday afternoon.

Wilkerson will serve the K-State delegates dinner at his home at 5:30 p.m. Thursday evening.

Friday's session will begin with a general assembly at 10 a.m. Discussion periods will be between 10:30 a.m. and noon, and 1:30 and 3 p.m.

The conference will adjourn at 4:30 after a coffee break and the session's final general assembly.

One discussion group will cover Big Seven athletic policies, traffic and parking problems, honor systems, campus radio stations, drinking regulations, the migrations and transportation problem, the college newspaper's relation to student government, course and instructor evaluations, and pre-enrollment.

The other group will discuss student government structure, activities evaluation systems, campus, religious education, lobbying by student council members in state legislatures, student council retreats, foreign students' problems, and student union-student government relationships.

Santa Claus To Budapest In Kadar Placation Effort

Budapest Dec. 20—The Communist government of Hungary rehabilitated Santa Claus today.

The old gentleman in the red cloak and white whiskers reappeared in shops and department stores throughout this battle-scarred city for the first time since Father Frost, the Christmas symbol of Russia, took Santa's place several years ago.

Santa's appearance was an obvious attempt by Premier Janos Kadar's Communist regime to placate the still-defiant nation and restore an air of normality.

For the first time in 10 years Christmas trees were set up in the city squares. Even more surprising, Budapest radio broadcast traditional Christmas songs and made numerous references to the Christmas story of Christ in the manger.

School children were given Christmas presents for the first time in years and gaped wide-eyed at lighted Christmas trees in their classrooms.

New Suez Delays Are Likely

London, Dec. 20 — Egypt accused France today of "deporting" 156 Egyptian officers and men and called off a scheduled exchange of prisoners of war with the Anglo-French command.

The accusation came amid indications of new delays in the United Nations assignment to open the blocked Suez canal and get badly-needed oil supplies flowing again to Western Europe.

Authoritative sources in Cairo said Israel's refusal to give up the Gaza strip may throw a major block in the negotiations for clearing the vital waterway.

Postponement of the prisoner exchange scheduled for today was announced by an Egyptian government official in Cairo.

He said the transfer of troops captured by both sides in the recent fighting was called off "because we have been informed that the French have deported six Egyptian officers and 150 soldiers." The UN emergency force command was to act as the intermediary.

African Trial Crowd Fired On

Johannesburg, Dec. 20—South African police opened fire today on crowds demonstrating outside the hall where parliamentary hearings were held in a mass treason trial.

First reports said an African and an elderly white person were wounded.

The government rushed riot police into action last night to control a crowd of 5,000 shouting Africans demonstrating at opening of the trial.

A huge crowd gathered outside the Johannesburg drill hall today for the second day of the hearings in the cases of 151 persons accused of treason and violations of the anti-Communist laws.

Ike, Nehru Results Out Today

Washington, Dec. 20—President Eisenhower and Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru consider their Washington-Gettysburg talks a success even though they reached no strong agreements, intimates of both leaders said today.

As Nehru prepared to leave for New York American and Indian diplomats agreed that the success was in a broader understanding of what each nation is trying to accomplish toward world peace. There was no agreement, however, on a uniform policy toward Red China.

A communique on their talks is to be released by the White House this morning at about the same hour Nehru and his official party depart from Washington.

Mr. Eisenhower, an exponent of personal diplomacy, is known to feel that his talks with Nehru were fruitful even though no specific agreements resulted. A high administration official said, "We are very pleased with Mr. Nehru's visit."

Kansan Wins Part Of Freedom Fight

THE UNIVERSITY Daily Kansan won part of their fight for freedom of the press yesterday when Chancellor Franklin D. Murphy said that the KU student paper could take a stand on campus politics.

The Chancellor said that although he could not allow the Kansan to take sides in national politics, he saw no reason why student editorial writers could not express their views on campus politics.

GOVERNOR FRED Hall said he saw nothing wrong with editors of the University Daily Kansan "getting their feet wet politically" and "getting as partisan as they please."

"I am not sure I agree with the chancellor's refusal to approve partisanship," the governor said. "The students should appreciate that their actions always reflect on the university. But it should be a training ground for future citizenship. I hope the board of regents will give serious consideration to the student request."

CHANCELLOR MURPHY and the Kansan board, the governing body of the student paper, met yesterday after several days' hassle over the neutrality issue, between students and Bruton Marvin, dean of the Journalism school. The Kansan Board, December 4 voted 16 to 4, with one abstention, to amend the constitution and allow editorializing on politics on and off the campus.

Chancellor Murphy said a representative of the Kansan board will be invited to attend a meeting with the Board of Regents to discuss the issue January 18.

"DEAN MARVIN and I see no insuperable problem about taking sides in campus politics," Chancellor Murphy said, but added, "The University of Kansas belongs to all the people of the state, no matter that their political creed. It is therefore expected that the university does not take a partisan political position on the state and national level."

"The problem is then basically whether or not a political position by the University Daily Kansan can be different from a position taken by the university. There is no desire on the part of anyone to restrict freedom of expression. The problem is to be perfectly sure that responsibility for a political position falls on him who takes it."

"AFTER ALL, the University of Kansas belongs to the citizens of the state. It must therefore as an institution take no partisan position. The basic question is whether the University Daily Kansan can take a partisan position in state or national politics without it being construed as a partisan position on the part of the university itself. The matter is complex and it needs further discussion on the part of the Kansan board, Dean Marvin, myself and the board of regents."

Personality' Placed Second In National Editorial Contest

By ED KOCHER

THE NATION'S second best engineering student-editorial writer is this week's Collegian Personality of the Week. He is Dick Peterson, ME Sr, whose K-State Engineer editorial, "A Full Time Job," took second in competition recently at the Engineering College Magazine association's national convention.

Of his second-place award, Peterson comments:

"I felt it was a great honor, but was sort of disappointed in not getting first after coming so close."

PETERSON, WHO recently editorialized on "Kansas State university," said: "The best thing that could happen to this school would be a change in name from Kansas State college to Kansas State university."

Like all editors, Peterson has his troubles. The main problem in getting the "Engineer" out on time, he notes, is "getting article assignments in." "The sub-editors and staff are certainly outstanding, and do a lot of hard work for the credit they receive," Peterson said.

"WE HAD TO live the magazine in order to compete with the national magazines. Students only have so much time to read so we try to give them a magazine which they want to read."

"We have also given them a larger magazine so far this year, as we have received more advertisements, and have more money to work with."

PETERSON SAID, that "probably the largest change in the magazine this year is tying the magazine cover in with the contents by placing the names of some articles on the cover." He said there has also been some enlargement and more use of color than in the past.

Peterson said he ran for Student Council because he felt it was the organization on the campus that can do the most for the students.

"I felt I could get some experience in working with people, one of the most important assets to an engineer."

PETERSON SAID he wishes "K-State would set up an honor system. Several schools have honor systems that work well. They place the burden of responsibility for honesty on the student himself."

Concerning the student council traffic committee, of which he is a member, Peterson said:

"EVEN THOUGH we have a traffic problem at K-State, it is not bad in comparison to some other campuses and towns. I worked in Cincinnati last summer and it took me 45 minutes to drive the 12 miles to and from work. Here we worry about taking a few extra minutes."

Some of Peterson's other activities on the K-State campus are: member of the engineering council, member of Phi Tau Sigma, Mechanical Engineering honorary, American Society of Mechanical Engineers, and the Institute of Aeronautical Engineers. He is a past vice-president of the Integrity council, and is past president and vice-president of the House of Williams.

Students Challenge Collegian Article

Dear Editor:

MAY WE ask what your basis was for the red headlines in Monday's Collegian stating "Illness of 56 Due to 'Food Poison'?"

Your first paragraph stated "these girls were reported sick from food poisoning according to Herbert Wunderlich." Following that we have more authoritative statements from two doctors to the effect that the cause of the sickness is unknown, and there was no real need to print the story in the Collegian because the cause was unknown. Therefore, the article is made a feature story, headlines and all.

TO RUIN an individual's good name is one of the gravest wrongs which can be committed. I wonder if the Collegian reporter ever gave any thought to the effect this unfounded article and blaring headlines would have on our dietitian, as well as our house directors and others concerned.

We can confidently say that Miss Charlotte Bartels, food director at Van Zile is one of the most considerate, conscientious, and cooperative persons we have known. This we are sure is the opinion of all students and employees who know her.

HAD THIS article been factual and its position in the paper subdued, the recognition might have been tolerated, but at present there is nothing but suppositions on which to base this article.

Editor's Note:

THE INFORMATION in the red headline on Monday's paper was furnished the Collegian by Dean Herbert Wunderlich. All other sources but one would not comment because Dean Wunderlich left specific instructions that the Collegian should call him for information.

One doctor, not two commented, and he said that the illness was "more than likely food poisoning." His "second guess" was intestinal flu.

THE COLLEGIAN felt that the story was of sufficient magnitude to print and did so with all the facts available. A re-reading of the story is recommended to the students who wrote the letter.

Wildcats Hit Road for Two— Gophers Tonight, Then Iowa

By KEITH KEMPER

K-State meets Minnesota tonight in the first of two games this week on the Cats first extended road trip of the basketball season. Both games will be against Big Ten schools.

Tonight the Wildcats put their four game winning streak and national rankings on the line in Minneapolis. Saturday night K-State goes to Iowa City to meet Iowa U.

The Wildcats will open with the same five starters who have held the spotlight in the Cat's four previous games this season. The group includes Hayden Abbott and Bob Boozer, forwards; Jack Parr, center; and Roy DeWitz and Eddie Wallace, guards.

All five starters have averaged in the double figures with Parr leading the field sporting a 20.5 average for the five games. The Wildcat pivot man hit for 26 points against Indiana last Saturday night as K-State beat the Hoosiers, 84-77 in an overtime period.

Behind Parr is Boozer with a 19 point average followed by Abbott with 12, Wallace with an 11.5, and DeWitz with a 10.8 average.

Going along with the high shooting averages is the outstanding rebound strength shown by the Cats in their early games.

Parr is leading the Cats in this department with a 19-a-game average. As a team, K-State has out-rebounded their opponents by almost 20 clearances a game, thus enabling the Cats to get off enough shots to maintain their 90 percent plus game average.

The Golden Gophers will have to rely on speed and quickness to overcome K-State's dominating height advantage.

Leading the Gophers will be Captain Dave Tucker, 6-4 forward, and returning lettermen George Kline and Jed Dommeyer. Kline is a 6-4 forward while Dommeyer, 6-3, will be opposite Parr at the post.

Completing the Minnesota team is Buck Lindsley and George Hanson, both 6-0 guards.

Wildcat coach Tex Winter said, "These are two games that will really be tough. Both schools are strong contenders for the Big Ten crown this season. We are happy that one Big Ten team victory is already under our belts."

Game time is set for 8:00 p.m. Probable starters:

K-State	Minnesota
Abbott (6-3)	F (6-4) Kline
Boozer (6-7)	F (6-4) Tucker
Parr (6-9)	C (6-3) Dommeyer
DeWitz (6-3)	G (6-0) Lindsley
Wallace (5-10)	G (6-0) Hanson

Collegiate 4-H

Group Christmas caroling will be featured on the program of the Collegiate 4-H meeting today at 7 p.m. in Nichols gym.

A short business meeting and a recreation period will be included on the program, according to Pat Clary, TJ Jr, publicity chairman.

Architecture Party

A Christmas party for students and faculty members of the architecture department will be today from 2 p.m. to 4 in the architecture lounge on the third floor of Seaton hall, according to Charles Hight, Ar 05.

The party is sponsored by the American Institute of Architects.

Architecture Assembly

Dwight Brown, state architect of Kansas, will discuss the new office building, located in Topeka, at an assembly required for all architecture students today at 4 p.m. in Engineering Lecture hall.

The assembly is sponsored by the American Institute of Architects.

Union Yule Party

Students are invited to attend an all-college Yule party tonight, in the main lounge of the Union, from 7 to 9 p.m.

Prof. John Keltner, head of the speech department, will read Charles Dickens' "Christmas Carol" followed by musical numbers by the Manhattan high school chorus.

Refreshments will be served after the program.

Home Economics Tea

All home economics students are invited to a tea today from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. in Calvin lounge.

Delta Phi Delta

Thirty-one K-State student and faculty members of Delta Phi Delta, honorary art fraternity, and their guests, will visit the Chrysler Exhibition at the William Rockhill Nelson Gallery of Art, Kansas City, Mo., Saturday afternoon.

The 100 paintings in this special exhibit are part of the Walter P. Chrysler Jr., collection, one of the largest and most important private collections in this country, according to J. Cranstons Heintzelman, faculty adviser of Delta Phi Delta.

Debate Team

Two K-State debate teams had 3-1 records in the University of Arkansas tourney at Fayetteville this past weekend.

They were a senior team composed of David Nuttle, AH Jr, and Anita Grimm, Soc Jr, and a junior team of Sharon Nuttle, PrL Fr, and Dan Hahn, Sp Soph.

In individual events, Tom Bowman, placed second in extemporaneous speaking, and Miss Grimm was third in oratory.

More than 80 teams from 25 schools in 12 states participated in the tourney, according to Charles Goetzinger, debate coach.

Next competition for the K-State debaters will be January 11 and 12 at Millsaps college, Jackson, Miss., and William Jewell College, Liberty, Mo.

Play Tryout Slated

Play tryouts for "A Street Car Named Desire," the third major production of the K-State Players, will begin January 8, in the Auditorium at 7 p.m.

Copies of the script are on reserve at the College library and students may check out copies and read the script before the tryouts.

The play won the Pulitzer Prize in 1947 and was made into a movie.

Dean Weber to London

Dr. A. D. Weber, dean of the School of Agriculture, the only United States judge ever to be invited to judge the championships of the Smithfield Livestock Show, arrived in London December 5, to judge the show which was to be held the latter part of last week.

This is Dr. Weber's second appearance as judge at the show as he also judged there in 1953.

The show was started in 1798, and has been held annually since. It is comparable to our own International which is held every year.

Student's Poster Decorates Office

A holiday greeting poster designed by Mary Faye Frazier, HEA Jr, decorates the outer office of President McCain.

The three-dimensional poster, made of heavy red and gray paper and decorated with juniper sprays, was made by Miss Fraizer in a lettering class.

VOLUME LXIII

Kansas State College, Manhattan, Kansas, Friday, December 21, 1956

NUMBER 66

Don't Feel Bad

1,516 Couldn't Pre-Enroll Because of Low Grades

If you didn't get to pre-enroll because of low grades, don't feel bad—a total of 1,516 students were not eligible.

Slightly more than 34 per cent of the students in the Engineering School were flunking one or more courses at mid-semester, according to Richard C. Potter, associate dean.

Engineering has an enrollment of 1,984, and 682 engineering students were not eligible to pre-enroll because of low grades at the nine weeks.

The Graduate School did not list anyone ineligible to pre-enroll, according to Dean Harold Howe.

In the School of Agriculture, 253 of the 820 students were not eligible to enroll because of low grades. This was 23 per cent of the students, according to Assistant Dean Clyde Mullen.

Only 10 of 264 students in the School of Veterinary Medicine had low grades at the nine weeks. This made 3.7 per cent of the students ineligible to pre-enroll, according to Dean E. E. Leasure.

In the School of Arts and Sciences, 505 of the 2,410 students had low grades at mid-term. Thus 20 per cent of the students were not eligible to pre-enroll, according to Assistant Dean Orval Ebberts.

About 13 per cent of the students in the School of Home Economics were not eligible to pre-enroll, according to Prof. Margaret Raffington. She said 66 of the 523 students were not eligible to pre-enroll.

All Roads Leading Home for Holidays

Christmas vacation begins tomorrow at noon, according to A. L. Pugsley, dean of academic administration. Classes will resume Monday, January 7, at 8 a.m.

The K-State Union will close tomorrow at noon, and will open again Sunday, January 6, at 2 p.m.

Veterans attending school under Public Law 550 of the GI Bill, who have not signed monthly certification forms for their December paychecks, can sign today in A 118, according to Wendell Kerr, veterans service officer.

Today's issue of the Collegian is the last for 1956. The next Collegian will come off the presses Tuesday, January 8.

The Collegian staff wishes you a merry time during the holidays. We also hope you'll drive safely enough to make it back to school for final exams.

KS Fraternities Pledge 110 Since Rush Week's End

Twenty-one K-State social fraternities have pledged 110 men since rush week ended this year, according to V. D. Foltz, faculty adviser for fraternities.

During rush week, the fraternities pledged 397 of the 435 men who went through rush. The 397 figure set an all-time high for rush-week pledgings at K-State.

Last year, fraternities pledged 342 during rush week. By November 17th, 64 more men had pledged since then.

Delta Sigma Phi leads fraternities in pledging since rush week with nine new pledges. Other fraternities include Alpha Epsilon Pi, Phi Kappa Phi, and Sigma Phi Epsilon. Each fraternity has pledged at least one man since rush week.

See Ya Later Elliot Residents Probably Won't Have To Move

Married students now living in Elliot Courts probably will not have to move out of their apartments because of the construction of new men's dormitories, the housing director's office says.

However, those students who rent apartments after January 1, 1957, will receive only a temporary assignment. They cannot be assured of keeping the apartment after next summer.

Construction of the men's dorms is indefinite. As plans now stand, no one living in Elliot Courts will have to move out before he graduates, the housing office says.

It is hoped that natural vacancies will give space for the first dorm.

As the apartments are torn down to make space for the dorms, their tenants will be shifted to other apartments in Elliot and Hilltop courts as vacancies occur.

Members of Collegian Staff Extend Seasons Greetings

IN THE holiday spirit, all members of the Collegian staff wish to extend our best wishes for a MERRY CHRISTMAS and a HAPPY NEW YEAR to everyone on campus. We hope that everyone can get a bit of relaxation and fun and return full of vim and vigor.

It might not hurt (just a suggestion of course) to take one or two books home for spare-time studying in case boredom creeps in during the long vacation.

WE KNOW you're tired of hearing the same old line, but perhaps just one more reminder won't hurt. Please drive safely.

Kansas is headed for a record year in the number of traffic deaths and with the enrollment fee what it will be next year, we would hate to have a loss in revenue because of a traffic accident. Especially since some wise guy might want to raise the Student Union or Student Health fees to make up for the revenue loss.

DEAN OF Students Herbert

Wunderlich told the Collegian today that all student personnel staff are free to give information about their services as they see fit.

He said he doesn't know how the misunderstanding about the "food poisoning" arose, but there was no reason why the staff involved could not have given the Collegian information.

He said that the persons involved evidently realized the implications of the story and thought the information should come from him.

NEXT YEAR looks like another tough year for K-Staters. Just one glance at the football schedule will bear this out. I notice that we have only four home games again next year out of ten scheduled. Shucks! Ain't hardly worth buying an activity ticket except to enjoy the tremendous suspense before the halftime announcement of the Homecoming queen.—George Vohs.

Voluntary ROTC Issue Causes Hot Controversy for Students At University of California Where 2-Year Basic Is Required

By JIM BELL

STUDENTS AT the University of California in Berkeley are engaged in a fight for voluntary ROTC training as opposed to the required 2-year basic course. K-Staters appear to be on the brink of a similar undertaking.

If K-State students decide to go ahead, the road will probably be a long one. In order to make the switch, Kansas law must be changed.

CALIFORNIA'S struggle can be dated as far back as 1940, when a referendum asking for a change was placed on the ballot of a student election. The result was a 3-1 margin in favor of the switch, but when this was presented to the school's Board of Regents, they refused to change the requirements.

California's executive committee voted to put the ROTC referendum on the ballot to determine student opinion at a recent student government election.

ALTHOUGH final results are not available at this writing, The Daily Californian, Cal's student newspaper, reported "it is fairly certain that the student referendum for voluntary ROTC passed by a 2-to-1 majority." That report was made four days after the election.

If the vote trend continued and the final result was a large majority favoring the change, the California student representatives will be expected to ask their Board of Regents to change the requirements.

RUMORS THAT the University's Academic senate intended to debate compulsory ROTC set off this year's fight at California. The issue was put on the ballot and a student committee was formed to sell students on the change.

However, the committee clashed with the school's administration six days before the voting.

DEAN OF STUDENTS H. E. Stone refused to let the committee distribute a pamphlet on the California campus, mainly because of the added strain on the janitorial staff that might have been caused by littering the leaflets, according to the Daily Californian.

THE EXECUTIVE committee voted down a motion to ask Stone's reconsideration, but Bob Falk, Daily Californian editor, promised both sides equal space in the paper for the pamphlets' content on the day of the election.

Although this would seem to be fair enough, the ROTC department violated the ruling by distributing pro-compulsory pamphlets in military science classes. The action brought Falk's wrath down upon the ROTC department in an editorial, although he still gave each side of the issue equal space in the election edition of the Daily Californian.

DEAN STONE later clarified his stand, by pointing out that it had not been the school's policy to allow the distribution of literature unless it concerned student government or University agencies or activities.

IF COMPULSORY ROTC should be put to a vote at K-State, and if the students should decide that a change were needed, the Student Governing association would probably request that the Board of Regents ask the Kansas legislature to change the law.

California, like Kansas State, is a land-grant school under the Morrill act. The act requires that military training be offered in land-grant schools, however, a state law passed in 1935 makes ROTC compulsory at K-State.

PAT WILKERSON, BA Sr. and K-State's student body president, said in a story that appeared in the Collegian Wednesday, December 12, that he believed the legislature could be induced to

Top Ten Tunes 'Singing Blues' Still Tops Manhattan Song Parade

By Nancy Molter

GUY MITCHELL'S "Singing the Blues" is still the number one song in Manhattan this week according to record sales. "Green Door" and "Love Me Tender" follow closely. A new addition to the top ten this week is the "Banana Boat Song" by the Tarriers.

The ten top tunes this week in Manhattan are

1. "Singing the Blues," Guy Mitchell
2. "Green Door," Jim Lowe
3. "Love Me Tender," Elvis Presley
4. "Blueberry Hill," Fats Domino
5. "Just Walking in the Rain," Johnnie Ray
6. "True Love," Jane Powell
7. "Hey, Jealous Lover," Frank Sinatra
8. "Honky Tonk," Bill Doggett
9. "Baby Doll," Andy Williams
10. "Banana Boat Song," the Tarriers

OTHER SONGS selling fast this week are "Moonlight Gambler," Frankie Laine; "Tra La La," Georgia Gibbs; "City of Angels," The Highlights; "Since I Met You, Baby," Ivory Joe Hunter; "I Dreamed," Betty Johnson; and "Confidential," Rusty Draper.

Stan Kenton fans will be interested in his album, "Encores" in which he brings back some of his most popular songs. "Lover," "He's Funny That Way," "Peg O' My Heart," "Please Be Kind," "Piano and Bongo," and "Abstraction" are some of the revived records.

CHRIS CONNER'S latest album is entitled "He Loves Me, He Loves Me Not." Chris sings "High on a Windy Hill," "Angel Eyes," "Why Can't I," "Suddenly It's Spring," "About the Blues," and "Oh, You Crazy Moon," in this album.

"Blues by Basie," by Count Basie has such blues tunes as "Tooties," "How Long Blues," "Bugle Blues," "Royal Garden Blues," "Bluebeard Blues," "The Golden Bullet," and "Nobody Knows."

LEONARD BERNSTEIN looks at jazz with the assistance of some of its leading exponents in "What Is Jazz." Buck Clayton, Bessie Smith, Miles Davis, Teo Macero, Buster Bailey, and Louis Armstrong help Bernstein discover jazz.

"Listen! To the Hi Lo's" is the newest release of the Hi Lo's. The modern quartet sings "Fools Rush In," "Have You Met Miss Jones," "Whatever Lola Wants," "Little White Lies," and "You Brought a New Kind of Love to Me" in this popular album.

CARMEN CAVALLARO at the piano plays "Carnival in Venice" which is also the name of the new release. Other piano arrangements by Cavallaro are "Serenade," "Tango of Roses," "Ciribiribin," "Oh, Marie," "O Sole Mio," "Come Back to Sorrento," and "Santa Lucia."

Al Hibbler sings his hit record in his new album, "After the Lights Go Down Low." "Song of the Wanderer," "Tell Me," "Autumn Winds," "The Blues Came Falling Down," "This Is Always," "Dedicated to You," and "I'm Travelin' Light" are also sung by the popular vocalist.

THE INDIANA DAILY Student at Indiana University reports a big swimming party being held in the street in front of the men's dorms last week.

"Take one Jordan River, angry at being pushed underground, add heavy rains and a flash flood, sprinkle liberally with lads clad only in underwear, and you have a recipe for a midnight swimming party."

The men, taking advantage of the warm night and the deep water, (over six feet deep in spots) splashed very undecember-like in the muddy water amid cheers (and jeers) from bystanders.

By the next morning, the river had subsided and showed no signs of the "beach party" the night before.

FOUND IN the Loyola Maroon (New Orleans) were some well expressed sentiments under the title of Scenes I Will Never See, or, I Should Live So Long.

"Since this isn't your only class there will be no . . ."

"I am in perfect agreement with the author of your text," or "The test is cancelled."

Folk Dancing Is Much More Sociable Than Modern Dancing, Prof Believes

FOLK DANCING, better known as square dancing, is a more sociable form of entertainment than modern dancing, says Dr. Hurley Fellows, professor of botany and plant pathology.

Dr. Fellows, who has called square dances for more than 10 years, believes that folk dancing mixes up a group better and makes more friends.

"I first became interested in these dances following World War II. Our church had so many young people that we didn't know how to entertain them," Dr. Fellows said.

"I THOUGHT they might like something different and started reading all the books I could find on the subject. The young people were all for it," he said.

Once confined to the backwoods, folk dancing has become increasingly popular during the last few years. Some square dance clubs have made tours all over the country, he said.

"Folk dancing is fun and should be taught that way. When teaching a group that has never tried it before, I can usually have them all out on the floor dancing within 15 minutes," he added.

DR. FELLOWS has called square dance numbers for groups ranging from children to college professors. He is chief caller for the K-State faculty square dance club which meets twice a month.

His services are often called for by 4-H clubs and church groups. "One evening I called from 6 to 9 and from 9:30 to midnight," Dr. Fellows said. "I also called six other dances the same week," he added.

A CALLER must know as much about a dance and show more enthusiasm than the dancers themselves. A loudspeaking system helps him work up more interest in a group.

He must have clearly in mind the particular folk dance he is to call. Sometimes two or three hours are needed to prepare for an evening of dancing in order to work out a good schedule, Dr. Fellows explained.

"OLD TIMERS never learned how to call more than six or seven different folk dances. Nowadays, we learn 75 to 100," he added.

Whenever his services are called for, Dr. Fellows always finds out how much experience the group has had before the dance starts.

"This makes it easier to select the right varieties. I don't like to pick out a group of dances that are too easy or too difficult," he said.

"SOME DANCERS like the same variety year after year while others like something new. Selecting the right dance is no hit and miss proposition."

Dr. Fellows is usually accompanied by a phonograph but sometimes he accompanies himself. His "singing calls" with a guitar are favorites to many square dance groups.

"I LIKE TO dance as well as call. Sometimes I just play a record with another caller's voice and join in the fun. I'd rather do this anytime than play golf," he grinned.

Once on a botany field trip, Dr. Fellows stopped to watch a folk dance in a western Kansas town. Someone in the group recognized him and asked him to "call a few numbers."

"The group was so enthused that they kept me busy until 2 a.m.," he said.

Gold Prospector Nets $3

By CHARLENE STRAH

GOLD PROSPECTING has been enjoyed by members of the G. Dana Johnson family during vacations since they came to Manhattan three years ago.

Dr. Johnson became interested in looking for gold after reading Western stories and an historical novel which traced the trail of the '49ers across Kansas.

AN ASSISTANT chemistry professor, Dr. Johnson is from Michigan and received his doctor's degree from the University of Michigan.

During the break between the spring term and summer school and again before the fall term opens he usually prospects near Breckenridge in the center of Colorado; on Hahn's Peak, north of Steamboat Springs, Colo.; or in a placer mining area in Montana.

THE AMATEUR prospector pans for gold in creeks by shaking off the rocks and dirt and then takes off the big rocks to find tiny gold particles in dark sand at the bottom. He also uses a sluicing method of throwing dirt down a wooden sluice and shaking it through a sieve to find gold. Dr. Johnson has a homemade sluice which he says "is not too effective but a lot of fun."

On these annual trips he is accompanied by his wife and two children, Laurel, eight, and Wayne, four. This hobby is especially enjoyable because the whole family can do it together and sometimes they camp out with a tent and sleeping bags.

"THE FIRST year I got 75 cents worth of gold in four days, but I am getting better as the next time I found a good spot at Breckenridge and got one dollar's worth in three hours," says Johnson.

Actually, the gold is hard to see as most of the pieces he has are smaller than the head of a pin and the largest is only half as big around as a pencil.

Dr. Johnson keeps his gold findings at home and now has an amount worth $3. "It won't make me rich," he says, "but it gives me a great thrill to find it."

"THAT'S GOLD . . ."—K-State also has gold-prospecting students. Each year pledges of Sigma Gamma Epsilon, geology honorary, pan for gold in the stream near the girls' dorms.

Davis Hopes His Folk Singing Will Spur Interest in Folklore

By NANCY MOLTER

"MY BALLAD singing is just one form of my interest in the whole field of folklore. By singing before various groups, I'm trying to develop a reasonable interest in folk songs and folklore," Dr. Earle Davis, head of the English department, said.

"There is some feeling that folk singing is low-brow and defers to a common taste. This could be due to the radio singers who sing folk songs, because many of them have a nasal quality that is irritating to listeners.

"ONE ADVANTAGE of folk singing is that you don't have to apologize for the song. I think there should be an effort to show the vitality of the American background of folklore and develop it further," Davis said.

← EARLE DAVIS—"The West attractive, the air radioactive."

Last year Dr. Davis made 50 appearances throughout the state and sang folk songs for fraternities, sororities, dormitories, and various College and town groups. On one occasion, he performed for the State Bar association in Topeka when the Governor and state Supreme Court judges were present.

DR. DAVIS ENJOYS imitating folk singers from Burl Ives to Tennessee Ernie. One of his favorite imitations is mimicking Tom Lehrer. Tom Lehrer is a satirical singer who criticizes the South, Russian ballads, the Boy Scouts, home towns, and Viennese waltzes.

"Tom Lehrer is a very talented young man who was an assistant in mathematics at Harvard university. He is serving in the army now and has not written any more songs. I've been hoping he would be sent to Fort Riley so we could invite him over for entertainment," Dr. Davis commented.

HE SAID THAT Kansas State, Kansas university, Wichita university, Washburn university, and the three state teachers' colleges are in the process of organizing the Organization of Kansas Folklore society.

The purpose of this organization will be to look into the Kansas background of folklore and organize it into a publication for people interested in folklore. Professor Sackett of Fort Riley is temporary president and Professor Koch of Kansas State is temporary vice-president. Dr. Davis is on the executive board and they plan to collect and publish folk songs of legendary heroes.

"WE OFFER a course here called 'Folklore and Literature' and we have more than 1,000 folklore records available in the department," he said.

"I planned to be a musician when I was in college but I changed my mind and decided to teach English. I sang with a quartet called the 'Cavalier' for NBC and we sang advertisements for everything from coffee to Morgan's minerals for hogs," he said.

Cats at Iowa U Saturday To Finish 2-Game Tour

With the first of two road games out of the way, K-State's basketballers travel to Iowa City tomorrow to meet the Iowa university Hawkeyes in the third test for the Cats against Big Ten competition this season.

To date the Cats have a split with Big 10 teams, beating Indiana and losing to Minnesota. The Wildcats own victories over Texas Tech, Houston, and Drake.

The Iowa game will be the third meeting between K-State and a defending conference champion. Both Houston and Texas Tech won their respective conference titles last season.

Houston won the Missouri Valley conference while the Texas Tech team won the Border conference championship last season. Iowa is the defending Big Ten champ.

Tex Winter will start the same unit for the Cats that started each of the first five games. This means that Hayden Abbott and Bob Boozer will open at forward,

Iowa has four lettermen back from last season's team and these four are listed in the probable starting line-up. Frank Sebolt and Tom Payne will open at the forwards with Augie Martel and Roy Johnson handling the guard spots. These four are the lettermen.

The fifth member of the Iowa quintet is Perr Hegg, 6-7 sophomore, who will open at the center position.

This game will be the last action for K-State until the opening round of the Big Seven pre-season tournament in Kansas City which opens next Wednesday.

Tipoff time for the Iowa game is set for 7:30 p.m.

The probable starters:

K-State	Iowa
Abbott (6-3)F....	(6-3) Sebolt
Boozer (6-7)F....	(6-6) Payne
Parr (6-9)C.....	(6-7) Hegg
DeWitz (6-3)G..	(5-10) Martel
Wallace (5-10) ..G..	(6-5) Johnson

NYU Scares Tarheels, But NC Stays Unbeaten

By UNITED PRESS

North Carolina's Southern gentlemen from the sidewalks of New York remained unbeaten today, but they're hoping Northern hospitality improves tonight when their road show shifts to Boston Garden.

The talented Tarheels run into a dangerous Dartmouth team at Boston after New York university almost spoiled their debut before the "home folks" last night at Madison Square Garden.

Although most of their players grew up and learned their basketball in New York, the Tarheels suffered a surprising case of "Gardenitis" in the opener of a three-game Northern tour but recovered in time to gain a 64-59 victory over N.Y.U.

N.Y.U. appeared headed towards a major upset by pulling to within one point (58-57) of North Carolina in the final two minutes. However, the Violets fouled continually to gain possession of the ball and, in effect, gave the game away.

Len Rosenbluth, Joe Quigg, and Pete Brennan each sank two free throws in those frantic remaining minutes to earn the Tarheels' their sixth straight victory and provide a suitable homecoming for Coach Frank McGuire.

"Our kids were a little tight playing before their parents and friends," said McGuire, who was making his first coaching appearance in the Garden since he left St. John's for North Carolina five years ago.

He added that the Tarheels, and especially Rosenbluth, should play better against Dartmouth.

Rosenbluth, who stands six-foot-five, scored only one field goal and nine points against the Violets' Jimmy Nidds, a mere six-footer. Bob Cunningham added 16 points for North Carolina but N.Y.U.'s Cal Ramsey had 24.

Meanwhile, LaSalle ruined North Carolina State's opener of a two-game Northern tour with a late rally that earned the Explorers an 83-76 victory at Philadelphia.

Tom Gaberina scored 30 points for the Explorers, who made their winning bid after State lost 6-foot-11 Bob Seitz on personal fouls.

In the only other game involving a top-ranked team, Minnesota handed eighth-rated Kansas State its first defeat, 80-72, despite a 33-point performance by the Wildcats' Jack Parr. Buck Lindsley scored 21 for the Gophers.

Elsewhere, Villanova used a tight zone defense to upset Indiana, 79-69; Joe Bernardi's last second basket gave Iona a 64-63 victory over St. Bonaventure; Bradley solved Wisconsin's zone defense early and went on to beat the Badgers, 74-62.

Paul Neumann's 26 points paced touring Stanford to a 73-67 triumph over Centenary; South Carolina downed Georgia Tech, 90-83, as Grady Wallace tallied 37 points.

By KEITH KEMPER

Minnesota university knocked the Wildcats from the ranks of the unbeaten at Minneapolis Thursday night with an 80-72 victory over K-State in the first of a two-game road trip for the Wildcats.

Playing their second game of the young basketball season against Big Ten competition, K-State failed to come back Thursday night as Minnesota led most of the way to gain the victory.

Last week against Indiana, K-State came from 11 points behind midway in the second half and won by seven points in an overtime. The story was different last night.

The Wildcats were behind by 12 points with 8:54 remaining Thursday night and even with dominating height, never really got back in the game as Minnesota held leads of between 3 and 14 points throughout the last eight minutes.

K-State center Jack Parr was the outstanding player on the William's Arena floor Thursday night and netted 33 points to take scoring honors for the game. He was also the top rebounder in the contest.

Buck Lindsley and Jed Dommeyer made up the combination that offset Parr's efforts as they were strong on both offense and defense throughout the game for the hosts.

K-State jumped to an early lead, 4-0, on buckets by Parr and Bob Boozer with less than a minute played. Dave Tucker and Dommeyer then connected for Minnesota in the next two minutes and from then on the Cats began falling behind.

The Cats put on one last push late in the game as they rallied from a 64-73 count to come within three points, 75-72 with 1:11 remaining in the game.

Parr kept K-State in the game most of the way and scored many of his points when the Cats were down by six and eight-point margins. The Wildcat center finished the first half with 14 points as K-State went into the intermission break trailing 41-37.

The overall team speed of the Minnesota quintet made up for the height disadvantage and the Gophers scored numerous times on lay-in shots as a result of fast breaks.

Wilt, KU Favored To Win Big 7 Pre-Season Tourney

By KEITH KEMPER

Wilt Chamberlain and Kansas university rate the favorites to cop the pre-season Big Seven Basketball tournament in Kansas City beginning Wednesday, December 26.

Kansas meets Iowa State and K-State plays Oklahoma in the opening round of the tourney with the two Kansas schools expected to meet in the semi-finals on Friday night.

In the lower bracket, with first-round games on Thursday, Nebraska is picked over Michigan State, the visiting team, and Missouri draws the nod over Colorado in the other game.

If Kansas and K-State win as expected on Wednesday, the two will meet Friday night in the first game of the semi-final tilts.

With one game still to be played before the tourney, Kansas university is unbeaten and ranked as the number one team in the nation by all news services compared to the Cats season mark of 4-1 with the lone defeat coming last night in Minnesota.

Wallace Wins Starting Role On Basis of Hustle, Spirit

By DICK BOYD

"When I first came to K-State I didn't think I could make the varsity because I came from a small school," said 5-10 Wildcat guard Eddie Wallace.

Although Eddie averaged 19 points a game during his high school days at Minneapolis, Kan., he found Big Seven basketball mighty rough.

This year Wallace is getting his first opportunity as a starter.

"His determination and enthusiasm are responsible for his success this year," said Tex Winter. "His spirits have never dampened. Eddie Wallace exemplifies the boy from a small Kansas high school who hits the big time and makes good."

"Although he played little during his sophomore and junior years, when the opportunity came along he made the most of it," Winter added.

He was referring to last year's NCAA regional tourney in which Wallace replaced the injured Roy DeWitz. Prior to the tourney, Eddie had 18 points in 18 games. He hit 39 points in the two games of the tourney and was the only "little man" named to the all-tourney team.

"Wallace proves Tex's theory that the little guy will always have a spot in basketball," Sports Publicity Director Paul DeWeese says. "He is a good floor man and ball handler and pulled off 8 rebounds against Indiana, which is good for a small man."

Besides Wallace's desire and hustle, Winter says, his biggest assets are quickness and shooting ability.

His biggest thrill in high school basketball came when he scored 33 points against Beloit to lead Minneapolis to a win that clinched the conference title.

When asked about the K.U. game, he replied, "We'll worry about that game when we get to it. We've got a lot of tough ones before we play them."

EDDIE WALLACE . . . 5-11 SENIOR GUARD, shows near perfect poise as he dribbles for photographers. This year Eddie has filled the gap left by Pachin Vicens, and proves the theory that the little man will always have a place in basketball.

Tex Hoping for Chance To Play KU at Tourney

Queried about K-State's hopes in the upcoming Big Seven Pre-season basketball tourney at Kansas City, Wildcat Coach Tex Winter said he is "hoping for a chance to meet Kansas U in the tourney for several reasons."

"I guess it's only natural to want to play against a great basketball team—and KU ranks first in the nation," Winter said.

"We feel, too, that meeting the Jayhawks in the tourney gives us one more chance at them—a chance that doesn't count in the conference standings."

In order for the Wildcats and Jayhawks to meet, both must win or both must lose in opening-round play. In first round play K-State meets Oklahoma U at 7:30 p.m. December 26 with Kansas playing Iowa State at 9 p.m. that same date.

THE GIFT HORSE

The college life is a busy one, especially at this time of year. What with going to classes and studying for exams and pursuing a full social schedule and constructing rope ladders to foil dormitory curfews, the average undergrad is so pressed for time that he cannot do justice to his Christmas shopping.

Therefore, to aid you in your Christmas shopping, I have gone into the market place and selected for you a list of gifts, notable for their originality.

Perhaps the most original gift of all this year is a carton of Philip Morris Cigarettes. "Original?" you exclaim, your bushy young eyebrows rising. "Why, we have been giving cartons of Philip Morris for years!"

True, I reply, but each time you give Philip Morris, it is a new treat, a fresh delight, a pristine pleasure. Each carton, each pack, each cigarette, each puff, is just as good as the first one you ever tried.

Another gift destined for certain popularity this year is a gift certificate from the American Dental Association. This certificate, good at any dentist's office in America, is accompanied by a handsome gift card upon which is engraved this lovely poem:

Merry Christmas, little pal,
Do you need some root canal?
Prophylaxis? Porcelain caps?
Bridgework to close up them gaps?
Shiny braces that will straighten?
Inlays? Fillings? Upper platen?
Merry Christmas to your teeth,
And the rosy gums beneath.

Another gift that is always welcome is a book, especially to people who read. This Christmas the selection of books is particularly attractive. For lovers of anthologies, there is William Makepeace Sherpa's A Treasury of the World's Great Treasures. For those who fancy inspiring success stories, there is the stirring autobiography of William Makepeace Pemman entitled How I Got a Forty Pound Monkey Off My Back and Started the Duluth Zoo. For devotees of skin-diving, there is I Married a Snorkel by Lydia Makepeace Watershed. For calorie counters and waistline watchers, there is Harry Makepeace Wildfoster's Eat and Grow Fat.

My own favorite book this season is a pulse-pounding historical novel from that famous author of pulse-pounding historical novels, Daphne Makepeace Sigafos. This one is called Egad and Zounds, and it tells the poignant romance of two young lovers, Egad and Zounds, who, alas, can never be married, for fery Egad is but a gypsy lass, while tempestuous Zounds is a Kappa Sigma. They later become Ludwig of Bavaria.

My final gift suggestion is one that a great many people have been fervently wishing for since last year. Do you remember the introduction last Christmas of tiny personal portable radios that plugged into your ear? Well, this year, you will be delighted to know, you can buy an ingenious pick to get them out.

© Max Shulman, 1956

Old Max said it, but it bears repeating: A carton of Philip Morris, made by the sponsors of this column, is a Christmas gift that's bound to please everyone!

Woodard Hired As Gridiron Coach By Wichita U

Wichita, (U.P.) — Chalmer E. (Woody) Woodard, who resigned his $12,500 a year job before the last game of a losing season at Southern Methodist, came back to his hometown today to sign a three-year contract as head football coach of the University of Wichita.

Woodard, coach of the Mustangs for four years, was hired last night to replace resigned Pete Tillman for $10,500 a year. Woodard, 39, will receive $500 raises each of the last two years of his contract.

Southern Methodist won four games and lost six in Woodard's last year at SMU. His overall record with the Ponies was 19-20-1. His lifetime record is 120-37-4.

Woodard, born in Wichita, became famous in Kansas as coach of high schools at Kingman, Dodge City, and Lawrence.

Christmas Festivity Brightens the Social Scene

HOT CHRISTMAS—Dancing at a Northwest hall formal, Bob Schober, BA Sr, and Rosalia Hankin, BAA Fr, find that the music can be hot even if the decorations are Christmasy.

Members of Alpha Xi Delta entertained with their annual Christmas formal Friday, December 14, at the chapter house.

A decoration theme of Christmas gifts prevailed throughout the house. Guests were entertained by George Langshaw, Sp Gr, with a magic show and also Santa Claus appeared to pass out gifts. Chaperones for the dance were Mr. and Mrs. Milt Raville, and Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Hill.

Each member of Alpha Xi Delta contributed to a fund for Christmas gifts for the girls at a Beloit home. Books, games, and clothing were bought and sent to the girls. With the money that was left over they bought a winter coat for a little six-year-old girl who doesn't have one.

Members of Pi Kappa Alpha entertained underprivileged children of the Manhattan area Saturday, December 15. The children received gifts from Santa Claus and had hot chocolate and cookies.

Gifts exchanged among the Sigma Phi Epsilon's Thursday, December 20, will be used to make a merry Christmas for underprivileged children.

The Delta Sig's had a house party for their dates Saturday, December 15, after the K-State-Indiana basketball game.

Sunday they had their annual Christmas dinner followed by a toy gift exchange. The toys will be given to underprivileged children in Manhattan homes.

Guests at the dinner were Dr. and Mrs. Stuart Whitcomb, Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Chelikowsky, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Morrow, and Mr. and Mrs. Loren Tregellas.

Tuesday night the Delta Sig's went caroling at sorority houses and dorms.

Gamma Phi Beta pledges were entertained at a Christmas party at the Manhattan County club Wednesday night by Gamma Phi alums. Gifts were exchanged and Carol Ann Vlichek, national traveling secretary, was given a farewell gift. Gamma Phi Beta's caroled for alums Monday night.

Phi Delta Theta began celebrating the holiday season Sunday by entertaining dates at a Christmas party at the chapter house. Wednesday the Phi Delta's had a stag party. Thursday evening chapter members went caroling.

Jamaican calypso music entertained the members of Delta Upsilon and their dates at a Christmas party Saturday evening at the house. In addition to a sextette from Jamaica, the DU's were entertained by a pledge skit on the "Night Before Christmas" and a visit from Santa Claus. Toys exchanged by the members were donated to children at the state tuberculosis sanitarium at Norton.

Gifts for needy families were exchanged by members of Acacia fraternity at their Christmas party Sunday at the chapter house. Instead of giving personal gifts they gave toys which will be given to children of needy families.

Clovie sorority celebrated Christmas with a dessert party Sunday, December 16, at the chapter house.

A short program consisted of a reading of "Thoughts about Christmas" by Wanda Jean Hays, HE Soph, and a vocal solo, "O Holy Night", by Louise Ottaway, EEEd Soph.

Miss Mary Elsie Border, faculty adviser, Mrs. Roger Regnier, and Mrs. John Poole, both patronesses, were guests at the dessert.

"Twelve Days of Christmas" was the theme at the annual Phi Kappa Christmas party. Monday night was their annual Christmas dinner at the house.

Pi Phi's entertained their dates at a Christmas party Sunday evening at the house. Santa brought presents for the boys.

Monday night they went caroling. Wednesday they had their annual formal Christmas dinner and gift exchange. Thursday they participated in a party with the Sig Alpha's for underprivileged children.

A Christmas formal at the Country club topped last weekend for the Kappa Sig's. The party was Friday night. Chaperones were Mr. and Mrs. Howard Stone and Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Long.

Their annual Christmas dinner and gift exchange was Wednesday evening.

Battery cars, musical stuffed animals, pop guns, dolls, and jewelry were only a few of the 21 gifts the Lambda Chi Alpha's gave to underprivileged children they entertained at their house Sunday.

Group singing opened a two-hour program consisting of movies, refreshments, and a visit from Santa Claus.

Phi Kappa Tau fraternity is busy with Christmas activities. Last Friday evening was a Christmas party at the chapter house. Last night they had a Christmas party for underprivileged children.

Underprivileged children from the Manhattan area were guests of Farm House members at a Christmas party Wednesday. During the party, the children received presents and had refreshments.

A visit by Santa Claus provided the entertainment for Farm House and their dates at their Christmas party, Friday, December 14. During his visit, Santa gave each girl a gift.

Alpha Chi's weekend social activities started December 14 with an informal Christmas party, given by the pledges for the actives and their dates. The dates were given surprise gifts as they arrived. The evening was spent dancing.

A Christmas egg-nog was given by Mrs. Paul Jones, Alpha Chi Omega housemother, Sunday for the members and their dates.

Reds Deport 100,000 Baltic Students, Refugees Report

Compiled from United Press
By Lance Gilmore

Stockholm, Dec. 21—New reports of spreading unrest in Russia and its satellite empire reached the West today, and two Baltic refugees said the Soviet was deporting 100,000 students from the Baltic states to crush growing resistance there.

The two men were identified as August Rei, chairman of the Estonian "National Council," and former Lithuanian Minister Ignas Schejnyus.

They told newsmen that opposition against Soviet rule in the Baltic is stronger than ever. They said they appealed to the United Nations to protest the deportations as "methodical genocide."

Their statement was one of an increasing number of reports from behind the Iron Curtain indicating widespread unrest in countries under Communist rule.

Egyptians 'Given' Back

London, Dec. 21—France hurriedly reversed itself today and ordered a liner taking 160 Egyptian prisoners to Cyprus to return to Port Said immediately. Six Egyptian officers in Paris were ordered flown to Egypt.

The French acted to prevent further snarls in prisoner exchange programs and to make sure that current agreements to clear the Suez canal are carried out without a hitch. The United Nations expected the canal clearance work to start Sunday.

Egypt called off an exchange of 450 British civilian Suez canal workers when it learned France was planning to intern 160 Egyptians on Cyprus. Britain had planned to send back its Egyptian prisoners by train this morning.

Integrated Buses Roll

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 21—

City buses began rolling today with seats available to Negroes on a basis equal with the whites for the first time in the history of the deep South.

Montgomery's Negro leaders told thousands who had boycotted the buses for a year that they should not be afraid to sit beside white passengers but counseled them to avoid trouble.

The city bus company sent the buses out without guards in a move to avoid trouble.

"Instructions" passed to the Negroes by their boycott leaders exhorted them to avoid sitting with whites unnecessarily, not to "curse back... if you are cursed" by whites, and if trouble breaks out—"just pray that everything will come out all right."

Kadar Looks to West

Washington, Dec. 21—American officials today looked with disfavor on the reported plans of Hungary's puppet government to seek a loan from the United States and other Western nations to forestall economic disaster.

They said the United States stands ready to help relieve suffering of the Hungarian people, but it wants no part of any step which would bolster the Russian-imposed regime of Premier Janos Kadar.

Reports from Hungary said the Kadar government is preparing to ask the free world for a $400 million loan.

8 Assemblies Scheduled For Spring Semester

Eight assemblies are scheduled for the spring semester, according to A. L. Pugsley, dean of academic administration.

President James A. McCain will be the first speaker for the second semesters' programs Friday, February 1, when he will discuss the "State of the College."

Stuart Chase, writer, speaker, and consultant on economic problems, will speak Tuesday, February 12. Chase is the author of "The Proper Study of Mankind."

Lift Week assembly will be

Monday, February 18, with Dr. Louis Binstock, Rabbi of Temple Shalom, the Temple on the Lake in Chicago, as the guest speaker. He is the author of the recent bestseller, "The Power of Faith."

Maxine Munt and Alfred Brooks will give a program of interpretative dancing Wednesday, March 6. Their program will include comedy and satire.

Charles Luckman, who was named one of the most brilliant young executives in the nation by Time and Life magazines, will speak for the Engineering Open House assembly Tuesday, March 12.

Dr. Mortimer Adler, founder of the Institute of Philosophical Research, will speak at the Home Economics Hospitality Days assembly Thursday, April 11. Before establishing the institution, Dr. Adler was a professor in philosophy of law at the University of Chicago.

The Easter assembly Wednesday, April 17 and the Student Activities assembly Tuesday, May 7 will conclude the spring semester assembly programs.

These Restaurants Serve to Negroes

As a service to colored students who are staying in Manhattan during the coming Christmas vacation, the Collegian is listing a group of restaurants that will serve them.

They are New Pines Cafe, Brownie's Coffee Shop, Gillett Coffee Shop, Jensen's Cafe, Patrick's Cafe, Mar Cafe, Warren Coffee Shop, and Scheu's Cafe.

Others are The Fountain, Varsity Drug Store, Norton's Rexall Drug, Dairy Ann, Palace Drug, Orange Bowl, and Graves Drug.

These establishments have been serving patrons without regard to race, color, creed or national origin.

Identical Twin Cows Provide More Efficient KS Research

THE GENES KNOW—These identical twins are being used in research on cattle feeding at K-State. One twin is fed newly developed feeds, while the other is given normal feeds and acts as a control to determine the effectiveness of the new feeds.

By ED KOCHER

"Identical twin cows are being used for experimental purposes at the K-State dairy barn," said F. C. Fontaine, professor in dairy husbandry.

Identical twins have an efficiency in experiments that will replace 25 to 50 pairs of non-related animals, he said.

Identical twin cows are those resulting from the division of an egg, and fraternal twins are the result of the fertilization of two separate eggs.

Identical twins have the same genetic makeup while fraternal twins do not. Fraternal twins are affected by factors other than environmental, and identical twins are affected only by differences in environment, Fontaine said.

By using one identical twin as a control animal, and the other as the experimental animal, the College can replace the relative efficiency of 25 to 50 pairs of non-related animals in the experiments.

Identical twins will replace 25 pairs of non-related animals for experiments in milk production and growth. It takes 50 pairs of non-related animals to replace the efficiency of one set of identical twins in experimenting with butterfat production.

Professor Fontaine said, "the K-State dairy department is running some experiments in order to study the different quality of roughages, their palatability, and their effect on growth."

"K-State is also using identical twins in fistulate experiments where the physiology of the human is studied to check utilization of different feeds and their passage."

"Identical twins quite often are very hard to tell from fraternal twins when their markings are alike. The best way and the surest way to tell whether twins are identical or fraternal is to measure the length and width of the head and other parts of the body.

"Identical twins will have identical sizes while fraternal twins will have some variance," he said.

"Identical twins can vary in color markings, but must have the same shade. Broken-colored animals can vary only slightly in the location of the color pattern, but the pattern limit can vary only as much as the right and left side of a single animal," the Professor said.

"Sometimes mirror images occur on the right side of one twin, and on the left side of the other twin. Some twins even have their tails offset with one having the tail to the left and the other to the right," he said.

Firm's Yule Money Pays Study Grants

Two engineering students have been awarded $350 scholarships because a Kansas business firm is foregoing its traditional gifts of merchandise to customers at Christmas time.

The firm, Salina Supply company, plans to use these funds to help worthy students from their trade territory to study engineering here.

The 1956-57 scholarship winners are Alex Jones, EE Soph, and Marion Hinshaw, EE Soph.

Both are 25 years old and stand near the head of their class.

EE Scholarship

Dean N. Bowyer, EE Soph, is the first recipient of a newly established Murray Wilson engineering scholarship, according to M. A. Durland, dean of the School of Engineering and Architecture.

The scholarship will provide $200 annually to an outstanding sophomore in engineering from Kansas. It was set up recently through the K-State Endowment association by employees of Wilson and Company, engineers and architects, of Salina. The scholarship is to be awarded annually in honor of Murray Wilson.

Wilson was a 1922 K-State graduate in civil engineering, and received a professional civil engineering degree from K-State in 1926.

Turfgrass Grant

The Trans-Mississippi Golf association has contributed $300 for a turfgrass scholarship at K-

State, Prof. W. F. Pickett, head of horticulture, has announced.

Pickett said the $300 will go to a student working in turfgrass management under Prof. Ray Keen, who has charge of turfgrass work here.

The money may go to a graduate student, an undergraduate student, or to a freshman enrolling in turfgrass management, next fall.

Council Will Recommend Parking Lot Enlargement

The Student Council last night passed a long-considered recommendation that an additional 60-car parking space be added to the south end of the Student Union parking lot.

The new parking area would be between a now-tree-studded area between the south end of the parking lot and the tennis courts.

The Council also voted to accept K-State's election as permanent host to the annual Big Seven Student Government conference in Kansas City.

The Big Seven schools unanimously voted the honor to K-State as a "tribute to the success of this year's conference" at which K-State was host, December 27 and 28.

In the past a different Big Seven school has sponsored the meet each year. Future chairmen of the six-state conference will be K-Staters, elected each year by the Student Council here.

Major developments of the Big Seven government conference were reported to the council. The problems of Hungarian aid and college enforcement of drinking rules were two of the main topics discussed at the meet.

Discussion of college attempts at and methods of controlling student drinking brought the conference wide publicity. An article which went out over the Associated Press wires carried a number of quotes on the subject by various representatives.

A Kansas City newspaper reported that "the atmosphere of the Big Seven student discussions radiated sympathy for Hungarian refugee students." K-State Council member Bill Patton was quoted in the article about the College's recent $200 contribution to Hungarian student relief.

Another topic discussed at the conference was integration of foreign students into college life. Marilyn Smith reported that K-State's Council had invited foreign students to attend its meetings but not many were interested. "A lot of foreign students are here only for study and don't look for other areas," Miss Smith said.

A group of some 40 representatives from the various Big Seven schools were split into two discussion sections, and approximately 20 topics of student government and campus problems were handled.

One section was led by Student Council President Ron Bryant and the other by Vice-President Neil Scott. Council members Jerry Holliday, Dick Peterson, and Bill Patton assisted with the groups.

Air Conditioning System To Be Installed in SU

Bids for installation of an air conditioning plant for the Student Union will be opened January 22, Loren V. Kottner, Union director, told Union Governing Board members last night.

Present plans call for the installation of air conditioning by late spring. Funds for the air conditioning unit will be taken from the Union building fund.

In referring to the long range plans for an expanding enrollment, Kottner said that "it took twenty years for the planning of a new Union, and if we don't look ahead we will find that the Union is outmoded with just a few years of use."

Kottner, in discussing additional work plans for the Union, said that the next immediate work, after the air conditioning project, will be to put a ceiling over the bowling alleys. At the present cement is dropping down and could possibly scratch the alleys.

"The Little Theater" was adopted as the official name of the Student Union theater. The name was adopted as the result of a motion removed from the board's agenda which was proposed at a Union executive meeting prior to the opening of the Student Union.

Considerable debate ensued over letting the new weaving industry temporarily use the third floor of the Union until they could move into permanent quarters downtown. The industry would use the space for not more than two months to turn out samples for salesmen in order to determine their available sales output.

The UGB questioned whether or not the weaving industry was a commercial enterprise and whether it was the Union's place to assist this type of organization.

They said they realized that the industry was designed to create student employment and raise the hourly wage, but debated whether or not it would be feasible in the long run. The board felt that pertinent information was lacking in order to make a decision and decided to turn the matter over to the Student Council.

According to Jerry Holliday, CIIC head, who was contacted later, Dean Pugsley was in favor of the suggestion that the Union might temporarily house the weaving industry. The industry would take all responsibility for the equipment, and would use the space for not more than two months. Dean Wunderlich also was in favor of seeing about getting space in the Union.

Tomorrow

Atlantic's Editor Is Assembly Speaker

Edward Weeks

Edward Weeks, editor-in-chief of the Atlantic Monthly, will speak at a 9:30 a.m. all-College assembly tomorrow in the Auditorium.

"A Creed for Americans" will be Weeks' topic. He has based this lecture on his analysis of American life in his travels over this country.

Weeks has come in close contact with people from many walks of life facing all types of problems. He feels that there are two compelling forces now at work in America, a force for vigilance, and a force for conservation.

Weeks has observed some "remarkable" changes in American life. A renewed faith in private enterprise coupled with a waning attraction to socialism, a new concern for the preservation of natural resources, and a vigilance for a firmer national unity are among them.

Besides being an editor, Weeks is a literary critic and an author. His latest book is an autobiographical "Open Heart."

He is in his eighteenth year as editor of the Atlantic, which is America's oldest literary magazine. Under his direction, the magazine has jumped from a circulation of 100,000 to 250,000.

The Atlantic handles more than 50,000 manuscripts a year, and Weeks and his three assistants find it necessary to sit up nights in order to get through the manuscripts in time for the magazine's deadline.

Weeks lives with his family in Boston. He finds time to play golf, poker, and to fish, despite his travel and reading.

He spoke at a faculty dinner last night in the Union.

The regular schedule of shortened classes will be followed. Eight o'clock classes will end at 8:35; 9 a.m. classes will run from 8:45 to 9:20; the assembly will last from 9:30 to 10:20. Ten o'clock classes will begin at 10:30 and end at 11:05, and 11 o'clock classes will begin at 11:15 and end at 11:50.

Y-Orpheum Scripts Due Next Week

Y-Orpheum scripts are due noon Saturday, January 19, in the activity center of the Student Union, according to Bruce Wilson, His Gr. Y-Orpheum manager.

"Channel Chuckles" is the general theme of this year's Y-Orpheum, which will be held March 22 and 23. All scripts are to deal with some phase of television, according to Wilson.

Any organized residence house or dorm is eligible to submit a script. Approximately 25 applications for submitting Y-Orpheum scripts have been received, but other organized houses may still do so if they desire, Wilson said.

Application blanks and Y-Orpheum rules are available in the Student Union activity center.

Wilson stressed the fact that organizations still planning to fill out application blanks should check with the activity center to receive sheets containing the general points on which the scripts will be judged.

Four scripts from the men's division and three scripts from the women's division will be picked as finalists.

K-State Blue Key Receives Outstanding Service Award

K-State's Blue Key chapter received an outstanding service program award during the national convention of Blue Key in New Orleans December 28-30.

Keith Swenson, AR 04, Blue Key delegate, received the award for which 100 Blue Key chapters had been competing.

Clair M. Donovan, national president of Blue Key, made the award. The winning service program award was based on such Blue Key activities as the $1,000 gift to the Union for the fireplace in the main lounge, the annual $200 scholarship, the honor code which was proposed by Blue Key and adopted by Student Council, the homecoming activities and high school visitation sponsored by Blue Key.

The host chapter for the convention was Loyola University of the South.

Patriots Facing Death in New Reign of Terror Are Fleeing To Join Roving Rebel 'Guerillas'

Compiled from the United Press by Lance Gilmore

Vienna, Jan. 8—Hundreds of Hungarian patriots facing unrest and possibly death under the new Red reign of terror are fleeing into the trackless forests, swamps, and mountains to join die-hard freedom-fighting bands, refugees said today.

Hungarians who risked their lives to cross the Austrian frontier to escape the return to the "proletarian dictatorship" in their homeland also reported renewed fighting between partisan bands and Russian troops.

Clashes between Hungarian patriots and Red army troops have increased in the past 24 hours, according to the newly-arrived refugees. They said the heaviest fighting took place in the rugged country centered around Pecs. Pecs, on the Yugoslav frontier, was a rebel stronghold in the revolution crushed by Soviet steel.

The pro-Russian regime of Janos Kadar announced yesterday a new purge of opponents. The cleanup was expected to hit members of the Hungarian parliament as well as die-hard patriots.

The Hungarian refugees said it was estimated some 10,000 Hungarian patriots are holding out against Soviet and Communist Hungarian forces in the outlying provinces. Rebel bands were said to be active in the Bakony forest in western Hungary, the Matra mountains in northeast Hungary, and in the swamp lands along the Hungarian-Yugoslav border.

Communists Desert Party in Italy

Rome, Jan. 8—The "brain trust" of the Italian Communist party met today to try to prevent a rank-and-file revolt from wrecking the biggest Red organization outside the Iron Curtain.

The 18-man directorate, headed by party boss Palmiro Togliatti, convened in secret session in the red-brick party headquarters in Rome guarded by Communist strong-arm squads.

There have been mass desertions from the party, and Togliatti said only 1,100,000 of the 2,400,000 members had renewed their cards for 1957.

Even before the Red leaders met, Togliatti sought to appease the "liberal" rebel wing by further downgrading of extreme Stalinist Pietro Secchia. Secchia is the former Communist boss of Milan who failed to hold party membership in line against the onslaughts of the anti-Red campaign led by Archbishop Giovanni Montini.

Secchia is expected to be demoted to an insignificant post in the party machinery.

Secret Papers in 'Wrong Hands'

Washington, Jan. 8—The army is trying to recover copies of a secret document containing guided missile information which fell into unauthorized hands in an apparent "violation of security regulations."

Army Secretary Wilbur M. Brucker announced an investigation of the leak last night and said a senior officer is being questioned "among others" concerning the matter.

Brucker did not identify the leaked document other than to say it "apparently contained secret information" about Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson's November 26 directive setting forth which guided missiles are to be under air force control and which under army control.

The document "was discovered in the hands of unauthorized persons," Brucker said.

Things Are Popping Since the Holidays

HERE WE GO again, back to school after a wonderful vacation. We hope that 1957 will bring good things to everyone, especially since good things are going to be needed soon when final week begins Monday, January 21. That's just two weeks away.

Many interesting things have happened during the vacation period. Of course the top news was the recent political shuffling in Topeka that found ex-Governor Fred Hall being appointed to the Kansas Supreme Court after the convenient retirement of Chief Justice William A. Smith. Ex-Lieutenant Governor John McCuish was elevated to Governor for an 11-day term and made the Hall appointment.

The triple play scored three outs as far as we're concerned.

ONE GOOD THING that might result from the political shuffling would be the enactment of the so-called "Missouri System" of selecting Supreme Court justices.

A special Kansas Bar Association committee is planning to submit a proposal that will include:

A commission of attorneys chosen by members of the bar and lay members appointed by the governor would be set up for the state and each of its judicial districts. The pertinent commission would nominate three candidates for any Supreme Court or district court position that becomes vacant.

THE GOVERNOR would be required to appoint one of the three persons recommended by the commission within a 60-day period or the appointment would be required to be made by the Chief Justice.

A Supreme Court or district judge desiring to remain in office at the expiration of his term would put his name on the general election ballot unopposed. Voters would then decide if they wanted him to remain in office.

We think now is the time for Kansas to insure that a minimum of politics remains in the state's highest court.

K-STATE'S VHF television channel 8 may be in danger of being turned over to commercial use by the Federal Communications commission if a way is not found soon to finance a proposed educational television system for Kansas.

Oliver Ebel, chairman of a recently organized Citizens Committee on Educational Television for Kansas, revealed that Kansas may be denied forever the informational and cultural advantages of educational television if money is not found soon.

Channel 8 at K-State and Channel 11 now under consideration by the FCC for the University of Kansas are key channels in a proposed eight-station educational TV system for Kansas developed by the five state colleges at the request of the citizens group.

A GRANT-IN-AID plan to help local schools set up a textbook rental program aimed at reducing the cost of textbooks and increasing their quality will be recommended to the Legislature by Gov.-Elect George Docking.

Though the plan will not involve Kansas colleges under its present scope, we can certainly hope that it will be expanded in the future to include them. With the new increase coming in tuition, some relief would certainly be welcome to students.

SOUTHERN Illinois university at Carbondale has a book rental plan that relieves much strain on student finances. The plan also includes an option to buy the books at a discount if the students desire.

Docking's plan includes budgeting between $350,000 and $500,000 to be divided among schools that want to set up a school book rental plan to help them start the program. After the program is started, it would be continued through money from book rentals.

CLAUDE C. BRADNEY of Columbus, industrial relations representative, and Harry Valentine, Clay Center publisher, were recently named by Fred Hall as members of the Kansas Board of Regents. They replace Lester McCoy of Garden City, Western Kansas rancher and implement dealer who has been a board member for 22 years, and Walter S. Fees of Iola, an oil operator in Southeastern Kansas who became a board member in 1950.

The appointments require confirmation by the Legislature which convenes today.—George Vohs.

Cats Close Doors, Prep for KU Tilt

By JIM BELL

K-State's basketball squad went into closed practices this week in preparation for its Saturday battle against the nation's top-ranked Kansas Jayhawks.

The Wildcats recently saw a high national ranking and a 4-0 record disintegrate to a mediocre 5-5 mark. A seventh place finish in the annual Big Seven pre-season tournament at Kansas City and a 69-67 loss to Oklahoma in the opening round of Big Seven conference cage play were low spots in the Cats' tumble.

"Bob Boozer's play has been gratifying," coach Tex Winter said. "The only thing we lack right now is a take-charge guy."

Winter pointed out that Don Matuszak, 5-11 guard, may be the "take-charge guy" he is looking for. Matuszak has been a recent starter after spending most of the early season watching from the bench.

Don's a real fine defense player. He has poise and confidence.

Oklahoma's Joe King hit a jump shot with six seconds left to pull the Sooners to a 69-67 win over the Wildcats at Norman Saturday night. The loss opened Big Seven play for both clubs.

K-State led by five, 65-60, with 28 left in the game. But OU hit seven straight points to lead 67-65 before Hayden Abbott tied it to tie the stage for King's winning shot.

In tournament play, the Cats topped an opening round game with Oklahoma, 67-64, then bowed to Iowa State, 74-64, before winning over Missouri, in overtime, 79-75.

The Cats, playing without Parr, turned to Boozer for scoring punch. He responded by setting a new tournament record with 90 points in three games—but Wilt Chamberlain was there too, and he eclipsed the record eight hours later with 45 points to bring his total to 93.

Boozer hit 27 against the Sooners, 29 against Iowa State, and 34 against Missouri to break the record set in 1950 by Clyde Lovellette of Kansas at 82.

KU, with Wilt and Gene Elstun leading the way, won the tourney to tie K-State for most tournaments won at three. The Jayhawks and Cats have both posted 23-10 records in the 11 pre-season tournaments.

MU Upsets I.S., KU, Nebraska Also Winners

By United Press

Kansas, top ranked in the nation, boasted a 2-0 record in the Big Seven conference Tuesday, but the spotlight was on Missouri's brilliant 77-59 upset over seventh-ranked Iowa State.

While Missouri fired a torrid 44.7 per cent from the field last night to whip Iowa State at Columbia, Kansas took a shaky 59-51 win from stubborn Oklahoma, and Nebraska crushed Colorado 74-52.

Missouri's win, sparked by a 23-point performance by Bill Ross, gave Mizzou a 1-1 record, after losing Saturday night to KU.

A well-balanced scoring show was prominent in Missouri's victory with Sonny Siebert contributing 20 points and Lionel Smith getting 19 while Iowa State's star, Gary Thompson, was held to 18.

Oklahoma fought the Kansans to the wire, knotting the count twice before the end and holding Wilt Chamberlain to 22 points.

In the conference opener for both Nebraska and Colorado last night, a rampaging Nebraska team went ahead at the start and never let Colorado get close. The score was 36-19 at the intermission.

Wildcat Athletes Given National, Area Awards

Past and present Wildcat athletes did themselves proud over the holiday as three Cats received or were mentioned for national and area awards.

Tops on the list was Bob Boozer who was tied for first in voting on the all-tournament team as a result of his performance in the Big Seven pre-season tourney.

Boozer and Chamberlain each collected 36 votes.

Boozer set a new tournament free throw record getting 40 of 45 charity tosses but was second behind Wilt Chamberlain in total tourney points with 90.

His 90 points broke Clyde Lovellette's old mark of 82 for the series set in 1950 but was three points shy of Chamberlain's 93 points.

In another holiday award, former K-State trackman Thane Baker placed third in balloting for the outstanding amateur athlete of 1956.

The Elkhart Express was runner up to Mrs. Pat McCormick, winner of an unprecedented "double double" in Olympic diving and Rafer Johnson of UCLA who finished second in the decathlon.

Baker received 77 first place votes out of 608 ballots for a total of 783 points.

K-State's 1957 football captain, Ellis Rainsberger, received a vote Missouri Valley-Big Seven area, as an outstanding lineman in the Jerry Tubbs, all-America center from Oklahoma was unanimous choice for the award.

PENNY WISE* POUND FOOLISH

"I'm sad to say," said Tootsie Brown,
"The weight I gain just gets me down.
Each bite, each drop of this or that,
Immediately turns to fat.
Some girls, I note, can eat and eat
And yet they still look trim and neat.
To aggravate the situation
I much dislike my fat's location.
I wouldn't so much want to change me,
If only I could rearrange me."

night that several coats had been reported stolen from the Union's coat hanging area in the main lobby. The Council decided to relay this complaint to the Union Governing Board.

Dick Peterson announced that applications were open for the basic ROTC program evaluation committee, which will be the functioning group concerned with a possible attempt to make ROTC optional.

Three Council members plus an undetermined number of non-Council students will comprise the temporary committee. Applications should be made to the Dean of Students office before 5 p.m. Thursday, Peterson said.

U.S. Needs Revised Creed, Atlantic Monthly Editor Says

Americans need a revised creed to live by in this modern atomic age, both as a nation and individually, Edward Weeks, Atlantic Monthly editor, said in a 9:30 assembly this morning.

Weeks spoke before a nearly-filled Auditorium using "A Creed for Americans" as his topic.

"Our American creed must now be expanded if we are to stand up in this atomic age," Weeks said. "We can't solve our problems by going it alone."

"This, as I see it, is still an unstoppable country. Integrity and trust are still at large in the United States."

"We are born missionaries," he said referring to the American zeal for the spread of constitutional democracy. "We were pleased when the Philippines accepted democracy, but it still dismays us when other people don't."

"We now have to accustom ourselves to a world in which other systems are just as impatient to spread themselves as we are."

"We can't solve our problems by going it alone. Nor can we take it for granted that democracy will spread itself."

Weeks pointed out that Russia has undertaken a "campaign of hate" against the United States, calling her a warmonger. He said by way of repudiation that the United States disarmed after World War II while Russia did not.

"All this induces in us a state of mind that outweighs the possibility of co-existence."

Weeks named four realities that have emerged from US global intelligence:

(1) The allies won the military war in the Pacific, but Japan with her slogan, "Asia for Asians," established peace there.

(2) Never before have so many young nations emerged. The instinct in the United States is to help them, but the problem is how to do it without opening our country to complaints for being a colonizer.

(3) "We cannot go it alone," Weeks said. "We need allies who speak our own language, whom we can trust."

(4) French, Canadians, and English, our allies, are proud and intelligent people. Our government should inform them before it informs the press of its decisions.

"The danger for us all, now, is the danger of repudiation. Russia will try to sever us from our allies," he said.

"Co-existence does not mean living only with Russia, but with several other world powers. Have we a policy, have we a creed that prepares us to live with these other countries?"

Weeks said that he felt the United States did not have adequate foreign policy to cope with the current situation.

He pointed out that American living today is characterized by strenuous activity followed by a respite. "Get the tough job over with; speed it up; then rest," he illustrated.

"But if we are known for our spontaneity, Russians are known for being phlegmatic, and the Oriental can play-the waiting game."

"It is essential that our agencies in Washington have access to the broadest global intelligence. We need a great deal more awareness of others than we now possess."

Failure to consider the consequences is a failing in American diplomacy, Weeks pointed out.

"People today are living under strain—they're showing signs of it all over the world. In Ireland they've been keyed up by global pressure. In England the strain was more evident than in Ireland."

Americans need vigilance today, Weeks said. "We can do without trigger-happy vigilance."

Anthony Eden Out As Prime Minister

London, Jan. 9, (U.P.)—Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden resigned today.

The move was a sudden surrender to opponents of his ill-fated Suez policy.

With a giveaway faint smile on his face, the 59-year-old statesman walked out of a cabinet meeting at No. 10 Downing street and went to Queen Elizabeth at Buckingham Palace to give her his resignation.

Eden's sudden decision caught both people and politicians by surprise. It meant the virtual end of his career as a statesman.

The Queen did not immediately summon another man to become Prime Minister.

KS Concert Band To Give Program

The Kansas State college concert band will present its winter concert Sunday in the College auditorium at 4 p.m. The program, conducted by Jean Hedlund, assistant professor of music, is sponsored by the Manhattan Friends of Music.

Dixieland, special music written for the 1951 Festival of Britain, and works of Rachmaninoff, Mozart, and Strauss will be included in the concert.

The entire clarinet section of the K-State band will be featured as they perform the three parts of Mozart's "Music for Clarinets," arranged by Himie Voxman.

The program is as follows:

"Nimrod (from 'Enigma' Variations)" by Edward Elgar; "El Relicario," by Jose Padilla; "Italian Poka" by Rachmaninoff; three movements from "Music for a Festival" by Jacob; three divertimentos from "Music for Clarinets (K. 439b)" by Mozart.

"Perpetuum Mobile" by Strauss; "Psyche and Eros" by Cesar Franck; "Tango" by Isaac Albeniz; and two marches, "Persian March" by Strauss, and "South Rampart Street Parade" by Ray Bauduc and Bob Haggart.

Nepal's First Entomologist Is K-State Grad Student

BEING THE first entomologist on the Nepalese Department of Agriculture staff is the distinction held by D. R. Sharma, graduate student in entomology from Nepal.

Sharma explained that he had not studied entomology particularly until he joined the agriculture staff in his country. "We needed someone to work in the field of entomology, so I took over the job," he said.

HE ATTENDED Trichandra college in his home town of Katmandu, the capital city of Nepal. Sharma majored in a curriculum of "pure science." Later he attended Central College of Agriculture in New Delhi, India, for four years, where he received a B.S. degree in 1953.

Sharma came to K-State last September to study crop resistance to insects. "Wheat, rice, and other small grains are the main agricultural products in my country, so I am especially interested in studying their resistance to insects," said Sharma.

"I CAME TO K-State under the U.S. Department of Agriculture's International Co-operative administration program. I had the choice of picking any college in the country. I narrowed my choice to Kansas State and the University of Nebraska, and then chose K-State.

"I AM working on my Master's degree in entomology. I hope to receive it from K-State by the time I leave here in August," continued Sharma.

When asked about his opinion of Americans, Sharma smiled and said, "Americans are so busy and on the go all the time that they don't seem to have time to relax and enjoy life."

SHARMA HAS found the members of the K-State faculty even more friendly and co-operative than the students. "I have found that all the instructors I've come in contact with are very happy to help me with any problems I might have," said Sharma. He explained that his native country of Nepal, located on the north east border of India, is one of the smallest countries in the world. It has an area of about 54,000 square miles with a population of nearly 8,000,000.

UP UNTIL 1950, Nepal was ruled by a prime minister in the name of the king. Sharma explained that both positions were held under a family system, with the title of king passing from father to son and the position of prime minister passing from brother to brother.

A revolution broke out in Nepal in 1950. People were striving for their rights against the powerful prime minister.

THE KING of Nepal and his family fought on the side of the people in helping them gain their freedom. "Our king sacrificed his life and much of his wealth in fighting for the rights of his people," stated Sharma.

Since the revolution and the death of the old king, the son of the old king has been ruling Nepal. This November the first election will be held in the country. The Nepalese people will elect members of the parliament and public ministry. At present the ministry is nominated by the king.

SHARMA IS looking forward to returning home to his family in Nepal. There are nine members in his family—his mother, his wife, his brother, sister-in-law, and their four children.

Nixon Is Good Winter Bet to Capture Next GOP Presidential Nomination

By UNITED PRESS

WASHINGTON—A good winter book bet today would be Richard M. Nixon against the field for the next Republican nomination.

The political breaks have been going for the young man from California in the weeks since his re-election as vice president. The biggest break, of course, was the fact that he and President Eisenhower polled a record vote last November.

THEIR TALLY seems to have refuted the claims of Nixon's opponents that he would cost the ticket some millions of votes. Nixon's greatest political disadvantage is the fear of some Republican leaders that he would not be a prime vote getter on his own.

Identical doubts served to kill off the late Robert A. Taft's chances for the Republican presidential nomination.

"I like Taft, but—" was the way millions of Republicans backed into their explanations of why they wanted some other presidential nominee. These doubts would severely handicap Nixon.

OTHERWISE, POLITICAL events are breaking well for Nixon in terms of prestige and Republican party influence. Eisenhower continues to demonstrate his confidence in Nixon. Good publicity is just as valuable to a politician with himself to sell as to a manufacturer with some other fancy product.

Mr. Eisenhower's selection of Nixon to investigate the situation of Hungarian refugees in Austria was a publicity jackpot. To the confusion of his leftwing detractors, Nixon returned from Austria a champion of relaxed immigration regulations.

TO THEIR further confusion, Nixon was given an opportunity last week to take a position on the Senate filibuster debate. Nixon's position placed him right in the middle of the so-called liberal camp. Moreover, it placed him on record with Negro voters as one of those whose interpretation of Senate filibuster rules would favor enactment of far-reaching civil rights legislation at this session of Congress.

THE COMMUNISTS and some others who dislike the vice president for less reason called a personal foul on Nixon for his Senate filibuster position. They held that he had acted in self-interest. The facts are that there is a scramble among politicians of both parties to win Negro voters. Neither party can win nationally without substantial Negro support unless it be in a contest so one-sided that millions of balance-of-power votes in the industrial states lose their significance.

More important than its effect on Nixon's future is the likely effect of the filibuster rule dispute on the future of the two major parties. Whatever may be the disadvantages or the inequities of the present filibuster practice, it can be persuasively argued that the filibuster is a solid last resort bulwark protecting a minority of the states against the majority.

Over the Ivy Line

Answers to Cheery Query Suggested by Sooner Daily

By Mary Beckmeyer

THE FOLLOWING sentiment from the Oklahoma Daily editorial page will probably be appreciated by some K-State students even though it is a few days delayed.

"Everyone we've met the past two days has greeted us with the cherry query, 'And how was your Christmas?' Actually holidays are fine until you return to campus. In discouragement you again face classes, study, finals, term papers and work—nothing could be more depressing than this continual question."

"We've thought up a few suitable answers—they'd at least have been more interesting than the inevitable, 'Oh, yes we . . .'"

"No I really didn't. Our tree burned down the night before Christmas. All the presents were destroyed and they found the bones of eight reindeer in the ashes."

"Well, it was rather interesting from a scientific view. We gave mother a electric blanket and it had a short circuit or something. They're still trying to figure out just what happened."

"No, I forgot to leave the flue open."

"It was horribly boring—nothing to do but stay home. Three boyfriends turned up simultaneously Christmas eve and all became furious and accused me of being unfaithful. One returned the ring he was going to give me, the second took back the fraternity pin I'd been wearing and the other one picked up the cashmere sweater under the Christmas tree on his way out."

"It was great. I got an extra big bagful of switches."

"Tremendous—shot a lifetime supply of venison."

"Got sick. Someone used butter-milk to make the eggnog."

"A nice holiday? I can't remember."

THE TOWER Lights at the University of Texas used to stay on all night until recently they started to turn them off at midnight to cut down expenses.

Then the University grievance committee complained that people coming home from dates "didn't like to see the Tower all dark." So the dean of student services has granted that the lights be left on until 1 a.m.

This privilege will probably be followed by either a raise in tuition or a Tower light relief fund drive.

Faculty Should Get Parking Tickets, Fines

Dear Editor:

I AM writing this letter in regard to the parking situation here at K-State. I will start by saying that I agree with most everyone else that the parking situation is in an extremely sad condition and I think that I have a possible solution to part of the problem.

It seems that a great deal of the trouble lies in the fact that there is not enough parking spaces for the students in the parking lot directly behind the Student Union. However, I have noticed that there always seems to be ample room for the faculty in their lot behind the Union. This is as it should be as a lot of the faculty park their cars in the students' portion of the lot. I assume that they do this so that they will not have to walk so far to their offices. Regardless of the reason for their parking in the students' lot, the fact remains that they can do this without fear of receiving a parking ticket and hence fired. (Or ejected from school).

IT SEEMS to reason that if the faculty would be considerate enough to park in their own lot, then there would be more room for the students. Hence, less students would receive parking tickets and fewer students would be dismissed from school due to too many parking tickets. It would seem that the faculty would take care not to park in the students' lot because if there are less students then indirectly this would affect the faculty's wages (due to less enrollment).

My personal remedy is just this: I believe that parking tickets should be given to the faculty, and in lieu of a fine I think that they should be required to submit a letter in triplicate to the head of their department, the campus police and to President McCains' office. If this was strictly enforced I believe that there would be less violations.

BY THE WAY, I think that this would be a better idea of punishment for the students also, rather than forcing them to drop out of school after a certain number of violations.

Would you please publish this letter in the Collegian and possibly the SGA can take the ball from here and start it rolling.

Sincerely yours,

Arthur J. Rhodes, CE Sr.

Dear Editor:

I HAVE been a student here at Kansas State for three years and have as yet to see the words of the Kansas State Alma Mater in print anywhere. At the recent basketball games it has been the custom to sing the Alma Mater before the game starts. I have felt like a non-partisan student but upon inquiry have found out that there are several other students that do not know the words to the Alma Mater, nor have they seen them in print.

I think that it is a very good idea to sing the Alma Mater at these sport activities and wonder if your paper would be kind enough to print the words to the Kansas State Alma Mater.

Sincerely yours,

Arthur J. Rhodes, CE Sr.

K-State Receives Grant Of $22,800 for Research

Five grants, totaling $22,800 have been received in recent months to support research in parasitology at K-State.

The projects, all of which are directed by Merle Hanson of the department of zoology, and administered through the Kansas agricultural experiment station, according to D. J. Ameel, department head.

State expenditure forms for scholarships for the 1957 spring semester must be turned into the comptroller's office not later than January 11.

These forms must have the names of students who have qualified for and been granted K-State scholarships and the amount they are to receive, according to Mr. R. H. Perry, comptroller.

"Persons or agencies granting scholarships from funds administered by the Endowment association should first determine enroll the same semester that the scholarship grants are made," said Mr. Kenneth Heywood, endowment director.

A teaching seminar will be offered next semester for graduate students interested in college teaching, according to Harold Howe, dean of the Graduate school.

"Problems of College Teaching" deals with teaching techniques. It covers the natural and social sciences, humanities, home economics, engineering, and agriculture," Howe explained.

The seminar will meet each Wednesday from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m., in WA 135.

This semester, a companion course in principles of college teaching is being offered.

"The primary purpose of these seminars is to help prospective teachers appreciate the opportunities they have for initiative in action and expression," Howe said.

Students in the problems seminar will select their subject matter for study. As in the principles course, several departments and schools will contribute information and suggestions, he added.

Drugs for Finals Called Crutch for Lame Brain

By MARY WIELAND

"Crutches for lame brains," Dr. Benjamin W. Lafene, director of Student Health, calls stimulant drugs.

Dr. Lafene strongly advises students not to substitute these pills for sleep—even during exams. Instead of stimulating, they may harm instead of increasing mental ability, they make many of their users depressed or nervous—they even produce worse effects, such as nausea.

"Don't stay up late cramming for exams," the Student Health director said. If you set up a study schedule and stick to it throughout the semester, you'll need only to review at exam time.

When you do study for long hours, don't shut yourself in a stuffy, smoke-filled room. When you can't keep your eyes open any longer in a room full of fresh air, rather than trying to stay awake with coffee or cokes, go to bed.

SHOE DEPARTMENT

Gamma Phi's, DU's Pleased With Progress

"Everything has been running smoothly since our rush week," Pat McDermott, student counselor for Gamma Phi Beta, said. Four new girls pledged recently making a total number of 40 Gamma Phi pledges. The new pledges are Billie Scott, BA Jr; Orville Homer, His Fr; Betsy Burnham, EEd Jr; and Nancy Barragree, EEd Jr.

The installation date is set for March 22-24. At this time initiation will take place, and the grand president will issue the charter to the chapter.

"We are planning to build so that we will have a new house by next fall but our house plans are not definite as of yet," Pat said.

"We have just been taking it easy since we were installed as a charter member of Delta Upsilon," Ronald Pettit, president, said.

Delta Upsilon (formerly the 1834 Club) had their installation November 17 in Memorial chapel. Clark Davis, international president, was in charge of the ceremonies. DU's from Iowa, Nebraska, and Kansas universities were present.

Jim Runberg, ME Jr, is a new pledge.

The DU's gave toys to their dates at their Christmas party. At the end of the evening the toys were collected and given to the National Guard to be distributed to underprivileged children.

The DU's took 11 Gamma Phi Beta pledges to church and had them as guests for dinner including the Gamma Phi Beta traveling secretary, Carol Ann Vichels.

Depression Fashions Shape Style for 50's

New York, (U.P.)—Fashions of the depression 30's now shape the shape of the prosperous 50's.

Designers have turned for inspiration to the years of the bread lines in designing next spring's clothes lines.

A logical reason for the 30's trend in clothes, that this week will be shown to 200 reporters from the United States and Canada, is given by Eleanor Lambert, spokesman for the New York Dress Institute.

"Prosperity is just around the corner" has much in common with the "peace in our time" sentiment today, she says. Both are jittery periods and clothes reflect a national state of mind. A nationwide case of nerves, makes fashions simpler. Clothes become extravagant when there is no unrest.

In the spring, every way a woman turns she will see the influence of such great designers of the 30's as Chanel, Mainsbocher, and Molyneux. New suits will be as casual and easy-fitted as if Chanel had turned them out.

The leather-belted suit is back, with the belt sometimes circling the skirt rather than the jacket. The silhouette in general has a sharper outline, through the unobtrusive squaring of shoulders, necklines and yokes.

Other trends from the collections being shown this week:

Coats usually button, rather than wrap. The waistline returns to normal, replacing 1956's high-riding empire.

Skirts for daytime are an inch or so longer than last spring, and the "demi-length" (near the ankles), is the top trend for evening. The majority of daytime skirts are slim; tunics abound, dresses with low backs and high fronts show in all collections.

Fabrics, even tweeds, stress lightness of weight. Patterned fabrics are seen throughout the clothing collections, featuring everything from stripes to polka dots to flowers. In color, the favorite daytime "basics" are pale grey and beige; black and navy are used, but not starred.

Winter Hunts Starters for KU Game

Eight Tried In Practice; Abbott Hurt

K-State basketball coach Tex Winter was undecided after yesterday's practice about his starting five, with eight Wildcats vying for the positions in preparation for the Kansas game Saturday evening.

One reason for the mixup in the lineup is the hospitalization of regular forward Hayden Abbott. Abbott is in Student Health with an infected toe and is not expected to be in the starting lineup against the Jayhawks Saturday night.

Jim Holwerda has been working in Abbott's position and is the likely starter in that position. Holwerda is a sophomore.

The remainder of the probable starting lineup is Jack Parr on the post, Bob Boozer, Larry Fisher, and Eddie Wallace. Jack Kiddoo may start in place of Wallace and Roy DeWitz could replace Fisher in that tentative lineup.

Parr has not yet fully recovered from the attack of flu that sidelined him from the Big Seven pre-season tournament in Kansas City over the Christmas vacation.

Kansas, the nation's number one team, will be heavily favored to cop the intra-state battle. Wilt "The Stilt" Chamberlain has led the Jayhawks to 11 straight victories this season and his presence makes Kansas the most top-heavy favorite they have been in recent years.

Along with Wilt, Kansas will have Gene Elstun, Lew Johnson, John Parker, and Maurice King on the front line. Elstun has been a big gun all season in the KU lineup along with Chamberlain and is expected to cause the Cats considerable trouble.

It was Elstun who hit the final two points against Iowa State in the Big Seven tournament that kept the Jayhawks undefeated and paved the way to the championship for the Lawrence crew coached by Dick Harp.

Looking to the KU game, Wildcat coach Tex Winter sees the big factor as whether or not Parr can be in top shape. The leading Cat rebounder and scorer needs time to regain timing that was lost when he was in bed with the flu.

"With Parr back in shape and with the hope that some of the other players can start taking up slack, we can give the Jayhawks a real battle," commented Winter.

OU-Miami Charity Tilt Is Ruled Out

St. Louis (U.P.)—A proposal to match the national champion Oklahoma Sooners and the University of Miami in a post-season football game soon for Hungarian refugee relief was ruled out flatly today by the National Collegiate Athletic association.

The game was reported to have the behind-the-scenes support of Henry Ford II, who thinks the contest is a "good idea" and is "interested in the proposal."

The American Legion said yesterday Ford had invited national commander Dan Daniel to join the promotion committee for the game.

Cat Tankers To Duel NU

K-State's swimming team will see its first Big Seven competition in eight years Saturday (January 12) when the Wildcat tankmen meet Nebraska at Lincoln in a matinee dual starting at 2 p.m.

Under Coach Bill Thrall the Wildcats are re-entering swim competition. K-State dropped swimming as a varsity sport following the 1948 season.

Wildcat team members for the Nebraska meet include backstrokers Tom Coblentz, Salina, and Jim Mariner, Kansas City; butterfly specialist Dave Dicken, Hutchinson; free style swimmers Don Matsuoka, and Tom Onuma, Hawaii, and Charles Roberts, Oskaloosa; breast strokers Buzz Newman, Wichita; and diver Marion Towns, Chase.

Wrestlers Open Season With 3-Meet Road Trip

With a team of four lettermen and four sophomores, K-State wrestlers open the 1957 season with a three-meet road swing against rugged northern foes this week.

Starting with Cornell college of Mt. Vernon, Iowa, tomorrow, the Cat grapplers then face Minnesota Teachers (Mankato) Friday, and Minnesota U. at Minneapolis Saturday. K-State will be defending 1956 wins against both Cornell and Minnesota U.

Named probable team members for the junket are lettermen Pete Everist, 137 pounds; Gary Haller, 167 pounds; Ray Glaze, 177 pounds; and Ellis Rainsberger, heavyweight.

Filling the other four spots are sophomores—Jim Miller, 123 pounds; Calvin Schwalbe, 130 pounds; Jim Roberts, 147 pounds; and John Doyle, 157 pounds.

The four yearlings are top men among 17 sophomores on the K-State mat squad, tabbed by Coach Fritz Knorr as "easily the greatest group of sophomores we have had here in years".

Doyle and Schwalbe were high school state champs. Doyle won the 165-pound Kansas high school crown in both 1954 and 1955. Miller placed second in the 1955 Kansas high school meet; and Roberts is a consistent tourney winner out of Tulsa (Okla.) Central.

Haller has the glossiest record among the returning lettermen. The Colby junior turned in an 8-4 record last year and placed third in the 177-pound class of the Big Seven tourney. Pulled down to the 167-pound division, he should rate even tougher this season.

The three-meet road trip will help Coach Knorr sort K-State mat talents in preparation for the Wildcats' first home meet, January 9 against Iowa Teachers.

"We're not expecting too much in the way of wins," Knorr cautioned of these three road contests. "All three are wrestling strongholds, and both Cornell and Minnesota U. will be trying to make up for those surprise wins we scored over them last season."

Jackie Slammed By Dodger Head

New York, (U.P.)—The New York Giants' last-ditch efforts to prevent Jackie Robinson's retirement from baseball were doomed Monday by Jackie's statement he wouldn't play again "for a million dollars" and his anger at the Brooklyn Dodgers.

"I can't imagine any conditions under which I would change my mind," Robinson insisted. "That goes especially after what I read vice-president Buzzy Bavasi of the Dodgers said about me the other day."

The 36-year-old Robinson, first Negro in organized baseball, was brimming over with anger at Bavasi even as he announced his departure from the diamond.

Bavasi was quoted as saying Robinson treated the press unfairly in concealing his retirement plans from December 12 until last Saturday, when they were announced through a magazine (Look). Bavasi added, "You fellows (newspapermen) will find you've been tooting the horn for the wrong fellow."

"I thought Bavasi was a better friend of mine than to say that," said Robinson in angry tones. "Oh well, it's not the first time he popped off without knowing what he was talking about."

Before Bavasi's remarks were made known, Robinson had been quoted as saying he might return to baseball if the president of his new company, the restaurant chain, so desired.

Dayton Tops Canisius, 65-58 Using Pesky Zone Defense

By UNITED PRESS

The zone defense, outlawed by the pros and bitterly criticized by some college coaches, turned up today as a key factor in basketball's latest major upset—Dayton's 65-58 victory over 11th-ranked Canisius.

Fourth-ranked Southern Methodist survived a rugged test to gain its 12th victory of the season last night.

But Canisius, tagged with only its second loss in 12 starts, ran up against the first zone defense used by a Dayton team in the 10-year coaching reign of Tommy Blackburn. The strategy helped Dayton control the ball for most of the final 19 minutes to gain the upper hand.

Once-beaten SMU ran into a zone defense manufactured by Texas A&M but fought to a 62-53 victory—compared to a 68-46 romp over the Aggies in the recent Southwest conference tournament.

The Aggies benched their usual tall team and started five swift shorties in hopes of making the zone defense work, but they couldn't stop six-foot center Jim Krebs of the Mustangs from scoring 30 points. George Mehaffey led the Aggies with 23.

California, ranked 19th nationally, beat Stanford for the first time since 1954, 59-45, although Stanford's Dick Haga salvaged scoring honors with 18 points.

In other leading games last night: Texas downed Texas Christian, 85-76, in the Southwest conference and Santa Clara took first place in the California Basketball association by upsetting San Francisco, last year's national champion, 51-47.

But the game of the night was at Altoona, Pa.—Potomac State (W. Va.) vs. Penn State's Altoona branch. The fans were there; the sports writers were there. Only people missing were the teams. Seems the game had been rescheduled a month ago.

"I guess we forgot to tell anybody," admitted an Altoona official.

WILDCAT NEMESIS—Jayhawk guard Maurice King has long been a thorn in the K-State side. In the first game of the season between the two clubs last year King got 12 points in the first half to stymie the Cats and lead KU to a 91-86 win. In the return battle at Lawrence, King fouled out with 12 minutes left and K-State swept to a 79-68 win which clinched the Big Seven crown.

REGULAR DERAILED—Hayden Abbott has not been released from Student Health today after being admitted for treatment of an infected toe. The injury will keep him out of the KU game.

Boss' Blessing To Duke For 1956 MVP Award

By UNITED PRESS

New York (U.P.) — Brooklyn Dodger slugger Duke Snider had a brand new $41,000 contract today and the boss' best wishes "to edge out teammate Roy Campanella as the National league's Most Valuable Player."

"Every other year is supposed to be Campy's year," said Dodger President Walter O'Malley after Snider, National league home run champion, telephoned his acceptance of the new pact from Fallbrook, Calif. "But this year I'd like to see the Duke edge him out for the award."

The affable O'Malley hastened to explain that he's got nothing against Campanella.

"It's just that Campy has already won three MVP awards and Duke has yet to win one" he pointed out. "So, this year I'd like to see Duke get it because I think he has the all-around ability to rank as the league's outstanding player."

Snider never has won an MVP award although he finished a close second to Campanella in 1955.

SOME MORE LITTLE STORIES WITH BIG MORALS

First Little Story

Once upon a time there was an Indian brave named Running Bear who had a squaw named Giggling Water. Giggling Water was sort of a mess, but she sure could make beaded moccasins. Every day she whipped up a brand-new pair of beaded moccasins for Running Bear which were so gorgeous that all the Indian maids on the reservation grew giddy with admiration.

Well sir, Giggling Water got livid about all the girls making goo-goo eyes at Running Bear, and one night she told him so. Then he got livid too, and they had a terrible rumble, and he slapped her on the wrist, and she started crying like crazy and moved out of the wigwam and went home to her mother and never came back.

"Good riddance!" said Running Bear, but he soon found out how wrong he was, for the Indian maids were not really interested in him, only in his moccasins, and when he stopped showing up with a new pair every day, they quickly gave him the yo-heave-ho, and today he is a broken man, sitting all alone in his tepee and muttering ancient Ute curses.

MORAL: Don't fight the hand that beads you.

the students did not take that lying down.

Second Little Story

Once upon a time there was a sweet old gentleman named Nathan who ran a tobacco counter at a large American university. All of the students loved him dearly, and they used to come over whenever they could to buy Philip Morris Cigarettes and chat with Nathan, both of which were highly satisfactory pursuits. The Philip Morris were highly satisfactory because they are full of natural goodness that is friendly and humane and soothing and no small consolation in this strife-ridden world of ours. Nathan, like Philip Morris, was also full of natural goodness that was friendly and humane and all like that.

Well sir, the students smoked Philip Morris and yoked with Nathan, and everything was lovely. Then one day the university decided to fire Nathan and put in a cigarette vending machine instead.

Well sir, the students did not take that lying down, you may be sure! They organized a monster rally and went over to prexy's house and made fiery speeches about good old Nathan and how they loved him.

Well sir, prexy was no fool, and when he saw how heartbroken the students would be if Nathan went, he decided that the wisest course was to keep Nathan and cancel the cigarette vending machine. This he did, and they all lived happily ever after.

MORAL: Better Nate than lever.

Third Little Story

Once there was a lion, which was a very quiet lion. In fact, the only time it ever made a sound was when it had a toothache.

MORAL: When it pains, it roars.

©Max Shulman, 1956

Philip Morris, sponsor of this column, would like to point a moral too: Nothing ventured, nothing gained. Try a pack of Philip Morris, and win yourself a heap of pleasure!

Guess Who's Footing the Bill For the Middle East Crisis

Compiled from United Press
By LANCE GILMORE

New York, Jan. 9—You are now paying for the Middle East crisis.

It will cost you more to drive your car and heat your home this winter. Other products may cost you more. And your chances for tax relief appear to be zero.

Gasoline and fuel oil prices appear headed for a one-cent-a-gallon increase in most parts of the country. Some Americans in the Western states began paying the extra penny this week. Before the year is over, more than a billion dollars have been added to the nation's fuel bill. The extra cost of oil may be passed along eventually in the prices of other goods you buy.

This direct hit on your pocket-book stems from last fall's brief but costly Middle Eastern fighting.

Poles Get Ag Changes

Warsaw, Poland, Jan. 9—Poland today announced sweeping concessions to its farmers and replaced the Minister of Agriculture with Edward Ochab, former head of the Polish Communist party.

The central committee of the Communist party announced the concessions to farmers, including a partial return to free enterprise.

The government announced that Minister of Agriculture Natoni Kuligowski was being replaced by Ochab.

Rebels Look to Chou

Vienna, Jan. 9—Hungarian hopes of breaking the shackles of the Stalin-type dictatorship of the Soviet puppet regime may depend on India and Communist China, Western observers said today.

A meeting in Moscow between Indian Ambassador K. P. S. Menon and Red Chinese Premier Chou En-Lai may determine whether the Hungarians will obtain a measure of political freedom, they said.

It was believed Menon's report on Hungary to Chou would have a determining effect on Red China's stand on the issue. And Western observers believed Chou more than any one else could bring pressure to bear on the Kremlin.

Soviet-Sion Rift Seen

London, Jan. 9—Moscow talks between Communist China and the Soviet Union on Iron Curtain unity were reported complicated today by unrest in the Ukraine and a "crisis" in Sino-Soviet relations.

Diplomatic reports reaching London hinted an intensive campaign was underway in the traditionally restive Ukraine to stamp out "Titoism" among intellectual groups there.

A Canadian correspondent reported in Hong Kong after a trip to Red China that a "crisis" had developed in relations with Russia because Peiping "fiercely resents dependence on Russia."

French Eye to Algeria

Paris, Jan. 9—War-weary France made another major effort today to end the bloody, 26-month-old Algeria rebellion.

Premier Guy Mollet's cabinet met to approve a new liberal policy for Algeria, which Mollet planned to announce later today over a nationwide radio and television network.

The "new deal" was expected to win almost automatic approval, since most of the cabinet members had a hand in writing it.

Fourth Kefauver Miss

Washington, Jan. 9—For the fourth time, Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) has lost out to a senator with less seniority in his bid for a coveted seat on the Senate Foreign Relations committee.

Kefauver was passed up yesterday in favor of Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) to fill the only current vacancy on the committee.

Kennedy, Kefauver's unsuccessful rival for the Democratic vice presidential nomination last year, has been in the Senate for four years. Kefauver for eight.

Jew Export Protested

Washington, Jan. 9—The United States has protested at least four times to Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser against Egypt's deportation of Jews, officials disclosed today.

The latest protest was made to Nasser last week in Cairo by U.S. Ambassador Raymond Hare, who has been arguing against anti-Jewish activities in Egypt for more than six weeks.

Integration Rift Looms

Atlanta, Jan. 9—Segregationist John Kasper warned today that a suit to integrate Knoxville, Tenn., schools may lead to more "race riots" and "possible bloodshed."

Kasper, who figured in the Clinton, Tenn., integration riots last fall, called a white citizens council "strategy" session to plan demands on the Tennessee legislature now in session.

The suit filed last Monday by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People will arouse legislative support of White demands for bolstering Tennessee segregation laws, Kasper said.

The legislatures of Tennessee and South Carolina, also just beginning its 1957 session, were expected to receive packets of bills designed to keep schools segregated regardless of court action.

Jan. 11 Deadline For Class Drops

The last day students may drop a class before the end of the semester is January 11 at 4 p.m. according to the Arts and Sciences office. The grade received will either be WD passing or WD failure according to the student's grade status in the class to be dropped.

What young people are doing at General Electric

Young engineer pioneers new ways to use x-ray

A new x-ray inspection system which intensifies an x-ray image more than 10,000 times in brightness and transmits it to a conventional TV screen has been developed recently by General Electric. When perfected, it may enable medical specialists to perform "long-distance" diagnosis on patients in remote areas.

One of the principal men who developed x-ray television—called TVX for short—is Dr. John E. Jacobs, Manager of the Advanced Development Laboratory of General Electric's X-Ray Department in Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Jacobs' Work Is Important, Responsible

As an electronics specialist, Dr. Jacobs' work in the past has been devoted to the study of photoconductors—substances whose properties change under the influence of radiation—and the use of x-ray in industrial inspection. This in turn led to his development of the x-ray-sensitive camera tube used in TVX.

His present administrative duties with the Advanced Development Lab allow him more time for teaching others what he has learned. He now teaches the second-year graduate course at Northwestern in vacuum-tube networks, and has recently been named McKay Visiting Professor for 1957 by the University of California at Berkeley, where he will give a two-week series of lectures on photoconduction.

27,000 College Graduates at General Electric

Since his youth, when he was a licensed radio "ham," John Jacobs has been devoted to the study of electricity and electronics. Like each of our 27,000 college graduates, he is being given the chance to grow and realize his full potential. For General Electric has long believed this: when fresh young minds are given the freedom to develop, everybody benefits—the individual, the Company, and the country.

Educational Relations, General Electric Company, Schenectady 5, New York

DR. JOHN E. JACOBS joined General Electric full time in 1950, after receiving his B.S. in electrical engineering in '47, his M.S. in '48, and his Ph.D. in '50, all at Northwestern Univ. He served in the Navy in World War II, and worked part time at General Electric while in college.

Pre-Enrollment Reaches 4,019

Pre-enrollment for the spring semester reached 4,019 according to E. M. Gerritz, director of admissions and registrar.

The 3 to 1 ratio of men to women was almost the same with 2,909 men and 1,110 women taking advantages of the early enrollment. Arts and Sciences had the largest number of pre-enrollees with 1,612 students pulling cards.

The totals were broken down by schools as follows: School of Arts and Sciences, 1,612; School of Engineering and Architecture, 1,065; School of Agriculture, 584; School of Home Economics, 389; School of Veterinary Medicine, 244; and Graduate School, 125.

Fees must be paid by January 25 for students to keep their class cards. If they are not paid, the cards will be returned for use by students during the regular enrollment period, according to Gerritz.

Freshmen students generally have the largest class after regular enrollment is completed, but the sophomores during this pre-enrollment period had the largest number with 1,074 students. Only 1,035 freshmen students pre-enrolled although 1,648 enrolled last fall. The juniors had 908 students enrolling from their class, and 739 seniors pre-enrolled.

There were 1,516 students who were ineligible to pre-enroll because of low grades. Thirty-four per cent of the students in engineering, 23 per cent in agriculture; 20 and 3.7 per cent in veterinary per cent in arts and sciences, medicine was not eligible.

These students will enroll January 28, 29, and 30 according to alphabetical listing in the student catalogue.

Pre-enrollment will be held again in the spring for the summer and fall sessions, Gerritz said.

Real Cool

'SNOW FUN when a person runs out of ammo, Glenda Robertson, SEd Soph, found out when she tried a blitz snowball attack on Richard Frank, Ec Soph. Dick was a gentleman about the whole thing, though, and accepted an unconditional surrender.

Construction is under way on the new animal husbandry barn and bids will be let January 22 for a $500,000 Agricultural Engineering wing and a $140,000 air conditioning unit for the Student Union according to R. F. Gingrich, physical plant director.

Gingrich said the footings and underground plumbing of the $79,653 barn is now completed. The electrical wiring has been installed and one-half of the water lines have been laid.

The electricity is supplied by the campus power plant and the water is brought to the building from the main campus lines.

The wooden forms have been built for the columns of the reinforced concrete building. One-third of the concrete section for the hay mow has been constructed, he said. "We were ready to pour concrete yesterday, but the weather turned too cold," Gingrich said. Construction of the barn was started last November, and the completion date is set for April.

The plans for the barn were drawn by the K-State campus planning department and State Architect Dwight Brown. Hunter and Lundberg, Manhattan contractors, are constructing the building.

The new barn will replace the former limestone structure that was destroyed by fire in September, 1955. The new barn is located north and west of the veterinary research laboratory, one mile from the north edge of the campus.

The building is T-shaped and the portion that will be used to house cattle is 148 by 35 feet. A 48 by 40 foot area will be used for storage, offices, a class room, and living quarters for four people.

The air conditioning unit in the Union will consist of a chilling unit, a cooling tower, pumps, and a motor and control center which will be located in the power plant.

The water will be chilled in the chilling unit and pumped through a 10 inch pipeline from the physical plant to the Union where it will circulate through heat converters. Blower units and heat converters were installed in the Union when it was constructed.

The pipe will be installed next week and the units should be in operation by May, according to Gingrich.

The Agricultural Engineering wing will be connected to the north side of the newest portion of Seaton Hall. The wing will come within 85 feet of the power plant.

The exterior of the new wing will be 134 by 152 feet. Smooth-sawn limestone, matching the color of the adjoining portion of the building, will cover the new wing, Gingrich said.

A hydraulics laboratory, farm mechanics and machinery lab, tractor lab, rural electrification lab, vocational agricultural lab, and class rooms and offices will be included in the new building.

An additional $50,000 has been requested from the legislature to cover additional building costs, he said.

Seniors May Join Alumni Association

Graduating seniors have been invited to join the K-State Alumni association in a letter from the association's executive secretary, Kenny Ford, dated January 7.

The letter offers a lifetime membership in the Alumni association for $50, payable over a 5-year period. Other plans are an annual membership for $3, and a husband-wife membership for $75, payable over a 5-year period.

Membership includes subscriptions to the Trumpet and K-Stater, alumni publications. "K-State alumni are noted for their loyalty to Alma Mater," Ford said. "The Alumni office aids them in many ways, such as homecomings, class reunions, and alumni clubs in counties of Kansas and cities throughout the United States.

Alumni are helpful to the College in many ways, such as using their influence to help secure needed appropriations from the state legislature for buildings, the educational program, research, and extension.

Ford said students desiring more information about the Alumni association should visit his office, A 118B, just off rec center.

K-State Veterinary School In Fashion with New Suits

by CAROL SITZ

The fashion bug has hit the K-State Veterinary Medicine school.

Never again will you see the drab gray-and-white-striped coveralls running around with vet medicine students inside.

Gone forever are those shapeless coveralls, which have hidden the masculine physiques of the vet medicine students for 10 these many years.

From now on the students will sport sharp-looking two-piece gray outfits, which have already proved they are as practical as they are good looking.

A few years back, the vet medicine students wore white coveralls. These coveralls proved unsatisfactory because they showed dirt so easily.

And not least among the problems was the fact that the white-clad figures frightened some of the animals. This often resulted in lowered milk production in dairy animals.

The situation got so bad that when a farmer called up to have a K-State veterinary doctor come to his farm to look at his herd, he would request that the doctor not bring along any white-covered-clad students.

After several years, the uniforms were changed to a familiar stripped coveralls. These proved fairly successful, except that none of the students felt his outfit was quite "chick."

"One of the Ten Best Dressed Men on Campus" was not a title to be won by a vet medicine student dressed in the baggy, colorless coveralls. So, some changes have been made.

These new two-piece outfits weren't designed by Dior, but we're betting that more than one K-State coed will look twice as the veterinary medicine students strut proudly by in their new uniforms.

Assemblies Are Answer To Unions Profit Problems

KEDZIEITES HAVE come up with the solution of how to insure that the Student Union makes a profit without assessing any student fees.

How? Simple, merely schedule two assemblies a week next semester and we'll practically guarantee that the Union business and stock will zoom.

IF YESTERDAY was any example, the Student Union was bursting at the seams with students, etc., all vying for the nearest table and a cup of coffee. Strangely enough, this rush of business just happened to come while Edward Weeks, editor of Atlantic Monthly, was delivering a speech in the Auditorium.

This is nothing against Mr. Weeks of course. He did an admirable job at the assembly, so I am told. It's just that every time we have assembly, the business in the Union suddenly picks up.

YESTERDAY MORNING the stateroom and cafeteria were jam packed with a big line waiting to be served. The walnut dining room and the dive were also packed. The situation got so bad that Union officials had to announce over the public address system for those who had finished their coffee to please retire to other parts of the Union.

The only trouble with that was there wasn't any other place in the Union to retire to. The library and reading rooms were all full.

AH, ME, that's what you get for trying to be helpful and obey commands. I should have played it smart and kept my table in the stateroom.—George Vohs.

Personality of the Week

A Razzle-Dazzle Y-Orpheum Program Is Predicted by Chairman Bruce Wilson

By NANCY MOLTER

"WE THINK we are going to have a real razzle-dazzle of a show," Bruce Wilson, His Gr and personality of the week, said about the approaching Y-Orpheum show of which he is chairman.

"The houses are real enthused about it and have a lot of spirit and that psycho-Kansas university from a K-Stater and and they have gone all out to make it a big production. This year the Rock Chalk Review will open in Kansas City for one night. We should keep this in mind and maybe we can do something similar next year."

"I WORKED on the Rock Chalk Review when I went to school at Kansas university and between 1951-1953, I saw how the Rock Chalk Review was growing just because the students were thinking big."

"One of the ways we are improving the show is that we are getting bigger trophies," he laughed. "Another is inspiring competitive spirit. We're trying to get as many technical consultants as we can to help improve the scripts," he said.

"THE JUDGES will write criticisms, both weak and strong points of all the scripts, to help the houses in the future. This way the different houses can draw on these helpful criticisms in the future Y-Orpheum tryouts."

"Another thing we hope to accomplish is to speed the show up and have less delays. We're putting requirements on set-making so they can be moved on stage quicker and cut down the minutes between acts from 12 minutes to 6 minutes," he said.

"FOR THOSE houses that do not have a large enough area in their own house to rehearse, we will try to arrange rehearsal areas in the gym and Union and provide a piano. Also, we will help the houses find a place to build sets if they need it," Bruce stated.

"We're glad to be working in conjunction with the Union. They have been a big help in paying our bills now so we can avoid too much credit. Then we will repay the Union when we get the receipts from Y-Orpheum. Their facilities are a great help, especially publicity. Bob Alexander is an excellent advisor because he has had experience with different college shows," Bruce said.

logical factor makes a lot of difference in the quality of a show."

"WE WANT to make Y-Orpheum represent Kansas State college in the best possible way. Our idea is to slick the show-up and make it more big time, similar to Iowa State and Northwestern. Their shows have tremendous budgets of $12,000 and more. We may not have as much talent to choose from but we have just as good talent," Bruce said.

"Our Y-Orpheum idea was taken to ARRANGING FURNITURE in their new apartment in Jardine Terrace are Marshall and Donna Henderson. The apartment is furnished with a desk, chairs, divan, bed, gas range, refrigerator, and two dressers.

WARMING MILK for her son, Kevin, who is 7 weeks old, is Donna Henderson. She is in the kitchen of the apartment which is furnished with a gas range and refrigerator.

'First Family' Moves Into Jardine Terrace

"OUR NEW apartment is very nice, especially in comparison to many of the Manhattan apartments that are available. It can't be beat for the rent we're paying," said Donna and Marshall Henderson, the first couple to move into Jardine Terrace, the married students' apartments.

Marshall waited in line from 3 a.m. after Easter vacation last year to be the first to put his name on the apartment list in the housing office. He took a book along to keep him company.

MARSHALL, WHO is from Alména, is a senior in agricultural education. Donna's hometown is Ellis, and she attended business school in Denver and Ft. Hays State college. The Hendersons have one son, Kevin, who is seven weeks old.

The Henderson's two-bedroom apartment rents for $67.50 including all utilities and electricity up to 140 kilowatts a month. "The one-bedroom apartments in Jardine Terrace rent for $62.50, and the second bedroom is well worth the extra $5," said Donna.

"WE DO MISS not having a telephone, and it will be much more convenient when the laundry houses are finished," she said. The laundry houses, which will contain washers and driers, should be completed in a few weeks.

"Pay phones will be installed in the laundry houses in a few days, but we do not know when private phones will be available," said Thornton Edwards, director of housing.

Three walls of the Henderson's living room are painted a soft blue with the fourth one a darker, blending shade of the same color. All the furniture is matching blond wood, upholstered with breathable naugahide a plastic finished material. A black divan, two red upholstered chairs, two black and white lamps, and wrought iron book racks give the room a modern setting.

THE LIVING room also has a desk and study chair which is upholstered in black and white. A black wood coffee table with black wrought iron legs which Marshall made, a blond hi-fi set, and two bronze wall plaques have been added to the room.

The kitchen matches the color of the living room. It is furnished with a dining table and chairs matching the study chair. A gas stove, refrigerator, and all steel cabinets and tabletop complete the furnishings.

ONLY ONE of the two bedrooms was completely furnished. Kevin's two-toned gray room has only a chest of drawers, and the Henderson's have added a crib.

The second bedroom, which is yellow and pink, has a bed, chest of drawers, and Kevin's bassinet. The sliding door, space-saving closet, is about seven feet long. "There is tremendous closet space in the bedrooms which really help," said Donna. There is also a coat closet off the living room.

The first 48 of the 192 apartments were occupied December 31 and January 1. "The next 72 apartments are expected to be completed February 1, and the final 72 should be done by March 1," said Thornton Edwards, director of housing.

STUDYING IN LEISURE is Marshall Henderson who finds that the desk and chair in the married students apartments make studying seem easier.

St. Louis Billikens Fall In Tough Mo Valley

By UNITED PRESS

The Missouri Valley conference, long noted as one of the nation's toughest basketball loops, lived up to its reputation again today when title favorite St. Louis bit the dust in its first league appearance.

St. Louis went into last night's game against Wichita with the No. 15 national ranking and a record that included victories over such powers as Kentucky and Louisville. But the Billikens came out on the short end of a 69-64 score, a poor omen for their title hopes.

Louisville, which has been steadily on the upgrade since its loss to St. Louis and now is ranked fifth nationally, registered its ninth win in 11 starts last night, 93-71, over Memphis State.

Wichita jumped ahead of St.

Louis, 36-32, at halftime in their game at Wichita, breaking a 32-32 tie, and never again trailed.

The Shockers hit 40.6 percent of their shots in scoring the upset and were led by guard Joe Stevens with 21 points. Harold Alcorn paced St. Louis with 18 as the in-and-out Bills suffered their fifth loss against seven wins.

Six-eight Charley Tyra, Louisville's all-America candidate, racked up 20 points and grabbed 20 rebounds in another fine showing in the Cardinals' home victory, but had to yield game scoring honors to teammate Bill Dargagh, who had 26. Louisville led all the way in scoring its fifth straight victory.

Pennsylvania nipped Cornell last night, 77-72, and Yale crushed Brown, 91-67.

NCAA Calm as Meet Closes

St. Louis, (U.P.)—The National Collegiate Athletic association faced almost no battles today as it approached its annual floor session which will end all but minor business of the 51st convention.

There was an outside chance three Pacific Coast schools—Washington, Southern California, and UCLA—may appeal to the convention for leniency in their probation cases. They have been denied it by the NCAA executive council, but that group could be overruled by the open convention tomorrow.

Ethics among coaches were discussed by the American Football Coaches association. The group said a coach facing a major schedule and forced to break "unrealistic rules" set up by his school and conference should have the support of the membership, since the rules often make his position "untenable."

Parr To Student Health For Rest; Abbott Is Out

By KEITH KEMPER

Two K-State regulars are in Student Health today as the Wildcats prepare for their most significant game so far in the young basketball season this Saturday when they meet KU at Lawrence.

Center Jack Parr and forward Hayden Abbott will both remain in the hospital over night with their release expected sometime tomorrow.

Parr was taken to Student Health last night and will remain tonight in order to regain the strength he lost two weeks ago when he came down with an attack of the flu.

"Abbott will miss the KU game due to an infection in his toe,"

Coach Tex Winter said Wednesday afternoon.

"We will definitely not be at full strength for the game with the Jayhawks, but if our 'plan' is executed properly, we can beat them," Winter said. "That is a big if," Winter commented.

The Wildcats go into the contest with a season mark of 5-5, losing five of their last six contests. Their last defeat came at the hands of the Oklahoma Sooners last Saturday night, 69-67.

Kansas will rate as heavy favorites to cop the intra-state clash as Wilt and company go after their 12th straight victory.

Along with Chamberlain, Kansas has Gene Elstun, the new Hawk take-charge-guy, and Lew Johnson at the forwards and John Parker and Maurice King at the guards.

A capacity crowd of 17,000 is expected for the 7:35 p.m. tipoff.

Jack Parr and Bob Boozer, K-State's 'big men' with better than a 20-point-per-game average, are again expected to lead the Cats.

Parr is the leading point getter with a 23.1 average. Boozer has a 20.6 average through the first ten games.

Going along with Parr and Boozer on the first unit will be Jim Holwerda and Eddie Wallace at the guards and either Roy DeWitz, Larry Fisher, or Don Richards in the other forward position opposite Boozer.

LEW JOHNSTON, two-year KU letterman, gets in a few-and-far between hook shot. Johnston, regularly a center (BW) before Wilt, doubles at forward this year. A senior, he collected 230 rebounds as a sophomore, surpassing rookie harvests by all-Americans Clyde Lovellette and B. H. Born, then matched that number last season. He scored 210 points his sophomore year, and 237 his junior year.

Johnston is a capable hooker as well as a jumpshooter, but he needs defensive improvement, according to a Kansas university sports brochure. He is expected to collect more points this year because of Chamberlain's rebounding on the post.

Half of the Jayhawks . . .

WE OF THE Collegian sports staff and interested personnel have come up with a way to cut the Stilt's scoring potential in half. Only drawback to the plan is that Chamberlain might score twice as many points in this condition. Notwithstanding, we of the Northwest corner of the Kedzie newsroom are always on the lookout for possible defensive measures against threats to organized college basketball and overworked official scorers.

DeWitz Says . . .

Wildcats Will End Slump And Beat Hawks Saturday

By JAY WORKMAN

"Losing to teams we should beat by 10 to 15 points is a disappointment, but I think we will pull out of this slump and beat KU Saturday," is the optimistic outlook of Roy DeWitz, 6-3 junior guard.

The slump DeWitz mentions is borne out by the fact that K-State has blown an early season 4-0 record to the present 5-5 stalemate in the 10 games it's played.

Coach Tex Winter said, "Roy finished last year as one of our best sophomores.

"The additional growing he did last summer probably has kept him from hitting his stride so far this season but I expect him to regain his old form soon.

"I'm not sure Roy will fill his usual starting position Saturday against KU," the Cat mentor said.

"We'll beat KU," DeWitz said. "We've been having closed practices this week so I can't disclose what type of ball we'll be playing against the Jayhawks except that if we use a man-to-man defense I will be guarding Chamberlain."

Sinking 92 points in 10 games, DeWitz holds a 9.2 average to rank fourth in scoring for the Wildcats.

He is also fourth in rebounds with 57, only one behind Hayden Abbott.

Winter said Roy plays a fine defensive game but "he can't seem to hit his long shot this year."

DeWitz, a physical education major, was a two-year letterman in football, basketball and baseball while attending Barrington, Ill., high school.

He was a team captain in all three sports. Barrington's basketball team won the conference title in 1953 and 1954 with DeWitz earning all-conference honors in 1954.

He completed 75 out of 110 passes as Barrington high quarterback. As an infielder he hit .320 and considered a contract with the Atlanta Crackers of the Class AA Southern Association before deciding to come to K-State.

Giants' $50,000 Offer Fails To Hook Jackie

New York, (U.P.)—Jackie Robinson rejected the highest offer of his career today and prepared to write his formal farewell to baseball.

The 38-year old Negro star, ending his career amid the same swirl of controversy with which it began, revealed that he is turning down more than $50,000 and "other considerations" to play this year with the New York Giants.

He said his formal request for voluntary retirement would be sent to National League president Warren Giles "no later than next Tuesday."

"I only regret this offer wasn't made to me a couple of years ago," said Robinson by way of thanking the Giants for their generous offer. "I would have loved to play for people like Horace Stoneham and Chub Feeney."

It was Feeney, the Giants' young, Dartmouth-educated vice president, who made the final bid to lure Jackie back "for one more year."

The offer, a contract for more than $50,000 in 1957 and a subsequent job in the Giants' organization, was made last night at Chub's home.

News of the meeting leaked out and Robinson discussed it with reporters before appearing on a television program.

Robinson, whose top salary with the Brooklyn Dodgers was $42,500, said he thought, "I convinced Feeney that I won't be playing," and added, "I don't believe I could do the giants any good."

The Giants, who drew only 630,000 fans at home last season, actually were willing to invest $100,000 in Robinson's return. This includes the better-than $50,000 contract, the estimated $30,000 they paid the Dodgers and the $20,000 value attached to Dick Littlefield, the man without a team.

'Amateur Radio Work Is Amazing Experience'

By NANCY MOLTER

"One of the most interesting experiences I have had in radio operating was making contact with the first radio amateur in Laos after the end of the Korean war," says Bob Johnson, president of the Amateur Radio club.

"I was stationed on Okinawa with the Signal Corps as a radio operator," Johnson says.

"I also talked to a fellow in New Zealand. During the conversation I learned that he had been one of the first to hit the Okinawa beach on Easter Sunday in 1945.

"It's amazing when you're thousands of miles from the person you're talking to, and then discover things that you have in common," Johnson says.

An amateur radio club provides recreation for the members who like a technical hobby, and promotes better understanding of the theory and operation of the radio, Johnson says. "It also provides a training medium for competent radio operators," he says.

To become an amateur radio operator, a person must pass a written examination on theory, as well as a test on his ability to send and receive international code faster than 13 words a minute, according to Johnson.

"One of the goals of an amateur radio operator is to win certificates for making contact with radio operators in the ten zones of the United States, or for making contacts in all the zones of any particular country," he said.

The Amateur Radio club at K-State has 14 members. They all are licensed amateur operators. The radio room is in the Military Science building.

"There isn't much of a language barrier in radio operating because about 90 per cent of the amateur radio operators in the world speak English," Johnson says. "It's one of the easiest ways to contact people from every 'walk of life.'"

U.S. Officials Welcome Eden Decision to Retire

Compiled from United Press
By LANCE GILMORE

Washington, Jan. 10—United States officials today privately welcomed Sir Anthony Eden's decision to quit as Britain's Prime Minister as a step toward restoring U.S.-British relations to their pre-Suez level.

Publicly, there were warm expressions from the White House and the State Department for Eden and concern over his health. But by his resignation, officials said privately, Eden had cleared the way for a strengthening of the Western alliance and a revival of American-British cooperation.

Negro Homes Damaged

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 10—Six dynamite blasts heavily damaged four Negro churches and the homes of two ministers early today in the worst flareup of racial violence in the South's bus integration movement.

There were no injuries. The predawn blasts hit the homes of two leaders in the Negroes' long-fought integration drive, endangering members of their families, and wrecked churches that had been used for mass Negro rallies.

Fine Arts Musical Comedy Will Feature Gene Nelson

"Foolin' Ourselves," a Paul Gregory musical comedy production will be presented in the college auditorium February 1 at 8:15 p.m. as one of the Fine Arts productions.

The production stars Gene Nelson, actor, and Sue Carson, night club entertainer. Joyce Jameson, Paul Jayson, Cris Warfield, Frank Wolff, and Patti Regan round out the cast.

Single admission tickets are available for $4, $3.50, $2.50, $2, and $1.25 at the Auditorium box office and the Betton music store.

According to Earl Hoover, manager of the Fine Arts productions, three other Paul Gregory productions presented at K-State "Don Juan in Hell", "The Caine Mutiny Court Martial," and "Three for Tonight," have been very popular.

CIVIL AIR CADET CLUB

Plans to revise the Civil Air Cadet club's constitution to make it a College-affiliated organization now are under way, according to Donald Gier, TA Sr, secretary-treasurer of the club.

After the new constitution is written, students and faculty member will be given preference over townfolk and military personnel in joining the group. The club was incorporated in June of 1955 as a non-profit organization. There are 16 shares in circulation, with each share worth $125.

The club has two airplanes—a Champion and a Cessna 140.

The club meets one night each month. A flight officer is chosen whose duty is to care for the planes and equipment.

Dues of $4.50 a month take care of fixed costs such as hangar fees, inspections and repairs. Flight expenses are charged to the club and paid on a monthly basis.

The cost of operating the Champion is $3.50 an hour, and the Cessna costs $4.50. Last month's fuel and oil bill was $100.

UGB VACANCY

Applicants are being considered for one position on the Union governing board, according to Loren Kottner, Union director.

The vacancy on the board will be created by the graduation of Leon Armantrout, chairman of the board.

Written applications must be taken to Kottner's office by January 14 at 5 p.m.

Any K-State student may apply for the position. Applications must include a letter of information about the applicant and should include activities taken part in, reason for applying, grade point average, and year in school.

NAVAL RESERVE

College men interested in earning commissions in the United States Naval Reserve may obtain information on the Reserve officer candidate program from Station-keeper Larry Westney, OBB. Application deadline is January 15.

Men accepted for the ROC program are enlisted into the Naval Reserve, receive two eight-week periods of summer training, and are eligible for ensign's commissions upon receiving their bachelor's degrees. They are obligated to serve three years on active duty after commissioning. Satisfactory performance in the program defers candidates from induction into active military service.

Applicants must be 17 years old and not over 27 and a half, and under present ruling may apply for enrollment in the program prior to enlisting in the Naval Reserve.

Rifle Match

The Eastern Kansas Rifle match will be held here Saturday afternoon and Sunday, according to Capt. Richard L. Dineley, military science.

The mid-season tournament, which is sponsored by the Manhattan Rifle club, is open to civilian teams and individuals from Kansas and surrounding states. The K-State Rifle team will enter the match, Dineley said.

The tournament will include 11 matches for teams and individuals. The matches will begin at noon Saturday and continue through Sunday at the rifle range, room 8, in the Military Science building.

A Campus-to-Career Case History

Frank R. Hoffman, B.S. in Liberal Arts, Hampden-Sydney College, '53

Meet an Assistant Manager—Hampden-Sydney, '53

Frank Hoffman is Assistant Manager of the telephone office at Newport News, Va. Frank's office has about 25,000 accounts, and handles $360,000 worth of business a month.

He joined the telephone company in 1953, only three years ago.

"My wife worked there first," says Frank, "while I was still in college. What she told me, along with what I learned from friends in the business, pretty well sold me on the telephone company as a place to find a career. And the interview clinched it. The job opportunities were too good to refuse.

"I began in the Commercial Department, which takes care of business contacts with customers. The training was continuous and excellent. One of the most rewarding jobs I had was working on revenue studies involving estimates of population and telephone growth. This experience is really useful in my present position as Assistant Manager.

"I supervise the personnel who handle customer contacts. And I assist in the handling of our public relations work in the community. In the Manager's absence, I take over.

"It's a great job, full of opportunities and satisfaction. I like working with people, and I like to see my work contributing to the betterment of the community and the company. Choosing a career in the telephone business was the best move I've ever made."

Frank Hoffman chose a career with The Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Company of Virginia. Interesting career opportunities exist in other Bell Telephone Companies, Bell Telephone Laboratories, Western Electric and Sandia Corporation. Your placement officer has more information about them.

Two-Thirds of Students Want KS Industry Work

About two-thirds of 732 K-Staters answering questionnaires from the Campus Industries Investigating committee would like to work for a campus industry.

Figures released at a committee meeting yesterday showed that 68.6 per cent of the students want to work.

Of these students, 33.4 want to work less than 10 hours a week, 58 per cent want to work 10 to 20 hours a week, 7.6 per cent want to work 20 to 30 hours a week, and 1 per cent want to work more than 30 hours.

Nearly two-thirds of the students indicated they would be willing to work for 75 cents to $1 an hour. Nearly one-third expected between $1 to $1.50, while 3 per cent expected more than $1.50 an hour.

The committee has obtained a temporary room in the basement of Anderson hall, at no cost, for its planned weaving industry, according to Jerry Holliday, ArE Sr.

The committee discussed a possible trade name for the weaving industry, which it said could be taking orders for hand-woven products by the beginning of the spring semester.

Of the 732 students who answered the committee questionnaire, 266 did not have any special skill. On the other hand, 220 could operate a typewriter, 26 were experienced in dictation, and 22 in electronics.

Other student skills listed were woodworking, mechanics, welding, bookkeeping, drafting, and business machines.

More than half, or 54.2 per cent, of the students preferred working in the afternoon, 20.3 per cent would like to work in the evening, and 15.5 per cent would like to work in the morning.

A total of 26.6 per cent of students graduating in 1958 would like to work. Of the 1959 grads, 28.2 per cent would like to work; 1960, 33.6 per cent; and 1961, 11.6 per cent.

POSSIBLE SOLUTION to KU's modern miracle might be a stepladder and a mallet. However, coach Tex Winter is juggling his lineup in hopes he can come up with an honest-to-goodness David for the Jayhawks' Goliath of the hardwoods.

Editor, Business Manager

Moore, Kessinger Are Named To Direct Spring Collegian

CARRYING ON—Editor of the Collegian during the spring semester will be Jane Moore, TJ Sr. Business manager of the paper will be Howard Kessinger, TJ Sr. They were elected yesterday by the Board of Student Publications.

Jane Moore, TJ Sr, has been named editor of the Collegian for the spring semester, Prof. Ralph Lashbrook, chairman of the Board of Student Publications, announced following a meeting yesterday.

Howard Kessinger, TJ Sr, will be Collegian business manager.

"Jane Moore has an unusual combination of fine qualities for the position of editor of the Collegian," Professor Lashbrook said. "In addition to her professional competence, she has the support and confidence of members of the Collegian staff. This will give her the assistance she needs to put out an outstanding paper."

"Although she is a transfer student who has attended K-State only three semesters, Jane has become well-known on campus. She has the confidence and respect of students and faculty," he added.

Kessinger, the new business manager, has worked on the Collegian business staff as an ad salesman, was business manager of the summer school paper, and is assistant business manager this semester.

In addition, he has been business manager of the Junction City Republic for two years, and was an art director and draftsman during a hitch in the U.S. Army in England.

Miss Moore, the first woman to edit the Collegian since 1953, is a 1955 graduate of Stephens college for women.

In addition to being a reporter, news editor and assistant editor of the Collegian, Jane was reporter, headline editor and a member of the executive board of Stephens Life.

She said persons interested in working on the Collegian should submit applications to her as soon as possible so that the new staff can be named next week. Students need not be in journalism to work on the staff, she stressed. Interested persons also may apply for ad staff positions, Kessinger said.

McCain To Confer with Ike On Midwest Drouth Problem

K-State's President McCain will confer with President Eisenhower Tuesday to consider methods of "dealing constructively" with the drouth that grips the Midwest area.

"Governor-elect Docking, former Congressman Clifford Hope, and I have been invited to meet the President's plane, the Columbine, when it lands in Garden City," McCain said.

"The President and his party then will tour the disaster area. After that he'll fly to Wichita where Governor Docking and I will confer with him. Following the conference, he will fly to Washington."

Paul Griffith, K-State associate director of extension, is in Wichita now making plans for the conference, McCain said.

McCain will go by car to Topeka Tuesday morning. He'll fly with Docking from Topeka to Garden City, where they will meet the President's plane.

McCain will travel to Wichita's McConnell Air Force base by car, and will meet Eisenhower there Tuesday afternoon.

Approximately 150 farmers, ranchers, and agricultural leaders will represent 15 states at the conference.

"The purpose of the meeting will be to consider the safeguards that can be maintained against disaster, and also methods that are appropriate and effective in alleviating the effects of disaster when they occur," Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson explained.

Dean A. D. Weber of the K-

State School of Agriculture is chairman of the Great Plains council which will meet in Wichita at the time of the Presidential conference. The council will try to work out specific remedies for the drouth, McCain said.

18 Air Force Cadets To Receive Gold Bars

Eighteen graduating Air Force ROTC cadets will be commissioned as second lieutenants during commencement exercises January 26, Capt. Ralph D. Oakley, information services officer, has announced.

Thirteen cadets will begin their tour of active duty within six months and will undergo pilot training. They are:

Dennis C. Albright, EE; Roger E. Alexander, ME; Stanley W. Braman, BPM; Charles M. Cople, AED; James W. Goebel, EE; Philip C. Gregory, ME; Freeman L. Higgason, AED; James D.

Hotchkiss, IE; Orlo K. Jantz, Ent; James R. Schafer, FT; Leonard D. Schwab, AH; Jerry E. Van Zant, ME; and Eldon D. Woodward, AGE.

Two of the graduating cadets will take observer training upon entry in the air force. They are Delburn R. Hutchinson, ChE, and James D. Stamm, FT.

Three other cadets, Eddie R. Fowler, EE; Gene Gell, ME; and Ralph L. Webb, ME, will be called on active duty within the next six months for duty in engineering.

"Good evening sport fans, as I lean out high above ALLEN'S big field house we'll start our program with an interview with . . . well anyway, I call him my boy."

Anti-Red Demonstrations Reported from Bulgaria

Compiled from United Press

By LANCE GILMORE

Vienna, Jan. 11—Massive Anti-Communist demonstrations erupted recently in Bulgaria, according to reliable reports here today.

Newly-arrived travelers from the Bulgarian capital of Sofia said the most serious occurred January 3 outside the Bulgarian army barracks at Plovdiv. Plovdiv, with a population of 125,000, is the second largest city in Bulgaria.

The demonstration was touched off by the arrests of three army officers by Communist secret police agents, the travelers said. Police, supported by tanks and armored cars, broke up the demonstration, they said.

The travelers said 20 demonstrators and policemen were injured in the rioting in the city some 75 miles southeast of Sofia.

Reports of a major demonstration at Dimitrowgrad, an industrial city some 20 miles south of Sofia, were published in regional Bulgarian newspapers.

The newspapers said the demonstrators shouted anti-Communist slogans they had picked up from "Western" broadcasts.

The newspaper Dimitrowgradska Prawda said townspeople "gathered in the street shouting nonsense they picked up from Western radio stations."

GOP's Leonard Hall To Retire

Washington, Jan. 11—Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall announced today he is retiring as party chairman effective February 1.

14 Killed in Two U.S. Crashes

Fourteen persons were killed last night in two separate crashes of giant U. S. air force planes.

Eight crew members of an $8-million B-52 jet bomber were killed when the plane apparently exploded in flight and crashed in rugged country near the U.S.-

Canadian border in New Brunswick.

The plane, with a crew of nine, was reported on a shake-down flight from Limestone, Maine, about 15 miles from the scene of the crash.

Six crewmen were killed and three were injured at Bergstrom air force base near Austin, Texas, when their KB-29 aerial tanker dropped onto the runway and burned as it came in for a landing.

Air force spokesmen said the plane was returning from a refueling mission but could indicate no cause for the crash.

Chou Sees Need for Red Unity

Warsaw, Jan. 11—Communist China Premier Chou En-Lai arrived here today fresh from talks with Kremlin leaders and said he was glad Poland and Russia "recently strengthened friendly relations."

It was a broad hint that the time has come for Communists to close ranks.

Chou tip-toed around Poland's recent moves for independence from Moscow and emphasized that ties with Russia and other Communist countries were all-important.

"Your country has had many new, great achievements but also many difficulties which with great effort are now being overcome," he said on arrival at Warsaw airport.

"But to this end the unification of all air forces is needed in the struggle against the anti-Socialist (anti-Communist) forces," he added.

Eden Bows Out of Public Life

London, Jan. 11—Sir Anthony Eden bowed out of British public life today.

The 59-year-old one-time "boy wonder" of British diplomacy resigned the parliamentary seat he had held for 33 years. Two days earlier he had stepped down as prime Minister.

'Apathy Dance' Lives Up to Its Name; Nobody at Minnesota University Came

By Mary Beckmeyer

AN "APATHY" dance held at the University of Minnesota several weeks ago, which was dedicated to student lack of interest, was finally cancelled when no one arrived. Said one student, "Even apathy can be carried too far."

"THE MINNESOTA DAILY" of the University of Minnesota reports that an easy way to make money, is by being a thief. At least one university student discovered that it was quite simple to walk in the front door of a sorority house, take $25 from a purse, while sorority members watched, and stalk out the back door while cooks and girls stared in amazement.

Beats working.

ACCORDING TO "The Daily Texan", the manager at the Goodall Wooten hotel for men was getting worried when the mailman began flooding the place with letters addressed to women.

But he breathed easier when he found they were for the Women's Christian Faith and Life Community, once known as Wooten Hall.

IN ORDER to get the collegiate slant on the issue of liberal vs. narrow, instigated study, the Associated Collegiate Press took a poll asking the following question:

"Do you feel that your college is doing an adequate job of preparing you for your future life?"

The results:

	Men	Women	Total
Yes	72%	78%	74%
No	15%	15%	15%
Undecided	13%	7%	11%

What do these results prove? That 78% of the women have already caught a man, 15% haven't, and 13% have someone in mind.

Cat Cage Lineup Unsettled As Tex Seeks Giant-Killer

Disappointed in its first conference game of the season, K-State's basketball team—with the lineup strictly an unsettled question—faces Kansas in the Jayhawks own nest Saturday. Tip-off is at 7:35 p.m.

A capacity crowd of 17,000 is assured for the intra-state scrap in which Kansas is rated a big favorite—biggest in recent years.

Rated number one in the nation, the Jayhawks with phenomenal Wilt Chamberlain have tumbled all opposition this season. The Wildcats, meantime, after hanging in the nation's top ten teams in opening weeks, have stumbled in five of their last six games.

K-State's "big" men, Jack Parr, 6-9 junior center, and Boozer, 6-7 sophomore forward, have continued their 20-plus scoring pace. But all other Wildcats have fallen below double figures. An unusual predicament in view of the traditionally even scoring balance of K-State teams.

As Cat individuals have cooled off from the floor, K-State's early-season team shooting average has tumbled. After maintaining a 41-percent shooting average through their first four outings—producing a string of four straight wins—the Wildcats have dropped to a 36-percent mark to date. Most of that drop has been due to a sudden chill which settled on K-State's outside shooters.

In a two fold campaign to bolster Wildcat offense and test all squad members, Coach Tex Winter has sorted all 14 squad members freely in and out of action.

Nine players have drawn starting assignments in 10 games thus far, as the K-State coach seeks the speed and playmaking which reaped the Big Seven crown for the Wildcats last season.

Coach Winter now finds himself in a dilemma of switching lineups even further to patch weak spots and break the apparent K-State slump. With Jack Parr (who missed three games with flu) not yet back to full strength, Hayden Abbott, 6-3 junior forward has been sidelined with an infected toe.

The resulting shuffle will probably mean the first starting job for Jim Holwerda, 6-0 sophomore guard, against Kansas.

Looking to the KU game, the Wildcat coach sees a big factor in whether Parr can be back in top shape. The leading Cat scorer and rebounder needs time to regain quickness and alertness which he lost during his layoff, Winter explained.

GENE ELSTUN

Probable starting lineups:

K-State	Pos.	Kansas
Boozer (6-7)	F	(6-3) Elstun
Fischer (6-4)	F	(6-6 1/2) J'son
Parr (6-9)	C	(7-0) Ch'lain
Holwerda (6-0)	G	(5-11) Parker
Wallace (5-10)	G	(6-2) King

The probable starting lineup for the game finds Bob Boozer and Larry Fisher at the forwards, Jack Parr at center, with Jim Holwerda and Eddie Wallace at the guard positions.

'Win or So-Long' for Baker Against Carter in Garden

New York, (U.P.)—It's "win or goodbye" for big Bob Baker tonight.

The plodding Pittsburgh veteran meets young Harold Carter of Linden, N.J., at Madison Square Garden in a heavyweight contender's fight, televised and broadcast nationally by NBC.

"And if Baker doesn't win this one," said manager Dusty Bettey today, "I'll suggest he retire, and I'll definitely leave him. It'll be goodbye, as far as I'm concerned."

The pilot added hopefully, "But I have a feeling he'll finally catch fire and belt the daylights out of Carter."

His hopes were not shared by betting men. They made 22-year-old Carter the favorite at 9-5 because he is ranked third, three notches above 30-year-old Baker.

Carter, the young New Jersey Sunday school teacher, was impressive in his last three starts, with a knockout over Bob Satterfield and decision over Johnny Summerlin and young Jack Johnson.

Cats To Host MU In Monday Game

K-State plays host to the Missouri Tigers Monday night in Ahearn Field House. It will be the first home basketball game in over a month for the Wildcats.

Missouri opened its Big Seven conference play last Monday by topping Iowa State while Oklahoma was upsetting K-State, defending Big Seven conference champions.

Smith is the team's leading scorer with a 21-point average for the first 11 games. Missouri will bring a 6-6 record into the Fieldhouse.

Tipoff time is set for 7:30 p.m.

Changes in Social Rules On SC Agenda Tonight

Changes in K-State social rules will highlight a Student Council agenda tonight at 5:30 in the Student Union.

The activities board will recommend that the following social rules changes be accepted:

1. A special committee be established to prepare a list of approved places for social events.

2. The student activities board acting under the student council has authority to approve or disapprove requests from student organizations.

3. Written request for social permits must be filed in the Dean of Students office 48 hours in advance of the function, and exceptions to the rule must submit requests to the student activities board two weeks prior to the date of the function.

4. Those organizations which combine business meetings with a social hour must secure a social permit.

5. That organizations planning a fund-raising activity shall submit a written application to the student activities board at least two weeks in advance of the tentative date. Traditional fund-raising shall be submitted at least one week in advance, and then it goes on the master calendar.

A motion will be made tonight, by Neil Scott, Zoo Jr, that the Student Council appoint a committee of five to study the possibility of establishing a student discount service program.

If passed this committee shall be composed of two student council members and three non-council members.

The leadership workshop committee has made final plans for the workshop to be held February 2nd to kick off a leadership school during the second semester.

The campus industry investigating committee will present the tabulated results for the interest towards campus employment.

The basic ROTC investigation committee will request a vote of confidence on the members selected.

Music Recital Set For January 15th

The advanced student recital will be given Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Chapel auditorium, Luther Leavengood, head of the department of music, announced.

Piano solos on the program are: "French Suite No. 6, in E major," by Bach, Charlene Cox, MAI Sr; "Sonata in A minor," by Mozart, Marilyn Moore, MAI Soph; "Capriccio in D minor, Op. 116, No. 1," by Brahms, Jaqueline Swanson, MEI Sr; "Sonatine," by Ravel, Karen Peterson, MGS Jr; "Suite for Piano," by Dello Joio, Joann White Harper, MEI Sr; and "Polonaise in A flat major, Op.

53, by Chopin, Yvonne Hodges, MEI Soph.

Soprano solos to be given are: "O Ravishing Delight," by Arns, "Lullaby," by Goddard, and "To One Who Passed Whistling in the Night," by Gibbs, Marjorie Vandorweide, MGS Sr; "Si nes vers avaient des ailes," by Hahn, and "I Have Twelve Oxen," by Ireland, Patricia Newell, and "The Children," by Chanler, Patricia Noll, MGS Sr.

Dale Norris, MEI Jr, will play a baritone saxophone solo, "Concerto in C minor," by Handel.

Efficient Reviewing Sought by Students

By ED KOCHER

With the semester lab finals ahead of you this week, and lecture finals next week most students are looking for an efficient means of reviewing their semester's work.

According to Professor Sumner B. Morris, associate professor in psychology, "Students who cram for finals frequently do themselves more harm than good, especially if they have studied during the semester."

Professor Morris suggested that a daily schedule be set up and the exam periods be blocked off before the meal and recreational periods planned.

A study schedule for each class should be set up allowing small periods of 30 minutes at a time rather than spending two hour periods on one subject.

Professor Morris said, "Two hours should be set aside to study for the just before final study, and then the last half-hour should be used for relaxation."

The student should find out what the final will consist of, and what sort of questions will be asked. If the test is to be objective the student should study the generalization and interrelation of the main ideas of the course, and tying them together.

Professor Morris said, "It is too late to start outlining chapters when studying for the finals, but the book can be skimmed through and the main points picked out."

"In memorizing work flash cards work very well with the questions on one side and the answers on the other. This also works as reinforcement material because the loss of the subject matter occurs most in the first few hours. Reinforcement by flash cards lowers the amount of subject matter loss."

Professor Morris remarked, "It is fine and profitable to study with friends, but each should master the material before studying together."

"The third factor is not the preparation for the test, but the reading of test questions carefully, and not making any premature conclusions which cause a great number of mistakes," Professor Morris said.

Plans Almost Done For Justin Building

Final plans for the $1,500,000 Dean Margaret Justin home economics building now are being drawn by Wolfenbarger and associates, Manhattan, according to R. F. Gingrich, physical plant director.

"We hope to have the bids ready to let by May or June if our additional request for $400,000 is granted," said Gingrich. Although $1,500,000 is available from the 1953-54 legislature for the three-story structure, an additional $400,000 is now being requested from the Educational Building Fund to cover increased building costs.

The building will be located east of the formal gardens, and its main entrance will face Lover's Lane and President McCain's residence.

The three-story portion of the reinforced concrete stone veneer structure will be 300 feet by 182 feet, and a front one-story extension will be 175 feet by 60 feet.

Laboratory facilities, which have not been available because of the shortage of space in Calvin hall, will be added to the new building. Included in these are a household equipment and housing research lab, a metabolism suite to study human metabolism, a family and child development research lab, an institutional management lab, and a darkroom.

The family and child development lab will be equipped with an observation room which is separated from the interview room with a one-way vision screen, recording equipment, and an intercommunication system.

The institutional management lab is for research on problems in large quantity food preparation. The dark room will give the home ec school their own facilities for processing films for the photographic record kept of research on foods.

There will be increased space for clothing and textile research, and a separate oven room will be added. For the foods and nutrition department will be an analytical balance room. A student workroom, equipped with sewing machines and worktables, will be made available for any student to use outside of class.

Student Council Investigating Possibility of Name Change

By JIM BELL

K-STATE'S Student Council is investigating the possibility of changing the name, Kansas State college, to Kansas State university through a committee headed by Jack Van Horn, Ag Jr.

By the generally accepted definition, a college is an institution offering a 4-year course of study leading to a bachelor's degree in arts and sciences with no advanced degree or graduate school.

UNIVERSITY, ON the other hand, usually is comprised of an undergraduate college of liberal arts and sciences, other undergraduate colleges and professional schools, and a graduate school with programs leading to master's and doctor's degrees.

In other words, a college usually offers bachelor's degrees in arts and sciences, only, while the university offers in addition graduate work leading to advanced degrees and a more diversified undergraduate curriculum.

KANSAS STATE, of course, literally fits the definition for university. However, as President James A. McCain pointed out in a statement that appeared in the Collegian last fall, "to change the name of Kansas State college would require action by the Board of Regents and by the state legislature as well."

Michigan State university, a land-grant school, recently underwent a name change similar to that proposed at K-State. A pamphlet published by Michigan State alumni and students before the switch was made enumerated five advantages of a name change:

(1) THERE IS a definite difference between a college and a university in the minds of the American public. Alumni from a college that is in reality a university may be hindered when competing for jobs. In some foreign countries, college carries the same connotation that "high school" does in America.

(2) In many cases distinguished scholars prefer to be associated with a university rather than a college making it more difficult to attract them to a college faculty, despite the quality of the school.

(3) THE GRADUATE school found it difficult to attract outstanding graduates of other universities to undertake research and work for advanced degrees. There is a certain amount of prestige attached to the name, university, that is not associated with the name, college.

(4) There have been instances when accrediting agencies have rated a college or its schools down because it was named college and not university. At Michigan State, now, what were formerly termed "schools" are called colleges. Further breakdown is into schools, which were called departments or divisions before the change. The change gave added prestige and status to each phase of the MSU educational system.

(5) SOME FOUNDATIONS which are willing to contribute financial assistance to worthwhile projects follow a "grants-to-universities, only" policy.

In addition to these five advantages to a name change, the pamphlet noted that the change would automatically classify MSU in its proper category in educational rosters, thus eliminating much needless explanation.

ALSO, THE name change would impress on the public the breadth and depth of courses offered at the school, the pamphlet said.

Some have argued that a change to Kansas State university might lead to confusion between K-State and Kansas university. However, the two schools would still be commonly known as Kansas and Kansas State, or as KU and K-State.

OUTSIDE THE immediate area of the two schools, there could be some confusion, but probably no more than there is between Ohio State university and Ohio university, or the University of Pennsylvania and Pennsylvania State university.

In the schools' area, and especially in the state of Kansas, confusion would probably be nil, since K-State and KU are the state's largest and best known schools.

OHIO STATE, Penn State, Florida State, and Michigan State are all examples of land-grant colleges that have become universities in name as well as in fact by a name change.

In each of these cases, a university already existed in the school's state bearing the name of the state.

IN THE Big Seven conference, Iowa State college and Kansas State college are alone as colleges. The five other members of the conference are universities. Iowa State is a land-grant college, but at Nebraska and Missouri universities land-grant colleges were combined with state universities, giving these schools, too, a land-grant affiliation.

Kansas State need not lose its identity as a land-grant school if the name is changed. Other land-grant schools that have made the switch bear this fact out.

AT ANY rate, the Board of Regents and state legislature must make the final decision, possibly in 1959.

Democrats May Lose Senate When Texas Air Clears

Compiled from United Press
By LANCE GILMORE

Washington, —Jan. 14—The Democrat's precarious hold on the senate will hang in the balance after tomorrow when Sen. Price Daniel (D-Tex.) resigns to become governor of Texas.

His resignation will give retiring Texas Gov. Allan Shivers an opportunity to appoint a successor to Daniel, pending a special election.

Since Shivers is an Eisenhower Democrat, the question arises as to whether an appointee named by him would vote with the Democrats or Republicans to organize the Senate.

The Democrats, as a result of the 1956 elections, now have a 49-47 edge in the Senate, counting Daniel. But Senate Republican leaders are prepared to take over control whenever they can count 48 votes, because they can count on the tie-breaking vote of Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

Republicans differ, however, over whether they should make the move if it depends on the vote of a temporary appointee from Texas. If Texas elected a democratic senator in a special election which must be held within 60 to 90 days, Democrats would be in a position to recapture senate control by mid-April or earlier.

United Press News Outlook

United Press correspondents around the world look ahead at the news that will make the headlines:

State Visit

Prospects are increasing that President Eisenhower may make a state visit to some foreign countries this year. There is a strong feeling in some Washington circles that he may go to India, especially, to return the recent visit of Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru.

Danger Signs

Word comes from Warsaw that independent Communist Premier Wladyslaw Gomulka is preparing for possible trouble incident to the parliamentary election next Sunday. Police are being strengthened and provided with special anti-riot equipment. Despite Gomulka's successful fight against Russian domination, there have been anti-Communist outbreaks in several cities. Western observers on the spot see the election as a test for Poland's future. If it goes off peacefully, and the Communists roll up a substantial majority, all will be well. But if the vote is not convincing, and if there are riots, Moscow may try to oust the present relatively liberal regime. That would mean bloodshed.

Oath

Don't be surprised if the White House changes its mind and decides to give the public a peek by television and photographs at President Eisenhower's private oath-of-office taking at the White House Sunday. He must take the oath January 20. But because that's Sunday, the White House decided to make the ceremony completely private, and to hold a public ceremony next day. There has been much public criticism of the decision. So the signals may be changed.

Job

Look for former Sen. Earle C. Clements of Kentucky to accept the job of executive director of the Democratic Senatorial campaign committee. If he does, he'll be in line for election as possible future chairman of the Democratic National committee.

Kansas Democrats Take Front Seats

By UNITED PRESS

TOPEKA, Colorful bunting today waved in salute to a Lawrence banker who takes some pride in being a politician only incidentally as Kansas Democrats joyfully took front seats for the first time in 20 years on inaugural day.

The festive inaugural ceremonies for the state's 35th governor, and sixth democratic chief executive in history, were unique in many ways.

FOR THE first time in memory, the inaugural ball will be open to the public with no written invitations.

For the first time since 1879 the Capital city in an "open to all comers" affair turned out for the oath-taking of Gov. George Docking to the music of bands and an inaugural parade.

AT A NOONDAY ceremony, Docking and Lt. Gov. Joseph Henkle of Great Bend took the oaths of office. They turned from the platform to face a Republican-dominated legislature, which opened last Tuesday.

It was the second inauguration in Topeka in two weeks, after Gov. John McCuish's surprise "triple play" oath taking.

FOUR SUPREME court justices, all Republican, and the seven elected officials, all Republican, sat on the platform to be inaugurated. The 52-year-old Docking, who has never held an elective office, gave an 11-minute address.

OUTGOING GOV. John McCuish, whose 11 days as governor was the shortest term in state history, sat on the platform, along with former Gov. Fred Hall. Neither spoke.

K-State Looks for Win After Hawks Wilt Cats

By ROGER MYERS
Collegian Sports Editor

K-State will be fighting to get back into the win column tonight against the Missouri university Tigers after losing a 51-45 heart-breaker to KU Saturday night.

The Wildcats have lost six of their last seven contests and a win is needed soon if morale is to remain high.

Coach Tex Winter, not worried about the tough loss to the Jayhawks, said, "We have no reason to be down for the game tonight. I think our game with KU served to inspire us."

"Missouri has a rugged ball club. The Tigers outrebounded us in the preseason tournament."

The Cats are expected to speed up their style of ball against the Tigers after their ball control work against KU Saturday.

"We were outscored but certainly not outplayed at Lawrence," Winter said. K-State used a zone defense that crippled the Jayhawks badly and prevented both Lew Johnson and Maurice King from scoring.

KU, stymied by a defense that bottled up their number one scorer, Wilt Chamberlain, and an offense that slowed the game to a walk, were unable to score until 8:10 had gone in the first half.

It was 4:32 more before Kansas could get another field goal and with 12:34 left in the half the Wildcats led 11-4.

"The zone worked because we were able to get off to an early lead and keep it. We slowed play down and made KU play our game," Winter said.

"Roy DeWitz was the key to our zone." It was DeWitz who stopped KU's King, always a K-State menace. His dashes from Chamberlain to King kept the big boy so unnerved that one of the Stilt's hook shots bounced on the very edge of the glass clear off the court.

K-State opened scoring in the game with 54 seconds gone when Parr hit the first of his trio of long shots.

Gene Elstun came to life after scoring only two points in the first half and dumped in three straight field goals and the Hawks started to roll.

K-State stayed in contention all the way up until 2:52 left in the game when Parr fouled Chamberlain and left the game with five personals. Only 1:35 before this, Boozer left the game with his fifth foul.

With Parr and Boozer both out there was no one left to stop Chamberlain.

Cat Wrestlers Win 2, Lose 1 On Weekend Road Tour

K-State's wrestling team dropped a match to Minnesota, 21-10, after winning two earlier matches in a weekend road trip.

Wins came at the expense of Cornell college of Mt. Vernon, Iowa, 21-8, and Mankato, Minnesota, Teachers, 14-13.

The Wildcat grapplers will meet Iowa Teachers college matmen of Cedar Falls this Saturday in the Field House.

In Saturday's match, James Miller (KS) drew with Minnesota's Drunty; Cal Schwabbe (KS) lost to Mueller; Marv Everest (KS) de-cisioned Waite; Jim Roberts (KS) lost on a fall to Myers; John Doyle (KS) won on a fall from Koehner; Jim Dietrich (KS) was decisioned by Wright; and Ellis Rainsberger (KS) was decisioned by Hurdle.

In beating Mankato, Miller (KS) decisioned Rath; Schabbe (KS) lost to Brua; Everest (KS) was decisioned by Draves; Roberts (KS) decisioned Lavin; Doyle (KS) decisioned Anderson; Haller (KS) decisioned Glynn; Dietrich (KS) lost on a decision to Minter; and Rainsberger (KS) drew with Kubes.

K-State, Mizzou Tangle In Big 7 Battle Tonight

Close on the heels of their intrastate scrap with Kansas, the Kansas State Wildcats meet Missouri here tonight.

It will be K-State's first home game in a month—the Wildcats last played at home December 15, when they defeated Indiana to boost their win string to four straight. Tipoff for the Wildcat-Tiger tussle is at 7:30 p.m.

The Tigers dropped their conference opener against KU at Lawrence last Saturday after sticking close to the highly-touted Jayhawks most of the way. That left Missouri with a 5-6 record. K-State has a 5-6 record, after falling to Kansas Saturday, 51-45.

Coach Sparky Stalcup guided MU to four wins against two losses ahead of the preseason Big Seven tourney; then saw his Tigers absorb three straight defeats in the tourney. The last of those was a 79-75 win by Kansas State.

Missouri has back three of last season's regulars, however, matching K-State's returnees, and figures strong in the even-stepen Big Seven field behind Chamberlain KU. Two sophomores threaten to move into the two MU gaps—Sonny Siebert, 6-3 guard and outstanding shooter, and Chuck Duren, 6-6 center and out-court jumpshooter. Siebert has held a regular post most of the way and is averaging 15 points a game.

Probable starters:

K-State	Pos.	Missouri
Boozer (6-7)	F (6-3)	Egelhoff
Fischer (6-4)	F (6-2)	Ross
Parr (6-9)	C (6-6)	Duren
Holwerda (6-0)	G (6-3)	Siebert
Wallace (5-10)	G (6-2)	Smith

STUDENT HEALTH

Ten men spent the weekend in Student Health. Mike Wineteer, Ar 02; Jim Melchling, ME Jr; Don Miller, AEd Fr; Henry Windisch, EE Sr; Ernie Randel, ME Soph; George Plange, FT Soph; Gary Lafferty, FrV Fr; Dave Pearce, EE Soph; and Jerry Evans, CE Soph.

WEATHER

The cold air mass which swept into Kansas over the weekend was reinforced yesterday to hold daytime highs to 15 in the north-central area and a state top of 35 at Goodland.

Prospects were for continued cold weather through tomorrow. The weatherman said a new surge of cold air would arrive and settle over the state by tonight.

The lows last night and early today were four above at Hill City and 12 at Wichita and Pittsburg.

Very scant traces of snow were reported in Northern Kansas during the last 24 hours. Little or no snow was forecast for the next 24 hours.

Mission accomplished . . .
top-of-the-world and back — non-stop

Eight global bombers, powered by mighty turbojets, recently set non-stop records in 16,000- to 17,000-mile flights described as a "routine training mission to demonstrate the capability of the B-52 and the men who fly it". Flying continuously for as long as 32½ hours, the mammoth aircraft — each powered by eight Pratt & Whitney Aircraft J-57 turbojets — winged northward from air bases in California and Maine, over Thule, Greenland, continued to the North Pole, then returned by way of Anchorage, Alaska, to land in San Francisco, Baltimore, or Limestone, Maine.

During this spectacular top-of-the-world mission, temperatures as low as 65 degrees below zero were encountered, speeds approached 700 miles per hour, altitudes in excess of 35,000 feet were maintained, and each Boeing B-52 was refueled in mid-air several times. Powering the KC-97 Stratofreighters that accomplished the task of in-flight refueling were the mightiest piston engines ever built — P & W A's R-4360 Wasp Majors.

"Mission accomplished" . . . a brief but all-encompassing tribute — to the Stratofortress flight crews, to the Air Force's Strategic Air Command, and to the gigantic team of engineers in the aviation industry whose years of research and accomplishment represent thousands upon thousands of engineering man-hours that were required to make these record-breaking flights a reality.

NUMBER 72

SC Approves Incorporation Of Industries Committee

Student Council last night passed a motion by Jerry Holliday to approve the incorporation of the campus industries investigating committee.

"We will be able to handle monetary matters much more easily. We plan to raise $1000, and this will be set up as a revolving fund to form new industries on the stipulation that they repay the money they borrow," he explained.

Ray Zimmerman brought up a proposal which would provide for an increased number of representatives on the Council in keeping with the higher enrollment at K-State. The growing enrollment necessitates a change in the number of representatives to be elected or a change in the college ruling which provides that one representative be elected for each 300 students or major fraction thereof, he said.

Such an increase in representation would allow two additional members from Engineering, one more from the School of Arts and Sciences, and one more from the Graduate School.

The Council also discussed social fines and the use of social probation, which denies an organization the right to schedule social functions if they don't pay fines within one month after they have been billed.

Questions of how much penalty or restriction should be levied against offenders were brought up by the present social probation of Phi Kappa Tau, social fraternity, after they failed to pay a $5 fine.

"I don't know that we should throw a heavy penalty on the whole house for the inefficiency of two or three members. However, they are elected by the house and are therefore responsible to them," Wilkerson remarked.

The council also passed five changes in social regulations as proposed by the Activities Board, after minor amendments were made in the wording of these changes. Scott, chairman of the committee, explained the revisions were necessary to eliminate certain inconsistencies in the social rules.

A proposal to set up a special committee to prepare a list of approved places for social events was passed, after the proposal was amended to include IOHC as a group to be represented on the committee.

Other groups which are included are the Student Council, Activities Board, faculty committee of student affairs, Panhellenic, AWS, RCC, IFC, ISA, Chamber of Commerce, and a staff member from the Dean of Students office.

This committee would clarify regulations, eliminating present conflicts, and would clearly define the authority of the Student Council.

"There was a little trouble about this last fall. The constitution is not specific about which places are approved. The list would be submitted to the faculty committee and student affairs," Scott explained.

Active participation in the Leadership Workshop, which will be held February 2, was urged by Dick Peterson. Each council member was urged to contact two organizations, asking their support and representation.

Three men were accepted to the Basic ROTC investigations committee. They are William Schick Tanz, GA Jr; Allen Hjelmfelt, CE Soph; and Darrell Franklin, BA Jr.

Reference was made to a Collegian article in Monday's paper on the possible name change to Kansas State University. Jack Van Horn mentioned a forthcoming poll which will be taken to determine the feelings of the students in this matter.

Nell Scott was appointed to head a committee which will study the possibility of a student discount in Manhattan stores. Holliday was appointed as the other council member, and applications from students for the three remaining positions will be taken in the SGA office in Anderson this week. Scott stated he would particularly like to have at least one economics student on this committee.

Freshman To Play 'Streetcar' Lead

Linda Merritt, EEd Fr, will play the leading role of Blanche DuBois in the K-State Players third production, "A Streetcar Named Desire."

She portrays a lost, pitiful, and confused Southern belle.

The play will be presented March 1 and 2 in the Auditorium.

"Streetcar" tells the story of the frail Blanche DuBois who comes to live with her young sister, Stella, played by Ann Soelter, Sp Gr; and Stella's lusty, boisterous husband, Stanley Kowalski, played by Len LeGault, PEM Sr. Blanche falls for the polite advances of Stanley's friend, Mitch, played by Ken Nakarl, Sp Soph, who thinks he would like to marry her.

Other members of the cast include Louann Oberhelman, Sp Jr; Sharon Wagner, RT Fr; Gordon Jump, Sp Gr; Harold Stauffer, AEd Sr; Clenece Roberts, Sp Fr; Sharon Townsend, Sp Sr; Ken Keefer, Sp Fr; Dale Livengood, Sp Sr; Glen Rhea, Sp Fr; Dan Hahn, Sp Soph; and Landon Friesen, Soc Soph.

Winner of both the Pulitzer and New York Critics' Circle awards, "Streetcar" was made into an Academy Award winning movie, starring Marlon Brando and Vivian Leigh.

The play will be directed by John Robson, associate professor of speech. He will be assisted by Sharon Townsend, Sp Sr. The stage background is being designed by Don Hermes, assistant professor of speech.

Leadership School Offered Students

A leadership workshop and training school will be offered for the first time next semester.

Students may enroll for the workshop and school in the Dean of Students office tomorrow, Thursday, and Friday.

Only the first 100 students enrolling will be allowed in the school. The enrollment fee is three dollars.

PR's Choose Jannene Foust As Honorary Cadet Captain

Jannene Foust, Sp Soph, representing Chi Omega, was elected Pershing Rifle's honorary cadet captain last night.

Miss Foust was selected from 13 candidates representing organized houses and dorms.

Miss Foust's attendants are Janice Graham, TJ Jr, representing Pi Beta Phi, and Judy Gladish, BMT Soph, representing Delta Delta Delta.

Each candidate was interviewed by the members of Pershing Rifles last night.

Miss Foust will represent Company G-7 as their candidate for Regimental Commander. She will have the rank of brigadier general.

Six schools in this region will enter candidates for the contest. It will be held at the University of Oklahoma in Norman sometime in the spring.

MARY BETH BAKER, EEd Soph, and Barbara Lewis, EEd Sr, congratulate Jannene Foust, Sp Soph, new Pershing Rifle honorary cadet captain.

Instructions Sent To January Grads

Instructions to January graduates for the graduation ceremonies have been sent by registrar's office, according to Robert Anderson, assistant director of admissions and registrar.

Additional copies of the instructions are available, and any graduating senior who did not receive a copy is asked to obtain it from the registrar's office in Anderson hall.

Congratulations To Iowa State

Integration Leaders Hope To Shame White Radicals

Compiled from the United Press
by LANCE GILMORE

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 15—Negro leaders of the deep South's bus integration movement embarked today on a Gandhi-Pike non-violence policy which they hope will "shame" white extremists who dynamited churches and homes in Montgomery.

The Rev. Martin Luther King, leader of the Montgomery movement, declared the policy last night at a mass meeting of Negroes and then collapsed and had to be helped to his seat.

"If anyone be killed, let it be me," King said in an emotion-charged prayer.

About 500 Negroes attending the rally acclaimed King's leadership with a deafening outburst of shouting and weeping that lasted 15 minutes.

King said segregationist extremists would have to dynamite 50,000 homes—not just two—to dissuade them from their cause.

He told the mass meeting the unity of the Negroes "will soon cause the oppressor to become ashamed of his own methods."

Four Negro churches and the homes of two ministers were bombed early last Thursday. King said the violence was "the most startling and appalling expression of man's inhumanity to man."

Gomulka Now Accepts Soviets

Warsaw, Jan. 15—Communist China Premier Chou En-Lai, having won Polish Communist Leader Wladyslaw Gomulka into accepting Moscow's leadership of world Communist policy, returns to Warsaw today for further talks with Polish leaders.

Gomulka, who has led Poland's campaign for greater independence from Soviet domination, bowed to Moscow yesterday in an election speech.

"Our foreign policy must be such that it strengthens the position of Poland in the world and also strengthens the position of Poland's friends, headed by the Soviet Union," Gomulka declared.

Kadar Seeks To Rebuild Party

Vienna, Jan. 15—The puppet Janos Kadar regime is bringing heavy pressure to bear on rebellious Hungarian workers in an attempt to build up a new Communist party, reports reaching Vienna said today.

There was no new information from Budapest on the imprisonment by the Communists of two Americans, Mrs. George Chapelle, of Milwaukee, Wis., and Richard Roraback, of Dobbs Ferry, N.Y.

The Communist regime informed the U.S. legation in Budapest yesterday of the arrest of Mrs. Chapelle, a 35-year-old free-lance photographer who apparently tried to smuggle herself into Hungary. Her whereabouts had been a mystery since she left Vienna December 4.

Roraback, 26, and a Norwegian companion were seized by Communist Hungarian border guards last Saturday while trying to help Hungarian refugees across the Iron Curtain border, according to Austrian authorities. The Kadar regime has made no mention of the incident thus far.

According to reliable reports reaching Vienna, the Communists have started using the threat of unemployment as a weapon to coerce workers into joining the "Hungarian Socialist Workers Party." Before the freedom revolt, the Communist party masqueraded under the name of the "Hungarian Workers Party."

President of Student Council Is This Week's Personality

By SUE LONG

RON BRYANT, ME Sr., this week's personality has achieved more in honors and activities in his college years, than many people achieve in a life time.

Of major importance is probably his presidency of the Student Council which automatically makes him the vice-president of the Student body.

BRYANT BEGAN his long list of activities in his sophomore year, when he was elected vice-president of the Jr. Mechanical Engineers.

As a junior, Bryant quickly followed up by becoming a member of four honoraries: Scabbard and Blade, Pi Tau Sigma, Sigma Tau, and Blue Key.

ON THE social side of the ledger last year, Ron was crowned St. Pat at the Engineers' open house last year. This same year found him as vice-president of the Engineering Council and awarded him a $500 Dowell scholarship.

A leader in his fraternity, Sigma Chi,

Ron has just finished serving as president for the past semester. Sigma Chi also chose him as their FMO candidate and he rewarded their choice by becoming one of the attendants.

"SOME OF my special interests are sports and dancing," Bryant said. Although he played sports in high school, he has confined his interest to that of a spectator in college.

"I feel that one of the finest things about my college education has been my

KU Team Lacks Vaunted Balance

Dear Editor:

IN REVIEWING the basketball game with Kansas university last Saturday in Lawrence, I was wondering if you could explain in some likely manner what happened to the balanced scoring that we have been hearing so much about from down the Kaw.

In watching the TV show where Mr. Harp explains the wonders of his famous No. 1 TEAM EFFORT, he is always stressing the balance of his team. If this is team balance, why don't they play with only three men? It seems to be a sad effort when the No. 1 team of the nation has only 3 men that can score against an unranked ball club.

IF THE big one is so great how come he waited until both Parr and Boozer fouled out to score his final 6 points. Either these two men are the greatest defensive aces in the country or the great one is not so great.

Parr Leads Cats to 59-55 Win Over MU

EDDIE WALLACE, Wildcat guard, grimaces with pain as he is hit by Jim Cotter of Missouri in a wild climax to last night's game in the Field House. Wallace was shaken up, but stayed in the game and sank two free throws to insure the Cat win.

By ROGER MYERS
Collegian Sports Editor

K-State's Wildcats, led by big Jack Parr, scored a 59-55 win over the Missouri Tigers here Monday night for their first Big Seven basketball victory of the campaign.

Parr, who scored 27 points and gathered in 16 rebounds, showed he could be one of the boys as he handled the ball as well as any little man when the Wildcats went into a stall with two minutes left in the game.

Cat fans had double cause for rejoicing last night, as Iowa State upset Kansas and Wilt Chamberlain, 39-37. A last-second 20-footer by Don Medsker gave the Cyclones the win. Wilt was held to 17 points.

Missouri, paying its usual aggressive, rugged type of ball, sent the sparse but enthusiastic crowd into an uproar when Tiger guard Jim Cotter laid a block into Eddie Wallace and sent him sprawling to the floor.

Only minutes before, Missouri coach Sparky Stalcup was charged with a technical foul when he jumped onto the playing floor to contest a decision after the Tigers had taken the ball out of bounds and then scored.

The goal would have made the score 55-57, K-State, with only 1:06 left in the game.

The dispute arose with about 1:45 left in the game. K-State was in a stall and DeWitz was dribbling the ball near the west out-of-bounds line.

A Tiger charged over to check DeWitz and the Wildcat guard stepped out of bounds with the ball.

Missouri immediately took the ball and threw it in play. The entire episode happened with such speed that four Wildcats were caught off guard and the Tiger scored with a two-on-one fast break.

The officials called the ball back and Stalcup stormed onto the floor.

Missouri scored first after 30 seconds of play when Tiger guard Rodger Egelhoff hit a two-hand jump shot. Bill Ross scored to make the score 4-1 after Parr had hit a free throw.

Missouri continued to lead until with 11 minutes left in the half Parr laid one in from under the basket and the Cats took an 11-10 lead that they never lost.

The game progressed slowly and was almost dull until the final frantic minutes of play.

With only six minutes left in the first half the score stood at a high school-like 21-15 count with K-State on the long end.

The Wildcats worked to their biggest lead of the evening when Parr hit a hook shot with 18:45 left in the game to make the score 32-21.

Then with Smith leading the way Missouri narrowed the margin to 32-28. But Parr came back with four straight tip-ins and boosted the score to 44-36 with 10:23 left in the game.

A pair of disappointments kept the scoring down. K-State's Boozier had a cold night from the floor hitting only 2 of 17 shot attempts.

Sonny Siebert, Missouri's second leading scorer, was almost as frigid as he was able to get only 2 of 12 field goal attempts.

The Cats used a sinking zone defense that followed the ball and forced the Tigers to shoot from the outside.

Free Throw Tourney Tonight in Field House

The intramural free throw tournament will be run off this evening beginning at 6:45 in the Field House gym, according to Frank Myers, intramural director. Both divisions, independent and fraternity, will participate.

WEATHER

A new surge of cold air that moved across Kansas last night was expected to keep residents shivering for at least another 36 hours.

The U. S. weather bureau said temperature readings will slide near zero in the northern and western parts of the state and range up to about 10 above in the southeastern corner.

Temperatures over the west and north portions are not likely to get above 15 degrees, the weather bureau said. The sun was expected to break through today in the eastern section of the state, while skies will remain partly cloudy in the western half.

Light snow fell last night as the cold wave moved across Kansas, lowering temperatures a few degrees and bringing two inches of snow to Hill City and an inch to Goodland.

Precipitation varied from .01 of an inch to .03, with Hill City recording .03. Traces of snow were reported over the entire state.

"What really sold me," says Jerry, "was the way they conducted engineering. I'd expected rooms full of engineers at desks. Instead, I found all the informal friendliness of my college lab."

Gerald, an E.E., came directly to IBM from the University of Buffalo, in 1953. Starting as a Technical Engineer, he was immediately assigned to work, with two others, on designing a small calculator. The supervisor of this project was Dr. R. K. Richards, author of "Arithmetic Operation in Digital Computers." Jerry learned a great deal about computers in a very short time. Incidentally, his particular machine is now going into production. As Jerry says, "It makes an engineer feel good to see his project reach the production stage—and to be able to follow it through."

Promoted to Associate Engineer after 16 months, Jerry is now the leader of a nine-man team. He assigns problems to his group for solution, approves their block diagrams and the models they build. Perhaps an hour a day goes into paper work such as requisitioning equipment for his group and reviewing technical publications, in counseling members of his team and preparing for trips to technical society meetings. Apart from his regular responsibilities, he teaches at night in the IBM school.

Why Jerry chose IBM

Of course, there were other reasons why Jerry selected IBM. He was vitally interested in computers, and IBM was obviously a leader in the field. He comes from a scientific family

"What's it like to be

A PRODUCT DEVELOPMENT ENGINEER AT IBM?"

Three years ago, college senior Gerald Maley asked himself this question. Today, an Associate Engineer and leader of a nine-man team, Jerry reviews his experience at IBM and gives some pointers that may be helpful to you in taking the first, most important step in your engineering career.

plays. The latter is his own interest, which is why he is in advanced machine design. He points out that IBM is careful to take these factors into consideration—another reason, perhaps, why turnover at IBM is less than one-sixth the national average.

What about promotions?

When asked about advancement opportunities at IBM, Jerry says, "You can hardly miss in this field and in this company. They tell me sales about double every five years—which in itself makes promotion almost axiomatic." He endorses the IBM policy of promoting from within, with merit the sole criterion. The salary factor, he remembers, was not his first consideration. While excellent, the tremendous advancement potential was of far greater importance.

This field is so new work, you can actually see things happening, which is not the case with all electronic equipment today. And it's not all solid math, either. What's more, this field is so new, that pretty soon you're up with everybody else."

Gerald has done recruiting work himself for IBM and believes he understands some of the college senior's problems. "I usually begin an interview by determining a man's inter-

IBM hopes this message will give you some idea of what it's like to be an E.E. in Product Development at IBM. There are equal opportunities for I.E.'s, M.E.'s, physicists, mathematicians, and liberal arts majors in IBM's many divisions—Research, Manufacturing Engineering, Sales and Technical Service. Why not drop in and discuss IBM with your Placement Director? He can supply our brochure and tell you when IBM will interview on your campus. Meanwhile, our Manager of Engineering Recruitment, R.A. UGB Extends Deadline Date

Action was taken by the Union Governing Board Monday night to extend the deadline for accepting applications for the one position open on the UGB to Monday, February 11 at 5 p.m.

Application blanks are to be accompanied by a letter stating why the student would like to be a member of the UGB and what he thinks he could contribute. Both the applications and letters are to be returned to the office of Loren Kottner, head of the Student Union. Applications are available in Kottner's office.

In other action, the UGB adopted a two-point committee report concerning the proposed College - operated book store.

(1) There is not space suitable for a book store in the Student Union at this time.

(2) That there be both UGB and Union management representation on the book store committee when the committee is formed.

Both the third floor of the Student Union and the unfinished open area on the first floor of the Union under the main lounge were considered as sites for the proposed book store, but both these areas were found unsatisfactory by the UGB committee.

The UGB committee thought the Union should be represented on the book store committee, since in the future the Union might be considered as a site for the proposed book store.

The UGB gave a vote of thanks to Leon Armantrout, Ar 05, for his work as chairman of the UGB last year and for his work on the Union opening last spring.

Eaton Has Extra Invites For Seniors

Extra commencement announcement booklets are available in room 101 in Kedzie hall for seniors graduating at the end of this semester, according to George R. Eaton of the journalism department.

These booklets come in three varieties; they are made of cardboard, imitation leather, and genuine leather. Eaton said that a new shipment of these booklets has been received, so there are a number available for those who need more than they previously ordered.

Seniors who have not picked up the announcements they ordered are urged to do so as soon as possible. Also those who will not be graduating but have paid for announcements may have their money refunded if they notify the office in Kedzie.

Staff Changes Are Announced

Changes in the K-State faculty have been announced by President McCain following action by the Board of Regents.

Alice M. Becker, instructor in the department of physical education for women, has resigned and will be succeeded by Mrs. Marilyn Lou Blume.

William Sylvester, assistant professor of English, is resigning effective January 31.

Valentine F. Ridgway has been appointed assistant professor in the department of business administration.

Ralph L. Webb has been appointed as an instructor in the department of mechanical engineering.

Herbert Moser has been appointed assistant professor in the department of chemistry.

The Board of Regents also accepted the resignation of William J. Swart, Gerald L. Huntington, and Byron E. Taylor, instructors in the department of county agent work, division of extension.

McCain, Docking Hear Ike Outline Drought Relief Plans

Dr. James A. McCain and Governor George Docking were members of the official greeting parties that met President Dwight D. Eisenhower yesterday afternoon at Garden City and Wichita, the last two stops on the President's tour of the six-state drought area.

Eisenhower, with members of his cabinet and other high government officials, concluded his tour of drought stricken states with a speech at the McConnell Air Force base in Wichita.

In speaking of the tour, Eisenhower told a press conference that the government will, first, "seek in the budget the authority to use 25 million dollars of a disaster loan revolving fund to provide for emergency feed assistance to farmers and ranchers in the drought area."

Then the President went on to say, "the government will extend, until June 30, 1958, 25 million dollars of unobligated funds appropriated for agriculture conservation," and third, "that an additional appropriation of 26 million dollars would be available for the refinancing of farm indebtedness by direct loans to the farmers by the government." This makes a total of 76 million dollars for drought relief.

Dr. McCain conferred with the President for a short time at Garden City but the subject of the conversation was not related to the drought problem.

McCain also conferred with Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson and Fred A. Seaton, Secretary of the Interior. McCain said he talked about the drought research program now in use.

Before President Eisenhower addressed the press conference in Wichita, a six-member committee outlined progress on their consideration of the drought problems. This group included Dr. Arthur Weber, dean of agriculture.

Weber told the President, "land-use adjustment is one of the principal keys to stabilizing agriculture in this region. It has come increasingly clear that any program for the area needs the local participation of the farmers themselves." (See page two)

Part-Time Use is Set For Part of Vet Hall

A portion of the the veterinary science hall remodeling, will be completed in time for second semester physiology and pathology classes, according to R. F. Gingrich, physical plant director.

Classes have not been held in the building, which was the former veterinary hospital and is located south of the military science building, since the completion of Dykstra veterinary hospital in 1955.

Some student labs and lecture classes will move in before the second semester, but the move will not be completed until late spring, Dr. E. E. Leasure, dean of veterinary medicine said.

Twelve laboratories, two classrooms, and four offices have been constructed in the hall to provide greater working area for the pathology department, which will occupy the second floor, and the physiology department, which will be located on the first floor.

The present cost of the remodeling is $97,000. The first $50,000 was appropriated in July, 1954 and $47,000 was received from the legislature in July, 1955. An additional $53,000 is now on request from the present legislature for remodeling of the animal and isolation stalls. The old animal wing is still in use for housing small animals such as rabbits, rats, and guinea pigs, and the isolation stalls will be for animal virus disease research.

The floors, which were concrete, have been tiled, and florescent lights have been installed. Two steel outdoor stairways have been added to give access to the poultry lab and a recitation room without having to go through other laboratories.

Ceilings were constructed over the former lobby, large animal operating room, and amphitheater, which were two-story rooms, to bring them to one-story heights. The building was almost entirely replastered.

On the first floor will be located a physiology and pharmacology laboratory, which will be used for the study of the bodily functions, drugs, and their actions. There will also be two graduate research labs, three offices, an animal research lab, and a physiology preparation room.

On the second floor, in the former intern's living quarters will be a pathology research room, sterilization and wash room, a general pathology lab for diagnosis and research, a bacteriological culture room, and a pathology instrument equipment lab where the scientific instruments are used.

Leadership Workshop Is Scheduled

A student leadership workshop and training school will be held on the K-State campus for the first time next semester.

The leadership workshop will be held February 2 from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. and the training school will start February 5, and run for 10 consecutive Tuesdays.

The workshop is designed to give present and future campus leaders extensive training in leadership, and to stimulate interest in the leadership school that will follow.

Joe Kashner, PrV Soph, publicity chairman of the leadership school said, "The leadership school is to develop and provide better leaders on the campus. This training is vital for young, inexperienced members since it places emphasis on working in organizations and on committees.

"This experience will not only be of benefit to the student while in college, but also after graduation when he is in industry or civic organizations," he said.

The school committee worked with Prof. John Keltner, head of the speech department in setting up the class schedule.

Enrollment for both the leadership workshop and school will be in the Dean of Students office today, tomorrow, and Friday. Only the first 100 students will be allowed to enroll in the school or the workshop.

Night Classes Are Offered By Manhattan

College students interested in enrolling for night school courses, at Manhattan high school, are asked to meet in the high school auditorium, January 22, at 7:30 p.m.

Ronald Swain, evening school director, announced that 10 courses are to be offered during the spring semester.

"We are also considering offering any other course that is desired, if 15 or more persons are willing to enroll in it," he said.

"Students taking these 10-week courses will meet in the high school every Tuesday and Thursday, from 7:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. Driver education classes will meet Thursday only," he added.

The courses and fees are—beginning typing, $10; advanced typing, $10; beginning shorthand, $10; advanced shorthand, $10; driver education and training, $5; woodworking and furniture repair, $5; sewing, tailoring, and altering, $5; mother and baby care, no charge; machine shop, sheet metal, and welding, $5; and beginning bridge, $10.

Honduras Quietest Country In Latin America—Moncada

By ED KOCHER

"HONDURAS IS the quietest Latin American country," said Juan Angel Moncada Jr., AgE Fr, from Tegucigalpa, Honduras. "We have not had a revolution since 1928," he said.

Moncada said, "We have a free election democracy type of government with elections every six years. Your government is the same as ours with the exception that we only have one house instead of both—the House of Representatives and the Senate."

AT THE present, Honduras does not have an elected president as he died and the vice-president was unable to take the office because of sickness.

When asked who was running the government, Moncada said, the chief of the air force, chief of the army, and the secretary of the development, are taking care of the government until elections next year.

CONCERNING difference in meals Moncada said, "We do not eat potatoes two times a day in Honduras, like you do here in the United States. We have potatoes two or three times a week."

Moncada said, "One of the things that first looked funny to a Latin American in the United States is the way the girls run around, and pick their own way of life."

"IN LATIN America if you think a girl is nice, and you like her, you tell her that you love her, and would like to go steady. If she says yes, she does not go out with other boys until she breaks up with you," Moncada said.

The girls that have many boy friends are looked down upon. The boys like to go out with them, but not to marry, Moncada said.

HE SAID you always ask the mother or father if you can go out with their daughter before taking her out. "I think that we have a lot more respect for love. When we see a beautiful girl we tell them so," Moncada said.

When asked why he came to K-State, Juan answered, "I had to choose between Michigan State university, Iowa State college, and Kansas State college, but chose K-State because it was farther south, and most like the climate in Honduras."

MONCADA has been in the United States for less than five months, and was surprised to find K-State three times as large as the National University of Honduras where he graduated in Civil Engineering. He plans on staying here in the United States two years getting training.

MONCADA ALSO said there were not any nationalized industries in Honduras, but the government gets most of its national revenue in taxes from the large American banana and coffee companies.

"Bananas and coffee serve as our main products with almost all of the bananas being shipped to, and being consumed in the United States," Moncada said.

"YOU DRINK your coffee so much different than we do in Honduras. We take a little coffee and add to a glass of milk," Moncada said.

The liquid coffee which they add to the milk contains four or five tablespoons of coffee to each glass of water.

Moncada mentioned that the engineering school at the National University of Honduras is a six year course of ten month periods each year.

HE SAID that one thing nice about home is, "If you fail to pass a quiz, you get to take the same quiz over two months later.

"The government furnished everything for the schooling, but the administration, and the examination fee. I took a test with 37 other students, and two got this training by getting a scholarship from the National Bank of Development. I came to the United States and the other man went to Spain."

Dean Weber Gives Ike Drought Plans

Proposed land use adjustments were recommended to President Eisenhower during his 6-state drought tour by Kansas State's Dr. Arthur D. Weber, dean of the School of Agriculture.

Dr. Weber's recommendations included a two-fold approach to the drought problem, "short run" and a "long run" program. His short run program enumerated the following key suggestions:

Re-establishing depleted pastures; reseeding less productive croplands to grass; reappraisal of the soil bank to bring "needed land use adjustments;" emergency tillage whenever soil moisture is insufficient; increased support for research "on adapted initial seed stocks, and timely and adequate compensation to farmers and stockmen who adopt approved agricultural practices."

Weber's long range suggestions include:

Expanded research programs to study all facets of the drought, with emphasis on combative measures; and an "accelerated education program" to help farmers and livestock producers.

Eisenhower asserted he "almost got up and cheered" when he heard Weber's recommendations that a successful solution to the Great Plains drought problem must include "local participation of farmers themselves, including the planning and approval of farm operators."

Governor Docking expressed belief that neither the conference nor the President had reached any definite conclusions on the drought problem.

"The outcome will depend on sifting the findings. And I certainly hope needed relief will be available," he said.

Kansans attending the conference have agreed in general that the ultimate answer to the drought question does not lie in emergency federal aid. W. I. Boone, president of the Kansas Farm bureau, pointed out that emergency aid is needed however, "to tide farmers over until the drought is broken."

President Eisenhower said he concurred with Weber's suggestions for needed research for a long range solution to the drought problem.

Eisenhower asserted that the federal government should be a willing partner but keep maximum control in local communities.

Several experts on the subject fear that grasshoppers which always multiply in dry years, may be an extremely damaging factor this year. Grasshoppers can do as much damage or more damage than cattle in "overgrazing" drought injured pastures.

French To Test Relations With West in UN Debate

Compiled from the United Press
by LANCE GILMORE

France is preparing to put its friendship with the United States and other Western countries to the test in a United Nations debate on Algeria.

The problem of Algeria's future has been put on the program of the General Assembly for debate, against French opposition, at the demand of the "anti-colonial" bloc of Asian and African nations.

The Assembly can take no effective action on the issue. But to France, a vote in favor of the demand of Algerian nationalists for complete independence would be a defeat of the greatest importance.

Premier Guy Mollet and Foreign Minister Christian Pineau are trying to line up all the countries they can, concentrating on those of Western Europe and the Western hemisphere, on France's side.

Of all the countries in the 60-nation U.N., the attitude of the United States is of most importance to France.

If the United States does not support France, the relations between the two traditional allies, severely strained by the Suez canal dispute, will dive to a new low.

'Ike Economy' Called Myth

Washington, Jan. 16—President Eisenhower's record budget stirred misgivings among some Republicans today and prompted a Democratic charge that Republican economy is a myth.

"Republicans are giving Democrats a real lesson in the art of spending while at the same time leading the country to believe that they are the guardians of the purse strings," Rep. Thomas G. Abernathy (D-Miss.) said. "The president's

Republican Senate Bid Fails

Washington, Jan. 16—A new chance for the GOP to take control of the almost evenly divided Senate is dead.

The chance turned on the vote of newly-appointed Sen. William Blakley of Texas—an Eisenhower Democrat named to succeed temporarily Democrat Price Daniel.

For some 12 hours yesterday after Blakley's appointment by retiring Gov. Allan Shivers of Texas, an ardent Eisenhower supporter, GOP hopes for senate control brightened.

If Blakley voted with the GOP, the Senate would be split 48-48. Vice President Richard M. Nixon's tie-breaking vote would swing control to the Republicans.

Blakley declined to state definitely in Texas if he would bolt to the GOP. Then a few minutes after he arrived in Washington last night he said "sure" he would vote with the Democrats. That ended that.

'Moses' Flight Reenacted

London, Jan. 15—Forty thousand Jews face expulsion or evacuation from Egypt in a tragic flight rivaling the exodus led by Moses 3,400 years ago.

Nearly 1,000 refugees already have arrived in Naples, Italy, with stories of persecution, mistreatment, and loss of their possessions—the aftermath of the Israeli invasion of Egypt.

Egyptian authorities deny that all the Jews must leave. They dispute the stories of persecution.

But long queues have formed outside airline and ship booking offices, the exit visa department of the interior ministry opened three extra offices, and another shipload of refugees is due in Naples next Sunday. More are expected to follow.

Like their ancient forefathers who were led out of Egypt by Moses in the days of the Pharaohs, their objective is still the "promised land."

K-State Debaters

One K-State debate team went to the quarterfinals, and two others to the octafinals, in the Millsaps college debate tourney at Jackson, Miss., over the weekend.

The senior team of Tom Bowman, PrL Jr, and Ray North, PrL Jr, was eliminated in the quarterfinals; while the other senior team of Anita Grimm, Soc Jr, and Dave Nuttle, AH Jr, was eliminated in the octafinals. One junior team, Dan Hahn, Sp Soph, and Sharon Nuttle, PrL Fr, got as far as the octafinals.

K-State will be host Friday afternoon and Saturday to the Class AA district debate tourney. Competing in six rounds of debate will be Atchison, Lawrence, Emporia, Manhattan, Topeka, Washington of Bethel, and Wyandotte high of Kansas City. The top two teams will be awarded trophies, and will qualify for the

Stilt Commits Fouls In Offensive Action

By ROGER MYERS
Collegian Sports Editor

Kansas university won its ball game against K-State last Saturday night principally because Bob Boozer and Jack Parr fouled out in the closing minutes of play.

Kansas university won because there wasn't a Wildcat on the floor tall enough to do anything about Chamberlain's 13-foot reach.

Chamberlain could have been on the bench at the end of the game, too, because of his tendency to commit offensive fouls while in the act of shooting.

These fouls are not obvious fouls committed with the elbows and hips, but rather contact with the body.

Close observation will disclose that when Wilt reaches out to stuff in a field goal, he almost always leans on the man who is playing defensive center.

We assert that this was the case in the majority of the shots Chamberlain crammed into the basket last Saturday night. Perhaps a better nickname for him would be Wilt "The Quilt."

Chamberlain, plus Kansas, is tabbed number one in the nation and it takes a lot of initiative on the part of an official to foul out the person the wire services have named "The" man in college basketball.

We must admit at this point that any referee will be watching the defensive postman for an infraction closer than he watches the offensive center.

But this is not a valid excuse for letting a man get away with constant violations.

Let us repeat, KU won last Saturday primarily because Parr and Boozer were on the bench with five fouls. Both of the calls that sent them out should have been offensive fouls.

Be all this as it may, Kansas university did not look like the nation's number one team Saturday night.

Tex Winter's zone defense confounded them to the point that it took KU 3 minutes and 10 seconds to score and another 4 minutes and 32 seconds to get another field goal.

Speaking of the zone, the man who made it go was guard Roy DeWitz who worked like a Tasmanian Devil running from Chamberlain to King. His untiring efforts made the Cats go Saturday night and his fierce competitive spirit gave the impetus to keep the fight going.

KU's Gene Elstun must also be praised. His three straight field goals in the second half kept Kansas in the game. Wonder if he ever gets frustrated?

Elliott Gets Cal Job; NU Spot to Jennings

(U.P.)—Young Pete Elliott had two things today to brighten the future of any ambitious football coach:

A 3-year contract as head man at the University of California and 23 returning letterman to mold into a winning team.

Bill Jennings, 38, today was the 23rd head football coach of the Nebraska Cornhuskers.

Jennings was picked by the Board of Regents to succeed Elliott.

Elliott, head Nebraska coach for one season, was named Cal's head coach last night, replacing Lynn (Pappy) Waldorf.

Cal's announcement was something less than a surprise. Sports writers from here to Chicago had freely predicted Elliott's appointment for more than a week.

For reasons best known to the new coach and University officials, Elliott sneaked into town to accept his new job. The University refused to disclose his whereabouts other than to say he would hold a press conference at 9 a.m.

It has been learned unofficially that Elliott signed for at least $18,000 a year.

Jennings' appointment was announced by Bill Orwig, Nebraska Athletic Director, who said the former Oklahoma star was picked for a 3-year term at an annual salary of $12,000.

Jennings said he was "happy to have this opportunity to coach at Nebraska."

"Our somewhat brief experience with the school administration and the people of Nebraska has convinced me that the job can be done," he said.

Injuries Plague Abbott, Cats 'Hard Luck Guy'

By DICK BOYD

The hard luck guy of this year's K-State basketball team is Hayden Abbott, 6-3 junior forward. After missing most of pre-season practice because of a bad back and a turned ankle, he is now on the rehabilitation list with an infected toe.

Despite all this, Hayden has in recent games shown signs of his last year's spark when he was a starter as a sophomore and third high scorer on the squad.

Coach Tex Winter said, "He hasn't come along this year because of injuries, but I feel he will come into his own again during conference play."

His capabilities were aptly demonstrated last year when, in his first starting role, he dumped in 27 points to lead K-State to victory over Iowa State at Ames. This he modestly admits is one of his fondest memories of college ball.

As a junior he averaged 20 points a game for Olathe high, and recalled a game against the alumni in which he hit 39. A back injury kept him out of competition during his senior year.

"The most outstanding thing about him is that he has the natural ability to handle a ball at top speed," Paul DeWeese, Sports Publicity Director said.

Paul also commented that a man with quick hands is a blessing on defense. Abbott listed defensive assignments as his favorites on the court although he adds, "Everybody likes to play offense."

He hinted that perhaps he needed more improvement defensively than offensively. A real athlete takes more pride in what he has to work for than he does in what comes easiest to him, Abbott said.

DOWN BUT NOT OUT—Wildcat forward Hayden Abbott has been sidelined for the past two weeks with an infected toe but is expected to return to the lineup soon. Through 10 games he had a 9.4 scoring average. Abbott's specialty is the fast break and his services have been sorely missed by the Cats in their last pair of games.

North Carolina Needs Only Votes To Displace Kansas as Top Team

UNITED PRESS

They have the record (15-0), they have revenge over their arch-rival, and now North Carolina's Tarheels need only the votes to become the nation's no. 1 basketball team.

North Carolina, the only unbeaten major college team in the nation now that Kansas has been whipped, bid to supplant Kansas at the top of the ratings heap last night with a rough-and-tumble, 83-57 victory over once mighty North Carolina State on State's own court in Raleigh, N. C.

North Carolina, now ranked no. 2 nationally, and Kansas, which was upset, 39-37, by Iowa State Monday, now are idle for two weeks for exams. But they'll be watching for the new cage rankings early next week.

Southern Methodist, the nation's no. 4 team, barely skinned to a 59-57 victory over Rice to remain atop the Southwest conference.

St. Louis, ranked 17th nationally, romped to a 91-65 victory over Drake.

Grapplers Boast 2-1 Mark, Meet Iowa Team Saturday

A well-tested team of Kansas State wrestlers—sporting a 2-1 record from their three-meet swing of last week—see their first home action of the new season Saturday night when they host Iowa Teachers in Ahearn Fieldhouse. The match starts at 7:30 p.m.

Coach Fritz Knorr named as probable team members for the Saturday meet the same five sophomores and three lettermen who wrestled against Cornell college, Mankato (Minn.) teachers, and Minnesota last week.

They include Jim Miller, 123 pounds; Calvin Schwalbe, 130 pounds; Pete Everist, 137 pounds; Jim Roberts, 147 pounds; John Doyle, 157 pounds; Gary Haller, 167 pounds; Jim Dietrich, 177 pounds; and Ellis Rainsberger, heavyweight.

Both Miller and Haller boast undefeated records in three matches this season, although each has had one draw. Haller gained the Wildcats' only fall of the young season when he pinned Minnesota's 167-pound Bob Koehnen. Sophomores Doyle and Roberts also hold two wins, but have dropped one match apiece.

The mostly-sophomore 'Cat matmen should get a stiff testing against Iowa Teachers, undefeated in three meets to date. The Teachers dropped South Dakota State, 32-0; edged Wisconsin U., 16-14; and defeated Cornell college, 19-11.

Only common foe of the two teams is Cornell. K-State won a 21-8 decision over Cornell in the Wildcats' season-opener last Thursday. The 'Cats—wrestling three meets in three nights—squeezed by Mankato Teachers, 14-13, Friday, before being handed their lone defeat, 21-10, by Minnesota Saturday.

Alphas Win IM Contest On 153 Free Throws

Retaining last year's championship, Sigma Alpha Epsilon won the fraternity division of the free throw tournament with 153 out of 200 attempts.

The Speedsters took the independent division crown by sinking 136 out of 200. Robert Springer, Doyle Brown, Gary Diffley and Glen Richter competed for the Speedsters.

Joe Downey, Jim McCormick, Bill Sinderson and Jim Allen made up the Sig Alph team.

Sigma Nu's Bob Turley sank 45 out of 50 to grab individual honors in the fraternity division. Darrel Rosenow repeated as winner of the independent division with 41 out of 50.

In second place was Sigma Chi with Sigma Nu third to follow the Sig Alphas in the fraternity division.

Jr. AVMA took second and OK House third behind the Speedsters in the independent division.

Boxer Art Aragon Charges Trial Will Exonerate Him

Los Angeles, (U.P.)—Welterweight Art (Golden Boy) Aragon, indicted by the Los Angeles county grand jury on charges of conspiring to "fix" a fight, said today his trial would give him a chance to be "publicly exonerated."

Aragon, charged with conspiring to "fix" a bout in San Antonio, Texas, last December 18, surrendered himself an hour after his indictment yesterday and was released on $1,000 bail. He has termed the charges as "ridiculous."

The indictment was returned here because the alleged conspiracy in which Aragon's opponent, Dick Goldstein, charged he was to get $500 to "take a dive" originated in Los Angeles.

Goldstein charged Aragon offered him the $500 if he would allow himself to be knocked out in the fourth round of their bout. He signed a statement before Texas commissioners swearing to details of the alleged fix.

Alpha Zeta Scholarships

Fifteen hundred dollars in scholarships is to be awarded annually to four Alpha Zeta members, who are seniors and plan to do graduate work in the field of agriculture or veterinary medicine.

The first award winner will receive $600 and the other three awards will be $300 each, to be paid in equal payments on a semester basis.

This scholarship fund was set up in memory of Alpha Zeta members who lost their lives in wars involving the United States. Applications should be sent to the National Secretary of Alpha Zeta in Washington D.C., by February 26, 1957, according to Dr. Paul Sanford, faculty advisor of K-State's Alpha Zeta chapter.

Mobil Mike Now in Use

A remote-controlled, traveling radio unit was built this fall by two students in the radio and speech department.

The "traveling mike," designed and constructed by Wayne Thomas, Sp Sr, and Don Whan, Sp Soph, has been in operation about two months.

It has been used by KSDB-FM to broadcast Union dances. "It also was used for a local and an out-of-town football game," Thomas said.

The unit was used at the Snowball and Homecoming dances. It also has been used weekly on a Saturday radio program, "Music from the Red Room," which is broadcast from the Dive at 11 a.m.

By agreement with the Southwestern Bell Telephone, the mobile unit is connected to telephone lines which carry its messages directly to the station.

The desk-like unit is 4½ feet long, 2½ feet wide, and 3 feet high. It has two turntables, a mike, and an amplifier.

"It took us about three weeks to put it together, but it was worth it," Thomas said. "It isn't difficult to operate—it has only two switches and a volume regulator."

840 Students Pass English Proficiency

Eight hundred and forty students out of one thousand and sixteen passed the English proficiency examination given earlier this semester, according to Mary Frances White, assistant professor of English and co-chairman of the examination committee.

A course called "Writing Laboratory" will be offered by the English department during the coming spring semester to juniors and seniors who wish to prepare for the next English proficiency exam.

Most Popular KS Name Is 'Just Plain Johnson'

By P. A. YOUNG

Smith is no longer the most popular last name at K-State, according to the 1956-57 Student Directory.

Johnson leads the pack with 74 persons listed with that last name. This is an increase of 12 members to the Johnson clan at K-State over last year.

The Smith clan declined this year. Last year, 66 students answered to that name, but only 56 students are listed in the Smith section this year.

Other names that fill a major portion of the directory are Miller (44 listed) and Jones (32 listed).

People who go strictly by names might think there are several strange critters on campus. Bird, Hawk, Crane, Eagle, Crow, Coon, Fox, Barrow, Salmon, and two Lambs are listed in the directory.

The new directory includes such edible names as Rice, Berry, and Bacon.

In the 3.2 beverage class, K-State students seem to be well named also. The last names of Brewer and Beer could be associated with well-known brands such as Pabst, and Metz, plus the weaker variety, Root.

Names also color the directory this year—with 27 Browns, 15 White, 5 Grays, 4 Greens and 1 Black.

Leading the list in this year's directory is James H. Abbott, BMP Jr. Bringing up the tail end is Floyd A. Zwal, EE Fr.

A Campus-to-Career Case History

What's a civil engineer's job in the telephone company?

Claire Hruska graduated in 1953 from the University of Washington with a B.S. in Civil Engineering. Today he's with The Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company.

"I supervise construction at every stage," Claire says. "Every telephone building is designed around the equipment that will be in it. When a building is needed, I work closely with the architect to make sure his plans fit the needs. Then I check the contractors' bids. When the contract is let, it's my responsibility to see that the builder sticks to the plans in detail.

"Right now I'm handling the construction of several telephone exchanges, a large office building in downtown Seattle, and additions to other buildings. It's satisfying work, because I'm on my own a lot, and getting the jobs done is up to me.

"I've got a career that offers big assignments and responsibilities, and real opportunities to get ahead in a business that's growing rapidly. That's what I was looking for."

Claire Hruska is typical of the many young men who are finding rewarding careers in the Bell Telephone System. For more information on career opportunities in the Bell Telephone Companies, Bell Telephone Laboratories, Western Electric and Sandia Corporation, see your placement officer.

Sigma Phi Epsilon Put On Probation by IFC

The newly-formed Judicial Council of Interfraternity Council has placed the Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity chapter on probation for the violation of the college drinking laws, according to Gary Rumsey, IFC president.

The fraternity will be under the supervision of the Judicial Council and will be subject to close observation.

"Being on probation means that any violation of the college policy or of any IFC rules could mean a serious punishment, such as suspension from IFC," Rumsey said. "The Council, upon taking this action, shows that it has felt the responsibility that the Interfraternity Council should have toward a strong fraternal system at K-State."

The Judicial Council, which was formally approved at the IFC meeting Tuesday night, will be composed of the senior representatives of each fraternity chapter on the council.

Their responsibilities are first, by research and careful study, to determine policies in cooperation with the administration to govern fraternities to insure high standards of conduct at KSC.

Second, to enforce laws and rulings established by the Judicial Council of Interfraternity Council, and third, to reserve the right to impose penalties as declared by the Judicial Council upon any fraternity chapter at K-State for any violation of the said laws and rulings.

New officers of Interfraternity Council are Jack Harmon, BA Jr, president; Richard Disney, NE Jr, vice-president; Jim Gates, BA Jr, secretary; Jim Whitford, BA Jr, treasurer; Jim Murray, VM Jr, corresponding secretary; and Pat Roberts, TJ Jr, and Darryl Becker, AA Jr, two members-at-large.

KS To Host Talent Show February 9

Kansas State will be host to the University of Kansas and the University of Nebraska at a tri-school talent show to be held February 9 at 7:30 p.m. at the College Auditorium.

This show is the first of its kind in the Big Seven and was originated by a K-Stater, Lowell Novy. The show will be handled by the Student Union Campus Entertainment committee, of which Novy is chairman.

Featured performer will be vocalist Diane Knotek from Nebraska. Diane was the state's Miss America entrant and was chosen winner of the Miss America talent contest. Two other performances are yet to be chosen by Nebraska.

The University of Kansas is sending Manuel Jackson. Jackson is a talented tap dancer, and will share the spotlight with Roger Brown, a ballad singer. Both toured Europe in a U.S.O. group during the past summer.

Two more KU acts will include Alpha Omicron Pi's bottle band which has had several TV performances, and John Rhodus, a trap drummer who has studied under Buddy Rich.

The Kansas State participants have not been chosen and auditions will be held at 7 p.m. on Tuesday, February 5, in the Union little theater.

Tom Creech To Engineer Open House

Tom Creech, ME Sr, has been named chairman of the 1957 Engineers Open House.

Plans are already underway for the Open House which will be held March 15 and 16. The theme for this year will be "Landmarks in Engineering."

Other chairmen are Ernest M. Johnson, CE Sr, coordination chairman; Phyllis Gail Shook, ArE Jr, executive secretary; William C. Hoskinson, EE Sr, executive treasurer; Jerry Holliday, ArE Sr, chairman; Darrell E. Brown, ME Jr, TV publicity chairman.

Tom Creech

Keith L. Small, ME Sr, radio publicity chairman; Nor Sutton, ME Sr, publicity chairman; John G. Christopher, AgE Sr, newsprint publicity chairman; Verb Scott, IE Jr, assistant routing chairman; and Harry Pallett, EE Sr, routing chairman.

Alum Letter Goes to All Stater Grads

The "Trumpet," an Endowment association newsletter, is received by 25,000 K-State alumni according to Kenneth M. Heywood, director of endowment and development.

The publication keeps alumni up to date on campus happenings and developments among alumni. Heywood pointed out that the "Trumpet" goes to all alumni, not just those who have paid Alumni association dues.

The "Trumpet" is published six times a year and succeeds the "Industrialist," the alumni publication that was allowed to expire a few years ago.

Pre-Enrollees Must Pay Fees

Fees must be paid by pre-enrollees by 4 p.m. January 25, if they want to keep their cards, E. M. Gerritz, director of admissions and registrar announced today.

If the fees are not paid by January 25, the class cards will be returned for use during the regular enrolling period, and students will have to enroll again.

COOL—Not only was the weather cool today, the students weren't doing so bad . . . playing it cool just before finals as they sipped coffee in the Union. If this is any indication, the Union should show a real profit this month, counting assemblies, too. The Collegian, for you who have pen in hand to complain, isn't against this, understand. We only wish there had been more girls there to photograph.

Two Freshman Girls Listed Among K-State Vet Students

By CAROL SITZ

Being a veterinary medicine student at K-State isn't at all unusual—unless the student is a girl.

Such is the case of Jean Swengel and Aura McConnell, both freshmen in veterinary medicine.

When asked why she chose to take veterinary medicine in college, Jean replied, "That's a good question!" She hesitated a moment, and then continued, "I've wanted to be a veterinary doctor ever since I was a little girl. I've just always loved animals. And when I found out there was such a thing as a veterinary doctor, that's what I wanted to be."

Aura explained that she has been around the veterinary practice all of her life because her father has a general veterinary practice in Coffeyville.

"I've helped my dad with his practice all my life," Aura said.

"I think he's really happy I chose veterinary medicine for my career; although he did discourage me at first. I think that was because veterinary medicine is considered a man's field, and because of the long hours and hard work involved," she said.

Both girls completed two years of pre-veterinary study before being accepted as freshmen in the Veterinary school. Jean took her two years of pre-vet here at K-State, while Aura took three semester of pre-vet at Coffeyville Junior college and completed her last semester at K-State.

Even though Jean and Aura are enrolled in what is generally thought of as being exclusively a man's field, both girls feel their male classmates do not resent the presence of two females.

"The male vet students are really nice to us and show us every courtesy," said Aura. "At first they were a little standoffish, but I think they were just testing us out."

"Most of the male vet students in our classes now, had Aura and me in classes during pre-vet, so I think they're used to us by now," explained Jean.

Both girls feel that their instructors do not resent having them in class. "They are really nice—they don't pick on us," said Jean. "Although, one of my instructors has placed a bet with another instructor that I'll never go on to practice."

Aura explained that one vet medicine instructor told her the main reason he opposed girls taking veterinary medicine was because they usually do not practice long after graduation.

"I think some of our instructors feel that the money would be better spent in putting a boy through veterinary medicine instead of a girl," she said.

When asked if they would recommend other girls taking veterinary medicine, both Jean and Aura felt that they would not recommend it unless the girls really wanted to do it.

They both stressed the fact that veterinary medicine is not a field to rush into until all the advantages and disadvantages are known.

After graduation, Jean would like to go into general practice with someone else. Some day she may have a clinic of her own. Aura plans to go into the field of animal research. She would like to work with test animals for a drug company.

New Flight Program To Begin in March

A new flight training program for seniors in ROTC will begin in March, according to Capt. Ralph D. Oakley, public information officer.

The senior cadets eligible for pilot training will be given 36½ hours of actual flying instruction besides a few extra hours of navigation training.

The purpose of the program is to give the cadets flight training before they receive their commissions so the air force can save money by recognizing and eliminating those who can't adapt to flying.

Approximately 70 seniors will be qualified to take this training, Oakley said.

The program may be open to juniors by next fall. K-State is one of 38 colleges that will participate in the training.

Tension Mounts in Poland As 'Free' Election Nears

Compiled from United Press
By LANCE GILMORE

Warsaw, Poland, Jan 17—Tension is rising in Poland on the eve of its first "free" election since the war.

Anti-Communist incidents have been reported in many major cities. There has been some violence, including one reported lynching. Groups in several parts of the country have threatened to boycott the voting.

But the Communists cannot lose this election. The setup is so rigged that the Communists are guaranteed 52 per cent of the vote.

The real showdown is between the diehard Stalinists of the "tough" school of Communism and the "liberal" Communism of Wladyslaw Gomulka.

Western observers fear that if the Stalinists replace Gomulka as a result of the election, Poland might become Hungary all over again.

Chou To Moscow for Fence-Mending Report

Vienna, Jan 17—A Soviet airliner stood by at Budapest airport to fly Red Chinese Premier Chou En-Lai back to Moscow today to report on his fence-mending mission in Russia's backyard.

Chou arrived in Budapest yesterday for a brief visit from talks with the "independent" Communist leaders of Poland. He lost little time in lashing out at the United States.

Before leaving Budapest, Chou signed a joint declaration with Premier Janos Kadar in the parliament building. A Radio Budapest broadcast gave no details of the contents.

Defiant Hungarian patrols marked Chou's arrival by plastering up posters on walls in the capital proclaiming a new uprising for January 26. Travelers arriving in Vienna said the posters urged Hungarians to "stand by."

Chou interrupted a tour through Asia to make the Moscow-backed swing through the restless East European satellites to plug for the "unity" of the Communist bloc.

Negro Leader's Window Smashed at Rally

Tallahassee, Fla., Jan 17—Police today investigated the smashing of a window of a Negro leader's home and glass in two automobiles during a racial integration rally last night.

The Rev. J. Metz Rollins told police a picture window at the home of the Rev. C. K. Steele was shot out while Steele, president of the inter-civil council, was holding the rally at his church next door.

The rear windows of two cars left parked at the church by two persons attending the rally, one a Negro council member and one a white student, were smashed by bricks. A brick was found lying in one of the cars.

Buses remained segregated in Tallahassee and also in Miami, where only two Negroes, both young students, tried yesterday to follow the advice of Negro leaders to sit in "white" sections.

Experts Say Budget Cutting To Be 'Tough'

Washington, Jan. 17—Economy-minded Congressmen promised today to try their utmost to trim President Eisenhower's record peacetime spending budget of $71.8 billion. But they conceded it would be a tough task.

No one believed that the budget could be trimmed enough to justify a general tax cut and still keep the government operating in the black.

Gas Compressing Plant Explosion Kills 3

Liberal, Jan. 17—Officials of the Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line company today probed the wreckage of a gas compressing plant which was shattered by an explosion that killed three men and injured numerous others.

Nine workmen suffered burns, shock and other injuries inflicted by the flying debris. Two were in critical condition but hospital attendants said all nine men had "quite a restful night." Several other men received minor injuries which required first aid.

The blast occurred late yesterday when a cylinder in a gasoline engine ruptured, allowing gas to escape. The explosion rocked a wide area, shattered windows in nearby buildings, and was heard at Liberal, 13 miles away.

Coeds' Portrait Is Mixture of Innocence In Bobby Sox, Sophistication in Mink

By Mary Beckmeyer

THE ASSOCIATED Collegiate Press offers the following portrait of the COED.

"Between the innocence of bobby sox's and the sophistication of mink there lies a curious carefree creature called a coed.

"Coeds come equipped with assorted bermuda shorts and hairdos, but they all uphold the same creed: to enjoy every minute of every hour of every college day.

"Teachers fluster them, mothers protect them, little sisters idolize them, and boys worship them.

"To her admirers she has the mind of Einstein, the looks of Kim Novak, the personality of Grace Kelly and the figure of Marilyn Monroe. To the other coeds, she has the form of a beer bottle, the personality of a wet mackerel, and the mind of a beetle.

"She leads a martyr's life. No one else could stand time limits on telephone calls, the frustration of stolen bobbypins, and the pain of waiting for a date."

Little sisters of different fraternities groups have come into the focus at UCLA. The first of these groups was the "Little Sisters of Minerva." Theta Delta Chi has started a group called "Little Sisters of Theta Delta Chi." "Philadelphia" is the name chosen for the Phi Delta Theta Little sister groups and the Phi Kappa Sigmas named their group the "Friday Afternoon Marching and Chowder Society."

Wouldn't an idea like this drive the K-State Panhellenic out of its mind?

THE OKLAHOMA A&M Collegian reports that the speedy disappearance of all copies of the latest issue of the "Aggievator," A&M humor magazine, perplexed students there. The "Aggievator" editor claimed a sellout of 23,000 copies and the editor conjectured that this must be either a typographical mistake or the magazine staff was shipping a supply to OU on the sly and bootlegging their product "since that school isn't blessed with a humor magazine."

THE "OREGON State Daily Barometer" reports the story behind the story...

"Local firemen got one of their much waited for opportunities a week ago when Waldo hall (girls dorm) had a false fire alarm. So almost the entire force turned out, including three fire trucks, to save Waldo's residents, only to find out it was a false alarm.

"Then everyone wondered who turned in the alarm..." Waldo had just had a fire drill and knew nothing about the fire. It seems the physical plant had connected their fire alarm with Waldo's during the vacation, but had failed to notify the housemothers of the move. So when Waldo had their fire drill, the alarm rang in the physical plant too, so some on-the-spot worker notified the fire department of the Waldo "fire."

But everyone seemed to have a good time... especially the firemen.

Cats, Colorado To Clash On CU Campus Saturday

The K-State Wildcats travel to Boulder Saturday night to meet the Colorado Buffaloes in a Big Seven basketball battle.

Hayden Abbott is expected to see action in the Colorado game after missing the Kansas university and the Missouri games on Saturday and Monday nights.

K-State won its first conference game of the season Monday night with a 59-55 victory over the Missouri Tigers. Last Saturday, Kansas came from behind to top the Cats, 51-45.

Even with Abbott expected to be ready for action by Saturday night, Coach Tex Winter is planning to start the same fivesome that has started the last two games.

The starting five, in that case, will be Larry Fischer and Bob Boozer at the forwards; Jack Parr at the center spot; and Roy DeWitz and Eddie Wallace out front in the guard positions.

K-State goes into the Colorado game with a 6-6 record for the season and will meet the Buffs who boast a season mark of 10-3.

The Wildcats have not beaten the Colorado five in Boulder since '53, but hold a 14-6 edge over the Buffs in the 20 game series between the two schools.

Woodard Adds Three To Wichita Grid Staff

Wichita, (U.P.)—Coach Chalmer E. (Woody) Woodard today added three assistant coaches to the Wichita university grid staff, subject to confirmation by school officials.

They are Don Fambrough, an assistant to J. V. Sikes at East Texas State, Commerce; Bernard Taylor, coach at Wichita East high school, and Dick Tomlinson, who served as an assistant to former Wichita coach Pete Tillman.

Tillman resigned recently and the University hired Woodard, former coach at Southern Methodist university and before that at McPherson college.

Fambrough has been the first assistant at East Texas the past three years. He graduated from the University of Kansas in 1949 and formerly assisted Sikes while he was coach at Kansas.

NUMBER 75

'Channel Chuckles' Chosen As Theme for Y-Orpheum

"Channel Chuckles" is the name chosen for this year's Y-Orpheum production, according to Jan Madsen, publicity chairman. Permission was obtained from Bill Keane of the Des Moines Register to use the name of his cartoon for the K-State production and Keane has agreed to draw an animated cover in color for the program.

A 14-piece pit orchestra will be provided by Matt Betton. Betton will play the overture, between-acts numbers, and the finale. He also will play special numbers for the various acts if the individual houses need music for their skit.

Betton has stated that he will order and arrange music for any of the competing houses and will be willing to play any type of music from brass to string. The orchestra pianist will also be available to rehearse with the houses and help them with cues, tempo, etc.

Scripts must be turned in by noon Saturday, January 19, and the judges will announce the finalists a few days after final week. Five judges have been chosen and they are all out-of-town residents with no connection to the College but have had much experience with other college shows of this type.

A $1,500 budget has been approved by YMCA, according to Miss Madsen.

ROTC Cadets To Get Bars

Twenty graduating seniors in army ROTC will be commissioned Second Lieutenants at the end of this semester. They are:

Artillery—Ronald O. Barton, ME; Ludwig A. Bezemek, TA; Dennis W. Holm, BA; and Larry R. Nelson, MEI. Quarter Master Corps—George A. Berg, TA. Medical Service Corps—James W. Conboy, BAA. Signal Corps—Walter H. Dietz, EE; Albert A. Kaine, Jr., EE; and Joseph L. Regnier, TA.

Corps of Engineers—Archie R. Graham, ME; James D. Marsh, CE; Herbert G. Webb, CE; and Wendell A. Wright, Ar. Ordinance Corps—Richard D. Hiner, EE; Gene B. Martin, ME; and Gary E. Trull, ME. Chemical Corps—Eldon E. Johnson, TA. Infantry—William J. Stanners, BA, and Glen O. Taplin, AED. Armor—Juan P. Vicens, BA.

Today's Collegian Is Last This Semester

Today's issue of the Collegian is the last one of this semester.

The Collegian will not be published during finals week. Publication will resume on January 31 under new management.

The Collegian staff wishes you the best of luck with your finals. We hope you all are around to enjoy each other's company next semester.

Sts. Pat, Patricia Selection Changed

A new method has been conceived of selecting Sts. Pat and Patricia, who will reign over the annual Engineers' Open House March 15 and 16.

Sigma Tau, honorary engineering fraternity which sponsors the St. Pat and Patricia contest, voted the change at a meeting last night.

Three finalists for each of the honors will be selected by a 14-man Sigma Tau committee from the seven men and seven women candidates to be previously nominated by the engineering departments.

Fellow Staters, This Is What You Did . . .

MMMMMMMM—Many K-State men resolved to join the Alumni association as they observed the association's president, Walter Peirce, performing the pleasant duty of kissing Homecoming queen Joyce Brower, BA Soph. Peirce crowned the queen at the Homecoming ball.

Looking back at a busy semester:

SEPTEMBER

During the first three days of registration, 6,373 students enrolled. The ratio was approximately three men to every woman. Good news for the girls!

A new sorority on the campus was organized. Karla Baur, HE Sr, was selected by Gamma Pi Beta's national organization to lead the colonization movement.

Student Council voted to pay the city of Manhattan approximately $400 for damages inflicted by K-State students on city property after last March's basketball victory over KU.

There were damages to K-State this fall when Earl Kjellberg, PEM Fr, crashed through a glass door in Eisenhower hall. Several stitches were required to close cuts on his left forearm and the right side of his face.

Connie Taylor, EEd Jr, was runnerup to "Miss Football" of 1956. Connie's entertainment during her stay in California included a tour of Disneyland, a TV appearance, and dinners in Chinatown and at French and Italian restaurants.

President McCain predicted that the cost of education may double by 1965.

OCTOBER

Student Council began studying plans for off-campus jobs. A committee decided to work with Manfax, Manhattan industrial development corporation, in an effort to lure industry to Manhattan.

Automatic dismissal from school for anyone caught in an act of vandalism during or before KU-K-State games was approved by Student Council.

Twenty-four K-Staters were in the cast of the season's first play, "Six Characters in Search of an Author," by Luigi Pirandello.

K-State's American Royal candidate was Carole Holmquist, EEd Jr. Joyce Brower, BA Soph, was selected but disqualified because she previously had represented El Dorado, in the contest.

"Everything but a bottle of mouthwash was going . . . going . . . gone," at an auction sponsored by the Student Union Coffee Hours committee. Auctioneer Chuck Goetzinger talked the crowd out of $160 in exchange of gloves, pencils, and other odds and ends.

The Royal Purple won its 21st all-American title, keeping unbroken the longest consecutive string of all-American yearbooks in the nation.

Connie Morgan, HEc Fr, was crowned Ag School queen at the annual Barnwarmer. The honor seems to run in the family—Connie's mother held the title in 1931.

Honorary K-State parents were Mr. and Mrs. E. D. St. John of Wichita. They are the parents of Marilyn St. John, Psy Jr.

The name change of Kansas State college to Kansas State university was rejected by Student Council. President McCain said: "We are technically a university, but wouldn't we lose our identity as a land-grant college if we became a second university?"

K-State won its first football game against the Nebraska Cornhuskers after losing to Oklahoma A&M, Colorado, and the Oklahoma Sooners. The win was followed by another loss to Missouri.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon won the Flush Bowl football game, defeating Phi Delta Theta. Queen of the 1956 Flush Bowl was Jannene Foust, Sp Soph.

Kenny Nesmith, K-State senior halfback from Manhattan, was named "Athletic Man of the Year." It was the first such award ever made at K-State.

Barbara Jean David, HE Fr, "Miss Young America in 4-H," was a K-Stater featured in the November issue of Seventeen magazine.

The student councils of Kansas university and K-State revised and signed the Peace Pact at their annual exchange dinner at KU's Student Union. They officially condemned any undesirable and unfriendly activities between the two schools.

Cell Block 7 was K-State's top name band of the semester. They played for a dance following the KU-K-State football game.

The spring-semester Collegian was awarded an all-American rating by the Associated Collegiate Press. The Collegian was edited

Collegian Editor Promises Objective Editorial Policy

Today's Collegian is the last until January 31, the beginning of the spring semester. So, too, it is the last issue in which the mast-head below will appear with the names on it now.

NEXT SEMESTER'S Collegian promises to be a good one under the editorship of Jane Ann Moore, TJ Sr. Jane has held several positions on the Collegian and the Stephens college paper, Stephens Life.

She has served as reporter, headline editor, news editor, and assistant editor. She was also on the executive board for the Stephens' paper.

JANE HAS lined up a staff of experienced students and this always helps to give a paper a boost. She promises more photographs, a new humor column, and some good local cartoons. Of course "Little Man On Campus" will still be a featured syndicated cartoon.

Jane is well informed about the issues at stake on campus due to her duties as assistant editor in charge of campus coverage last semester.

JANE PROMISES to put out an objective, moderate Collegian, and we're sure she will.

A few staff positions are still open for anyone who wished to have a hand in putting out the paper next semester. Applications should be submitted to Jane in Kedzie hall as soon as possible.

Parting Shot

We heartily commend the IFC for placing Sigma Phi Epsilon on probation for violating the College drinking rules. We wonder why the Tribunal didn't feel like taking it on themselves to do something about the situation instead of passing the buck.

WE ALSO wonder if the Tribunal is going to carry out its announced plans to investigate the drinking situation under College rules, or whether the matter is going to be dropped. Things have been strangely quiet since the Tribunal decided to investigate the matter.

It's nice that the IFC decided to establish their own judicial council to insure high standards on conduct at KSC. I will enjoy watching the Tribunal and Judicial council clash when the next case arises that involves fraternities.—George Vohs.

Top Ten Tunes

Belafonte's 'Banana Boat' Moves Upriver as Top Hit

By Nancy Molter

An upset in the top 10 tunes from last week puts Harry Belafonte's "Banana Boat Song" from seventh position to the number one spot according to Manhattan record sales. Eight new songs appear among the top 10 this week. The top 10 hit records for Manhattan this week are:

1. "Banana Boat Song," Harry Belafonte
2. "Young Love," Sonny James
3. "Blue Monday," Fats Domino
4. "Moonlight Gambler," Frankie Laine
5. "Don't Forbid Me," Pat Boone
6. "Too Much," Elvis Presley
7. "You Don't Owe Me a Thing," Johnnie Ray
8. "Knee Deep in the Blues," Guy Mitchell
9. "By You, By You, By You," Jim Lowe
10. "Baby Doll," Andy Williams.

Sonny James, the young vocalist who is making a name for himself with his record, "Young Love," has a new Capitol album out called "Southern Gentleman, Sonny James." Sonny sings "Cold Cold Heart," "Only One Heart To Give," "I Got the Feeling," and "Can't Get Over Missing You" in his new release.

The Four Freshmen have a sequence to their "five trombones" album called "Four Freshman and Five Trumpets." The quartet sings such songs as "Easy Street," "Goodbye," "Got a Date with an Angel," "Something in the Wind," "Laughing on the Outside," and "There Will Never Be Another You."

"Ray Anthony Plays for Dancers in Love" presents the Anthony band playing "Day by Day," "You Do Something to Me," "Easy To Love," "Falling in Love with Love," "Blue Champagne," and "Dancers in Love."

Rock 'n Rollers will be interested in "Hollywood Rock 'n Roll Record Hop," which features rock and roll artists. Such numbers as "Oop Shoop," "Stranded in the Jungle," "Teenage Prayer," "Kansas City Blues," "Tick Tock," "Mary Lou," "The Girl in My Dreams," "I Want You," "Blow Joe Blow," and "Good Rockin' Daddy," are presented in this hi-fi album.

Pogo fans even have their album, "Songs of the Pogo," sung by Walt Kelly, Flia Karin, Mike Stewart, and Bob Miller. Walt Kelly, the cartoonist, wrote the songs which are "Go Go Pogo," "Northern Lights," "Don't Sugar Me," "Slopposition," "The Keen and the Quing," and "Man's Best Friend."

Capitol records have released many new 33 1/3 rpm albums this month. One of the leading sellers is Nat "King" Cole's album, "After Midnight." Nat features four guest soloists: Willie Smith, Harry Edison, Stuff Smith, and Juan Tizol. Some of the "King's" favorites, "Lonely One," "Caravan," "It's Only a Paper Moon," "Blame It On My Youth," "Just You, Just Me," "Sometimes I'm Happy," and "I Know That You Know" are played by Nat's combo.

Other Capitol releases available on 33 1/3 rpm's are "Ongetrouwd Man Kamer" (Bachelor's Apartment) by the orchestra of Dolf Van der Linden, "Legend of the Jivaro" by Yma Sumac, "My Paris" by Andre Colbert and his golden violins, "Argentine Tangos" by Alfredo De Angelis and Osvaldo Frescedo, "German Schlagers" by some of Germany's favorite recording artists, the Schubert Quartet No. 1, "Death and the Maiden" by the Hollywood String Quartet, and Johann Strauss Jr's "Graduation Ball" by the Ballet Theater Orchestra with Joseph Levine conducting the orchestra.

Quotes from the News

By UNITED PRESS

London—New British Prime Minister Harold MacMillan reaffirming British-American friendship in his first speech to the nation:

"We don't intend to part from the Americans and we don't intend to be satellites."

Defuniak Springs, Fla.—Confederate civil war veteran William Allen Lundy reflecting on "the war between the states" on the eve of his 190th birthday:

"It would have been better if the South had won, but I don't hate the Yankees. If a Yankee trooper came by today, I'd ask him to set a spell."

Washington—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles testifying to Congress on how President Eisenhower will employ the Eisenhower doctrine:

"I think there can be an absolute conviction that the President would lean over backward not to interpret the facts as justifying the use of armed forces unless there was real danger to the United States."

Tallahassee, Fla.—Gov. Leroy Collins urging local authorities to take "immediate and effective" action to prevent further violence in the Negro campaign to integrate buses in the Florida state capital:

"This kind of lawlessness is inexcusable and it must be stopped. It is essentially a local problem and should be remedied by local action to protect persons and property and to prevent further embarrassment to this community and the state."

Paris—Actress Ingrid Bergman answering a question as to whether she will enjoy her first visit to the U.S. after a self-imposed exile of eight years:

"Yes. It will really be very amusing."

Khrush Inspired To Laud Stalin at Chou's Party

Compiled from United Press
By LANCE GILMORE

Moscow, Jan. 18—Communist party leader Nikita S. Khrushchev called on Communists throughout the world last night to follow the example of Josef Stalin in the party's "essential" matters.

"God grant that every Communist be able to fight like Stalin," he said, touching off a wave of cheers and applause among more than 1,200 guests and Communist elite at a gala reception for visiting Red China Premier Chou En-Lai.

Khrushchev's inspired speech followed numerous exchanges of toasts between the Chinese delegation and the Russians. They drank glass after glass of a powerful Chinese drink called mou-hai, described as "140 proof."

The Russians and Chinese will have a chance to exchange toasts again at a Kremlin reception for Chou tonight. Last night's affair was held in Moscow's luxurious hotel Sovietskaya.

At one point, Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin, standing at Khrushchev's side, whispered, "enough, enough!" But Khrushchev shrugged him off with "No, not enough yet!"

The communist leader warned the Western world that capitalism is headed for extinction—a statement he also made last November at a Moscow reception for Polish Communist leader Wladyslaw Gomułka.

'Kids' Cause Violence

Tallahassee, Fla., Jan. 18—Tallahassee authorities today blamed latest racial violence here on "high school kids" but promised Gov. Leroy Collins everything possible will be done to stop it.

Collins yesterday urged "immediate and effective" action to halt vandalism against Negro property such as the shooting at a Negro leader's home and brick throwing at parked cars two nights ago.

Bus integration campaigns waged by Negroes here and in Montgomery, Ala., have been accompanied by recurring damage of Negro property. In Montgomery four churches and two homes were dynamited eight days ago.

"This kind of lawlessness is inexcusable and it must be stopped," Collins said. "I hope the city and county authorities realized the necessity for immediate and effective action."

Mayor John Humphress said he believed the latest incidents were the work of "high school kids" but added, "it is dangerous and must be stopped."

Police chief Frank Stoutamire said, "I'm meeting my policemen shift by shift and telling them I expect them to do something about it."

Ultimatum to Israel?

United Nations, N.Y., Jan. 18—

Arab and Asian diplomats predicted passage in the U.N. General Assembly today of a resolution giving Israel five days to pull its troops out of Egypt.

At the same time, however, more support was expected for an Australian suggestion to station U.N. emergency troops in the Gaza strip and along the Gulf of Aqaba.

Canada was listed as the first speaker when debate resumed this morning. A vote is expected this afternoon.

Both the United States and Russia have expressed support for the Arab-Asian resolution, sponsored by the entire bloc with the exception of Egypt and Laos.

Jannene Foust, Sp Soph, representing Chi Omega sorority, was elected Pershing Rifles' honorary cadet captain.

WHO WENT TO THE PROM ...AND WHY

"Hello," said the voice on the telephone. "This is Werther Sigafoos."

"Who?" said Anna Livia Plurabelle.

"Werther Sigafoos," said Werther Sigafoos. "I sit next to you in psych. I'm kind of dumpy and I always wear a sweatshirt."

"I'm afraid I don't remember you," said Anna Livia.

"I'm the one whose lecture notes you've been borrowing for two years," said Werther.

"Oh, yes!" she said. "What do you wish, Walter?"

"Werther," said Werther. "What I wish is to take you to the Junior Prom next April."

"That's months away, Westnor," said Anna Livia.

"Werther," said Werther. "Yes, I know, but you are so round and beautiful that I was afraid you might have a date already."

"As a matter of fact I do, Wingate," said Anna Livia.

"Werther," said Werther. "Oh, drat!"

"I'm kind of dumpy and I always wear a sweatshirt"

Anna Livia did not really have a date, but she was expecting to be asked by Stewart Stalwart, athlete and BMOC, handsome as Apollo, smooth as ivory, driver of a 2.9 litre Bugatti, wearer of faultless tweeds, smoker of Philip Morris Cigarettes, which, even without his other achievements, would by itself stamp him as a man of discrimination, as the possessor of a pleasure-oriented palate, as one who smoked for the pure joy of it, who had sought and found a cigarette brimming over with zest and zip and hearty good fellowship — Philip Morris!

Well sir, Anna Livia waited for Stewart to ask her, but two days before the Prom, to everybody's amazement, he asked Rose-of-Sharon Kinsolving, a nondescript girl with pavement colored hair and a briefcase.

Anna Livia sobbed for a spell and then, not wishing to miss the most gala event of the junior year, she phoned Werther Sigafoos.

"My Prom date has come down with a dread virus," she said, "and I'll accept your invitation, Waldrop."

"Werther," said Werther. "Oh, goody ganders!"

The next day Anna Livia received a phone call from Stewart Stalwart. "My Prom date has come down with a dread virus," he said. "Will you go with me?"

"Certainly," she said and immediately phoned Werther and said, "I have come down with a dread virus and cannot go to the Prom with you, Whipstitch."

"Werther," said Werther. "Oh, mice and rats!"

So Anna Livia went to the Prom with Stewart and who do you think they ran into? Rose-of-Sharon with Werther, that's who!

Stewart had felt obliged to ask Rose-of-Sharon because she always did his homework, but she had weaseled out because she really wanted to go with Werther with whom she felt a great oneness because they were both so dumpy. He fell wildly in love with her at the Prom, and today they are married and run a very successful five-minute auto-wash in New Bern, N. C.

Anna Livia and Stewart are happy too. They are still juniors and have not missed a Prom in six years.

Nobody Gave A Hoot For J. Paul Sheedy* Till Wildroot Cream-Oil Gave Him Confidence

"Who everybody avoid me so?" h-howled J. Paul. "Because you're such a ruffled old bird", replied his best buddy. Well that really opened Sheedy's eyes. He took a taxi-dermist down to the store and pecked up a bottle of Wildroot Cream-Oil. Now he's the picture of confidence because he knows his hair always looks its best from morning till night. So if people have been hooting at your messy hair, screech for a bottle or tube of Wildroot Cream-Oil. It's guaranteed to keep your hair neat but not greasy. And all the gals will go out of their way to beak to you.

Journalists To Work On 'Capital' for a Day

Following a tradition of more than 30 years, students in the K-State journalism department will assist staff members of the Topeka Daily Capital on Kansas Day—January 29.

Prof. Ralph Lashbrook and John Mitchell, both of the journalism staff, will accompany 12 students who have volunteered to participate.

These students will take over reporting assignments or accomany Capital reporters on their news beats.

The students also will attend meetings and luncheons in Topeka in observance of Kansas Day.

Students in all journalism writing courses have prepared stories dealing with Kansas history and stories of special interest from Kansas localities. These will appear in the Kansas Day issue of the Capital.

K-State After 2nd Big 7 Win Against Colorado Tomorrow

First Home Mat Foe Is Rated 11th in Nation

When K-State's wrestling team goes to the mat with Iowa Teachers here Saturday night at 7:30, the Wildcats will be opening a home season that sees them hosting four of the nation's top mat teams.

Iowa Teachers, ranked 11th among the nation's wrestling elite, will be seeking their 14th straight dual-meet win. They rolled undefeated through the 1956 schedule that included four Big Ten schools, and have scored decisive wins this season over South Dakota State, Wisconsin, and Cornell College.

Later K-State home meets pit the 'Cat grapplers against Oklahoma (rated number one in the nation), Oklahoma A&M (second-ranked), and Iowa State (rated No. 9).

Thus far this season, K-State has a 2-1 record, winning from Cornell College and Mankato (Minn.) Teachers, and losing to Minnesota U.

Highlight of Saturday's meet here could come in the first match where two undefeated men meet. Wildcat sophomore Jim Miller meets Don Corrigan, Iowa Teachers senior. Both have two wins this season against no defeats.

The same situation will exist in the 167-pound division, where K-State's Gary Haller, Colby junior, meets Gerry Gienger, Iowa sophomore.

K-State travels to Boulder, Colorado, Saturday night with the hope of adding another Big Seven conference basketball victory to their conference mark of 1-2.

With the only conference win a 59-55 decision over the Missouri Tigers here on Monday night, the Cats will aim for their first victory at Boulder since 1953. Tipoff time is 9:05, CST.

Going against this unit will be Jim Cadle and Don Walker at the Buffs forward positions, Jim Jochems at the center spot, and Dave Mowbray and Gerry Schroeder at the guards.

Last season when K-State won the Big Seven conference championship, Colorado was the only team that topped the Cats on the road. In the 20-game series between the two schools, K-State holds a 14-6 edge.

Bebe Lee, Athletic Director at K-State, was the head basketball coach at Colorado last season, when the Buffs took the 71-53 decision at Boulder. The Cats won 82-51 at Manhattan.

Wildcat Coach Winter has termed the Colorado Buffaloes as the "surprise of the Big Seven," and is expecting a big battle on the CU court.

Probable starters:

K-State	Pos.	Colorado
Boozar (6-7)	F	(6-4) Cadle
Fischer (6-4)	F	(6-6) Walker
Parr (6-9)	C	(6-8) Jochems
DeWitz (6-3)	G	(6-1) Mowbray
Wallace (5-10)	G	(6-1) Schr'der

Kansas—Generally fair today, tonight and tomorrow. A little warmer today, little change in temperature tonight and tomorrow. Not so windy today. High today 35-40. Low tonight 15-20.

STUDENT HEALTH

Six men and three women are in Student Health today. The men are Mike Wineteer, Ar 02; Don Miller, AEd Fr; Rex Pearson, BA Fr; George Strobel, ME Jr; Dave Pearce, EE Soph; Jerry Evans, CE Soph. The women are Miriam McAuley, Eng Jr; Phyllis Hoyt, EEd Soph; and Lois Cowan, EEd Jr.

JOB OPPORTUNITIES

Men and women interested in counseling, and women majoring in institutional management have been asked to interview February 15 with the director of Cheley Colorado Parks of Estes Park. J. A. Cheley, director, has asked that students who wish to interview for summer jobs in counseling or food service write a letter of application by February 1. Further information is available at the Placement Bureau.

Free copies of "Career-1957," a book listing job opportunities available in 148 companies across the country, are available to all male seniors and graduate students who will receive degrees this month or in May.

The books are being distributed by the YMCA, and copies are available in the YM office on the second floor of Anderson hall.

Auto 'Attacks' Driver

Honolulu, (U.P.)—Katsumi Tagawa, 33, recently was the victim of a freak traffic accident.

While eating breakfast in a Waikiki diner, he was injured when his own driverless car ramed through the diner's wall. Police said a cab driver had lost control of his taxi and slammed into the rear of Tagawa's parked car shoving it 6 feet through the diner wall.

Tagawa, seated in a booth next to the wall, suffered arm and back injuries.

"TICKLED PINK" are the words for the owners of the selected scripts for the Y-Orpheum. The winners are Chuck Wingert, His Soph; Kaye Koon, BPM Jr; Marylyn McCready, Eng. Sr; Bruce Wilson, Y-Orpheum chairman, His Gr; Phil Upton, ME Fr; and (seated) Sally Carney, Eng Soph; and Lou Ann Oberhelman, Sp Jr.

Finalists Selected For Y-Orpheum

Finalists for the 1957 Y-Orpheum, scheduled for production March 23 and 24, are Pi Beta Phi, Alpha Tau Omega, Chi Omega, Acacia, Delta Delta Delta, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, and Alpha Gamma Rho.

Opening the show will be Pi Beta Phi with "Ding Dong Rhythm," a take off on "Ding Dong School." This offering is completely musical visual entertainment.

A satire on a Damon Runyon type of show is found in Alpha Tau Omega's "T.V. or not T.V.?" Hoodlums take over T.V. stations because the "rackets" aren't paying off.

Following this is "$64,000 Yen." This Chi Omega skit parallels the "$64,000 Question" with its setting in China.

Something everyone talks about—the weather—is the object of the Acacia's parody, "This Far North." A weather forecast with a hurricane thrown in shapes this drama.

"The Katkateer Klub," the Delta Delta Delta, offering follows the theme of the "Mousekateer." The skit features wildcats rather than mice. It has a romantic twist.

The Russian counterpart of Mickey Mouse comes to life when Sigma Alpha Epsilon's "Ricky Rat and his Kremlin Gremlin's" take the stage.

"Behind the Scenes with Sergeant Philco" will be produced by Alpha Gamma Rho. This concerns the confusion that hits Philco's barracks when a new company commander, an ex-ROTC student, arrives.

Judges for the scripts were Theodore Owen, professor of English at Kansas State Teachers college at Emporia and Prof. Joseph Young, a member of the dramatics staff at Emporia.

Mr. Owen is the music and drama critic for the Emporia Gazette, and a well known amateur musician in the state.

Diplomas To 314 Staters

K-State granted 314 degrees, 18 with honors, Saturday at mid-winter commencement exercises in the College auditorium.

Of the 18 honor graduates, five received "high honors," awarded to students ranking in the upper three per cent of the graduating class, and 13 received "honors," which are awarded to not more than an additional seven per cent of the graduating class.

High honors went to Neal Jennings, Carl Henry Dahl, Mrs. Melodee Stanley Eby, Mrs. Joann Louise White Harper, and Mrs. Marjorie Phyllis Badeker Day.

Honors were received by Charles Burton Warne, Mary Lynn Hopson Hepburn, Harriet Ruth Myers, Robert Frazier Egbert, Frederick Lee Salmon, William Henry Johnson, Kendrick Don Fetrow, Billy Jack Stalcup, Henry Joseph Windisch, Roger Elton Alexander, Ralph Lee Webb, Dorothy Marie Crawford, and Clema Anne Hutcherson.

President McCain gave the charge to the class and conferred the degrees, of which 251 were bachelor's, 55 master's, and 8 PhD's. Thirty-nine of the graduating seniors were commissioned second lieutenants in the armed forces reserves. Harry Valentine, Clay Center, brought greetings from the Board of Regents.

NUMBER 76

McCain To Address Students On 'State of the College'

President James A. McCain will address the opening assembly of the spring semester in the College Auditorium at 9:30 a.m., Friday, February 1. President McCain's speech on "The State of the College," has traditionally been the first assembly of each semester.

The demands on the College staff and facilities in meeting rapidly rising enrollments, expanded research programs and competition for faculty make the President's topic of vital concern to each student and faculty member.

The usual schedule of shortened classes will be followed. Eight o'clock classes will meet from 8:00 until 8:35, nine o'clock classes will meet from 8:45 until 9:20. The assembly will start at 9:30. Ten o'clock classes will meet from 10:30 to 11:05 and eleven o'clock classes will meet at 11:15.

Stuart Chase, noted writer of economics of the United States, will be the speaker of the assembly for February 12. Chase has contributed to magazines and periodicals, twenty-four published articles of economic conditions.

For the LIFT Week Assembly, February 18, Dr. Louis Binstock, a popular religious figure in America, will be the speaker. Dr. Binstock is the author of the recent best seller, "The Power of Faith," an inspirational work which describes how people of all religions may draw upon faith for a better understanding of the problems of life.

The outstanding young dance team of Maxine Munt and Alfred Brooks will present a full and varied program of interpretative dancing for the assembly of March 6.

Charles Luckman, a member of the architectural firm of Pereira and Luckman of Los Angeles will be the speaker for the March 12 assembly. The assembly will be a feature of the Engineering Open House.

The home economics Hospitality Day assembly April 11 will feature Mortimer Adler, former professor in Philosophy of Law at the University of Chicago.

The Religious Coordinating Council will have charge of the Easter assembly April 17. Speech Professor Donald Hermes will direct the play "Everyman," and the program will feature musical numbers also.

The activities honors assembly will be held May 7. The speaker will be announced at a later date.

National Rifle Honors Won by AFROTC Team

The K-State AFROTC rifle team has won its second straight air force national championship. With a score of 957 out of a possible 1,000, the Kansas State team topped the scores of 205 colleges from the United States, Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico.

Stanley Braman, BPM Sr, with a score of 197 out of 200, was awarded the national individual championship. Floyd Cummins, ME Soph, was individual champion last year.

'Foolin' Ourselves' Has Been Canceled

"Foolin' Ourselves," the road show production scheduled to be presented here tomorrow evening, has been canceled, according to Earl G. Hoover, member of the K-State fine arts committee.

Refunds for purchased tickets may be secured by bringing them to room 5, Eisenhower hall, or sending them with a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Box 103, Fine Arts Production, at Kansas State college, Hoover said.

Weber to Assume K-State Presidency During McCain's Future European Tour

A. D. Weber, dean of agriculture, has been named by President McCain to assume temporary presidency of Kansas State when McCain leaves for Europe April 17.

McCain's European tour will be a result of his being selected under the Eisenhower-Exchange Fellowship for travel and study abroad.

Before McCain, his wife, and daughter Sheila, return to Manhattan in October, he will have visited 15 European universities and conferred with business and industrial leaders as well as government officials.

"I am sure this experience will improve considerably my capacity to serve Kansas State college and the state of Kansas," McCain said. "Mrs. McCain and I are immensely pleased over, and deeply grateful for, this opportunity to spend six months in Europe under such favorable auspices."

The Eisenhower exchange fellowships were established in 1953 to honor President Eisenhower for his contributions to humanity as a soldier, statesman, and one of the world's great leaders. They are non-political, independent of established educational institutions, and offer people in countries of the free world training in leadership as a positive force for international friendship. At the present time two fellows are brought to the United States annually from each of 10 countries, while three or four individuals from the United States are sent abroad.

The McCains itinerary includes Italy, Spain, Switzerland, Austria, Yugoslavia, Greece, France, Belgium, Holland, Germany, Great Britain, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, and Finland. The president has been granted a leave of absence by the State Board of Regents for the six-months he will be abroad.

'Young Love' Profits As 'Banana Boat' Sinks

By Bob Conover

News this week in Manhattan's record stores is lower prices. Most record companies have reduced the price of 45-rpm extended play albums. Two major companies are featuring special prices on 12-inch long playing records.

Single record best sellers this week are:

- "Young Love" by Tab Hunter
- "Banana Boat Song" by Harry Belafonte
- "Don't Forbid Me" by Pat Boone
- "Blue Monday" by "Fats" Domino
- "You Don't Owe Me a Thing" by Johnny Ray
- "Too Much" by Elvis Presley
- "Moonlight Gambler" by Frankie Laine
- "Rose and a Baby Ruth" by Geo. Hamilton IV
- "Jamaica Farewell" by Harry Belafonte
- "Baby Doll" by Andy Williams

Columbia records are promoting three orchestras, Percy Faith, Paul Weston, and Andre Kostalnetz. Buying one album at the regular price entitles the purchaser to a $2 reduction on the second album. Each orchestra has a number of sides that make good listening.

"Two of Paul Weston's best sellers have been "Mood for 12" and its sequel, "Solo Mood." Both of these have various jazz artists doing solos to the accompaniment of Mr. Weston's big string section. The result is a very lush sound.

Percy Faith's specialty is mood music with a definite beat, nothing terribly slow or "schmaltzy." The local stores have "Swing Low in Hi-Fi" in which Percy Faith has arranged folk spirituals for his large orchestra without the words.

Andre Kostalnetz plays music somewhere in between crew-cuts and long hair.

Victor records' special this month is "Midnight for Two" with the Three Suns and a pipe organ. Some people might like it.

Kim' Says, Shotgun! Lethal Weapon or Quiz?

By JERRY V. SCHUETZ

What would your reaction be, if your teacher said, "We are going to have a shotgun the day after tomorrow"?

We American students would probably be expecting a short quiz. But what would a foreign student, who does not understand our English slang, expect? Webster's New Collegiate Dictionary says a shotgun is "a smooth bore gun designed for firing shot at short range." And that is exactly what Yang W. Kim expected as he nervously walked to class.

"Kim," as he is known at the Phi Tau house where he stayed last semester, is a Korean student in economics. He attended high school in his home town, Kwangju, Chollanondo and the University of Seoul for two years, the most famous Korean university in the field of economics. Kim was one of the university's outstanding students and was highly recommended by his professors.

A freshman in economics, Kim came to K-State on a scholarship sponsored by the Interfraternity Council. He will be living at the Delta Upsilon house this semester. Each semester, he will live at a different house.

One of Kim's biggest thrills came the night of the judging of the house decorations for Homecoming. The horses the Phi Taus used were manually operated, and Kim was thrilled to death when the boys let him operate one of them.

Kim wants to go back home before he graduates, if possible, and visit his family. His father is a government official. He has a brother who is a public prosecutor. His sister is attending teacher's college in Kwangju.

An Editorial

Collegian Greetings—

The Collegian's new staff is finally complete. We hope to put out a good paper, one which you will all enjoy and one which you will be proud to claim as K-State's.

The Collegian is principally a paper for the students, and our aim is to print news of the students and news which will effect and be of interest to them.

WE INTEND to be objective and unbiased in our approach to campus news. Any time you have news tips for the Collegian, call extension 283 at the College. We welcome any news. However, the staff must reserve the privilege of judging that news within the restrictions of timeliness and space limitations.

We especially welcome letters to the editor. All letters will be answered or commented on when appropriate. Letters should not be more than 250 words and will be edited to conform to our ethics and the laws of libel.

But, we will not accept unsigned letters. You may request that they be printed "anonymous." We will accept no letter for publication without a signature. If a question arises, or you feel moved to make a comment on any issue, don't hesitate. Write it down and either bring it to the Collegian news room, or simply drop it in the campus mail slot at the post office addressed to the Collegian Editor.

THE DEADLINE for news is 8 p.m. the day preceding publication. The paper goes to press at noon and will be available at regular distribution points after the lunch hour.

A NEW cartoonist, Pat 'Hoot' Gibson, will be drawing original cartoons to accompany stories and events of campus news. A new humor column will be written by Darrell Miller for the editorial page, and the Over the Ivy Line column will be written by Shari Shellenberger. The Top Ten Tunes column, by Bob Conover, will be printed weekly.

I hope we will have a fine semester.—Jane Moore.

KU Win Spurs Joyful Cyclones To Mild Havoc and Street Fire

By Shari Shellenberger

SEEMS K-STATERS aren't the only ones who cause "disturbances" following important basketball wins. K-State's bonfire following last spring's victory over KU at Lawrence seems quite trivial compared to the conduct of jubilant Iowa Staters after their win over KU's Wilt ensemble at Ames.

Iowa State's Memorial Union suffered minor wreckage; students built a huge bonfire, causing a traffic jam on an Ames main street, and broke many campus signs, according to the Iowa State Daily. Letters to the Daily editor suggested some type of organized celebration the next time to allow students to "let off their pent-up steam."

BIOLOGY STUDENTS who cracked the final and still have their final notes might take this hint for next year from an ad in the University Daily Kansan:

"BIOLOGY FINAL EXAMS—No, we don't have them, but you can get the next best thing—right—a new supply of BIOLOGY STUDY NOTES is here. Get yours for the best review possible. Supply limited, call tonight, only two-fifty still."

Might be a good way to pick up a few dollars and save something from your recent fiasco. ..

K-STATE administration officials might consider installation of a verbal library such as Columbia University's (TV "21's") Charles Van Doren for less fortunate students who are not well acquainted with library research. Who'd ever think one's hours spent on cramming, etc., might someday lead to $122,500?

Indecision Endangers Educational TV Plans

By CHARLES SCHREIBER

Kansas' embryonic educational and cultural television network faces a critical situation in its development during the coming Legislative sessions. K-State's channel 8, allocated by the federal communications commission and granted a special dispensation after the four year grace period expired, stands to lose its privilege of channel allotment unless the present legislature acts to insure the FCC that such a state network is being seriously planned.

A Citizens Committee on Educational Television for Kansas, headed by Oliver Ebel, is spearheading the drive to draft an appropriation bill for the adoption of Educational TV at the cost of 50 cents a person yearly. At this time a per capita tax, any tax, faces the austere budget trimming of Governor Docking.

It has been rumored that commercial television interests have bid for the channels in the event that the legislature fails to appropriate the money or give the green light for further planning on the project. It is extremely doubtful if the FCC will grant another dispensation in the face of the Legislature's failure to take action on this subject.

The proposal at present would cost the taxpayers $1 million a year. It would consist of eight transmitters located to provide every county with at least one outlet. Two major production units would be located at Kansas State college and the University of Kansas. There would be three rehearsal production units at Pittsburg, Emporia, and Hays. Eventually there would be a remote production unit for recording anywhere in the state.

The entire operation would be under the supervision of a Kansas Educational Television Authority responsible directly to the Board of Regents. The construction would be staged so that building and operating costs for completed units would not exceed the yearly cost of operation for the complete network.

The bordering states of Colorado, Nebraska, Missouri, and Oklahoma are already using the electron picture tube as an educational medium. At present there are 20 different states which have one or more stations on the air, two additional states have stations under construction, and 18 states have specific plans for construction. Among these are such low income states as Alabama and North Carolina.

The arguments in favor of the educational application of TV seem to outweigh any objections yet raised. According to the Citizens Committee proposal, educational television would permit thousands unable to go to the various state college campuses for higher education to take such courses by an extension telecourse program. It would also enable students in small primary and secondary schools to observe and receive lectures by instructors using technical equipment and teaching devices not otherwise available to them.

The people of Kansas are faced with prospective enrollments which threaten to swamp the state's educational budget as well as the existing physical plants within a few short years. They must certainly count educational television among the possible means of handling this increased educational load.

In addition to the purely academic uses, the television network could provide entertainment, cultural, and public service features which the ordinary commercial stations cannot do for financial reasons.

Researchers in the teaching ability of television claim that it has shown itself to be equal or superior to conventional classroom procedures.

Dean Weaver Resigns; No Successor Selected

John C. Weaver, dean of arts and sciences at Kansas State for the past year and a half, has resigned to accept a position at the University of Nebraska as dean of the graduate school and administrator of the University Research Council.

No replacement for Dean Weaver has yet been selected, according to President McCain.

McCain said, "Working in cooperation with a faculty committee, I shall make every effort to fill the position before leaving for Europe. If a satisfactory person isn't found by that time, I will appoint an acting dean until I return."

Those named to the faculty committee were chairman Stuart E. Whitcomb, Fritz Moore, W. H. Sill Jr., William C. Hummell, Abraham Isenstrak, and Linnwood Hodgdon.

In commenting upon Dean Weaver's resignation, President McCain said, "In his year and a half as Dean of Arts and Sciences at Kansas State college, Dr. Weaver has demonstrated a rare capacity for educational leadership and has made a substantial contribution to our entire academic program.

"He is leaving us to accept a position which will pay him immediately $1,800 more than his salary here, with a promise of an additional $1,500 over the next two years.

"He is another in the mounting list of our foremost scholars and teachers who are being attracted to positions in other states by much larger salaries."

In announcing his decision to leave Kansas State, Weaver said, "It is with the deepest of regret that my family and I leave Kansas State and the warm and rewarding associations that we have been privileged to enjoy, both at the college and in the community at large.

"The perceptive, understanding, and unflinching aid which I have received from President McCain and other administrative officers of the institution, together with the encouragement and support of a loyal faculty, have combined to make my experience here an extremely happy and satisfying one. "I have high confidence in the future of Kansas State college, and its welfare will always remain close to my heart."

Japanese Scholar To Visit Campus of Kansas State

Kiduo Nishida, head of student personnel in the Ministry of Education of Japan, will visit K-State tomorrow and Saturday, according to Dr. M. D. Woolf of the English department.

Nishida has been touring United States college campuses and studying student personnel services for the last year. In Japan he is head of the "student section," which governs testing, counseling, housing, health, and other extra-curricular activities.

Dean of Students H. J. Wunderlich and other college officials will meet informally with Nishida at a reception held by Dr. Woolf tomorrow afternoon.

Woolf said, "Professor Nishida has done more to stop the Communist movement in Japan than any other educator. He has pushed democracy in student government and shown the students the responsibility as well as the freedom that goes with it."

You'll be pleased with a Collegian want ad.

First Journalism Graduate Retires

Kansas State College's first journalism graduate, Louis Blanchard Mickel, retired recently. He had been with the United Press almost since his graduation day in 1910, and had been UP's superintendent of bureaus since 1927.

During his reign at United Press Mickel saw the number of UP domestic bureaus triple from 30 to 90. But it was for his organization and administration of election coverage that he was most widely known. He handled this job for UP during both presidential and off-election years ever since President Hoover was elected to the White House in 1928.

New Flight Training For AFROTC Cadets

Five Kansas State college Air Force ROTC cadets took their first training flight Tuesday afternoon in conjunction with the Air Force ROTC program.

The cadets, all in their senior year of Air Force ROTC and all qualified for pilot training upon completion of the program, are William C. Hanna, CE Sr, John C. Polema, AH Sr, John E. Ricklefs, LDs Sr, Eldon E. Stout, BA Sr, and Leonard B. Tovrea, Agr Sr.

The flight training program is designed to indoctrinate cadets in flying maneuvers and will provide 36½ hours of actual flying time for each of the cadets in the senior class of the AFROTC program. The flight training also will qualify the cadets for private pilot's licenses.

OU Matmen Trip Cats On Field House Floor

On top in the national wrestling scene as well as on the gridiron, the Big Red of Oklahoma university beat K-State matmen, 27-3, last night in the Wildcats' first home stand of the year.

John Doyle, 157-pound Wildcat grappler, registered K-State's lone win of the night. Doyle decided Lee Young, 3-2.

The Sooners pinned three Cats in winning the remaining matches. Danny Hodge (OU), 177 pounds, pinned Jim Dietrich in 2:28 of their scheduled nine-minute match.

David Calvert (OU), 147-pounder pinned Jim Roberts in 4:04. Dick Delgado (OU) pinned Jim Miller in 7:34 in the 123 pound class.

The powerful Sooner squad is composed of a 5th place winner in the Olympics, one NCAA champion, one AAU champion, three Big Seven champions, and one Danny Hodge.

Hodge, who gave the best showing of an American wrestler in the Olympics with a second place berth, has a long string of mat crowns.

Delgado, defending National AAU champ, placed third in the NCAA, is defending Big Seven champ, and placed fifth in the Olympic style in 1956.

Last night's defeat gave the Cats an 0-1 mark in Big Seven competition, and an overall mark of 2-3.

The results:
123-Dick Delgado (OU) pinned Jim Miller (KS) at 7:34.
130-Bobby Lyons (OU) dec. Calvin Schwalbe (KS), 8-2.
137-Paul Aubrey (OU) dec. Pete Everist (KS), 5-0.
147-David Calvert (OU) pinned Jim Roberts (KS) at 4:04.
157-John Doyle (KS) dec. Lee Young (OU), 3-2.
167-Bernard Sullivan (OU) dec. Gary Haller (KS), 9-6.
177-Danny Hodge (OU) pinned Jim Dietrich (KS) at 2:28.
HWT-Gordon Roesler (OU) dec. Ellis Rainsberger (KS), 8-2.

Thinclads to Open At Michigan State

Kansas State's indoor track squad will open the 1957 season Saturday at the Michigan State Relays in East Lansing. Coach Ward Haylett will accompany a 12-man team to compete in the classic.

Haylett described his Wildcat "contingent as "thin, young, and inexperienced." However, the fact that the squad is composed of seven lettermen, four sophomores and an upperclassman the team could pull some big surprises and gain some needed points in the event, he thought.

"The met is one of the biggest of the season with at least 18 teams competing.

Cats to Meet Buffs In Saturday Game

K-State's Wildcats will meet the Colorado Buffaloes Saturday evening in the second Big Seven conference meeting of the two schools. The Cats took the earlier meeting 61-49 at Boulder. But Colorado played that contest without the services of two front-line performers—guard Bob Helzer and center Jim Jochems.

Helzer, with a 15.7 scoring average in eight games, is expected to play in Saturday's game. Jochems, 6-8 sophomore center, may play. He posted a 10.7 average, and grabbed 69 rebounds in seven games.

In addition to this pair, CU will bring senior starters Jim Cadle and Dave Mowbray to Manhattan. Cadle at 6-4 is the club's leading scorer and rebounder. He has accounted for 162 points and 88 rebounds.

Mowbray has an 11.1 average in the Buff's 14 games.

Colorado has a 10-4 overall mark for the year, but stands 1-2 in conference play. The Buff's split two games with Nebraska

Fazio Captures Bowling Match From Jardine

By SUE GOSS

After losing two games to Bill Jardine, BA, Jr., Buzz Fazio, champion bowler, won a three-game bowling match by a final score of 568 to 508 Wednesday afternoon.

The win highlighted a day of exhibitions and instructions by the world champion bowler in the Union games area.

Jardine won the first game 169-168, and the second 192-185, but lost the third 147-215. Jardine earned the right to meet Fazio because he captained the bowling team which competed in the National Inter-Collegiate tournament last year.

Fazio has won numerous awards and honors. He has been the national doubles champion three times and has been on the all-American Bowling team four consecutive years.

He has bowled 16 perfect 300 games and four 800 series, and traveled throughout the United States for exhibition matches.

"I've been fortunate enough to win a lot of times, but there is one thing I get the biggest kick out of," Fazio said. "I have bowled the lowest recorded score as well as the highest."

This occurred last year when Fazio bowled 109, which is the second lowest score he has ever had. His lowest score was on his first game, which was an 86.

Pro Grid Owner Sued for $50,000

Washington (U.P.)—George Preston Marshall, majority owner of the Washington Redskins professional football team, was accused today in a suit filed by sportscaster Harry Wismer of using $500,000 of the club's money "for his own personal benefit."

The suit, filed in US district court by attorney Morton Liftin, named as defendants: Marshall; attorney Milton King, club vice-president and secretary; and Pro Football, Inc., The corporate name under which the Washington team operates.

Wismer, who owns about 20 per cent of the Redskin's stock, charged that Marshall improperly used for himself corporation funds at the rate of $50,000 a year for the past 10 years.

Kentucky Wins Over Georgia In SEC Game

By UNITED PRESS

For the 12th time in the last 14 years it seems that the Southeastern conferences basketball crown may turn out to be a Kentucky "Derby."

Baron Adolph Rupp's Wildcats went out front by a half-length in this year's race with an 84-53 triumph over Georgia.

North Carolina, the nation's No. 1 team, also saw action last night—but only in a "tune-up" 77-59 romp over little Western Carolina.

In other leading games last night: Connecticut set a Yankee conference scoring record with a 124-92 victory over Maine; Bill Ebben of Detroit scored 30 points in a 91-81 victory over Houston.

besides the loss to the Cats.

Last season, Colorado was the only Big Seven crew that could defeat the Wildcats on the road. The Buffs won 71-53 at Boulder, but the Cats took an 82-51 Manhattan win.

K-State has an 8-6 record going into the contest, and a 2-2 Big Seven standing. Jack Parr with 20.2 and Bob Boozer with an 18.9 average lead the Cats scoring. Roy DeWitz, 6-3 junior, lifted his scoring average to 10.4 with his 23 against Arkansas to rank as the only other Cat in double digits.

Besides this trio, Eddie Wallace, 5-10 senior guard, and Don Matuszak, 5-11 sophomore guard, are expected to start for the Cats.

Dulles Talks with King Saud

Compiled from the United Press
by KEITH KEMPER

Washington—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles today sought the support of King Saud of Saudi Arabia in the U.S. drive to keep the Middle East free of Russian penetration.

Dulles took over the delicate diplomacy which President Eisenhower initiated during talks with the visiting Arabian monarch at the White House yesterday afternoon.

Dulles' main hope was that he could convince Saud, an anti-Communist, to stand firm against growing Russian efforts to woo the Middle East and to use his influence with other Arab nations to do likewise.

As the major part of his effort, Dulles hoped to win a statement from Saud acclaiming the "Eisenhower Doctrine" as a welcomed offer of U.S. aid in keeping peace in the Middle East.

The doctrine declares that the United States will use its armed forces if necessary to combat any overt Communist aggression in the Middle East. It also offers economic and military aid to Middle East nations to help them maintain their independence.

The doctrine thus far has received a mixed reaction from Arab nations. Avowedly pro-western nations, such as Turkey and Iran, have welcomed it. Egypt, Syria and Lebanon, which have been dealing on more and more friendly terms with Russia, have been lukewarm.

Allied Position Helped

Washington—Two important Moslem countries are joining the United States in its attempt to strengthen the allied position in the Middle East.

The two countries are Turkey and Iran, both members of the Baghdad Alliance, which is aimed at opposing Communist aggression.

While King Saud of Saudi Arabia is visiting Washington, Turkish Premier Adnan Menderes is making a state visit to Libya, one of the nine Arab countries with which the new Eisenhower Doctrine is chiefly concerned.

The visits of Menderes and the Shah fit in perfectly with the aims of the Eisenhower Doctrine.

They are calculated to oppose the Anti-Western, Pro-Russian trend which Nassar's policies have encouraged in Arab countries.

Libya is at the western end of the chain of countries which belong to the Arab League. It lies between French North Africa and Egypt.

The United States has an important air force base in Libya, as it has in Saudi Arabia.

Blasts Hurt Six in JC

Junction City, Kan.—Two explosions and fire ripped through a 42-unit motel here early today, injuring six persons and causing extensive damage.

The injured suffered burns on their heads, hands and face. They were: Mrs. Standfuss and Mr. and Mrs. James Treon, who were taken to the Fort Riley hospital and Robert Howard, Bill Williams and James Hamilton, who were taken to the Junction City hospital.

Sgt. E. N. Stevens said that the occupants of the motel left the units after the first explosion but returned when the fire was under control. All but one unit was occupied.

The extent of the damage to the concrete units was not immediately determined. The motel is owned by Mrs. Bertha Hauserman.

Religious Philosophy Course Is Offered

For the first time since its founding, Kansas State college will offer a course in philosophy of religion this semester.

Subject matter will cover the function of religion in the life of man, and how that function is interpreted by the three great Western faiths, Catholic, Protestant and Jewish, according to Dr. William C. Tremmel, K-State director of religious activities, who will teach the course.

"Offering the course is an historical occasion," stated Dean of Students H. J. Wunderlich.

Evidence of K-State student approval of the philosophy of religion course came in December during pre-enrollment for the spring semester. The class was filled immediately, ten more cards were added, and they were taken up by students eager to enroll in the course, Wunderlich said.

'Campus Industries' To Be Corporation

The Campus Industries committee met last evening and voted to incorporate. This was done to become financially more stable, and obtain the prestige that goes with being a corporation.

The name of the corporation will be "Campus Industries, Incorporated," with the purpose of creating more student jobs with higher wages. If plans to initiate studies which might lead to the establishment of new industries, and the corporation with local groups to promote increased student labor.

The corporation will be managed by a board of directors of six chosen by the student council. The board will also have the authority to direct studies and surveys in the various proposed student industry undertakings, and pay the cost of the studies.

The board expects to make dispositions of the results of the surveys to best promote the purposes of the organization, and to settle any questions which might arise concerning the proprietorship of the proposed industry in keeping with the purposes of the organization.

The funds that will be used by this corporation will be obtained through gifts and subscriptions. These funds are to be used as required to make preliminary studies and to purchase materials for production of samples in order to determine the practicality of the various proposals which the board considers, the by laws of the corporation state.

A complete record shall be kept of all funds spent in the investigation of a specific proposal, and this money shall become an obligation to be repaid by the person or persons who undertake the operation of the industry resulting from this study, the by laws add.

The proprietor or proprietors shall be required to sign a note acknowledging their responsibility for replacing the funds expended in establishing the feasibility of their industry. The terms of repayment to be agreed upon between the proprietors and the board of directors, according to the by laws.

Local Flood Damage Shown in SU Flick

The flood which damaged Manhattan in 1951 is described in a 30 minute film narration which will be shown with the Union movie, "Arsenic and Old Lace," tonight through Sunday.

The film was originally made for the United States Department of State, to show Civil Defense committees and chambers of commerce how a community can recover from a major disaster.

It shows Manhattan before, during and after the flood.

Many characters in the production are local people. Miss Katherine Geyer, professor in the women's department of physical education, is in several scenes in the film.

Locations on K-State's campus that are pictured include the interior of Nichols Gymnasium, the entrance to the Field House, and the tennis courts.

KS Enrollment Reaches 6,017; Expectedly Less

Total enrollment for the spring semester at K-State was announced yesterday as 6,017 by E. M. Gerritz, director of admissions and registrar. This was the total number of students who had enrolled by Wednesday night, the end of the 3-day enrollment period. Late enrollees would boost the total to approximately 6,200, Gerritz said.

Out of the present total of 6,017 enrollees, 4,656 were men and 1,361 were women. The School of Arts and Sciences boasted the largest enrollment with 2,281. The School of Engineering was second highest with 1,753 students enrolled. Others were: Agriculture 828, Home Economics 472, Veterinary Medicine 264, and Graduate school 419.

The present total is 500 more than a year ago at the same time. It is a drop of approximately 500 from the 6,576 enrollment of the fall semester. Gerritz explained that this was nothing out of the ordinary, however.

"We usually have a 6 to 8 per cent drop from the fall semester. There are various reasons for this. Graduation, failures, and lack of money account for much of the loss," said Gerritz.

Pre-enrollment cut down on the rush during the regular enrollment period, explained Gerritz. More than 4,000 students enrolled before the close of the fall semester.

"Students who must change their schedules because of failure or for other reasons may do so beginning Monday, February 4," said Gerritz.

Fees at Dorms, Stadium More Starting in Fall

Increases on board and room rates for college residence halls will go into effect in the fall of 1957. Herbert Wunderlich, dean of students, reported yesterday.

The raise, which will add $35 to women's residence hall rates and $6 to men's residence hall rates, was passed by the Board of Regents on the recommendation of President McCain.

Rates for board and room in the women's residence halls will be raised from $275 a semester to $310, while room rates in the men's residence hall will be raised from $64 a semester to $70 a semester.

Dean Wunderlich said there has been no raise in residence hall rates for the past three years. He pointed out, however, that operating costs and wages have been increasing at a rate of approximately 5 per cent annually.

He said "to maintain standards and meet increased operating costs, this raise is necessary."

Statistics compiled by A. Thornton Edwards, director of housing, show that in 1957 residence hall rates at Kansas State will still be lower than average residence hall rates in Big Seven schools.

Debaters Attend Match At KSTC, Pittsburg

K-State debaters journey to Pittsburg State Teachers college today for a meet there today and tomorrow.

Six teams will participate in preliminary rounds, three in the junior division and three in the senior division. The top four teams in each division will debate for the trophy.

Those competing will be Tom Bowman, PrL Jr; Ray North, PrL Jr; Dave Nuttle, AH Jr; Anita Grimm, Soc Jr; Jim Shane, His Jr; Ed McCoy, PrL Jr; Phil Reed, EE Soph; Dan Hahn, Sp Soph; Bobby Paulson, ChE Soph; Sharon Nuttle, PrL Fr; and Pat Trent, BMT Fr.

McCain Says

K-State in Dire Need Of Upped Faculty Pay

"Damage beyond repair will be done to Kansas State college, Kansas university, and other state colleges, unless they receive funds sufficient to pay competitive faculty salaries," President James A. McCain declared in his "State of the College" message at the opening all-college assembly of the spring semester this morning.

The president cited the loss of more than 100 faculty members in the past 12 months, most of them to jobs with substantially larger salaries.

He gave a number of examples of top-flight K-State instructors and scientists needed badly in Kansas, who had been employed by industry and other colleges:

The dean of Arts and Sciences, just recently acquired, has been employed by a neighboring state university;

A young agricultural economist around whom the College was developing important research programs on farm policy, with a salary of $7,200, has been employed at $12,000 by the University of Chicago. He is now working on agricultural production of the Latin America;

A young chemist who did pioneering work in the use of radioactive isotopes, has been employed at the University of Pittsburgh at a salary that is almost twice that which he received at K-State;

Three electrical engineers conducting studies vital to Kansas industrial development, are now with private industries as a result of receiving twice the amount given by K-State.

"The faculty is the heart and soul of the College, the major single determinant of the quality and scope of our service to our students, and the state's agriculture and industry," the President said.

The President pointed out that industry and agriculture acknowledges their reliance on colleges today as never before.

President McCain also cited that the greatest obstacle to the success of our efforts to give agriculture research benefits similar to those enjoyed is the shortage of scientists and the intensive competition for the relatively few available.

The President made notice that the present building drive by the College has to come about in order to facilitate and accommodate faculty members.

President McCain stated that the pressure is on the College for instructors, not only in the college, but in the industries as well. Pressure is put on K-State to provide industries with research workers.

"Moderate salary increases, even though they would have fallen short of competitive offers, would have kept a majority of these top teachers and research workers who left our campus this past year," the President said.

Satisfaction Poll To Be Conducted By Integrity Party

"Are you satisfied with the way the Integrity party has handled student government this year?"

Independent students living within a mile of the campus will be asked this and other questions during the next two or three weeks in a survey conducted by a newly-formed Integrity party committee headed by Jerry Holliday, ARE Soph.

Holliday feels that his "committee on independents" will be able to discover ways to improve the student government and at the same time get some suggestions for the party platform.

Holliday has planned the survey by dividing the near-by Manhattan area into 18 sections and organizing the questions for the committee to ask the independents.

Not only will the independents have an opportunity to express their opinion of the Integrity party, but they will be able to voice their views on forming a stronger Independent Students association, Holliday feels.

Neil Scott, Zoo Jr, feels that the independents will also help the party by pointing out its weaknesses.

An organization of ward captains from the independents in the 18 sections may result from this survey. These captains would work for the party, strengthening both the position of the independent students and the party, it is expected.

Dreamaires To Play At SC Dance Saturday

The Dreamaires will provide music for a dance in the Union Ballroom Saturday night. The dance will begin immediately following the K-State-Colorado game.

SC To Present Workshop Here This Weekend

A leadership workshop will be held tomorrow in the Student Union with registration beginning at 8:45 a.m., according to Neil Scott, Zoo Jr, Student Council vice-president.

The workshop is for the students who have already enrolled in it and have paid their fees.

Tomorrow's discussion will be led by Charles Seashore of the University of Michigan and Eric Ericson, from the University of Utah.

Dick Peterson, ME Sr, chairman of the conference. Students have been asked to be there all day and not interrupt meetings because of Saturday class schedules.

The workshop is the first meeting of leadership training series to be offered this semester. The next meeting will be Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in J 15. This meeting will be conducted by Dr. John Keltner, Professor of Speech.

A FEW NEW faces, and many a familiar one, were seen this morning as second semester students piled into the Auditorium to attend the first assembly of the new semester. President McCain spoke.

On the carpet . . . we hope.

An Editorial

KSC's Hospital Bid Confronts Legislators

Sooner or later the State Legislature has to get around to thinking seriously about the student hospital situation at Kansas State. It has been put off for so many years that I for one, hope that the later has shifted to the sooner.

The College budget for the fiscal year 1958-59 requests $250,000 to begin construction on a new 40-bed hospital. Now that the Governor has okayed that portion of the budget, it is up to the Legislature to grant the funds.

Some time ago the present Student Health building was condemned by the State's hospital division facilities because it was too difficult to maintain sanitary conditions and because it was a fire hazard. It simply didn't measure up to American hospital standards.

Now, about a year and a half later, still nothing has been done about it but to pour money into building repairs that haven't lasted.

The present hospital was built in 1947 in the belief that it would last for only two or three years at the most. Now, ten years later, the building is still being used. Any student who has ever been a patient in the ward, would undoubtedly agree that it is in a woefully sad condition.

Student Health at K-State is a disgrace to the College.

Dean Weaver's Loss a Shame

Kansas State College loses a fine educator with the resignation of Dr. John C. Weaver, dean of the School of Arts and Sciences, who leaves at the end of this semester to accept a position at the University of Nebraska.

Although Dean Weaver has been at K-State only a year and a half, he has acquired an unusual knowledge and perception of the educational needs of the College.

Dean Weaver has contributed to the progress and achievement of many important changes in the College. He suggested and encouraged the development of the special honors program which went into effect last fall.

He has been working toward a program which will enable Kansas State college to grant a bachelor of arts degree. This plan should be completed before he leaves and put into practice within the near future.

New Honor's Program to Begin

Alpha Lambda Delta, an honorary for freshmen women and Phi Eta Sigma, an honorary for freshmen men have been begun by Dean Weaver. Both organizations will soon be active on campus.—Jane Moore.

Docking Okay's Hospital Plan

K-State's proposed 40-bed student hospital awaits final approval by the Kansas Legislature. The building appropriation is included in the budget Gov. George Docking sent to the Legislature for approval.

"Approved funds for the hospital will come in two portions from the Educational Building fund," Daniel Beatty, College business manager, said. "The first allocation of funds will be $250,000 for the 1958-59 fiscal year. An additional $250,000 will come in the next fiscal year if the proposed plans are approved," he said.

Portable equipment and fixtures in the new building will be financed by a reserve fund that has accumulated from fees collected from students, according to Dr. B. W. Lafene, director of Student Health. The fund amounts to about $25,000, Dr. Lafene said.

By action of the Board of Regents detailed plans for the new building are on the drawing board, according to R. F. Gingrich, physical plant superintendent. Gingrich said Charles and John Shaver, Salina architects, are working with the State architects in preparing the final blue prints.

"The plans for the proposed building will make it necessary for the south portion of the present Student Health Center to be torn down," Dr. Lafene said. During construction present clinic facilities will be even more crowded.

"We will have to make temporary headquarters in campus buildings in order to keep the clinic functioning on campus. We do not plan to increase the staff during this construction period, but a difficult situation will arise processing new students for the fall semester," Lafene pointed out.

At present the blueprints call for a two-story, T-shaped structure, 170 feet long and 170 feet wide. The first floor will be occupied by the doctor's consultation offices, examination rooms, an emergency room, a kitchen and dining room, and two physical therapy rooms.

The second floor will be equipped to accommodate 40 patients. There will be two beds to a room, arranged in two units. An elevator and staircase will offer access to the second floor. A 20 by 16 foot sundeck will be constructed near the stairway. A nursing station will be centrally located on the second floor.

Career Opportunities Brighten for Aggies

By CLAYTON HERMAN

Counseling and career guidance in secondary schools is a vital factor in solving students' misconception of agriculture's current needs, according to Dean Arthur D. Weber, School of Agriculture.

"Agricultural students with ability have no trouble getting jobs upon graduation from college," Weber said. He emphasized a need for high school students to be made aware of science's relation to agriculture. It is becoming more important for agricultural students to get a master's or doctor's degree before entering a career. The greatest shortage of agricultural personnel lies in fields requiring advanced degrees, Weber said.

According to studies by a committee representing Association of Land-Grant College and Universities, American agriculture annually needs 15,000 graduates with land-grant college agricultural education while the supply is only about 8,500. "Agriculture provides more jobs and careers in the city than on the farm—more jobs and careers than any other industry," according to the report.

"About 40 percent of all jobs are in agriculture. Of 62 million employed Americans, 25 million work at allied industries within agriculture—10 million on farms, 6 million produce for, and service farmers, while 9 million process and distribute farm products," the committee disclosed.

Weber said that agriculture is no longer limited to actual farming. About 500 different occupations in related fields are open to agricultural college graduates. Eight major agricultural fields include research, industry, business, education, communications, conservation, services, and farming and ranching.

He said industries associated with agriculture can offer scholarships to students to promote business opportunities. Another program industries could initiate would be to contribute funds to establish new industries or extend research. He cited the feed technology industry as an example of private business contributing money to a land-grant college to further the interests of a particular industry.

Dr. Chester Peters, director of placement, suggested that companies could offer summer employment to students. This would give both a company and a student an internship to see if they would be properly adjusted to each other.

Peters went on to say that ag students who plan to farm after college and then decide to work have the greatest trouble finding jobs. "Students who prepare for a specialized field and seek that job are readily placed," he continued.

Drought conditions have been responsible for students changing their minds about farming, he said. Some students have entered college to prepare for a farming career, however, prolonged drought has made a return to the farm seem risky, he said.

Missouri Basin States Face Farm Employment Crisis

Vicksburg, Miss., Feb. 1, (U.P.)—Hundreds of thousands of residents in Missouri basin states are leaving because of a drop in farm employment and a lack of industrial growth, a Kansas City economist said yesterday.

Steven H. Robock of the Midwest Research Institute spoke at an opening session of the two-day meeting of the Missouri and Arkansas-White-Red River Basin Inter-Agency committees.

He said one reason industrial expansion is not moving at a greater rate in the Missouri basin is that the region is not making proper use of its rivers.

Full utilization of the Missouri river, he added, would encourage industrial expansion by making larger amounts of water available, providing cheaper river navigation, better recreational facilities and low-cost hydro-electric power.

Cats Host Huskers In Swimming Meet

K-State swimmers will host Nebraska in the Cats' first Big Seven competition in eight years at 2 p.m. Saturday in the Nichols gymnasium pool.

The 'Cats were humbled 56-25 by Nebraska at Lincoln, January 12, in their first meet of the season. However, Coach Bill Thrall has revealed that four new swimmers, including a breaststroke specialist and three freestyle hopefuls, will be in the Cat lineup on Saturday.

The four tank men to join the regrouped swim team are Jim Nolen, Great Bend junior, who will swim the 200-yard breaststroke event; and freestylers Bob DeNoon, Olathe senior; Gordon Harper, Manhattan sophomore; and John Nickel, Winfield sophomore.

Two event winners in the earlier meet are favored to score Wildcat wins here. They are Tom Coblentz, Salina sophomore, who won the 200-yard backstroke, and Buzz Newman, Wichita sophomore, who took the 200-yard breaststroke event.

Four other Cat swimmers will round out the crew for Saturday's meet. They are Jim Mariner, Kansas City sophomore, who placed second to Coblentz in the backstroke at Nebraska; Dave Dicken, Hutchinson junior, who was second in the 440 freestyle; Tom Onuma, Honolulu junior, who took second in the 100-yard freestyle; and Marion Towns, Chase sophomore, who placed third in diving at Nebraska.

Varsity swimming was dropped from the Wildcat athletic program following the 1948 season and was resumed this year.

The meet will consist of 10 events. It will be open to the public with no admission charged.

Trackmen Open at MSU With All-Kansas Squad

An "all-Kansas" track team will represent K-State in the Michigan State relays at East Lansing Saturday.

Included are seven lettermen, four sophomores, and a former squad member who is defending champ in the Michigan State classic. Surveying the group, Coach Ward Haylett called them "overall a very inexperienced squad."

"In fact, we are too weak to worry in some events," said the Wildcat coach. "But we have hopes in the relay races, hurdles, and the pole vault. Elsewhere, our talent is spotty."

The Wildcats won two events at the Michigan State relays last year and placed second in three others. Of those top 1956 performers, however, the Wildcats have only two who will be competing this time.

Larry French, Hugoton junior, will defend his 600-yard win. He would appear a strong favorite, too, since he won in 1:13.9 last year, and has gone the distance in 1:13.2 this year in practice.

Jesse Unruh, Pretty Prairie junior, ran second in the 100-yard event a year ago, and could get the Cats a win Saturday.

Haylett figures his charges to have a strong chance in four relay races—the mile, sprint medley, two-mile, and distance medley. He will lean heavily on sophomore talent in those events.

First-year performers making the trip are Dellos Dodds, quartermiler from Riley; Jim Vadar, quartermiler from Kansas City; Tom Rodda, distance runner from Wichita; and George Burton, quartermiler from Kansas City.

Lettermen include Gene O'Connor, hurdler from Hoisington; Larry Brady, distance runner from Topeka; Dolan McDaniel, sprinter from Norton; Hubert Guest, halfmiler from Coffeyville; Arlan Stackley, distance runner from ElDorado; and Karl Lindemuth, pole-vaulter from Scott City.

THE DRESS PARADE

What will the American college student wear this spring? Gather round, you rascals, and light a good Philip Morris Cigarette, and puff that rich, natural tobacco, and possess your souls in sweet content, and listen.

As we know, college fashions have always been casual. This spring, however, they have become makeshift.

The object is to look madly improvised, gaily spur-of-the-moment! For example, girls, try a peasant skirt with a dinner jacket. Or matador pants with a bridal veil. Or Bermuda shorts with bronze breastplates. Be rakish! Be impromptu! Be devil-take-the-hindmost!

And, men, you be the same. Try an opera cape with sweat pants. Or a letter-sweater with kilts. Or a strait-jacket with hip boots. Be bold! Be daring! Be a tourist attraction!

Rock and Roll is Giving way to the Minuet

But all is not innovation in college fashions this spring. In fact, one of the highlights of the season turns time backward in its flight. I refer to the comeback of the powdered wig.

This charming accoutrement, too long neglected, has already caught on with style-conscious students all over the country. On hundreds of campuses rock-and-roll is giving way to the minuet, and patriotic undergraduates are dumping British tea into the nearest harbor. This, of course, does not sit well with old King George. For that matter, a lot of our own people are steamed up too, and there has even been some talk of revolution. But I hardly think it will come to that. I mean, how can we break with the mother country when we are dependent on her for so many things—linsey-woolsey, minie balls, taper snuffers, and all like that? She, on the other hand, relies on us for turkeys, Philip Morris, Cinemascope, and other valuable exports. So I say, if Molly Pitcher and those other Bryn Mawr hotheads will calm down, we may yet find an amicable solution for our differences. But let not our British cousins mistake this willingness to negotiate for weakness. If fight we must, then fight we will! Paul Revere is saddled up, the rude bridge arches the flood, and the ROTC is ready!

But I digress. We were smoking a Philip Morris Cigarette—O, darlin' cigarette! O, happy smoke! O, firm! O, fresh! O, fragrant! O, long-size! O, regular! O, get some!—and talking of new spring fashions, let us turn now to the season's most striking new feature: pneumatic underdrawers. These inflatable rubber garments make every chair an easy chair. Think how welcome they will be when you sit through a long lecture! They are not, however, without certain dangers. Last week, for example, Rimbaud Sigafos, a University of Pittsburgh sophomore, fell out of an 18th story window in the Tower of Learning. Thanks to his pneumatic underdrawers, he suffered no injury when he struck the sidewalk, but the poor fellow is still bouncing and it is feared that he will starve to death.

Wilt, KU Entertain I-State

By UNITED PRESS

Wilt Chamberlain and the advancement of electronics bring something new to Big Seven basketball tomorrow night in the so-called "do or die" game between Iowa State and Kansas.

The game, which could determine the Big Seven lead for the rest of the season, will be broadcast by upwards of 30 radio stations in the two states and at least three television stations.

Iowa State, 3-2 in conference play, could tie the idle Nebraska (2-1) for the lead percentage-wise with a win. Kansas, 3-1, would be off and running for the championship with a win.

Television is something of a rarity for Big Seven sports teams. It was made possible when the Iowa State student body pledged $2,100 to offset construction of relay towers.

The telecast will be originated by WOI-TV in Ames which will feed WDAF-TV in Kansas City, WMT-TV in Cedar Rapids, and possibly others.

Colorado is at K-State and Texas at Oklahoma in other games tomorrow night.

Chamberlain takes a one-point scoring average lead over Iowa State's Gary Thompson into the game. Wilt is averaging 23.0 in conference games and Thompson 22.0.

Bill Ross of Missouri and Gary Reimers of Nebraska are tied for third with 21.0 averages.

Iowa State has used balanced scoring power, ball control, and modified zone defense to split with Kansas so far this season, holding Chamberlain to 12 and 17 points respectively.

However, Chamberlain's fans hoped he would score more in this final meeting.

Cat Cagers Battle Buffaloes In Conference Stretch Drive

K-State opens the stretch drive of the Big Seven basketball race here Saturday night against Colorado, and then, with no time for regrouping, the Wildcats face Nebraska here Monday.

K-State had a home test against Arkansas here last Saturday and managed a well-played, 70-56, win over the Razorbacks with a juggled Wildcat lineup.

Coach Tex Winter scooted Roy DeWitz, 6-3 junior, from guard to forward and started sophomore Don Matuszak in DeWitz' guard role. That pair, plus regulars Jack Parr at center, Bob Boozer at forward, and Eddie Wallace at guard appeared to give the Wildcats' their best teamwork of the season.

Colorado stands 1-2 in Big Seven play, holding a win over Nebraska. Buff losses have been to that same Nebraska and to K-State.

With the entire loop in a tight-packed race, a win could boost CU as high as third or fourth, depending on results of other games this week. Already in the upper division, K-State could move a notch higher with success over the Buffs.

Colorado has a 10-4 record in all games; K-State stands 8-6.

Colorado's star guard, Bob Helzer, is expected to return to the lineup against K-State. He has been sidelined with a knee injury since the Big Seven tourney in December.

K-State has a trio hitting in double digits. DeWitz hit 23 against Arkansas for his career best to boost his average to 10.4 a game. Ahead of him are Jack Parr (20.2) and Bob Boozer (18.9).

Probable starters:

K-State	Pos.	Colorado
Boozer (6-7)	F	(6-4) Cadle
Dewitz (6-3)	F	(6-3) Nicholson
Parr (6-9)	C	(6-6) Walker
Wallace (5-10)	G	(6-1) Mowbray
Matuszak (5-11)	G	(6-2) Helzer

LEO HAYWARD is one Buff K-State may not want to face tomorrow evening. The 6-5 junior forward dropped in 12 quick points just before the half when the Cats and Buffs met at Colorado to give CU a halftime lead.

Short Sport Shots . . .

Knorr Named to NCAA Post

Fritz Knorr, K-State wrestling coach and athletic business manager, has been appointed to represent the fifth district of the NCAA Wrestling Rules committee.

Knorr, a former Wildcat wrestling star, is in his sixth season as mat coach at K-State. His team finished third in the Big Seven tournament last year.

Knorr replaces Art Griffith, Oklahoma A&M wrestling coach, who recently resigned from the 8-member committee.

Alums, Frosh To Meet

Wildcat alums and freshmen will meet in their annual basketball tilt at 6 p.m. Saturday as a preliminary to the K-State-Colorado game in Ahearn field house.

According to Howie Shannon, frosh coach, the game could be an interesting affair. "The alums should definitely be better than last year," said Shannon. "Also we are well pleased with the freshmen."

Lady Bowlers Organize

Registration for women's bowling leagues is being held in the Union Activities center until 5 p.m. Tuesday, February 12.

Leagues are open to all women attending or in any way affiliated with Kansas State. Two leagues will be formed, one meeting on Monday nights and the other on Thursday nights. Each league will consist of eight teams.

Play will begin February 14 and extend through April 8, running for a period of eight weeks. It will consist of a complete round-robin and one positioning night.

Bowling will begin at 7 or 7:30 p.m. Final decision will be left to the team captains.

All bowlers will scratch the first night of league play, and handicaps will be used. Women's Inter-Collegiate Bowling Congress rules will apply.

Bowling rates will be $1.05 for each team member for three games, 90c to the K-State Union and 15c to the trophy fund. Bowling balls can be rented free of charge, and shoe rentals will be 10c.

No advance payments for bowling will be required, and lines will be paid for on a "pay-as-you-bowl" basis.

Spring Football Slated

K-State spring football drills will begin March 11, according to Coach Bus Mertes.

Big Seven conference rules allow only 20 workouts in the 30 days allotted for spring practice. Present plans are to conclude the month of practice with the annual varsity-alumni game on Saturday, April 6, Mertes said.

Starting with the 2 p.m. kickoff, the grid battle will be followed by a barbecue and a special program for Wildcat fans.

The Wildcats have 21 lettermen returning from last year's squad. A good crop of upcoming sophomores is expected to add strength to the team.

Seven Die in California Air Collision; 43 Hurt

Compiled from the United Press
By KEITH KEMPER

Pacoima, Calif.—Irate parents and congressmen demanded today an end to test flights over congested areas because of a collision in air which sent a luxury transport ripping through a school playground, killing five airmen and two children.

More than 50 boys were playing kickball Thursday when suddenly a $1,950,000 Douglas DC-7B ploughed through the playground after colliding nearly 25,000 feet above with a Scorpion F-89D jet interceptor.

One boy was killed instantly and another died within minutes of the crash that also brought death to the transport's crew of four and the pilot of the jet.

Forty-three children were injured and taken to San Fernando Valley hospitals. Several of the victims were reported injured critically. At least 12 other children were treated for minor cuts and shock at the scene and released to their parents.

"I saw kids lying on the ground, crying and screaming," said Patrolman Harry T. Kowalsky, who sped to the scene. "It made me sick to my stomach."

The Douglas Aircraft Company tower at nearby Santa Monica received the final radio message from the stricken transport. Copilot Archie Twitchell radioed seconds before he died, the following:

"Midair collision . . . midair collision . . . ten how (referring to the aircraft's identification) . . . we're going . . . uncontrollable . . . uncontrollable . . . say goodbye to everybody."

Curtis A. Adams, 28, the lone survivor aboard the jet, suffered serious burns before he managed to get out of the flaming jet plane. "We had just completed the second of three passes we were making to test our radar," Adams told newsmen later. "I saw something boom up on the left side of our ship."

"After that I'm not too sure what happened. There was a crash. We lost our cockpit canopy. Fire came in. There wasn't time to think of anything—everything was afire and we were spinning toward the ground. I guess I bailed out but I don't remember."

Judge Choice Today

Washington—President Eisenhower probably will choose a successor to retiring Supreme Court Justice Stanley S. Reed from among judges on lower federal courts, administration sources said today.

There was some speculation that Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr. might be in line to replace Reed, who announced his retirement yesterday after 19 years on the high court. But the post seemed more likely to go to a member of a lower court, probably a U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals judge.

Brownell, whose job it is to advise the President on judicial appointments, was scheduled to confer with the Chief Executive this morning.

In filling two of the three previous supreme court vacancies which have occurred during his administration, Eisenhower set a pattern of choosing from the ranks of the judiciary—in one case naming a Federal Circuit Court Judge and in the other a State Supreme Court Justice.

US Asks Mid-East Help

United Nations, N.Y.—The United States sought today to line up support for watered down, stopgap twin resolutions on the Middle East. Many Western delegates thought they were too weak.

One resolution merely repeats the U.N. General Assembly's call to Israel to get its forces out of Egypt immediately and without the safety precautions demanded by Israel.

The second provides for the deployment of U.N. Emergency Forces along both sides of the 1949 armistice demarcation line, in the Gaza strip and on the strategic Gulf of Aqaba—If Israel obeys the first.

Follow the lead of Ralph Posch,
B.M.E., Class of '51

Advance while you're young...

as a Chance Vought Engineer

As a lead engineer in Vought's Propulsion Group, Ralph supervises development of power, fuel, starting and cooling systems for supersonic fighters and missiles.

Ralph consults on engine accessibility problems in fighters like this 1,000-plus-mph Crusader.

Pilot comments on aircraft performance prove especially interesting to power plant specialists like Ralph.

Ralph Posch already is making his mark in the aviation world. Ralph's only 31, but he's advanced to lead engineer in a career field he's liked from the start. Ralph's progress was speeded by Chance Vought's own growth and by keen company interest in his development. These same career aids are working today for every young engineer who's entered missile and fighter development at Vought. Symposiums on creative engineering, for example, encourage the brand of technical free thinking Ralph has displayed. Company-paid tuition for postgraduate study allows any recent graduate to take immediate steps toward advanced degrees. For an increasing number of junior engineers, Vought offers a nine-month program of job rotation which prepares young men like Ralph for key responsibilities. And in every unit of Vought's engineering sections the young professional is given variety that's both refreshing and broadening. Let our campus representative explain how Chance Vought will do its utmost to help you find and advance in the field that best suits you. Ask your placement office to arrange your appointment, or write directly for immediate information to:
Mr. C. A. Besio, Supervisor, Engineering Personnel Section
CHANCE VOUGHT AIRCRAFT, Incorporated, Dallas, Texas

Our representative will be in your Placement Office Tuesday, February 19, to describe firsthand Chance Vought's program for young engineers. Reserve time for your own interview by making your appointment today.

WILDCAT AND BUFFALO COLLIDE as Bob Helzer, Colorado guard, stumbles into K-State guard, Don Matuszak, and falls toward the floor in his attempt to snare the ball away from Matuszak, in Saturday's game in Ahearn Fieldhouse.

K-State Tames CU, Meets NU Tonight

By JIM BELL
Collegian Sports Editor

K-State's Wildcats whipped the Colorado Buffs 73-60 Saturday evening, then set their sights on tonight's meeting with Nebraska in a quick 2-game basketball stand in Ahearn field house.

Bob Boozer, 6-7 Cat forward, turned in what was probably his best performance of the season Saturday. "I thought he played a great ball game—one of the finest games I ever saw a sophomore play," Cat coach Tex Winter said.

Boozer turned in his highest point total of the season at 36 to tie Fritz Schnieder's record for a K-State forward. Schnieder set the record in the Cats' 79-68 win at Kansas last season.

Boozer speared 23 rebounds to set a record for Cat forwards. Schnieder held this record, too, at 20 against Nebraska last year.

In short, it was Boozer's night—and he made the most of it. He stepped in and took over when the Cats' all-Big Seven center last season, Jack Parr, was held to five rebounds and seven points.

Against the Cornhuskers tonight, the Cats will meet a team that stands second in the Big Seven behind Kansas.

Draft Tests' Applications Due Mar. 5

Draftees wanting to take the Selective Service College Qualification Test to be given April 18 must have their applications in by the deadline, March 5. The purpose of the test is to provide draft boards with evidence of the qualifications of registrants for continued college study.

All eligible registrants who wish to take the test should obtain a bulletin, application card, ticket of admission, and a mailing envelope. These may be obtained from the student counseling center or from a local draft board where applications should be submitted.

A win could propel the Cats into second over the Huskers who stand 2-1 in the Conference. K-State is 3-2.

"Nebraska is probably a better ball club than Colorado," Cat coach Tex Winter said. "We're anticipating a tough ball game."

Nebraska has a trio averaging in double digits. Gary Reimers, 5-10 guard, heads the Husker list at 14.1. Rex Ekwall, 6-4 forward and leading NU rebounder, has a 12.5 mark, and 6-4 junior Don Smidt is hitting at a 10.7 clip.

A close, rough Colorado defense Saturday, that was a 2-3 zone in the early minutes and a half-court press in the closing stages of the ball game accounted for Parr's reversal of form—that and a cold night by the Cat star.

Six 'Angels' To Compete For Crown

One of six coeds will be selected as queen of the Air Force Ball, an all-college formal affair to be February 8 in the Student Union ballroom. Johnny Long and his orchestra will play.

The candidates are Connie Benjamin, HEN Soph, Pi Beta Phi; Charlotte Strah, HEA Fr, Pi Beta Phi; Helen Lutz, Eng Soph, Delta Delta Delta; Rosemary Derks, Eng Jr, Kappa Kappa Gamma; Joyce Brower, BA Soph, Chi Omega; Charlene Strah, BA Soph, Pi Beta Phi, and Jannene Foust, Sp Soph, Chi Omega.

The candidates were chosen by Arnold Air Society, honorary fraternity for advanced Air Force ROTC cadets.

Candidates are members of Angel Flight, a girls' drill organization which performs in conjunction with Air Force cadet corps activities.

Tickets will be available at booths in the Student Union and Anderson hall beginning Monday, February 4. Air Force ROTC association members may pick up their tickets at these booths by showing their memberships.

Debaters Place Fifth in Contest

K-State debaters placed fifth in the senior division of the tournament at Pittsburg State Teachers' college last weekend. The placing team, composed of Anita Grimm, Soc Jr, and Dave Nuttle, AH Jr, won five and lost one debate.

Miss Grimm also placed first in the oratorical contest.

In the junior division Phil Reid, EE Soph, and Dan Hahn, Sp Soph, won five and lost one. Pat Trent, BMT Fr, and Sharon Nuttle, PrL Fr, won four and lost two.

Pledge Council to Sponsor King, Queen Contest, Dance

King and queen of the annual Interfraternity Pledge dance will be selected and crowned at the dance Saturday, February 9, in the Student Union, according to Dave Gwinn, PrL Fr, president of the Interfraternity Pledge Council.

Each Greek organization has nominated a candidate for this honor who will be introduced to all pledges at 7:30 p.m., Wednesday, February 6, in Umberger hall.

The organization they represent and the names of the candidates are: Alpha Chi Omega, Emily Douthitt, Psy Soph; Alpha Delta Pi, Dottie Newton, DIM Soph; Alpha Xi Delta, Carmen Paul, EEd Fr; Chi Omega, Retha Roberts, Eng Fr.

Clovie, Marjorie Roeckers, HDA Soph; Delta Delta Delta, Mary Lou Brant, EEd Fr; Gamma Phi Beta, Mary Helen Eaton, BMT Soph; Kappa Delta, Sharon Skupa, Soc Fr; Kappa Kappa Gamma, Lee Lutz, EEd Fr; and Pi Beta Phi, Charlotte Strah, HEA Fr.

Acacia, John Trachsel, BA Fr; Alpha Gamma Rho, Harry Todd, AH Soph; Alpha Kappa Lambda, Joboy Browning, BAA Fr; Alpha Tau Omega, Mike McConnell, BA Soph; Beta Sigma Psi, DeLloyd Larsen, PrV Soph; Beta Theta Pi, Sonny Ballard, EE Fr; Delta Sigma Phi, David Hotchkiss, EE Fr; and Delta Tau Delta, Norman Stockman, BAA Fr.

Delta Upsilon, Jerry Kintigh, FT Fr; Farm House, Jim Brown, FT Soph; Kappa Sigma, Ed Begley, IE Fr; Lambda Chi Alpha, Gene Shiner, BA Fr; Phi Delta Theta, Ron Horemam, BA Fr; Phi Kappa Joe Gardner, CE Fr; and Phi Kappa Tau, Brian Pennington, EE Fr.

Pi Kappa Alpha, Gary Maddox, Ec Jr; Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Steve Lester, Ec Fr; Sigma Chi, Homer Belk, IE Jr; Sigma Nu, Steve McCarl, ME Fr; Sigma Phi Epsilon, Dick Barrett, EE Fr; Tau Kappa Epsilon, Duane Huber, ArE Soph; and Theta Xi, Lowell Hertig.

The new king and queen will be crowned by last year's winners Connie Benjamin, HEN Soph, Pi Beta Phi and Mike Esterl, Psy Soph, Phi Kappa.

Jimmy James and his band will play for the formal affair.

"THIS STOP ANDERSON HALL," yells the Pi Kappa Alpha bus driver to the girls who rode the bus furnished by the "Pike" pledges in support of their candidate for IPC king. Irene Mangelsdorg, EEd Fr, and Rosie Austin, BMT Fr, followed by several other girls, leave the bus.

Pre-Enrollment Plan Is Successful

The administration, faculty, and students are to be complimented on the success of the pre-enrollment plan which was put into effect this semester.

For the first time in many years, students were able to enroll in their classes for the coming semester in a matter of minutes without the hours of standing in line characteristic of previous enrollment days.

About 1,516 students with low grades could not pre-enroll but were forced to wait until the regular enrollment period. Therefore, they had a limited choice of classes. This may stimulate students in the future to study harder for grades at the nine weeks period. Around 4,000 students were allowed pre-enrollment privileges this semester.

The need for pre-enrollment is indicated by the fact that more students are flocking to K-State every year. Figures from a "Report on Post-Graduate Activities of 1955 High School Graduates" shows K-State attracts 15 per cent more Kansas high school students than any other college or university in the state.

Most students favored the plan because it gave them a longer vacation between semesters. Their vacation wasn't broken into by enrollment.

It is also interesting to note that for the first time most of the various departments posted lists (or at least made the information available to students on request) of instructors for each class so that students could choose instructors they wished to take classes under.

All in all, pre-enrollment seems like a marvelous idea and we hope it will continue with even greater success in succeeding years.

A total of 6,090 students had enrolled for the second semester this morning.

Students who have changes to make in their class schedule may do so beginning today.—Jane Moore.

A Sop's Fable Stymies Tear-Eyed Bibliophile

By Darrel Miller

The really great thing about the between-semesters interlude is that it gives you a chance to go to the library and read a good book—a welcome change from the burlyburly of finals week.

That's where you would have found me Tuesday. I sat in a rickety chair, cobwebs in hair, blowing the dust from the top of a beautiful lavender-bound treatist that intrigued me mightily.

My heart was beating fitfully as I turned to the title page (The library, when rebinding the book, had neglected to print the title on the cover—an infuriating oversight).

"A Sop's 71st Hungarian Fable in Lead Pencil," I read.

Fervently giving thanks to Johann Gutenberg, that kindly old German who invented the book, I delved into A Sop's introduction:

"This volume was written by a piano-playin' itinerant musician who was trying to put on the dog," it read. "Unfortunately, the dog was a little small, so he went through life cold from the knees down . . ."

I couldn't bother with more of the introduction, so quickly turned to the story. It sounded like another introduction:

"I am the Scribbler. I write of many things; and I write with many things (personally, I think a typewriter is best). I wander through life, my piano on my back, recording the discords of life.

"If my story seems long and rambling, it may be because life has such tremendous scope; or it may be because I'm copying Tolstoy; or it just might be because of my affliction for strong drink.

"Suddenly, perchance because of the wine or my tender age, my mood turned dark orange, bordering onto red. 'I hate you,' I said aloud.

"But I was wrong, for his name was Chrysanthemum. (George J. . . played halfback . . . Notre Dame . . . 1939.) George sneered and walked away.

"I was left alone to face the world. The world hadn't guts enough to face me, so I won.

"The $5 prize went to charity.

"Charity is nice, but it has its price.

"In this case, $5."

This story was getting infuriating. I wished A Sop would come to the point. I flipped through a few hundred pages. My eyes came to rest . . .

"At this point on the desert, I knew my vision of her couldn't be real. Two reels, maybe, but not one. So I wrote her a contract, and spent the remainder of the evening painting chipmunks.

Needing money to start the movie, I then cashed in my chips."

Now A Sop's plot was warming up. But I couldn't bother with details; I had to know how the story ended. I turned to the final page and read:

"Now this wasted life is almost ended. My only achievement was the inauguration of 'Playhouse 97.' Even this went wrong—it left an awkward 23-minute program spot.

"Before my infinitesimal existence ends, I fain would leave something to eternity—something to show that my labors were not in vain. I guess I'll leave my motto:

"It takes a lot of backbone to wander through life with a piano on your back."

Tears in my eyes, I flicked a cobweb from my spectacles, placed A Sop's book gently on its shelf, and wandered away—touched, inspired, a little bit older, and much wiser.

Death Toll Mounts In Weekend Mishaps

Compiled from the United Press
By KEITH KEMPER

An explosion rocked one of the largest soft coal mines in the United States near Bishop, Va., today, killing at least four men and trapping possibly 33 more.

Searchers reached the first of three 12-man crews trapped 2,000 feet deep in the mine about 6 a.m., some four hours after a blast—believed caused by gas—ripped through the Bishop Coal Mine.

Officials at first reported four known dead, but mine dispatcher Robert Meade said there were others "presumed dead."

The three crews were digging coal from the face of the No. 3 seam of the Pocahontas mine field in the heart of the soft coal belt on the Virginia-West Virginia border.

Meade said exploding gas apparently caused the disaster. Bad air and smoke hampered searchers as they tried to reach the men.

The weekend got off to a bad start late last week with a series of plane crashes where at least 34 persons have died.

Plane crashes in the east and in Southern California claimed a mounting toll of lives in the last five days.

At least 34 persons have been killed in nine plane wrecks. Eleven of the victims were killed in Southern California crashes and 20 in the flaming wreckage of a Northeast Airlines ship at Rikers Island in New York.

In addition, at least six other persons are missing in plane mishaps.

Investigators still are seeking the cause of the airliner crash near Laguardia Field Friday. Northeast Airlines has denied the wreck was caused by overloading. Eleven of the 101 persons aboard were children.

The string of air tragedies began Thursday with the collision of two planes over Pacoima, Calif., killing five airmen and three students who were struck by falling wreckage in a schoolyard below the crash point.

Election Laws May Be Revised—Johnson

Washington—Senate Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson predicted today that congress will revise federal election laws.

His prediction came in the wake of a report by the senate elections subcommittee Saturday that spending on last year's presidential and congressional elections soared far past $33 million.

Sen. Albert Gore (D-Tenn.) who helped write the report, said he will sponsor a bill to limit campaign gifts and spending. He said it will follow the general recommendations made by the majority of the elections subcommittee.

Gore said he was conferring with Johnson and other leaders of both parties in the Senate and House to work out an acceptable bill. Neither he nor Johnson would discuss its details.

The subcommittee said it found "an unhealthy state of political affairs" in which Republicans outspent Democrats almost two to one. It said there is "imperative and immediate need" of reform legislation.

Johnson and Senate GOP leader William F. Knowland introduced a "clean elections bill" last year. It went to the senate rules committee and was never seen again.

The subcommittee report was drafted by Gore and Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.), who succeeded him as chairman of the subcommittee. The sole Republican member, Sen. Carl T. Curtis (Neb.) filed a blanket dissent, saying the report "is neither complete nor in accord with the known facts."

Ike Tries To Cool Guard Incident

Washington—President Eisenhower and the Pentagon tried today to cool off the controversy between the National Guard and Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson.

With Wilson vacationing in Florida, Mr. Eisenhower planned to confer at the White House this morning with four top officials of the National Guard Association.

Boozar hit 10 of 14 tries from the field and 16 out of 20 from the free shot stripe. Next Cat in line was Roy DeWitz, 6-3 junior, with 13 points on four from the field and five from the line.

Dave Mowbray, 6-1 CU guard, was the most constant Buff. He accounted for 16 points.

K-State won the game early by holding the Buffs to one field goal and nine points in the first nine minutes of play.

At that point, the Cats held a 19-9 lead, and Colorado could never catch up. Earlier in the game, K-State had widened a 6-4 margin with 17:28 left in the half to 17-4 with 13:54 left.

The early game streak represented a string of 8:17 without a field goal for Colorado and 6:01 without a point.

Once the Buffs found the range, they made K-State earn the win.

The Cats held a 10-point lead

K-State Shows In MS Relays

K-State's Gene O'Connor ran a close second in the 75-yard high hurdles to top Cat efforts in the 34th annual Michigan State relays Saturday.

O'Connor finished behind Ohio State's Olympic champion, Glenn Davis, in the event.

O'Connor was third in the 75-yard intermediate hurdles behind Davis and Notre Dame's Aubrey Lewis, who handed Davis his only collegiate defeat last year. K-State's Jesse Unruh took second in the 1,000-yard run.

Dolan McDaniel of K-State placed fourth in the 75-yard dash and fifth in the 300-yard run. The Cats Karl Lindenmuth tied for fifth in the pole vault.

K-State also took second in the sprint medley, fourth in the distance medley, and fifth in the two-mile relay.

at halftime, 36-26. Colorado came out after the intermission determined to make a game of it.

The Cat lead wavered to 47-50 with 14:52 left in game, but K-State pulled away and held near a 10-point bulge through most of the half.

The most serious threat the Buffaloes could make came with 7:38 left in the game when Jim Cadle hit on a layup and Gerry Schroeder hit a jump shot to narrow the point spread to 56-50.

K-State called for a timeout, then, and came back out on the floor to widen the score steadily until it stood at 73-55 with 1:08 remaining.

K-State hit 40.3 per cent from the field on 25 of 62 attempts. Colorado managed only 19 of 63 for 30.1 per cent.

K-State Swimmers Lose to Nebraska, 47-38

K-State's swimming team lost a 47 to 38 decision to the Nebraska swim team Saturday in Nichols pool.

Nebraska practically clinched the meet by winning the first two places in four of the 10 events. The Cornhusker tankmen took firsts in diving, the 220 free style, the 440 yard free style, and the 200 yard breast stoke.

One varsity record was set by Cat back stroke swimmer Tom Coblentz when he knocked 5.7 seconds off the old record of 2:38.6 in the 200 yard back stroke event. The event saw K-State's only 1-2 finish when Jim Mariner finished behind Coblentz.

APL wants graduates eager to accept the challenge of responsibility

The Applied Physics Laboratory (APL) of The Johns Hopkins University is a unique organization. Its professional staff, including both junior and senior members, is allowed a measure of responsibility and initiative much greater than in many other research and development organizations. A stimulating environment where teamwork and individual initiative are fused results in a high degree of creativeness and professional gratification.

For years APL has pioneered: the first proximity fuze, the first supersonic ramjet engine, the missiles TERRIER, TALOS and TARTAR. With a staff of 1275 APL technically directs the Navy's Bumblebee guided-missile program, including the work of 21 associate and subcontractors, among them leading universities and industrial organizations.

Location & Facilities:

The combined facilities of APL and its contractors provide staff members with an unparalleled situation for advanced research and development. APL's own laboratories, recently completed, encompass 350,000 sq. ft. Their locations in suburban Washington and Baltimore, Md. allow staff members to enjoy suburban, rural or urban living and the manifold cultural and recreational facilities of both cities.

APL maintains a splendid program of staff benefits, including financial assistance for advanced study. Salaries compare favorably with those of industrial organizations. For detailed information on staff opportunities for men with higher-than-average grades contact your Placement Officer or write: Professional Staff Appointments.

Incorporation Virtually Fact For Campus Industry Group

Incorporation of the Campus Industries Investigating Committee is virtually completed, Jerry Holliday, ArE Soph, told Student Council members last night.

Permission to incorporate the committee was granted at the previous Council meeting. All paperwork has now been completed and the Articles of Incorporation forwarded for state approval.

"We are incorporated if the state doesn't object," Holliday said.

The new corporation will try to create student jobs and raise the wages of K-State students by initiating studies designed to promote new industries. The corporation will also strive to promote an increase in the use of student labor by cooperating with local groups.

Holliday reported that plans are underway to obtain a loan from Manfax for the weaving industry; however, the committee felt they would have to prove there was a market for the weaving before a loan could be secured.

"A local woman has indicated that she would like to set up a shop to sell our weaving products," Holliday said.

The Council voted to recommend to A. Thornton Edwards, director of housing, that traffic flow be reversed on the south lane in Elliott Courts and that the speed limit in Elliott Courts be reduced from 20 miles an hour to 15.

Holliday reported that a poll of the married students in the Courts showed that 90 per cent were in favor of the move.

The committee to improve traffic conditions around the married student courts was then dissolved, the feeling being that all traffic hazards around the courts had been solved as much as possible.

A $2 registration fee for each car operated on campus beginning next fall was suggested by the committee for campus traffic improvement. Revenue from

Fifth Straight Win Ups Cats Standing

By JIM BELL

Collegian Sports Editor

K-State's Wildcats jumped into second place behind Kansas in the Big Seven basketball race by jolting erstwhile No. 2 Nebraska, 89-53, in Ahearn field house last night for their fifth straight win.

Jack Parr, 6-9 center, and Eddie Wallace, 5-10 guard, combined talents for 47 points to lead the Cat team to the win.

K-State used a 1-3-1 zone defense to stymie Nebraska offense attempts. That plus the ballhawking and hustle of Wallace, Roy DeWitz, and Don Matuszak, and the rebounding of big men Parr and 6-7 Bob Boozer tells the defensive story for the Cats.

Matuszak led several scoring fast breaks down the court feeding DeWitz and Wallace after Parr or Boozer had pulled down a rebound off the 1-3-1 zone.

Parr got 27 points, 18 in the final period to take over for K-State after Wallace and Boozer had provided the scoring punch in the first half.

Wallace and Boozer each collected 12 points in that first half that saw the Cats and Husker play on even terms until Parr hit a jump shot from a free throw line with 12:10 left.

Parr's shot broke a 16-16 tie, and from that point until the final gun, the Cats were never headed.

Boozer hit a tip-in shortly after Parr's shot; then Nebraska scored, and with the score 20-18, the Cats hit eight straight points to take a 28-18 lead.

The largest lead K-State could muster in the first half, was 12 at 38-26, then 40-28 just before the period ended. Halftime score was 41-30.

The Wildcats allowed Nebraska two free throws in the second half, then quickly opened up a 15-point margin, 47-32, with 16:54 left in the contest.

The Huskers called time, scored a field goal, then the Cats upped the point spread to 21 when Parr hit two field goals and DeWitz and Wallace each got one. That made the score 55-34 with 14:42 left.

That set the stage for the rest of the ball game. Wildcat reserves began to take over with six minutes left. Three minutes later all the starters had departed, but the score still mounted.

The final score of 89-53 represented the widest margin of the evening, 36 points.

Besides leading scorers, Parr pulled down 18 rebounds

In 3 Colors, Y-Orpheum Gets Cover

The cover design for this year's Y-Orpheum program, which was designed by Bill Keane, a nationally syndicated cartoonist, has been received, according to Jan Madsen, HEJ Soph, publicity subcommittee chairman.

The design consists of an animated TV set surrounded by the audience. At the side of the TV set is a stage door by which characters from the various skits are entering, and can be seen eventually on the TV screen.

"The cover will be done in red, black, and white," wrote Mr. Keane.

Larry Edwards, GA Jr, program sub-committee chairman, said, "If participating houses want pictures in the program they should have their costumes done by Monday, February 18. Pictures will be taken February 20."

Barbara Ericson, BA Jr, tickets sub-committee chairman announced that tickets for this year's production will be on sale starting March 16. Tickets will be sold in the Student Union and in Anderson hall. Prices are, $1 for adults and 50 cents for children.

"There will be a meeting of the technical staff for the show and all house directors Thursday in the SU activities center.

EXUBERANT CHEERLEADER Judy Gladdish, BMT Soph, whoops it up following K-State's 89-53 "roundball romp" over ex-second place Nebraska.

"WHERE TO GO NOW?" seems to be the question that confronts K-State's Eddie Wallace, as he finds his path blocked by Nebraska's Lyle Nannen (15) and Ron Parsons (24). Rex Ekwall, Nebraska (20) closes in on Wallace as K-State's Jack Parr (33) watches.

Plans Started For Men's Hall At Elliott Courts

Plans are now underway for a residence hall for male students, A. Thornton Edwards, director of housing reported yesterday. The new dorm will be built on the site now occupied by Elliott courts.

Funds for the dormitory will come partly from federal government loan assistance and partly from a state levy.

The federal government has recently agreed to assist with a loan of $1,200,000. The remainder of the total cost of $2,200,000 will be taken from a one-fourth mill state levy which is earmarked for dormitories.

The residence hall will be a six-story concrete and steel structure, constructed to accommodate approximately 600 men. A food service building and dining room constructed to accommodate 1,200 men will be connected to the sleeping wing.

Edwards reported that the service building and dining room will be equipped to accommodate only 600 men, but that the large building will allow room for expansion if another sleeping wing is added later.

Library Expands
Its Research Aids

By JANICE GRAHAM

Educational devices provided for the benefit of a growing student body are available for quick and efficient use at the library. George H. Fadenrecht, assistant professor and assistant librarian says, "A library is more than just a collection of books. It includes personnel and management working to give those who seek its service every opportunity for maximum benefit."

Newspapers and large dailies from every county and many cities in the state of Kansas are found on the main floor in the continuations department. Because of inadequate storage space, these newspapers are not bound. Current magazines ranging in subject matter from engineering to agriculture are kept in alphabetical order on shelves located along the surrounding walls of the study corridor.

Back files of journals and magazines are bound and kept for reference in the circulation department on the second floor. They are purchased from dealers both here and abroad in order to provide a more comprehensive selection of material for research by graduate and undergraduate students.

Around $17,500 is spent yearly for current periodicals. The remainder of a $67,200 book fund is spent for current and out-of-print books, for back files of journals and society publications, for general and technical reference books, according to Professor Fadenrecht.

"Students and faculty alike may request the purchase of a particular magazine," said Professor Fadenrecht. "Any suggestion is added to a 'want list' and if the demand is great enough the library will subscribe.

Individual subscriptions are dropped with the approval of the department concerned when there is no demand. Others go out of print," said Fadenrecht.

Encyclopedias and other reference books are found on the second floor in the reference room. To make the very latest information available, purchases of these are staggered so as to always have at least one up-to-date encyclopedia on the shelves.

Mechanical aids to research such as microfilm and microcards are a recent addition to the library. Material no longer available in print is being reproduced on microcards. These cards contain a variety of information ranging in subject matter from entire newspapers to complete thesis. An example of the use of microfilm is the transfer of the New York Times to film and its projection on a screen. The library subscribes to this service.

The New York Times Index, located at the index case in the reference room, has material indexed according to date of issue, page, and column. This further simplifies the process of locating information.

The book stacks and carrells (small desks among the stacks) are provided for private study to graduate students or members of the faculty.

"With the increase in enrollment, demands are increasing. Library corridors are filled with students during the week. We now employ between 50 and 60 student workers," Fadenrecht said.

"We are hoping for larger study rooms and more office space in the future. We want a place for audio-visual materials, more student reading rooms, and a room where students may study and smoke. Divisional reading rooms where books for various departments or schools are grouped together would allow more free use of material on the shelves, and facilitate student use of library resources," he added.

An Editorial

Wildcat-Jayhawk Telecast
Open for Bids—Bebe Lee

RECENT MURMURINGS from sports fans concerning televising the Kansas university-Kansas State college basketball game in March have been voiced on and off the campus.

The Missouri Valley Intercollegiate Athletic association rules and regulations book governing athletics in article III, section eight states—

RADIO, TELEVISION, AND FILM COVERAGE:

a. A minimum charge of $100 for football and $50 for basketball to the originating station a game shall be made provided the broadcast is sponsored. Each school will handle its own network. One booth shall be reserved for the visiting school. If the visiting station has feeder stations, the fees from the feeder stations are to be paid to and retained by the visiting school, if feeder charges are made.

RADIO BROADCASTS that are carried on a sustaining basis shall not be subject to originating fees. All costs of such broadcasts shall be paid for by the originating station.

b. In football and basketball, member institutions may contract with television stations for delayed telecasts of their games subject to the following regulations:

1. Contractual arrangements with TV stations in the vicinity of the home school shall be agreed upon by the home school and the local TV stations without conference regulation.

2. The visiting school will be granted the privilege of naming one delayed crew for out-of-town games. The TV station shall pay a $100 football and a $50 basketball fee for this privilege.

3. Film taken under these provisions may be shown once, and only once, by any one TV station. The film will then become the property of the station's home school.

4. TV stations which serve two or more conference schools shall be subject to the TV regulations of the institution at which the game is played.

In view of the facts, the four possibilities at K-State are:

- 1. Live television with one station.
- 2. Live television with two or more stations.
- 3. Delayed television broadcast.
- 4. No television broadcast.

THE VISITING team has to agree to televising the game and the game has to be a sellout, according to Bebe Lee, K-State athletic director.

The K-State-KU game has been sold out since before the season opened in November.

Therefore, bids from television stations could be accepted to be considered by the Athletic council. —Jane Moore.

Saud Indicates Approval Of Eisenhower Doctrine

Compiled from the United Press
by KEITH KEMPER

Washington—The visit of King Saud of Saudi Arabia to President Eisenhower promises to be a big diplomatic success.

There seems to be good reason to believe that the Arabian Monarch's conferences in Washington may lead to improvement in the entire Middle Eastern situation.

Saud appears to have been convinced, for one thing, that the Eisenhower doctrine aimed at combatting Communist penetration of the Arab countries is a real contribution to Middle Eastern stability.

He has intimated strongly that he will tell the leaders of other Arab countries that the President's plan should be accepted.

As regards the direct United States-Saudi Arabian part of the Washington talks, it seems certain that agreement for cooperation between the two countries will be worked out.

Under this agreement, the United States would sell Saudi Arabia a large quantity of arms. The figure of $250 million has been mentioned, but is said now to be too high.

In return, Saud would renew for five years the agreement under which the United States maintains a big air base at Dhahran on the Persian Gulf.

There was strenuous opposition by many people in the United States to King Saud's visit.

Mayor Robert Wagner of New York City made himself the spokesman for some of these opponents by announcing publicly that he would refuse to extend the usual courtesies to the President's guest.

Wagner based his opposition on the allegation that Saud is anti-Jewish and anti-Roman Catholic. The existence of slavery in Saudi Arabia also was cited.

But Saud seems to have made an excellent impression personally in Washington.

The fact that he was accompanied by his crippled little boy Prince Mashhur, whose appealing figure is now familiar to millions of American newspaper readers, naturally did not hurt.

But regardless of any opposition, the President's decision to invite Saud to Washington appears to have been well-advised.

Eisenhower and other officials have made it plain that the United States, in its dealings with other countries at this critical period in world affairs, can not restrict itself to seeking the friendship of those whose internal policies it completely approves.

Saud is a big figure in the Arab world. He may well become a bigger one than President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt.

Saud has conferred with many officials in Washington besides the President and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

New Clue in Grimes' Case

Chicago—Police today sought a black car as a new clue in the slaying of two teen-aged sisters, and a skid row dishwasher charged with their murders remained in jail, unable to post bond.

Bennie (the dishwasher) Bedwell, 21, an illiterate skid row dishwasher who first confessed and then denied the slayings, lacked even a small portion of the $20,000 bond set Saturday after three days of hearing in criminal court.

Police, meanwhile, investigated a truck driver's report that he saw two young men in a black auto pick up two "bobbysoxers" on December 28, the night Barbara Grimes, 15, and her sister, Patricia, 13, disappeared.

The girls' nude and frozen bodies were found January 22 in a roadside ditch on Chicago's southwest outskirts.

Authorities also questioned three teen-aged toughs from the girls' neighborhood, two of whom face arraignment today on charges of assaulting a sailor home on leave.

Truck driver Daniel Eshelman, 35, told police he saw two girls get into a car when he stopped his double tank oil truck at an intersection near the victims' home.

Eshelman's description of the car indicated it might have been a black 1951 Mercury stolen December 28 and still missing. The car theft also occurred in a district near where the sisters lived.

Eshelman said the girls, wearing clothes similar to those worn by the victims, were standing on a corner. He said the men called to the girls and one of them entered the car almost immediately while the other girl hesitated before entering.

Industry Incorporation Virtually Completed

such a fee would be earmarked for traffic improvement only. If the suggestion is adopted, it would be forwarded to the Traffic Control board.

The committee was then disbanded and all future traffic problems will be referred to students on the Traffic Control board.

The ROTC Evaluation committee is planning to contact the University of California for information on its fight for optional ROTC. Letters will also be sent to the University of Wisconsin and University of Minnesota to determine the effect on the ROTC programs there when it was made optional.

Neil Scott resigned as Council representative on the Student Activities board and Jack Van Horn was appointed to replace him.

Four new members were accepted on the Student Discount committee. They are Glenda Robertson, SED Soph; Richard Frank, Ec Soph; Mary Lee Durland, BMT Jr; and Marilyn Summers, Art Fr.

Gary Haynes was appointed to see about getting billfold-size cards with the Alma Mater and "K-State Fight Song" printed on them. This is being done to encourage students and guests to sing these songs at sports events along with the pep section.

Herbert Wunderlich reported that the Hungarian Relief service replied negatively to K-State's request for an interested Hungarian to study here.

"The organization said they had no interested candidate for study here and referred us to World University service; however we haven't heard from them yet," Wunderlich said.

The Council postponed a proposal by Pat Wilkerson, student body president, that a notice be attached to final examination schedules that any student who has three finals on the same day may petition an instructor to have a special exam period in one of the subjects.

Wilkerson also suggested that the Council do something for married students in the way of providing a baby sitting service and encouraging the Union Governing board to work up some events for married students and their children.

The SGA recognition banquet has been tentatively set for April 4 or 18. This event serves to recognize the achievements of the Student Council and honor outstanding members.

Mortar Board Dinner To Be February 19

Mortar Board's annual scholarship dinner for all college women will be held in the Student Union's main ballroom Tuesday, February 19. The dinner was originally planned for January 14.

Mortar Board will give a scholastic award to the freshman with the highest grade average last year.

Herbert J. Wunderlich, dean of students, will deliver the main address with three Mortar Board members speaking on leadership, scholarship and service.

"The purpose of the dinner is to encourage scholarship," according to Shirley Sarvis, EE Sr and Mortar Board president. Tickets will go on sale in the Student Union a few days preceding the dinner.

Orchesis Concert To Use Toy Shop, Tour as Theme

Two themes will constitute the program for the annual Orchesis concert, Thursday, February 28. Members of Orchesis, a modern dance group, have selected "The Toy Shop" and "A Tour of the U. S." for two parts of the program, said Judy Hopp, TxC Soph, a member of the organization.

Practice has already started for those selections for which choreography has been completed, said Dee French, EEd Soph, spokesman for the group.

"We will present numbers which will interest the students and please the faculty," said Miss French.

Production is scheduled for Umberger hall February 28 at 8 p.m.

YWCA

Mrs. Philip Kirmser, a member of the Riley County Mental Health association, will be the speaker for the regular YWCA meeting today at 4 p.m. in Student Union 207.

Mrs. Kirmser's talk will be in connection with a new service project centering around visits to elderly shut-in persons.

Bird Study Class

The bird study classes of the Zoology department will take their first field trip Saturday, weather permitting, according to A. L. Goodrich, professor of zoology.

Professor Goodrich said that the group would try to find species of junco, kinglets, waxwings, titmice, chickadees, finches, sparrows, and four kinds of woodpeckers. The trip is to be taken on the campus and is one of a usual six or seven taken by the bird study class.

Block and Bridle

Nelso Galle, former K-Stater, will speak to the Block and Bridle club Tuesday evening on his trip to Turkey. Nelson visited Turkey through the IFYE program. Shingles are to be presented at the meeting which will be at 7:30 p.m. in SU 208.

Harmonizers

Two subcommittee chairmanships are open until February 11 for the Student Union Harmonizer's committee.

Students interested in the position of arrangements and secretary should apply at the Union activity center. "Interviews will be conducted February 12," George Roggendorff, VM Jr and Harmonizers chairman, announced. Harmonizers is the Union barber shop singing group.

Retail Club

A 1940 K-State graduate, Miss Caroline Boyer, will speak to the Retail club and students from the textile classes on "Opportunities in Business for Home Economists" Thursday at 4 p.m. in C 208.

Miss Boyer acquired her masters here and since has become head of the educational branch of the American Viscose corporation in Marcus Hook, Pa. As part of the 89th annual Farm and Home Week program here from February 4-7, Miss Boyer will be speaking to extension people in the college auditorium that same afternoon at 2:45 on "Let's Buy Quality Fabrics."

Alpha Phi Omega

Plans for the February 12 initiation of new members will be discussed at this evening's weekly meeting of Alpha Phi Omega, men's service organization, according to Wally Brown, BA Jr, president. Members will meet in Student Union 203 at 7:00 p.m. There will be a regular business meeting.

The Association of Women Students unanimously approved the constitution presented to them by the constitution committee, last night.

Jeannie Williamson, MEI Jr, chairman, representing Alpha Delta Pi; Patsy McClenahan, EEd Soph, representing Northwest hall; Darlene Nelson, EEd Sr, representing Van Zile hall; Peggy Daniels, Eng Soph, representing Kappa Kappa Gamma; and Anne Manion, ML Jr, representing Pi Beta Phi, composed the constitution committee, which, with the assistance of Dean Helen Moore and Miss Virginia Smith, wrote the constitution. They have been working on it since last May.

The constitution will be presented for a vote in each women's organized house next week by members of the constitution committee. In order to become effective a majority of each house must approve it by an affirmative vote.

You'll be pleased with a Collegian want ad.

Accounting Students Back After 6-Week Internship

Fifteen seniors, majoring in accounting, are coming back to the campus this week after a six-week internship program just inaugurated by the College. The students pre-enrolled and took their finals before Christmas so that they could begin working December 26.

While working with the accounting firms internees perform, under supervision, the normal functions of a junior accountant. The cooperating firms provide diversified work opportunities, from auditing to tax work.

Donald Ulibarri explained, "It gave me an exact idea of public accounting, and I liked it better than I thought I would."

The students received three hours credit for their internship, which was undertaken after a survey by the K-State Chapter of Alpha Kappa Psi, professional business fraternity, had indicated students were strongly in favor of such a program.

The students who took part in this program and the firms for which they worked were: Edward Hartig and Roger Prince, Arthur Anderson and Company, Kansas City; John Leeker, Price Waterhouse and Company, Kansas City; John Kadel, Peat, Marwick, Mitchell and Company, Kansas City; Gary Douppnik, Touche Niven, Bailey, and Smart, Kansas City; and Gilbert Kemnitz, Haskins and Sells, Kansas City.

Donald Cox, Earl Hammond, and Donald Ulibarri, Ernst and Ernst, Kansas City; Raymond Beikman and Floyd Griggs, Kennedy and Coe of Salina; Marvin Krueger, Brelford, Gifford, Hardesty, and Batz, Topeka; Don Alspaugh, Bartlett, Settle, and Edgerle, Hutchinson; Ronald Johnson, Bonicamp, Koelling, and Smith, Wichita; and George Koehn, Elmer E. Fox and Company, Wichita.

A Campus-to-Career Case History

Planning for growth. Joe Hunt (left) talks with Jim Robinson (center), District Construction Foreman, and O. D. Frisbie, Supervising Repair Foreman. In Joe's district alone, 600 new telephones are put into service every month.

"I'll take a growing company"

70,000 telephones to keep in operation ... $20,000,000 worth of telephone company property to watch over ... 160 people to supervise — these are some of the salient facts about Joe Hunt's present job with Southwestern Bell. He's a District Plant Superintendent at Tulsa, Oklahoma.

"It's a man-sized job," says Joe, who graduated from Oklahoma A. & M. in 1949 as an E.E. "And it's the kind of job I was looking for when I joined the telephone company."

"I wanted an engineering career that would lead to management responsibility."

ties. Moreover, I wanted that career to be in a growing company, because growth creates real opportunities to get ahead.

"But to take advantage of opportunities as they come along, you must have sound training and experience. The telephone company sees that you get plenty of both. Really useful training, and experience that gives you know-how and confidence. Then, when bigger jobs come your way, you're equipped to handle them."

"If I had it to do all over again, I'd make the same decision about where to find a career. Now — as then — I'll take a growing company."

Joe Hunt is with Southwestern Bell Telephone Company. Interesting career opportunities exist in other Bell Telephone Companies, and in Bell Telephone Laboratories, Western Electric and Sandia Corporation. Your placement officer can give you more information about these companies.

Boozer followed Parr in rebounds with 13 and hit 14 points as well. Dewitz had 12, and every other Cat that played broke the scoring column.

For Nebraska, Rex Ekwall and Gary Reimers had 12 apiece.

K-State hit 46 per cent on 35 of 76 field goal attempts. The Huskers hit 19 of 56 for 34 per cent. The Cats out-rebounded Nebraska, 56-40.

Hall of Fame to Induct McCarthy, Crawford

By UNITED PRESS

New York—Joe McCarthy, who never was good enough to play in the major leagues, entered baseball's Hall of Fame along with Sam (Wahoo) Crawford, the man who walked in the shadow of the great Ty Cobb.

McCarthy, 69-year-old ex-manager of the New York Yankees, and 76-year-old Crawford, former slugging outfielder for the Detroit Tigers, were named as the 82nd and 83rd members of the famed shrine at the bi-annual meeting of baseball's special committee on veterans.

Although he had managed the Chicago Cubs to the National League pennant in 1929, McCarthy was considered a "busher" when he was picked to succeed the illustrious Miller Huggins as boss-man of the Yankees two years later.

After all, the experts argued, what did a minor league player know about managing a great team like the Yankees?

Crawford, too, had a tough row to hoe during 19 years in the majors. He spent 13 of those years as "that other guy" in the Tiger outfield with Cobb, but wound up with a .309 batting average and a record major league total of 312 triples.

McCarthy, now living the life of a country squire on a farm outside Buffalo, N.Y., and Crawford, a resident of Los Angeles, will be inducted formally in the Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N.Y., next July.

To be selected by the special committee, a player must be retired for 30 years and a manager or umpire for five years. Crawford played his last major league game with the Tigers in 1917 while McCarthy resigned as manager of the Boston Red Sox in 1950.

In 24 years as a major league manager, McCarthy's teams never finished out of the first division. One of his greatest wrecking crews was the 1932 Yankees.

Crawford's nickname was derived from his hometown of Wahoo, Neb., where he was born on April 18, 1880.

He was only 19 when, with less than one year of professional experience, he joined the Cincinnati Redlegs in 1899. He played for the Detroit Tigers from 1903 to 1917 and appeared in three World Series in 1907-08-09.

Develop & Extend Your Capabilities

—At APL Where a Unique Combination of Industrial and Academic Approaches is Applied to R & D Problems

The Applied Physics Laboratory (APL) of The Johns Hopkins University, one of the country's leading R & D organizations, affords young men of above-average skill and originality unusual opportunities for rapid progress toward (1) professional specialization, or (2) technical administration or operations.

APL is unique in that it is neither an industrial nor an academic organization. Instead it is a composite of both, having drawn freely from the methodologies of each. Because of this, APL has managed to keep in the vanguard, having pioneered the proximity fuze, the first supersonic ramjet engine, and the missiles TERRIER, TALOS and TARTAR. APL has sole responsibility for the Navy's Bumblebee guided missile program, directs the work of 21 associate and sub-contractors, among them leading universities and industrial organizations.

Location & Facilities

As a result its staff members enjoy an interchange of ideas with members of these various organizations; have access to their facilities, in addition to the wealth of equipment available at APL's 350,000 sq. ft. laboratories midway between Washington, D. C. and Baltimore, and in Silver Spring, Md. In this environment men of originality and talent flourish. Salaries compare favorably with those of other R & D organizations; staff benefits are manifold, including a strong program of financial assistance for graduate work. Matuszak Comes Off Bench To Key Wildcat Fast Break

By DICK BOYD

Don Matuszak, 5-11 sophomore guard, has gained a starting berth on the K-State basketball squad after sitting out much of the early season's action.

Last night Matuszak showed why he's a starter for Cat coach Tex Winter. Matuszak was a key man on most of the fast breaks the Cats initiated off their 1-3-1 zone defense.

Matuszak scored only four points on four of four free throw attempts, but he keyed plays from his guard spot and showed hustle and ballhawking ability on defense.

Though eligible last year, Don sat out the season with a knee injury. This year he is back in form.

"Don fits very well into our present plans. He now has a first team berth and looks as if he may hold it," Winter said. "He gives us that needed punch on the fast break. Don is not known for shooting ability but he has the speed and drive to be a scoring threat."

Don's playmaking ability is his major contribution to the team, according to Winter. "He moves the ball really well and is able to see a man when he is open. His defense is also good, but he must overcome his tendency of overplaying and foolish fouling."

Don played high school ball under Jim Vopicka at Morton high school in Cicero, Ill. "I didn't letter in varsity ball until my senior year," Don said. "The system is different there than it is down here. We have 4,500 to 5,000 students enrolled in school."

"You don't play senior varsity ball until you're a senior or unless you're really good as a junior. Most juniors play junior varsity ball. The sophomores and freshmen also have their own teams."

Don did not mention that he was an all-stater his senior year.

When asked how he happened to attend K-State, he replied, "I heard about Tex from a kid who played under him at Marquette. I needed a scholarship because my mother is a widow and unable to send me to school. When Tex offered me one, it was the best deal I had gotten, so I took it."

What was Don's biggest thrill in high school ball? It happened his senior year at Morton high in the regional tournament. His team beat the No. 1 team in the state and Don got 17 points.

SAE, Jr. Vets Top IM Teams

With eight intramural sports completed, Sigma Alpha Epsilon leads the fraternity division with 471 points. Jr. AVMA is the first place independent with 298.

Filling out the first five positions are Sigma Phi Epsilon, 350; Delta Tau Delta, 310; Sigma Chi, 289; and Sigma Nu, 258 in the Greek division. Following Jr. AVMA, independent teams were topped by the Hillbillies, 204; Jones Boys, 203; House of Williams, 193; and West Stadium, 190.

Frank Myers, intramurals director, said there would be a meeting of intramural managers Thursday at 7:30 in the fieldhouse.

DON MATUSZAK, 5-11 Cat guard, has earned a berth as, a regular on K-State's basketball team. Matuszak, a sophomore, was an all-state cager at Cicero, Ill. Last night, he played an important part in the 89-53 win over Nebraska with his ballhawking, hustling style of play.

Trackmen to Travel To Omaha Tonight

K-State's indoor track squad will journey to Omaha tonight for a triangular meet with Omaha and Emporia State. Field events will start at 6:45 and running events will start at 7:30.

The meet will mark the Wildcats' second start this season. Their first outing was at the Michigan State relays last Saturday. In that event they gathered three second-place finishes against stiff competition.

Coach Ward Haylett said that he would take a squad of thirty men.

60-yard dash: Dolan McDaniel, Gene Keady, Henry Renollet, Bobby Jones, Craig Jones.

440-yard dash: DeLoss Dodds, Dave Burton, Jim Vader, Larry French, Renollet, B. Jones.

880-yard run: Jesse Unruh, Tom Rodda, Hubert Guest, Clifford Gruver, Lawrence Brady, Dodds, French.

Mile run: Rodda, Unruh, Guest, Rolland Elliot, Arlen Stackley, Don Michel.

Two mile run: Stackley, Elliott, Terry Turner, Whitney Hicks, Michel, Rodda.

Cats Are Second, Hawks Still Lead

By United Press

K-State moved up a notch to second in Big Seven conference standings as a result of last night's win over Nebraska 89-53.

The win gave the Wildcats a 4-2 conference record, second only to Kansas' 4-1 mark. Nebraska's record was evened at 2-2, and the defeat knocked them from the second spot.

In another Big Seven contest last night, Iowa State edged Colorado, 72-71, at Ames. The defeat lodged the Buffs in the conference cellar with a 1-4 mark, and left them half a game behind Oklahoma.

Kansas cleared what may have been its biggest obstacle on the way to a Big Seven championship Saturday night, using two sophomores in key roles in its win over Iowa State.

KU Coach Dick Harp, who had started seniors with Wilt Chamberlain all season, sent in sophomore Ronnie Loneski at the beginning against Iowa State and when the chips were down in the final seconds, sent in his sleeper, soph Bob Billings.

Loneski paid off, as had been expected, with 19 points. Billings, unheralded so far, also hit some vital free throws, but his passing as much as anything else opened up the game for Kansas.

Although the conference is so balanced that no game will be a walkaway for Kansas in the stretch drive, Iowa State posed the biggest hazard.

However, only three of Kansas' remaining conference games are at Lawrence, and the home court advantage may give the other teams a chance. Kansas has yet to play at Nebraska, Missouri, Colorado and K-State.

Missouri swings back into action against Oklahoma at Columbia tonight. Two intersectional games are scheduled Friday night, Oklahoma A&M at Oklahoma, and Drake at Iowa State.

Nebraska gets to meet Chamberlain & Co., for the first time at Lincoln Saturday night, while Missouri is at Colorado.

Cosmo Club Opens Plans For International Weekend

The Cosmopolitan club is taking the lead among other campus organizations in planning for International weekend, an all-campus feature March 22 and 23.

Every year one of the Kansas colleges or universities invite the other Kansas schools to meet at their school for conference workshops and other weekend activities. This year K-State is host.

According to Samih Hasayen, HE Jr, program chairman of the Cosmopolitan club, the purpose of such an event is "to discuss problems of mutual interest, to gain a better understanding of people of the U.S. and of international background, and to meet, talk, and have a meal with people having the same interests but with different backgrounds."

Each Kansas campus will send students representing various cultures and courses of study, and each campus organization here is invited to handle some phase of the program.

HERE ARE THE FIRST TWO TIE-BREAKERS IN OLD GOLD'S

TANGLE SCHOOLS

PUZZLES

IF YOUR answers to the first 24 puzzles conformed to the correct list of answers published at the end of the past semester, you can and must submit answers to eight tie-breaking puzzles, in order to compete for the prizes in the tie.

Remember—first prize is a tour for two around the world, and there are 85 other valuable prizes.

The first two of the eight tie-breakers are published herein, according to rule 2(b) of the official Tangle Schools rules:

2(b) In case more than one person solves correctly the same number of puzzles, the prize tied for and as many subsequent prizes as there are persons tied will be reserved and those so tying will be required to solve a set of tie-breaking puzzles to determine the order in which the reserved prizes will be awarded.

Each of the tie-breaking puzzles will contain scrambled letters forming the names of either one, two or three American colleges or universities.

Do not mail these tie-breakers now! Save them until you have completed all eight tie-breaking puzzles. Details on when and where to mail the tie-breakers will be published with the eighth puzzle.

Language Department Slates French Movie

The historical French movie, "La Marseillaise," will be shown to students today and tomorrow at 4 p.m. in J-15 by the Modern Language department.

Portraying the impact of the French Revolution on the "man in the street," this 80-minute film gives the forces and motives behind this social upheaval. Actual landmarks and palaces are used in "Marseillaise" which starts with the events which followed the storming of the Bastille in July, 1789, and ends with the Marseilles battalion advancing to oppose the invading Austrians.

This movie is one of four that the department will be showing this semester to enable K-State students to become acquainted with screen adaptations of literary works and musical shows of France and Latin America.

The next film will be "Adios, Mariquita Linda," on March 5 and 6. There is no admission charge for these movies.

LITERATURE CAN BE SCREAMS!

To save you tiresome days of reading, days that can be more happily devoted to healthful winter activities like skiing, tobogganing, and three card monte, this column today presents digests of some classic novels that are sure to come up in your lit courses.

The Scarlet Letter

This is a heart rending story of a humble Boston lass named Hester Prynne who is so poor that she does not have enough to eat, nor a roof to cover her head. But she is a brave, brawny lass and she never complains and by and by her patience is rewarded: in the summer of 1859 she wins a football scholarship to Alabama.

Hester works hard and makes the varsity and wins her letter. Everybody says she is a shoo-in for All-Conference honors, but along comes the War Between the States, and football, alas, is dropped for the duration.

She was a Shoo-in for All-Conference Honors.

Poor Hester goes back to Boston. It is a bitter cold winter, and poor Hester, alas, does not have a roof over her head, and the only warm clothing she owns is the football sweater from Alabama, but that, alas, has a big scarlet "A" on the front of it, and she can hardly wear such a thing in Boston where Union sentiment runs so high.

Poor Hester, alas, freezes to death.

Little Women

The Marches are a very happy family—and for no reason whatsoever. They are poor as snakes; they work from cockcrow to evensong; their dear old father Philip is away with the Union armies; and their mattresses are lumpy.

Still, nothing can dampen the spirits of madcap Meg, jocular Jo, buoyant Beth, animated Amy, and crazy old Marmee, as the merry March girls lovingly call their lovable mother.

Well sir, one Christmas the March girls get an invitation to a ball. But Beth reminds the sisters that they can hardly go traipsing off and leave poor Marmee alone at Christmas time. The sisters swear a lot, but they finally agree with Beth.

Marmee, however, will not hear of it. "Land's sake, little women!" she cries. "You must go to the ball and have some fun. There will be punch and ginger snaps and confetti. Best of all, there will be morris dancing. Oh, how your father and I used to love that!"

"I never knew father could dance," cries Meg.

"Oh, yeah?" cries Marmee. "You should have seen Philip morris!"

"Was Philip a good morriser?" cries Jo.

"The best," cries Marmee. "Philip could morris in long size and regular and was full of natural goodness and fresh and firm and unfiltered too."

The girls are cheered to hear this and go to the ball. Marmee stays home all alone, but soon gets a wonderful surprise: Philip comes back from the war!

When the girls return from the ball, they find Marmee and Philip morrising, and they cry "Huzzah!" and throw their bonnets in the air, where they are to this day.

Governor to Crown Queen of Air Force

Governor George Docking will crown the queen of the Air Force ball during coronation ceremonies in the Student Union Friday night.

The ball is an all-college affair and will begin at 9 p.m.

Docking will also present a traveling trophy to the house or dormitory the queen represents. This will be kept until a new queen is elected. The crown will be made of sterling silver.

President James A. McCain will give a dinner in the Student Union for the governor and other honored guests at 7:00 p.m. the evening of the ball. A reception will be held at the Manhattan Country club at 6:00 p.m.

Four of the deans at the college will also be guests. They are Albert L. Pugsley, dean of Academic Administration; Arthur D. Weber, dean of Agriculture; John C. Weaver, dean of Arts and Sciences; and Herbert J. Wunderlich, dean of Students.

Other prominent guests to be present at the ball include: President and Mrs. James A. McCain; Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Arthur, mayor Manhattan; Mr. and Mrs. John D. Montgomery, Kansas and Miami, Florida, publisher; Major General and Mrs. Joe Nickell, State Adjutant General; Brig. General and Mrs. Henry R. Sullivan Jr., Commander of the 21st Air Division at Forbes AFB, Topeka;

Colonel and Mrs. Charles H. Wilkins, professor of Air Science at Kansas State; Colonel and Mrs. William W. Harvey Jr., professor of Military Sciences at Kansas State; Colonel and Mrs. B. W. Feiling, Commander of the Topeka air depot; Colonel and Mrs. L. S. Hundley, Deputy Commander of the Topeka air depot; and Lt. Colonel and Mrs. Adolph Kurek, professor of Air Science at Washburn university.

Music for the ball will be furnished by Johnny Long and his orchestra. Long's orchestra includes Sandee Moore, Mickey Gravine, the Long Skits, and the Glee Club.

Tickets for the formal affair may be purchased at booths in the Student Union and Anderson hall. AFROTC members may get their tickets at these booths.

TALENT SHOW judges Lowell Novy, VM Fr, Bruce Wilson, His Gr, and Jean Hedlund appear concerned at the conclusion of auditions last night. Unable to determine which three of the acts to choose, they compromised and picked four.

Judges Pick Four Acts For 'Big Three' Show

Finding it impossible to select three of the ten auditioning acts, judges designated four to represent Kansas State in the Big Three Talent show Saturday.

The winning performances included a twirler, a pianist, and two vocal groups. The acts were limited to 10 minutes, and were judged by Bruce Wilson, His Gr; Lowell Novy, VM Fr; and Jean Hedlund, assistant professor in the Music department.

Twirler Karen Blume, Sp

Soph, is a K-State drum majorette and was chosen champion twirler the last year the contest was sponsored on this campus.

"Bumble Boogie" and "Dizzy Fingers" were played by Jim Parker, Sta Soph, pianist. He has received superior ratings in many music contests, and has played with dance bands in this area.

The Four Delts include Larry Foulke, NE Soph, second tenor and lead; George Rodd, ME Jr, first tenor; Lowell Novy, VM Fr, baritone; and Larry Ball, ME Soph, bass. Foulke and Novy have sung for a capella choirs, Foulke at K-State and Novy at the University of Kansas.

Their songs during the audition were the theme of the National Barbershop association, "Strolling Through the Park," "Oh Joe," "Halls of Ivy," and "Scarlet Ribbons," which was arranged by Foulke.

The other vocal group, the Nightcaps, included Bob Sanders, MGS Fr; Janet Holm, EEd Fr; and Doug Exline, ME Fr, and Jon Weigand, NE Soph.

The program was tape-recorded, and will be played over KSDB-FM at 7 p.m. today. Lowell Novy, chairman of the Big Three Talent show, commented that all of the acts were outstanding.

The Big Three Talent show, with performers from K-State, Kansas university and the University of Nebraska, will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the College auditorium. No restrictions have been made on choice of acts, but the time limits of approximately 10 minutes have been set.

Tickets will be on sale at the Union Information Desk and will be sold in Anderson hall on Thursday and Friday. Admission is 50 cents.

'Alice in Home Ec Land' Is Hospitality Day Theme

"Alice in Home Ec Land" will be the theme of Hospitality Day, which will be April 13 this year, according to Jan Kraft, HEJ Jr, co-chairman of the publicity committee. High school students from all parts of the state are invited to the annual open house for a preview of K-State's School of Home Economics.

Verlene Sobke, HT Sr, is general chairman for Hospitality Day, and Elin McCandless, HDA Jr, is assistant chairman.

Committee chairmen are Charolette Lybarger, DIM Sr, exhibits; Jan Kraft, HEJ Jr, and Carol Ward, HEJ Jr, publicity; Betty Sellers, HDA Jr, buying; Karla Bauer, FN Sr, kickoff assembly; Virginia Roenbaugh, HT Sr, tea;

Susie Tucker, HT Sr, Saturday lunch; Sylvia Gaddie, TxC Jr, fashion show; Pat Todd, HT Jr, guides and tours; Marilyn Kalous, HEA Jr, signs; Joan Skupa, TxC Sr, badges; Janet Foltz, FN Sr, registration; Sally DeForest, DIM Sr, all-College assembly; Janice Humble, HT Sr, Saturday morning assembly; Donna Knoche, ChW Jr, hostess; Anna Belle Chilcott, HEN Soph, special arrangements; and Sandra Arnold, HEN Soph, theme.

HOSPITALITY DAY planners Jan Kraft, HEJ Jr, Verlene Sobke, HT Sr, and Charolette Lybarger, DIM Sr, discuss plans for their open house, scheduled for April 13. The girls are chairmen of committees, for the event, and Varlene is also general chairman for the Day.

KS Debaters Enter Two Major Events

K-State debaters will have two goals in sight as they attend the Rocky Mountain Speech conference at the University of Denver February 7 to 9, and the Mid-South Debate tournament at Conway, Ark., February 8 and 9.

The debate team will join students from 40 other western colleges and universities at Denver. Tournament events will be debate, discussion, extemporaneous speaking, oratory, and interpretation.

The local delegation will consist of Raymond North, PrL Jr; Tom Bowman, PrL Jr; Anita Grimm, Soc Jr; and Dave Nuttle, AH Jr, El Dorado.

After placing first in the women's oratorical contest at Pittsburg State Teachers college last weekend, Miss Grimm will enter the extemporaneous speaking and oratorical events for women. Other individual entries are Nuttle, Bowman, and North in the senior men's extemporaneous speaking contest.

The conference is being held for the 26th year by the University of Denver School of Speech. The conference draws speech authorities from throughout the nation. About 400 students, teachers, and speech experts will attend.

Top teams from four preliminary rounds will go into an elimination debate contest at the Mid-South conference. Schools from the South and Middle West will attend.

K-Staters participating are Jim Shane, His Jr, Ed McCoy, PrL Jr, Dan Hahn, Sp Soph, Kay Eplee, BA Soph, Robert Paulson, ChE Soph, Sharon Nuttle, PrL Fr, and Pat Trent, BMT Fr.

Deadlines Challenge Printer

RALPH KOPPES, back shop expert, studies today's page layouts as he checks machine-set headlines which will go on the page.

Clock watchers are discouraged on most jobs, but not on a newspaper.

Probably one of the most careful clock watchers is Ralph Koppes, make-up man and printer for the Collegian. By noon every day he must have your paper ready for the press.

After punching his time clock, he is constantly aware of the pressure and rush put upon him to set the heads and make up the pages before press time. Ralph declares that trying to meet a deadline is exciting and that during these busy four hours tension is constantly being built up until the final moment when the morning's job is done.

Although the demands on Ralph are great, he says he misses his work and the students on weekends and during vacations. "I like working with students best, as their ideas are young and vigorous." Working as closely with the paper as he does, he can see changes in the substance of the material and in the design of the makeup that new students produce. He feels, "a paper reflects the thinking of the people who put it out" and he enjoys seeing their new ideas.

Working as a bookkeeper, attending business college, and serving as a statistical accounting clerk in the Air Force is a far cry from being a printer, but that is what Ralph did before he took employment on the Waterville Telegraph.

In 1945 Ralph began learning the trade on this weekly paper under the GI Bill and under the instruction of a K-State graduate. In June 1955 he came to K-State as a state civil service rated Printer I. With his assistance in the composing room the following two semesters, the Collegian took all-American ratings for the third and fourth time.

Ralph is now completing his second year of service with the Collegian and finds "conditions ideal." "The equipment is modern and better than what I was using before, and it is more exciting working with students than any other people," he says. "Students are willing to adopt new ideas." However, the hardest thing he had to learn in this business was "learning to read type that is upside down and backwards."

Ralph was born in Marysville and was married in 1944. He is the father of three children—two boys and a girl, ages 12, 10, and 7, respectively. He says also he is the proud owner of a personally engraved make up rule which the Collegian staff gave him for Christmas.

When Ralph isn't pushing down leads he is adding to his 10-year-old stamp collection or reading.

Dean Weber and Weaver Agree College's Title Battle Ebbs

Possibility of a change from college to university status immediately by K-State would primarily be that of a name change only, according to Dr. John C. Weaver, dean of the School of Arts and Sciences. "We are already operating at a university level and will offer a bachelor of arts degree in humanities and social sciences next fall.

Dean Arthur D. Weber, School of Agriculture, concurred with Dean Weaver's observations saying, "The more you look into it, the less important it becomes."

Whether a school is a college or university in name really means very little to prospective employers. They are much more concerned with the size of the staff and the availability of a nationally recognized course of study.

"American business and industry are demanding more and more liberal arts training and less specialization on the part of college graduates. The general trend is to educate the complete person rather than merely provide him with vocational training," he said.

This shift from strict concentration in the student's major field has extended even into professional fields. Pre-med students at Kansas State take as liberal a program of study as any other students. Most medical and professional schools prefer to give their students a complete specialized course of study rather than try to fill the gaps left untouched in a general college education.

Dean Weaver believes that within the next 10 years both Kansas State and Kansas university may be expected to almost double in size. This increase, primarily in student body, will greatly increase the operating costs of the schools. In all probability both schools will be forced to expand their operations to the extent that any distinction in name between them will be greatly reduced.

Today only about 40 per cent of the enrolling freshmen will receive degrees. The people who do not graduate tend to bog down the better students. To overcome this loss a "core" curriculum is under consideration which will provide a basic liberal arts schedule for entire areas of study such as physical science, engineering and education. These "cores" would permit the student to study in a chosen field and still do exploratory work in other areas.

A special feature of this program would be a "general education" program leading to a BA degree in an area major. This would be especially beneficial to students who are unable to decide on one particular major during their early college years.

These plans have been advanced in preference to a common two year liberal arts requirement and can only be considered because Kansas State is equipped to handle them as a university would. Their chief advantages lie in their ability to guide the student in his chosen field and to provide an open door for browsing in other fields.

An Editorial

Docking Eyes Gate Receipts

Governor Docking turned his financial eye toward educational institutions recently, collegiate sports in particular, according to an associated press news release yesterday.

THE GENERAL trend of Governor Docking's tax program seems to be trim, and trim again. In keeping with his promise to place Kansas back on a "cash-in-the-hand" policy, he tossed out a feeler yesterday to test popular opinion for a state cut of the gate from collegiate sports.

The first test case would seem to be aimed at Kansas university. Here, the Governor pointed out that Allen Field House is reserved solely for intercollegiate competition. In this case he believed that the state would be justified in appropriating a percentage of the gate receipts from basketball and football.

K-STATE evidently was exempt from this "tax-bug" on the basis that Ahearn field house, while housing the Wildcats, is also used for intramural athletics and other student participating events.

It is doubtful, however, that football receipts could long be exempt, unless the Governor takes the stand that we use a portion of the stadium for men's housing. This could keep us exempt from such a state money grab of football receipts.

IT IS commendable that the Governor strives to place Kansas in the black. And it is true that an educational institution does not pay rent, as such, on school buildings. And it is also true that profit from ticket sales to intercollegiate events usually is absorbed by the athletic fund.

Since sports have become business, educational administrators have watched with interest the rising gargole in our midst, the necessary big business attitude of athletic directors. But you can't run big business with funds from a piggy-bank.

The state isn't concerned with the fact that sports have become big business, it just wants a cut.—Bruce K. Ellis.

Over the Ivy Line American Students' Tragic Ode

By Shari Shellenberger

TYPICAL of most of us during final week is this "American Tragedy" from the University of Chicago's "Hither and Yon" column:

"He read the textbook,
He studied the notes,
He outlined both.
Then he summarized his outline.

Then outlined his summary on 3 x 5 cards.

Then reduced the card outline to one single card.

Boiled the card down to one sentence.

Boiled the sentence down to a phrase.

Boiled the phrase down to a word.

Entered the exam.

Analyzed the question.

And then,
Forgot
The Word."

THE ASSOCIATED College

Press tells of a University of Texas coed who has been scaring away some of her dates lately, entirely against her will. When going through enrollment, she wasn't sure of her new phone number, but decided to list it on all her cards as she remembered it. Now men who call her get a masculine sounding, husky-voiced answer. The Daily Texan advises date-seekers to hang up promptly, and informs them that the unknown masculine voice is that of the Austin chief of police. The coed used the chief's unlisted number by mistake.

AT OCCIDENTAL College in Los Angeles, a new parking fine system has gone into effect. The system starts at 50 cents for the first offense and increases to a dollar, then two, then five for each offense thereafter.

Wonder if this system is as effective as our ever-present fear of getting that fatal fourth ticket.

A LIPSTICK riot at the University of Oregon has been selected by the Daily Emerald as one of the year's most "interesting and challenging" happenings on the University of Oregon campus.

The riot was staged by 200 freshman women against the Order of the O (Oregon lettermen's organization) the week before Homecoming. The coeds entered the football training table room brandishing tubes of lipstick, and proceeded to smear all the lettermen with lipstick.

Lettermen gathered, and as enthusiasm was dampened by showers and fire hoses, the girls withdrew to their dormitories.

And all we do here at KSC is build a little bonfire once in a great while.

Cat's Future Looks Golden After Unusual Operation

By CAROL SITZ

You may not believe the old saying about there being a pot of gold at the end of the rainbow, but Twerp, a five-year-old male cat from Carlsbad, N.M., knows just where his "pot" of gold lies. Twerp's "pot" of gold consists of four tiny, hollow, gold tubes one-sixteenth of an inch long with a diameter the size of the lead in an ordinary lead pencil.

A mighty small "pot" of gold you may think—and certainly a queer location. But Twerp's not complaining because this "pot" of gold saved his life.

Last spring, a growth developed on Twerp's nose.

When the growth appeared a second and third time on Twerp's nose, he was placed in a cage and shipped to the K-State Veterinary hospital for further treatment.

The growth on Twerp's nose was diagnosed as a type of cancer occurring in the soft tissue. Since stopped the growth, the K-State veterinary doctors decided to try a radioactive isotope treatment.

That's where Twerp's "pot" of gold came into the story. The tiny, hollow gold tubes containing radon, a highly radioactive gas from the radium family, were inserted into the tissue on Twerp's nose.

The cancerous growth on his nose has diminished in size, so that Twerp can breathe normally again.

Twerp will carry the four tubes in the tissue of his nose for the rest of his life. But he isn't complaining. Twerp knows his "pot" of gold, although not exactly at the end of the rainbow, did save his life.

IFC Requests Vote On Code Penalties

Students violating K-State's honor code can be put on social probation or can be suspended from intramural activities by the Interfraternity Council's judicial board if the Council's proposed penalties for such a violation are approved by the fraternity chapters, IFC president, Jack Harmon, BA Jr, explained last night.

At an IFC meeting, the IFC executive council presented for adoption the measures the IFC judicial board may take against a student and fraternity in the event the latter disobeys the College honor code.

Harmon pointed out that these penalties will also be used in panty raids and in drinking situations which includes 3.2 beer.

Besides penalizing students with social probation and intramural activities participation suspension, the council will charge all fraternities up to $100 for any infraction of rush rules or for any derogatory activities. If this penalty is accepted, each fraternity will deposit $100 with the IFC treasurer from which deductions will be made. If there are no charges made by the end of the year, the money will be refunded.

Behavior under the honor code subject to the above action involves:

- (1) Infractions of K-State rules and regulations
- (2) Dishonesty in scholastic work
- (3) Immorality and indecency
- (4) Irresponsible, destructive, or riotous acts
- (5) Acts reflecting adversely on K-State or acts which are detrimental to the public
- (6) Violation of the rights of fellow students.

IFC has also drawn up six restrictions regarding pledge sneaks. These restrictions will also be taken back to the fraternity houses by the IFC representatives and will be subject to judicial board action if passed and violated. In essence, the restrictions give a 500-mile radius limit to the sneaks, and state that pledges may not leave before 5 p.m. Friday, must return by a reasonable hour Sunday evening, and must inform their faculty advisors and house presidents of where they are going and by what route.

The restrictions also say that pledges may take sneaks two weeks prior to five and nine-weeks' exams and they may not take them after 14 weeks' exams. Harmon says it has been recommended that pledges take out insurance of 50 cents a day.

Harmon pointed out that such action was necessary as "the rules have been lax."

A&S Council Elects Wingert President

Charles Wingert, His Soph, was elected president of the Arts and Sciences council Tuesday. Other newly elected officers are Joyce Graham, BA Jr, secretary; Peggy Daniels, Eng Soph, treasurer; and Judy Fisher, SED Soph, vice president.

The group discussed applications submitted to fill two vacancies left on the Arts and Sciences council. Appointments are to be announced at the next meeting, which is scheduled for February 18.

Arts and Sciences day will be May 4, according to Wingert. The program for the event will be announced later.

Cinder Team Wins At Triangular Meet

K-State's indoor track team defeated Emporia State and Omaha in a triangular meet at Omaha last night by taking eight of 12 possible firsts.

The Wildcats piled up 73 points to rout second place Emporia with 29 points and third place Omaha with 27 points.

Seven Omaha field house records were broken in the meet—four of them by Wildcat trackmen. Karl Lindenmuth set a new record in the pole vault by vaulting 13' 3 1/4". Others were Deloss Dodds, 51.6 in the 440-yard dash; Tom Rodda, 9:54 in the two-mile run; and the mile relay team (Dave Burton, Jim Vader, Dodds, Gene O'Connor), 3:30.7.

O'Connor was K-State's top scorer with 11 1/2 points. He won both the 60-yard high and low hurdles and picked up a point and a half on the mile relay team.

Another standout in the meet was Emporia State's Billy Tidwell who ran record times in the mile and the half-mile. In the mile he shaved 14.1 seconds off the record to lower it to 4:21.4.

IM Managers To Meet

A meeting of intramural managers will be held at 7 p.m. Thursday, according to Frank Myers, intramural director. The managers will meet in room 304 of Ahearn gymnasium.

By UNITED PRESS

It seemed that Coach Frank McGuire's gloomy forecast of "three or four defeats" for his top-ranked North Carolina basketball team was starting to come true.

But instead, surviving their biggest scare so far this season, McGuire's Tar Heels rallied last night to beat Maryland, 65-61, in a double overtime game at College Park, Md., to remain today the nation's only unbeaten major college team with a perfect mark of 17-0.

As a result, North Carolina now stands seven games away from finishing the regular season unbeaten. The Tar Heels also built their lead in the Atlantic Coast conference race to two full games over Wake Forest and Duke, which it faces next on Saturday night.

Duke served notice on North Carolina that it will be tough on Saturday as it ripped Pittsburgh, 90-72. The Blue Devils hit 49 percent of their first-half shots for a 43-31 edge and the subs carried it for much of the second half as Jim Newcome took scoring honors with 20 points.

Southern Methodist, the nation's No. 4 team, had none of Carolina's trouble as it successfully defended its hold on first place in the Southwest conference with an 83-76 victory over Baylor.

A loss would have dropped the Mustangs into a tie with Baylor for the lead, but they sank 35 of 39 free throws to insure the win. Big Jim Krebs led the way with 24 points, including 10 of 11 free throws.

Seattle, the nation's No. 7 team which yesterday became the first team named for the National Invitation tournament, celebrated with a 106-72 victory over Seattle Pacific—its 15th straight win and 18th in 20 games.

In other leading games last night: Memphis State, which upset sixth-ranked Louisville on Saturday, followed up with a victory over another touted team, 20th-ranked Western Kentucky, 86-84; North Carolina State trounced Virginia, 87-60, in the Atlantic Coast conference despite 21 points by Virginia's Bob Hardy; Missouri beat Oklahoma, 74-56, in the Big Seven; Connecticut moved closer to its ninth Yankee conference title in the last 10 years with a 97-71 win over Massachusetts; Richmond downed Furman, 80-73, to take third place in the Southern conference as freshman Butch Lambiotte scored 20.

Tankmen Win, 52-34

K-State's swimming team downed Fort Hays State, 52-34, last evening by taking six firsts to Fort Hays' four.

K-State won both the medley and freestyle relay. The 400-yard medley team was made up of Jim Mariner, Buzz Newman, Dave Dicken, and Gordon Harp who won in 4:35.8.

The 400-yard freestyle relay team won in 3:57 and consisted of Mariner, Tom Coblenz, Tom Onuma, and Harper.

Mariner not only was on both relay teams, but also won the 200-yard backstroke.

400-yd. Medley relay — K-State

(Mariner, Newman, Dicken, Harper), 4:35.8.
200-yd. Freestyle — 1. Geirsch (FH), 2. Matsuoka (KS), 3. Lauman (FH), 2:29.5.

Baseball Drills Start For Cat Moundsmen

Limited baseball workouts started yesterday in Ahearn field house, according to head coach Ray Wauthier.

"We just had a few boys out—the pitchers and catchers and the boys who have some extra weight to get rid of," Wauthier said.

Lettermen from last year reporting for the initial practice session were pitcher Bill Blume, catcher Wally Carlson, and second baseman Jim Rafferty.

"The boys are going to run for the next two weeks and get those legs in shape before we start throwing or hitting," he said. "I can't tell what kind of year we are going to have. I hope to have some new boys helping us out."

Wauthier, diamond coach for eight years, said a different type schedule would be followed this year. Instead of having games on Monday and Tuesday the Big Seven teams will play single games on Fridays and double-headers on Saturdays. "This will give the boys more time in school," Wauthier said.

The Wildcats finished last season with a 5-10 record.

A frank message to graduating electrical and mechanical ENGINEERS

You know it . . . we know it . . . so let's be frank about it.

The demand for engineers—experienced or graduate—far exceeds the supply. And, from now on in, you are going to be sought after more than a triple threat halfback for next year's varsity.

You will be promised many things (including the moon with a fence around it), and for a young man just getting started these things are pretty hard to resist.

So, again, let's be frank. We at Farnsworth won't promise you the moon. (Although we are working on some ideas that may eventually get you there and back.) We are an old, young organization. Old, in the sense of being pioneers in the field of electronics. (Our technical director, Dr. Philo Farnsworth invented electronic television.) Young, by being the newest division of the world-wide International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation, devoting our efforts exclusively to research, development and production of military and industrial electronics, and atomic energy.

All of which makes Farnsworth big enough for stability and technical perspective, yet small enough for mobility, flexibility and recognition of the individual. Here you will be associated with and encouraged by a team of eminent scientists and engineers with many "firsts" to their credit in the field of electronics. Here you will be heard . . . not just one of the herd.

We earnestly invite you to hear the whole fascinating Farnsworth story. We're pretty certain it will make the decision for your future easier.

Eddie Wallace's Long Wait Pays Off

By ROGER MYERS

Last Monday night a "little" K-State Wildcat again proved that patience is one of the greater virtues.

Against the Nebraska Huskers two nights ago, 5-10 Cat guard Eddie Wallace scored 20 points and stole the basketball umpteen times to help insure an 89-53 rout of the Huskers.

Things weren't always as rosy for Eddie as they are now. He spent three seasons as a third string man with little hope of starting and only desire to play the game as a motive to keep him out for the sport.

Buried on the No. 3 unit, Wallace saw only limited action during his sophomore and junior years. He scored only 18 points in 18 games through the regular season last year.

With starting guard Roy DeWitz out with a broken foot and forward Hayden Abbott deep in a slump, Wallace was used to plug the gap and came through with 23 points in the first round game against Oklahoma City university. He got 16 more against Houston the next night.

He was named to the all-Western Regional tournament team because of the 39 point outburst.

"I thought I'd be nervous if I ever got a chance to play a full game," Wallace said about his tourney performance. "But the chance came so fast I didn't have time. I was plenty nervous after it was all over though."

Kansas State basketball Coach Tex Winter explains Eddie's cinderella rise this way. "He has a tremendous desire to play the game. He got a chance and he made the most of it."

Eddie tells it this way.

"I hate to quit anything. I played a lot in high school and it was tough to watch from the bench for two seasons. I told myself I'd quit several times but I just never got around to it.

Asked if the chance was worth waiting for Wallace said "Sure. Even if you don't get to play more than five or ten minutes of college ball, the time is worth it.

"Desire is the key. Most of the high school boys who try out for a college basketball team have the ability, but they must also want to play. Patience to sit and watch is important, too.

"How much you want to play makes the difference," he said. "Tex tells us 60 per cent of college basketball is desire."

Eddie compensates for his size with his speed and an accurate shooting eye. "He has real quick hands which enable him to get his shots off quickly and make him harder to guard," Winter said. "Because of this speed he's dangerous on interceptions."

Wallace has more than speed to offer though. He has good basketball sense. During the KU-K-State game at Lawrence January 12, a bad Wildcat pass got into the back court and Eddie followed it back waiting for a Jayhawk to pick it up.

As soon as Kansas' Gene Elstun touched the ball Wallace grabbed it away but was called for traveling before he could get a pass away.

After getting off to a rather spotty start at the beginning of the season, Eddie's shooting eye has improved and he's hitting the form that was predicted for him earlier.

Despite the trend for taller and taller ball clubs there are still advantages to being small.

The small man's biggest edge is his size and agility, Wallace said. "Because of this dexterity there will always be a place in basketball for the little man. There is also a need for small men to key plays," he said.

Wallace was a starter at Minneapolis high school and led his team to three North Central Kansas league basketball crowns.

He was named to the all-NCKL basketball team during his senior year at Minneapolis high in 1953 when he captained the NCKL squad.

Commenting on the scramble for first place in the Big Seven, Wallace said, "Everyone is beating everybody else and no team has it won by any means. I don't think anybody'll know how it's going to end until March 6.

"It would be exciting to see the race go right down to the wire like last year, but we hope to have it won before then.

"Just before and during the Big Seven pre-season tournament we were in a slump," he said. "We've come out of it now and we're on our way up."

Missouri Wins Over Oklahoma

Columbia—Missouri won its seventh straight game from Oklahoma last night, 74-56, by evenly balancing its scoring.

The Tigers also took advantage of Oklahoma fouling to open up a winning margin late in the game after the Sooners' four top scorers fouled out.

The win kept Missouri in fifth place in the Big Seven with a 3-3 mark, and dropped Oklahoma back into a tie for the cellar with Colorado at 1-4.

Although Missouri made only 36 of 59 free throw attempts, the four top Sooners fouling out aided considerably in its drive. Going to the sidelines were Don Schwall, Joe King, Bob Stoermer and Gene Hudson. Lionel Smith led Missouri with 15 points.

Al Abram, a 6-5 sophomore, became the first Negro ever to play on a Missouri varsity team. Abram played about half the game and had 8 points and 8 rebounds.

APL wants graduates eager to accept the challenge of responsibility

The Applied Physics Laboratory (APL) of The Johns Hopkins University is a unique organization. Its professional staff, including both junior and senior members, is allowed a measure of responsibility and initiative much greater than in many other research and development organizations. A stimulating environment where teamwork and individual initiative are fused results in a high degree of creativeness and professional gratification.

For years APL has pioneered: the first proximity fuze, the first supersonic ramjet engine, the missiles TERRIER, TALOS and TARTAR. With a staff of 1275 APL technically directs the Navy's Bumblebee guided-missile program, including the work of 21 associate and subcontractors, among them leading universities and industrial organizations.

Location & Facilities:

The combined facilities of APL and its contractors provide staff members with an unparalleled situation for advanced research and development. APL's own laboratories, recently completed, encompass 350,000 sq. ft. Their locations in suburban Washington and Baltimore, Md. allow staff members to enjoy suburban, rural or urban living and the manifold cultural and recreational facilities of both cities.

APL maintains a splendid program of staff benefits, including financial assistance for advanced study. Salaries compare favorably with those of industrial organizations. For detailed information on staff opportunities for men with higher-than-average grades contact your Placement Officer or write: Professional Staff Appointments.

Dorms Plan Teas For Next Sunday

Coeds living in Northwest, Southeast and Waltheim halls will entertain nearly 500 faculty members and presidents, social chairmen, and house mothers of K-State's fraternities and sororities.

At each hall, the president and formal social chairman will be in charge of the tea, with all of the other girls serving on various committees. At Northwest hall Pat Murphy, SED Fr, is president and Mary Jo Moriconi, TxC is formal social chairman. Carol Korinek, MGS Fr, is president and Connie Morgan, HE Fr, is formal social chairman at Southeast, and at Waltheim, Dorothy Craft, EED Jr, is president and Marilyn Moyer, DIM Soph, is formal social chairman.

The coeds plan the teas and serve as hostesses.

Studying in Bologna, Italy Valuable To KS Coed

By DICK HAINES

Studying in Italy is the experience of a lifetime for Sandra Smerchek, MED Jr, from Manhattan and a former K-State student. Although she finds the studies difficult, Sandra feels that the opportunity to study abroad is one that no student should miss.

Sandra is a student who exchanged places with Chiara Bini, a special student to K-State from Bologna, Italy. Sandra is living with Chiara's family and Chiara is living with Sandra's. In recent letters she reports:

The Bologna university is the oldest in Italy and is very famous for law and medicine. I am going to the Music Conservatory which is separate from the university, but on the same campus. There are approximately 300 American students attending the university.

One studies only his major subject at the university. They do not have required comprehensive courses like we do. However, in high school they are required to learn several foreign languages, math, and even American history.

At the conservatory I am taking solfeggio, string quartet, orchestra, piano, chamber music, and cello, which is my major instrument. My piano teacher has her breakfast brought in during the middle of my lesson.

American popular music is very popular in Italy. So are the American movies. I sat through all four hours of "Guerra e Pace," (War and Peace).

Life is more formal here. Boys must always wear white shirts, coats, and ties to school. Girls never wear anklets. Hose and heels are mandatory. When it rains, the girls wouldn't think of wearing overshoes because they are not dressy. Instead they wear fur-lined heavy shoes with assorted bright colored nylon stockings. This I like very much.

There are no sororities, fraternities, or the vast number of organizations we have. The students have their own group of friends and usually go to the shows, or to each other's houses to dance and have parties. There seems to be a lot more going places together in large groups rather than couples.

The exams are rough. They have two or three a year depending upon the subject. Students begin to study two or three months ahead of time for each exam, and they study all day long. The exam is both oral and written. They are given three separate grades by the professors who in turn compile their results for one final grade.

During the Christmas vacation I went to Cortina, a ski resort in Northern Italy, where they have the winter sports of the Olympic games. The Olympic Ski Jump and the Ice Palace is simply beautiful. I tried to ski, but Kansas just doesn't produce the ski champions—at least it didn't in this case.

I feel that this is an experience of a lifetime, and I was certainly fortunate to find a girl like Chiara Bini with such a wonderful family. I hope that other K-State students who have similar opportunities will take full advantage of them.

There is not a better and more interesting way to learn.

'Frog Club Will Depict 'Eras of Time' in Show

"Eras of Time" has been selected as the general theme for Frog club's annual water show, according to Anna Belle Chilcott, HEN Soph, publicity chairman for the group.

Two performances are scheduled for March 8 and 9, in the men's pool of Nichols gym.

Presentation of the various numbers will be in chronological order from early pioneer days to the present. The prospect of a number depicting the future is still being discussed.

Several members have created the choreography for the various solo, duet, and ensemble numbers.

YMCA

The YMCA is offering all graduating senior men a copy of the career service book, "Career-1957." This book features job opportunities, location, and educational requirements of 148 American companies cross-indexed by industrial function, geographic location, and college major.

The book is free to those in the fields of business administration, engineering, chemistry, economics, geology, mathematics, physics, accounting, and journalism.

It may be obtained in room A 217 at any time during the regular office hours.

American Institute of Physics

"One of the physicist's basic laws of nature has been proved not a law at all," Time magazine reported last week. Basil Curnutte, associate professor of physics, will discuss the invalidation of the "parity law" at 4 p.m. Thursday in W 101 at a meeting of the American Institute of Physics.

According to the parity law, objects that are mirror images of each other must obey the same physical rules, but it has been found that they do not.

Much of the structure of modern nuclear physics has been erected on parity, but experiments at Columbia university have proved that it is "a manmade convention which does not bind nature except in special cases."

Abolition of parity will be a needed reform in the science of physics, Time magazine said.

Future Teachers of America

Dr. S. Walton Cole, minister of the First Methodist church, will speak at the Future Teachers of America meeting at 7 p.m. Thursday night. His topic will be "Spiritual Value of Education."

Members of the Jr. American Veterinary Medicine Association auxiliary will meet in Room 11, Umberger hall, at 8 p.m. Wednesday, to work on table favors for the upcoming national convention at Cleveland. There will be a short business meeting and refreshments will be served.

Pershing Rifle

Pershing Rifles members will have a unit inspection Friday, by the regimental staff of Oklahoma A&M. Friday night they will provide an honor guard for Air Force ball guests at a dinner in the Student Union. There will be a saber guard and a color guard at the coronation of the queen of the Air Force ball.

Said her Belgian-born owner, Albert Kean, "She has to have her regular gallon—it keeps her happy."

Wayne Thomas To Head Spring KSDB-FM Staff

The spring semester staff for KSDB-FM, the regularly licensed FM station, operated and programmed by K-State students, was announced today by George Carroll, faculty adviser.

Wayne Thomas, Winfield, Sr., will be general manager; and Don Lancaster, Barnard, Sr., will be program director.

Other assignments announced by Carroll were Ann Chance, Yates Center, Soph, continuity; Ted McCoy, Codell, Jr, announcer; Virgil Walter, Lincoln, Soph, sports; and Meredith Griffiths, Bigelow, Jr, music.

Bill Brenner, Culver, Sr. traffic; Don Whan, Manhattan, Soph, engineer; Gordon Jump, Dayton, Ohio, Grad, News; Dwayne Nuss, Jetmore, Sr, publicity; John F. Barry, Shawnee, Jr, special events; Bill Cole, Colby, Jr, talent; and Lou Ann Oberhelman, Manhattan, Jr, dramatics.

Daily directors include Ted McCoy, Pete Charleton, Newton, Jr; Bill Cox, El Dorado, Jr; Gordon Jump, Bill Cole, and Mike Smith, Arkansas City, Jr.

KSDB-FM will start broadcasting Monday at 5 p.m., and will be heard every week, Monday through Friday from 5 p.m. to 10 p.m. On Saturdays KSDB-FM will broadcast from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m.

KS Judging Team Takes 6th in Meet

Members of the junior livestock judging team placed sixth in competition with 18 college teams at the Southwest Livestock Exposition in Fort Worth, last week. Livestock judges from Texas A&M won the contest.

The K-State team was high in the contest in hogs. Harold Van Horn, Ag Jr, was second high individual in the event. He placed ninth high in the entire contest.

Other members of the team were Bryce Davidson, Ag Jr; Ben Handlin, AH Soph; Darrell Keener, AH Soph; Lloyd Peckman, Ag Jr; Dean Peter, Ag Jr; and Therean Towns, AH Jr. The team was coached by Don Good, associate professor of animal husbandry.

Egypt To Ask UN Embargo If Israel Fails To Withdraw

Compiled from the United Press
by KEITH KEMPER

United Nations, N.Y.—Egypt will demand the United Nations vote economic sanctions against Israel or face indefinite delay in opening of the Suez Canal, Cairo reports said today.

A United Press dispatch from Cairo said President Gamal Abdel Nasser and his cabinet ministers decided at a meeting last night to demand the United Nations "get tough" with Israel unless it completes unconditional withdrawal from the Gaza and Aqaba Strips.

Egyptian foreign minister Mahmoud Fawzi conferred here with Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld Tuesday and asked for an early meeting of the U.N. General Assembly to consider the situation.

Diplomats speculated the 80-nation world parliament would be summoned tomorrow to prevent the situation from deteriorating any further.

The Cairo Press called on the United Nations to fix a time limit on the Israeli withdrawal under the threat of economic and military sanctions.

Egyptian sources in Cairo expressed the opinion that if the United Nations refused to take a tougher attitude against Israel the Cairo government would notify Hammarskjöld that the canal-clearing program would be "adversely affected."

A dispatch from Jerusalem said informed sources there reported the United States may be preparing to offer certain "private guarantees" to get Israel back behind the 1949 armistice demarcation lines.

The sources did not spell out what such guarantees might be. But, they said that if they were firm enough the Israeli government probably would accept them in view of the U.N. refusal to attach conditions to the withdrawal.

To Vote Drought Relief

Washington. — A Democratic drought relief program was slated for House passage today after a 36-hour delay caused by intervention of Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson.

The multi-million dollar program calls for federal rental of millions of acres of parched pasture-land in the Great Plains states so that they will not be permanently ruined by livestock grazing.

House GOP Leader Joseph W. Martin Jr. (Mass.) said Republicans would vote for the measure, although Benson wanted house action delayed until the administration presents its recommendations on drought aid.

Democrats postponed a scheduled House vote on the bill Monday after Benson asked Martin to try to block its passage then. The bill had been scheduled for action under a procedure requiring a 2-1 vote for passage.

Democrats arranged yesterday for House Rules Committee clearance so that the bill would require only a majority vote for passage today.

Truman Slips on Ice

Kansas City, Mo.—Former President Truman received a two-inch scalp laceration yesterday when he slipped and fell on an icy sidewalk at his home in Independence, Mo.

Mr. Truman did not receive medical attention until some five hours later at his office in downtown Kansas City.

The wound across the back of Mr. Truman's head was "clear to the bone," his doctor said. The doctor said he took six stitches in Mr. Truman's scalp.

Mr. Truman brushed the incident off. "At a quarter to seven I was working around the house when I slipped on a walk and bumped my head," he said. "It didn't amount to anything." A freezing drizzle had put a film of ice on the walk.

"He was bleeding like everything when he went to the office," the doctor said. "I stitched him up as he sat in his chair, and then he got up and went to lunch."

The doctor said Mr. Truman was in "fine" general health.

Fire Killed Passengers

New York.—The twenty passengers killed in the crash of a Northeast Airlines plane Friday died of burns and not from injuries received in the crash, a medical report showed yesterday.

Dr. Milton Helpern, chief City Medical Examiner, said "not one died of injuries from the impact of the crash." He said if there "hadn't been a fire not a single death would have occurred."

Helpern said after autopsies performed on all the victims that fire generating carbon monoxide, rendered the passengers unconscious and they were unable to escape the flames.

Nearly all the 81 survivors were injured and most suffered burns when the DC-6A cracked up on Rikers Island minutes after it took off from Laguardia airport in a snowstorm.

Teams of Civil Aeronautics Board experts continued to examine wreckage and gather information for a public hearing on the disaster to be held in two or three weeks.

Jewish Music Program Begins Tonight in Union

Erwin Jospe, a foremost authority on Jewish music, will present a lecture-recital program which recreates the colorful procession of Jewish music through the years. It will be on February 6 at 8 p.m. in the Student Union little theater.

The program, entitled "The Meaning of Music to the Jews," will be in the form of an informal lecture with piano illustration. Through music and words Jospe dramatizes the meaning of music in Jewish life.

Jospe is director of music at the Anshe Emet Synagogue in Chicago. In addition, he is director of the Opera Workshop at Roosevelt university.

He has appeared as conductor of orchestral and choral music in Berlin, and throughout the United States, and has been accompanist to such artists as Gregor Piatigorsky, Richard Tucker, and Mihal Kussevisky.

The lecture-recital is sponsored by the Hillel Foundation and the Jewish Community of Manhattan in connection with Jewish Music Month.

Night Class For Parents Begins Today

"Understanding Your Pre-School Child" is the newest course to be offered at Kansas State. The informal lecture-discussion course is open to young parents, expectant parents, and other interested persons.

The six-week class, led by Mrs. Louise M. Langford of the Department of Family and Child Development, will meet from 7:30 to 9 p.m. each Wednesday evening starting tonight and lasting to March 13 in Umberger hall, room 311. A family registration fee of $1 will be charged, and both fathers and mothers are invited to attend.

Films will be used and guest lecturers, and resource leaders will include pediatricians, physicians, child psychologists, family life specialists and teachers.

To register for the course, persons may send their registration fee with name, address and phone number to the Department of Continuing Education at K-State, or enroll at the first class period.
